LEBANON VALLEY DEFEATED

Bucknell Runs Up Score In the Second Half.

A victory over Lebanon Valley on Athletic Field Saturday, marked the opening of the football season for Bucknell. At 2.35 o'clock Lenhart kicked to Lebanon Valley's 30 yard line. For ten minutes the teams played back and forth over the center of the field; Bucknell seemed to have the better of the contest, but all this time fumbles and penalties kept her from scoring and consistent line plunges by Lebanon Valley helped to keep the ball near the center of the field. Then, Lenhart missed a punt, and the ball went to Lebanon Valley on our 7 yard line. Three times Bucknell pushed their opponents back, and finally forced them to punt over the goal-line. Lenhart punted back from the 25 yard line, and Lebanon Valley failed to gain the required distance. It was Bucknell's ball on the 45 yard line. Gains by Goldsmith, Olendorf, and Baldwin brought the ball within 10 yards of Lebanon's Valley goal. Baldwin was called back, and the first touch down of the season was made. Lenhart kicked the goal and the first half was over. Score: 6-0.

In the second half Bucknell fairly overwhelmed their opponents, rolling up 23 points. In this half also, a number of the new men were tried. Winegardner took the place of Van Fleck at left-half, and did some clever work. The speed of Van Fleck, and the head-work of Olendorf were noticed by everyone. Lebanon Valley succeeded in making but two first downs during the whole game. The score:

BUCKNELL	29	LEBANON VAL.	0
Goldsmith		l. e.	Glngrich
Baldwin		l. t.	Fidler
Cooper (Capt)		l. g.	Haller
Talbut		c.	Kaiser

Substitutions: Winegardner, Hawk, Cure, Frymire, and Mc Ninch.

Umpire, Balsback. Referee, Cockill. Linemen, Appenzellor, Teufel, Wilcox. Touchdowns: Baldwin, Lenhart, Shade, Baldwin. Time of halves—20 minutes.

Bucknell vs. Mansfield Normal.

Mansfield Normal fills the second date on our Football Schedule, and will play on "Athletic Field" Saturday, Sept. 30. The game should be an interesting one, judging from records made by Mansfield in former years. It is the last game before we face Cornell, and one should be able to judge as to the real strength of the team that will represent Bucknell this season.

Freshmen Elect a President.

On Thursday afternoon at four o'clock the Freshman class held a meeting. McLaughlin was appointed President, pro tem. A yell was also decided upon, and the class was organized to a degree. Another meeting will be held later to elect officers for the year, and then the class will be more carefully organized.

Reception to the New Men.

The annual Y. M. C. A. reception at the beginning of the fall term was held Saturday evening, Sept. 23, in the Y. M. C. A. Hall of West College. The fore part of the evening was spent in handshaking, meeting the new men coming into college, and renewing old acquaintanceship. After pleasantries had been exchanged for an hour, Barton, '06, Pres. of the Y. M. C. A. called the meeting to order, and with a few preliminary remarks introduced Prof. Phillips, who spoke for some time upon "The Place of the Y. M. C. A. in College Life." His remarks were well received and were helpful to the old as well as the new men.

The President next presented Prof. Wolfe who talked upon "The Relation of Athletics to College Life." Prof. Wolfe brought out very plainly the fact that athletics hold and should hold an important place in college and are beneficial to the student whether he is an active participant in them or not.

The next speaker introduced was Prof. Groff. With some suitable stories and reminiscences he contrasted very markedly the difference in students as to "The Mental Side of College Life."

Shoemaker, '07, then entertained those present with a reading and graciously responded to an encore. His remarks were enjoyed by all.

Refreshments were then served by the Committee in charge and after these were partaken of and a few yells and songs had been indulged in, the company dispersed, all well pleased with the Y. M. C. A. reception of 1905.

The Y. M. C. A. meets every Tuesday evening at 9 p. m. and a cordial invitation is given to the new members of Bucknell and the older ones as well, to attend. It will help the organization and you, too.

Welcome to 1909.

To those entering Bucknell as Freshmen the "Orange and Blue" extends most hearty greetings. We realize that a college life is a life that varies with different men. The associations at college form a great part of every man's college career; the Literary Societies, the Y. M. C. A., social functions and the like, all help to mould you into the ideal college man. To how great an extent you embrace these different opportunities in your college course rests with you. Your conception of things and your ideals will broaden as your experience widens, and we but hope that your association with us will make you good, loyal college men. The end of all your efforts should be to obtain the best possible education; if you fail to achieve this, you have not gained anything, and you have sacrificed four years of the most fruitful period of your lives. Again, we urge you to embrace the opportunity, and we wish you success in your efforts.

Academy Reception to the New Men

The Academy Y. M. C. A. reception on Saturday evening was made successful by its genial president, Frederick Blaser, and his efficient staff of workers. Games and talks entertained the boys early in the evening, and later, refreshments were served. The Association has a good start, and every effort will be made to keep up the standard.

NEW COTTAGE FOR WOMEN

Other Improvements Made During the Summer.

On September the twenty-first Bucknell opened upon what promises to be one of the most successful years of her existence. Many of the old graduates are back to spend a few days on the scenes of their college days, and to these the success of the institution seems wonderful. This year sees the dedication of a new building,—The Cottage for Women.

This is one of the best equipped buildings on the Campus, and one of the neatest dormitories in Pennsylvania. It is a building, well designed, and of a masterly appearance. The increase in the number of students in the Women's Department made the erection of this dormitory extremely necessary. Last year many were turned away because of the lack of proper accommodation in the college buildings, and this year an unusually large number is in attendance. The dining-room for the Seminary is also being enlarged in order to make room for a larger number of students. This reminds one of the dining-rooms in some of the large mountain resorts, open as it is on three sides, and shaded by the tall oak trees. It is being decorated by J. R. Hazlett, of Williamsport, and when finished will add much to the comfort and beauty of the place. Every year brings new improvements and Bucknell seems to be fully sustaining her reputation as a growing, energetic college.

Annual Sophomore Freshman Rush.

The annual class-rush took place immediately after chapel on Friday morning. The handicap in the smaller number of Sophomores was counter balanced by the verdancy and inexperience of the Freshmen. Thus, they were quite evenly matched, and the fight was one of the most desperate ever seen on the campus; it was a very dirty one, however,—owing to the great quantity of lamp-black that seemed to be eveenly distributed.

The Seniors led off with a yell, and the Juniors soon followed their lead. The two under-classes then began to try their voices, and the rush was on. Up from the chapel came the army of Freshmen, and down over the hill rushed the Sophomores, meeting them half-way with a crash. After considerable wrestling both classes made for the top of the hill —the scene of the former class-fights. Here was a battle for supremacy. One after another rolled down the west college bank, until almost every man was exhausted. Then, the crowd worked its way over the embankment down toward the "Prep." Here, they surged back and forth, each side claiming the victory. Finally, the Sophomores surrounded the Freshman President, and he was forced to give up.

Some say that the Freshmen won the day, while others contend that the Sophomores were by all means the victors. There are those who are even bold enough to assert that the fight should remain undecided. It might be well to place all in the hands of fate, and let the future (decide) the victor nineteen hundred and eight, or nineteen hundred and nine.

The "Orange and Blue" $1.00.

The Football Schedule.

The open dates in the football schedule have been filled, and the following games will be played:

September 23, Lebanon Valley College at Lewisburg.

September 30, Mansfield Normal at Lewisburg.

October 7, Cornell at Ithica.

October 14, Princeton at Princeton.

Octobeer 21, Virginia at Norfolk.

October 28, Johns Hopkins University at Lewisburg.

November 1, Medico Chi., at Lewisburg.

November 4, Sophomore-Freshman at Lewisburg.

November 12, Naval Academy at Annapolis.

November 18, Georgetown, at Washington.

November 25, Villa Nova, at Philadelphia.

November 30, Lafayette, at Easton.

Bucknell Opening.

All departments of Bucknell University opened Thursday with a marked increase in attendance. The total accession to all the departments is 232, of which number 145 are enrolled in the college. Last year's attendance of 721 will be passed.

The course in Electrical Engineering was opened to students this year for the first time, and will coveer four years in Pure and Applied Mathematics, Chemistry, Physics, Electro-Technics and Language. The shop-work will be in charge of Prof. Frank E. Burpee, who assumed his duties today.

A new course in Forestry is offered.

All the University property was improved the last summeer, and two new buildings added to the Univeersity group.

The College Bible Class.

During the past week the students have each received invitation cards for the "Bible Class" and "Way of Life Meetings." Perhaps a little explanation is necessary. Every Sunday morning Pres. Harris meets the college students in the Baptist church and gives a course of lectures upon the S. S. Lesson topics. He greatly desires the attendance of every student who is not by reason of his church connections enrolled in some other class in the town. The "Way of Life Meetings" are held every Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Bucknell Hall. The object of these meetings is to meet the spiritual needs of the young men. The meetings are conducted by the President or other members of Faculty. Both the Bible Class and the Way of Life Meetings are exceptional opportunities for the student and it is greatly urged that every one becomes a regular attendant upon each of these services.

The Literary Societies.

Theta Alpha and Euepia are the two literary societies at Bucknell. At the beginning of each college year the new men are notified as to which Literary Society they are supposed to attend. Within a few days a list of names will be posted choosing certain men for Theta Alpha, and certain ones for Euepia. The Society that holds your name is the one that you are supposed to attend. Meetings are held on Friday of each week in the Society Halls. Your presence is essential to the success of the society to which you belong.

THE FOOTBALL TEAM.

The Prospects for the Season by Coach Hoskins.

Bucknell's football squad this year is the lightest one for many seasons. It also consists of many new students. Bucknell, having one of the hardest schedules in the history of the college, and having very few heavy men, must depned on fast team work; in fact, each man must know the signals well, and must know where each play goes. Each player must help the other by pushing and by forming a good interference. With so light a team the principal thing is to get the team to work together, making team-work count.

It is announced that this year the Football Committee will award "B-Seconds" to the members of the second team, and will arrange a schedule for them. A strong second team helps very materially toward the success of the regular eleven; and a man who has played on the second team stands a good chance for the regular team the following year.

The season-ticket, in my estimation, is a paying investment. The money the Association receives from the sale of these tickets helps to defray the expenses of the visiting teams. In purchasing these season tickets, you are receiving seven dollars and fifty cents' worth for five dollars.

To any student who wishes to try for the team I also extend the invitation to come out. Report at 4.00 p. m. for practice. I would like four or five more men weighing from 175 to 180, height 5 ft. 8 to 5 ft. 11 inches.

New Instructor in Chemistry.

Each year new men are added to the list of instructors at Bucknell, and this fall Mr. Hunter, Harvard, '04, comes as an instructor in the Department of Chemistry. Mr. Hunter is a man of ability and experience; he was an assistant in the Department of Chemistry at Harvard during his last year, and obtained his degree of A. M. last June. A large part of his last two years at Harvard was taken up by research work in Organic Chemistry, he having published a preliminary paper in the "Berichte der Deutschen Chemische Gesellschaft" with Prof. H. A. Torrey, of Harvard, last winter.

He takes the place of Prof. Tilley, who has returned to Harvard for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. To the students in Chemistry, Professor Hunter will give a course in Organic and Physical Chemistry, and German Chemical Literature.

The new Organic Laboratory fitted up by Prof. Tilley will be of great value to those taking the course in chemistry.

Mass Meeting in Commencement Hall.

In order to acquaint the Freshmen with the College yells and songs, a mass-meeting was held in Commencement Hall on Friday evening. Speeches were made by a number of the football men, and the prospects of the team were discussed. A plea was made for systematic rooting at all college games. This was heartily applauded. The season-ticket plan was also thoroughly explained. After a few songs and yells the meeting was adjourned.

Editorial

The first issue of the Orange and Blue is sent to every one in college. This is done so that each student may be counted upon to assist in maintaining this publication by means of his subscription. The paper is printed by you, and it belongs to you. It is supposed to print the news that happens in and about the college. To those who wish to keep up with the march of college events the paper is highly valuable; and the price of subscription for the year is insignificant. How the paper fares financially depends largely on the number of subscriptions received, so it is your duty to lend your support by subscribing for the Orange and Blue.

The Necessity of a Proper Start.

The opportunity of a college education is not open to everyone. To him who has this privilege, it is of extreme importance that he make the best possible use of his time. The man who begins his college course with the aim of merely getting through, will, no doubt, find himself at a loss to discover in just what way the four years course has benefitted him. To the man with higher ambitions, a way will open itself.

The secret of success in any particular line of work is application, and the sooner a student can learn this, the better he will progress. College is no place to waste time, and dream of future glory. The mere fact that one is a college man will not cause him to be sought after by the successful business men of the world. The amount of effort one puts into a thing has everything to do with the amount of good he will get out of it. This is a rule that should guide every conscientious man who goes to college. It would be a good thing if every one could say to himself, "I have come to college to work." Not work, in the sense of "grind," but work consistently. To this end one day's work counts for as much as another,—the first as much as the last.

It is expedient then, that the man entering college gets started aright. It is valuable for him to know that the real issue rests in his own hands. If he fails, he suffers the loss; and if he succeeds, to him is due the praise. But, to one who has the right amount of determination, failure should be unknown. One's success, therefore, depends greatly on how he gets started. In college work very few win by the gallant finish; it is the man that keeps on working that deservedly carries off the laurels.

Until a manager for the Orange and Blue has been selected, bills are payable to the Registrar.

The $5.00 Assessment.

Bucknell is trying a new plan, by means of which to sustain the athletics of the college. Season-tickets have been issued to be sold among the students for five dollars each. These season-tickets entitle the bearer to admission to every athletic game played by Bucknell on the home grounds. This is not an entirely new idea in college athletics, for the plan has been successfully carried out by two of our nearest colleges: State and Cornell.

To the student it means money saved, for when one considers the number of games played by Bucknell at Lewisburg, and the price of admission to each, the price of the season-ticket seems even more insignificant.

To the college, it means better teams in every kind of athletics, for when each student possesses a season-ticket, it can be relied upon that everyone will be present at the games. This means a great deal to the team. The men on the different teams are the ones that sacrifice themselves in order to maintain the standing the college holds in the athletic world. For them to know that every man is interested in their welfare as a team is the greatest encouragement that any loyal college student can give to the team for whose success he is heartily anxious. Would there be any need to plead with college men for systematic rooting, if every man was present at each game? There should be sufficient loyalty in the heart of each student to insure his presence at all the college games. One thing is sure: if each Bucknell student holds a season-ticket, the management can count upon a larger attendance at every game.

This leads to the last great advantage the season-ticket has over the plan used in former years—that of single admission to each game. The Athletic Association will be placed on a firm financial basis. To those who come to Bucknell as Freshmen this statement is quite indefinite, but to those who have been here long enough to understand the situation of affairs, it carries a world of meaning. Every Senior, Junior and Sophomore should be loyal enough to the athletics of Bucknell to lend his support by purchasing a season-ticket, and every Freshman should profit by the example of loyalty set by the upper classes and procure a season-ticket at once.

An Article by Prof. Colestock.

Prof. Henry T. Colestock, Professor of History at Bucknell University, contributed and able article in the "Outlook," in the issue of September 9th, on "The College Student and the Bible." The article shows great depth of thought and learning, and is very interesting.

College Locals

Wagner, '08, has entered State College.

Potter, '07, has returned to college after having spent his Sophomore year at Brown.

Syracuse opened the football season on Friday, Sept. 22, by defeating Alfred College 46-0.

The yelling heard at the game Saturday is indicative of the coming spirit of Bucknell this year.

Harris, '06, left Thursday for Ann Arbor, Mich., where he will enter the law department of that institution.

Riegel, '06, recently secured a position in the Literary and Publicity Department of F. A. Davis & Co., of Philadelphia.

Dunbar, '08, will not return to college this year. He has a position on an engineering corps at Schenectady, N. Y.

Baker, '07, is entertaining his aunt, Mrs. John F. Harper, Miss E. Conway, of Philadelphia, and Miss N. Goodrich, Wellesley, '07, for a few days.

Lawrence, '07, who has been employed in the Chemical Department of the Standard Steel Works at Burnham, is back for the opening of college.

Rules have been passed out among the students, in regard to the care of the rooms. Every college man should have pride enough to observe these carefully.

Sebring, a former Bucknell baseball star, very materially helped Williamsport to win the Tri-State Pennant. It is reported that he has been chosen to manage the Champions next season.

Academy News.

R. F. Boyd was elected captain pro. tem. of the Football team.

The "Prep" still keeps up its well known record of furnishing plucky "Freshmen Class Presidents." Mac showed up well in the "rush."

Simington, '06, King, '06, and Foot, '06, have not returned this year. The two former are dropping out a year, and the latter going to Valparizo, Ind.

The Athletic Association was organized on Friday with the following officers elected: President, R. F. Boyd; secretary, Max C. Wiant; treasurer, Wm. H. Gatehouse. About thirty members were enolde.

The Calliopean Literary Society was reorganized with the following officers elected: President, Frank A. Liddy; secretary, B. F. Morgan; treasurer, Joseph Butler; first critic, John Mc Mann; second critic, Earl Watkins.

The Academy year opened with a most promising enrollment of students. East Hall is crowded to overflowing, and Main Hall is rapidly filling up. The outlook for a football team is encouraging, and Manager Blaser is keeping an eye on all the boys.

All students should patronize the advertisers of the "Orange and Blue."

CORNELL UNIVERSITY MEDICAL COLLEGE NEW YORK CITY

The course covering four begins during October and continues until June. A preliminary training in natural sciences is of great advantage. All the classes are divided into small sections for recitations, laboratory and clinical bed-side instructions. Students are admitted to advanced standing after passing requisite examinations. The successful completion of the first year in any College or University recognized by the Regents of the state of New York as maintaining a satisfactory standard is sufficient to satisfy the requirements for admission which have lately been raised. The annual announcement giving full particulars will be mailed on application.

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1905 No. 2

MANSFIEED NORMAL EASY

Bucknell Runs Up Score with Many Substitutes in Line-up.

Bucknell had no trouble in rolling up 27 points on the light team from Mansfield Normal.

Lenhart and Baldwin were out of the game through injuries, on account of the Cornell game next Saturday Coach Hoskins took no risks of more serious injuries. On account of these two veterans being out the line was rather unsteady at times, but on the whole the rearranged line played well.

The unusual hot weather caused great distress to the players, and there was little fast or brilliant work.

Mansfield failed to make a first down and gained only eleven yards in the first half. The Bucknell team was weakened by subs in the second half, after this Mansfield was able to make some good gains, but their play was not consistent enough to put Bucknell's goal in danger, only twice was the orange and blue held for downs.

Bucknell won the toss and defended the north goal. Mansfield kicked to Olendorff who advanced the ball twenty yards. Olendorff again took the ball and made a first down. Plunges by Shade, Winegardner and Binns gained about eighteen yards, Goldsmith fumbled and Dougherty secured the ball for Mansfield about the middle of the field. Mansfield made two small gains, but were held for downs. Frank went around right end for fifteen, Piersol failed to gain, Binns cleared left end for thirty yards and made one of the best runs of the day. Winegardner and Shade made good gains, and Shade took the ball over for the first touchdown. Talbert kicked the goal. Talbert kicked off for Bucknell, Mansfield ran the ball back twelve fumbled on second down but Capt. Redington recovered the ball. Small gain on third down. Held on fourth, and Bucknell's ball on the twenty-five yard line. Olendorff makes twelve, small gains by Shade, Frank and Winegardner, Shade fumbled on the six yard line, Mansfield makes two small gains but were forced to kick. Bucknell's ball on the forty yard line. Shade made forty-five around right end. Gains by Winegardner, Talbert and Shade. Talbert pushed over for the second touchdown. Talbert fails at goal. Bucknell kicks off and Van Osman runs back ten. Failing to gain Mansfield kicks. Consistent gains by Winegardner, Talbert, Olendorff and Shade. Talbert made third touchdown. Frank kicked out to Winegardner who heeled on fifteen yard line. Talbert failed to kick goal. Talbert kicked off, Mansfield catches ball on twenty yard line. Doughtery starts to run the ball back but passed to Redington who advanced twenty yards. Goldsmith and Binns throw runner for a loss. First half ends.

At the beginning of the second half Frymire was sent to right half, McNinch to right end, Frank to left half, and Olendorff to quarter. O'Brien at left tackle. Mansfield defended north goal. Talbert kicked off, Mansfield fumbles, kicks and Hawk secured ball on thirty yard line. Ball was advanced by McNinch, Olendorff, Frymire, Frank and O'Brien. Talbert made touchdown.

At this point Martin substituted for Frank, Shorkley for Shade. Cure for Goldsmith, Bucknell kicked off. Small gains by Mansfield, held for downs and Bucknell' ball in midfield. Gains by Frymire. McNinch and Piersall. Bucknell held for downs for the first time. Redington and Van Osman made good gains, McNinch throws Doughtery for a loss. Redington failed to make first down. Bucknell's ball on forty-five yard line. Gains by Piersall, McNinch and Cure, Frymire goes over for a touchdown. Talbert failed at goal. Half over.

Literary Societies.

The first meeting of the college literary societies for the present year was held on Tuesday evening. Both Theta Alpha and Eunpia were well attended. The large number present gave evidence of a new spirit along literary lines. An effort is being made to interest both old and new students in the work of the societies. With this end in view, committees have been appointed to urge a stong attendance. With the prospects of a reawakening, a special effort will be made to prepare men bate; for it is the purpose of the for the coming inter-collegiate deauthorities to selcet all representatives of Bucknell from the literary societies. Therefore it is important that the best men of the institution shall become active members of one of these societies and for the honor of his college aid in reawakening a strong literary spirit.

Freshmen Elect Officers.

At a meeting of the Freshman class the following officers were elected:

President—Wallace McLaughlin.
Vice Pres.—W. S. Baldwin.
Secretary—Miss Bertha Eachey.
Treasurer—Miss Emma Hall.
Football Manager—W. H. Russell.
Football Captain—N. S. Baldwin.

In McLaughlin the Freshmen have chosen an able and plucky leader; one that will instill true college spirit into the men of his class, and make the history of their Freshman days a brilliant one.

The discretion which the Sophomores used in putting up their proclamation last week is commendable. Freshmen follow their example.

RECEPTION ON SATURDAY

Novel Entertainment Makes the Evening a Success.

On Saturday evening in the Baptist church the annual reception was given to old and new students. To the efforts of the Christian Endeavor can be attributed the success with which the reception was conducted. The ease with which the events of the evening passed testify to the carefulness with which the reception was planned.

It was a notable night in the experience of quite a number, for several of the young ladies, saw, for the first time, Lewisburg at night, while the young Freshman could pack away his blue cap and don his derby on Saturday, which was indeed a rare treat. But these two came into the social and were of as much importance and as much in evidence as any dignified Senior; indeed it is rumored that one Freshman saw fit to prolong his social after he left the church.

The novel way which the society adopted to have all become acquainted shows great originality. As each one came in, he was given a card and it was his duty to find others who had the same number. In the search for which number all formality was set aside. The "Open Sesame" of acquaintanceship was "What is your number?" After the ten of the same number assembled each attempted in a novel way to answer personal questions concerning another. Some misunderstanding (not to mention rebellion) arose when the young ladies became aware of the question "What is your age?" Explanations however, soon quelled the uproar(?)

During the evening Shoemaker interpreted James Whitcomb Riley to the audience in a very pleasing manner. Twice and thrice the audience listened to him with much pleasure.

The audience was treated to a vocal solo by Miss Blackmere. Upon being encored, she sang a very catchy selection which all enjoyed.

Then came a treat of ice cream and cake served by members of the Society. Every one commented upon such manifestation of good will towards the students.

For these reasons all who were in attendance at the reception pronounced it a success. Every one acknowledged a pleasant evening. In truth, it is very likely that the reception would have still been in session had not the College and Seminary girls been taken home. Their departure, naturally, ended the evening's pleasure.

Sophomore Proclamation.

While the Freshman class slept peacefully, the Sophomores wandered out in a body and posted their proclamations. Not many classes have been more successful in this particular event than was 1908. But it was not due to a lack of nerve on the part of the first year men that they did not succeed in tearing them down more quickly, for one of them used most unusual tactics to escape the guards placed on his hall by the "Sophs." This particular Freshman leaped from the third story of East Wing, ran down town, and was seen later in company of four Sophomores. By eight o'clock the Freshmen had succeeded in destroying the posters.

Rules for Freshmen.

1. All Freshmen and First year Specials must wear the regulation blue caps throughout the year, (Sunday excepted.)

2. No loud clothing, canes or derbies will be permissable at any time.

3. Prep school monograms, class numerals and the College colors are prohibited to all except Varsity players until Washington's Birthday, except at games.

4. The Freshmen shall show proper deference to members of the Faculty by raising their caps, and shall also salute and give precedence to Upper Classmen.

5. Freshmen are not permitted to loaf on steps in front of Main College.

6. Smoking on the campus is strictly forbidden.

7. Freshmen are not allowed to call at the "Sem" before Washington's Birthday.

8. Freshmen must buy Season Tickets, attend the games, and sit in cheering section.

9. Neither Sophomores or Freshmen will be permitted to paste posters of any kind on College, public or private property.

The Sophomores and Upper Classmen will see that these rules are properly obeyed.

The Funeral of L. M. Reimensnyder.

The funeral of Luther M. Reimensnyder, '07, occurred from his home on Broadway street, Milton, last Tuesday morning. Services were conducted by Rev. W. E. Fischer, D. D., of Shamokin, assisted by Rev. I. P. Zimmerman, of Milton. The pall bearers were W. G. Smith, of the American Car and Foundry Company, where Mr. Reimensnyder had been employed; Ralph Datesman, of Milton, and W. G. Murdock, W. M. August, G. L. Leach, and C. M. McCormick, his fraternity brothers in Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Interment was made in the family lot in Harmony cemetery.

The University was represented by Prof. Martin and Registrar Gretzinger.

With the death of this man '07 has lost one of its brightest and most active members. Resolutions were passed by the class, and a copy given to the "Orange and Blue."

Address to Y. M. C. A. To Night.

Rev. H. E. Fosdict, pastor of First Baptist church at Montclair, N. J., will address the college men to-night and to-morrow night in Y. M. C. A. Hall, at nine o'clock. Mr. Fosdict was a prominent speaker at the Northfield Student Conference this summer, and is a leader among students. Every college man is urged to come out to hear Mr. Fosdict.

Track Men Out for Practice.

In response to a call from Coach Hoskins the track men were out for practice several times last week. Some of the Freshmen who will try for the team were out in uniform. The loss of Marsh by graduation leaves one place to be filled on the Relay Team, and it is hoped that among the new men some good material may be found.

Sophomore Class Meeting.

At a meeting of the Sophomore class on Friday R. B. Morris was elected manager of the football team, and Anna Stage was elected secretary in place of Blanche Sutphin, who will not return to college this year.

NEW FOOTBALL RULES

New Interpretation Affects Details of Play.

The Football Rules Committee for 1905, consisting of John C. Bell of the Univ. of Pennsylvania, Walter Camp of Yale, J. B. Fine of Princeton, Robert S. Wrenn of Harvard, Paul J. Dashiell of the U. S. Naval Academy, L. M. Dennis of Cornell, and A. A. Stagg of Chicago, have recommended but few changes.

The new rules bear more upon the strict interpretation than anything that will affect the detail of the play itself.

Coaching from the sidelines will be penalized by a loss of ten yards instead of five.

The referee will be instructed to blow his whistle immediately when the forward progress of the ball has been stopped. A marked tendency on the part of all players to fight for the ball after its progress has been stopped, or to steal it from a player who has practically had it "down," prompted the Rules Committee to make this change.

A rule which seems rather absurd is that when a substitute is sent in he cannot run on to the field and get into the line-up,but must go directly to the referee and report before he can be permitted to take his place. It seems hardly possible that both the substitute and the man he was to replace could play at the same time, and yet that is exactly what called forth this rule.

Perhaps the most important change is under Rule 6, relating to a scrimmage. If the snapper-back (center) should make a motion as if to snap the ball, whether he withholds it altogether or only momentarily, the ball is in play and the scrimmage has begun.

Rule 6 is changed in a second place. If any player of the side in possession of the ball other than the snapper-back makes an atempt, by a false start or otherwise, to draw the opponents offside, and the ball is then snapped, it shall be brought back and not be regarded as in play nor the scrimmage as begun.

A change has been made regarding players who are out of bounds at play the time when the ball is put in play. The new rule allows no player out of bounds at the time when the ball is put in play, except the man who is holding the ball for a place-kick.

A note has been appended to the rule which states that the lineman shall notify the captains of the time remaining to play, not more than fore the end of each half, to the ften nor less than five minutes before the end of each half, to the effect that there is no objection to the lineman giving the approximate time to the captain who asks for it at any time during the game. He may not, however, be asked for this time more than three times within the last five minutes of the half.

Lecture Course.

During the past week the Y. M. C. A. of the University arranged for a lecture course fo the coming winter. The first number on the progam will be the ever-popular Katharine Ridgeway Concert Co. This will be followed by three lectures delivred by able exponents of the lecture platform. A second concert will round out the course.

Editorial

The season-ticket plan has gained a foot-hold at Bucknell, but it has by no means reached a successful issue. At a meeting of the Finance Committee of the Athletic Association it was reported that one hundred and sixty tickets had been sold. In order to make it a complete success the association must put out, at least, three hundred tickets, and to place it on a firm financial basis four hundred tickets ought to be sold.

Everyone realizes that the season-ticket idea was begun by the students, and that the co-operation of the whole student-body is necessary for the carrying out of the movement. If a man is of the opinion that he does not have to attend the athletic games of the college, he is merely acknowledging himself to be disloyal to his Alma Mater. No college can support their athletics without the hearty aid of every student; and such co-operation is highly essential and just. To expound the benefits of the five-dollar assessments would be entirely useless, for the subject has been kept before you continually. The whole matter rests with those who have failed as yet to procure tickets. The proper thing for about two hundred, or two hundred and fifty of the delinquents to do is to buy season-tickets. The reasons for doing this are evident, and the time to do it is now.

LITTLE WILLIE.

We are happy to notice the birth of a sentiment among the student body which, if it reaches maturity, will rid our athletic exhibitions of one objectionable feature. The idea seems to meet with hearty approval among those to whom it is mentioned.

The absence of an enclosing fence about our athletic field has increased the troubles of all our managers because it has decreased the gate receipts at public exhibitions. Possibly two-thirds, possibly only one-half of those who attend the games here, pay for that privilege. The remaining one-third or one-half "sponge" on the good graces, or to put it truly, on the apathy of the students. For some reason or other it has not occurred in a very striking manner to the student body that there are other means for keeping out unwelcome visitors than erecting a fence. It is rather surprising that several hundred young men allow their athletic association, their college, and themselves to be imposed upon by fifty or a hundred "kids" or loafers.

True, when these hangers-on get between the students and the players, there arises at once a lusty shout of remonstrance. The shout dies immediately, however, when the youngsters move aside, and the latter, as they are allowed to stay on the grounds, presume that they have a right to do so.

An independent person might say that there is plenty of room for the "kids" and that we should not be so selfish as to deny them a little pleasure. Yet when we let "Little Willie" witness a game without paying his quarter, he brings his brother to the next game, his chums to the next, and then Willie's papa drops around and roosts on the railroad track. Finally, all the uncles and cousins come, all because "Little Willie" was allowed to see a game free, —and we let them stay, free as samples of magic yeast.

The cold bare facts remain that it costs money, good hard cash, to run a football team or a baseball team or anyother kind of a team, and that we cannot afford to run free exhibitions for "Little Willie's" relatives or anybody else. As for any student of Bucknell University found attending a game without paying, it might not be a bad idea to induce him to perambulate before the "Sem," bearing a placard beautifully adorned with the inscriplotn "Sneak."

It cannot be expected that the manager of the athletic association keep the "spongers" off the grounds; the players certainly cannot attend to it; it remains then for the students to attend to the matter. The "loyal sons of old Bucknell" certainly can do it. Let's.

THE COLLEGE MAN.

The expression "college bred men" is in popular usage to-day, and can be variously interpreted. There are so many kinds of college men that an attempt at classification would be almost useless, yet they are all called "college-bred". There are those who receive at college an education—and that only. There are others who fit themselves for a business career; and still others who get a little of everything out fo their college course.

But these are simply a few types of college men. The ideal college man is the one that can do his work well and a few other things besides. In college life association is the mould that forms everyone of us; so, in a certain sense we can all be ideal college men if we are but willing to allow ourselves to be moulded. Not every man can be a good athlete, and not veeryone can be an exceptionally bright student. The man that can do good work in the class-room, and that can take part in some other activities of college life such as athletics, debating and music, is the man that is getting the most benefit out of his course at Bucknell. No Freshman can work too hard, for application is a lesson that he must learn, sometime. Let him work as hard as he can, and he will still have time on his hands. The best thing he can do is to take up some line of work that is not required of him in the regular course. In doing anything of this sort a student must depend wholly upon himself, and as to how the work will be done rests with him. In life men succeed principally through their own efforts. A college course is but one continual preparation for usefulness in life, and it is beneficial for a man to bear this in mind during the whole of his college career.

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1905 No. 3

BUCKNELL LOSES TO CORNELL

Ithacans Score 24 Points in the Second Half.

Saturday was an ideal day for a football game and thousands of people gathered at Percy Field to see the contest betwwcen Cornell and Bucknell. Our team was the first to appear on the field, and they received enthusiastic applause at the hands of the Cornell rooters. Cornell followed Bucknell, and limbered up by signal practice. Captain Cooper won the toss, chose the east goal, and received the kick-off.

Walders kicked off for Cornell to Olendorf on the 10-yard line. Bucknell advanced the ball fifteen yards, and Cornell was off side. Bucknell was held for downs and Lenhart kicked. Cornell failed to gain and Walder was called back to punt. He sent the oval to our goal-line and Talbot ran it back 22 yards. Olendorf gained two and Cooper with excellent interference carried the ball around right end to the 25-yard line. Bucknell failed to gain and Lenhart punted to the 40-yard line. Cornell circled right end for 9 yards and fumbled on the next play, losing the ball to Bucknell on Cornell's 53-yard line. Olendorf made 8 yards on two trials and Winegardner failed to gain. Bucknell lost the ball on a quarter-back kick. Cornell made 3 yards and was held for downs. Walder punted to Bucknell; she could not gain, and Lenhart kicked out of bounds at his own 50-yard line. Cornell was penalized 15 yards on the next play for holding, and Rice was thrown for a loss on Cornell's 40-yard line. Walder punted to Bucknell's 20-yard line.

At this stage of the game Bucknell showed her gameness and held Cornell for downs on her own 21-yard line. After a few more plays the whistle blew for the end of the first 20-minute half with the oval in Bucknell's possession on her own 29-yard mark.

Bucknell had played faultlessly in this first half, and it looked as though the score would be 0-0; but our team wes less fortunate in the second half and Cornell seemed to have more than her share of good luck. The Ithacans had kept two of their strongest men out of the line-up in the first half and they were now substituted.

The whistle sounded and Cornell kicked over our goal-line. The ball was brought out to the 20-yard line, and Lenhart punted to the center of the field. Cornell advanced the ball to the 30-yard mark, and Walder circled Goldsmith's end for a touchdown. Halliday kicked goal. Score: 6-0.

Bucknell kicked off to the 25-yard line, and Cornell advanced it to our 50-yard line where they fumbled. Bucknell failed to gain and was penalized 15 yards for holding. Talbot kicked to Cornell's 53-yard line, and the Ithacans crossed our goal-line for the second time. Halliday kicked the goal, making the score: Cornell 12, Bucknell 0.

Bucknell seemed somewhat discouraged but they braced up and tried in vain to keep the home team from crossing the line again. Two more touchdowns were made, however; the one by steady line Plunges and short end runs, and the other by Earle on an 80-yard run around Goldsmith's end. Halliday kicked both goals. Score Cornell 24, Bucknell 0.

Captain Cooper played a star game, sending two men from the field during the contest. The line-up;

Gov. Pennypacker Failed to Appear.

A monster mass meeting was planned for Thursday night, at which time it was reported Governor Pennypacker would be in Lewisburg. The Governor was to have been the guest of Mr. Sober, Lewisburg's prominent lumberman. A party consisting of Dr. I. F. Eberhart, of Scranton; Dr. B. H. Warren, Prof. Nelson F. Davis and Gov. Pennypacker were to accompany Mr. Sober to his large Paragon chestnut farm in Irish Valley near Shamokin. The failure of the Governor to make his appearance was due to pressing and urgent business, and it was a great disappointment to the student-body. It is hoped that he will find it convenient to be in Lewisburg at a later date.

Meeting of Ministerial Students.

The ministerial students were called together in a meeting last Thursday for the purpose of arranging the work for the year. The meeting opened with the election of Pease, '06, as President, and Riggs, '08, as Secretary and Treasurer. An Evangelistic committee was appointed consisting of Bartlett, '06, Green, '06, and Klessner, '07. Prof. Martin gave a short talk in which he egcouraged the men in their efforts with a hope for plenty of work during the year. Meetings will be held once a month at the call of the President and talks by different Professors and prominent ministers from nearby cities will make them highly beneficial.

Presbyterian Reception.

A very pleasant reception was tendered to the new students by the members of the Presbyterian church on Friday evening. The event was successful, and the atmosphere of the evening was one of welcome. A large number were present to enjoy the hospitality shown them. After a part of the evening had been spent in making acquaintances and in conversation, refreshments were served. Everyone left with the thoughts of an evening happily spent.

Delta Theta Upsilon Dance.

The Delta Theta Upsilon fraternity gave an informal dance in their halls on Wednesday evening. Eighteen couples were present. Prof. Miller's Imperial Orchestra furnished the music.

GLEE CLUB ORGANIZED

It Will Appear in the Opera House To-morrow Evening.

Bucknell's Glee Club has been organized this year with prospects much brighter than those of previous years. This is because there have been admitted into its membership not only those who have vocal ability but also those who are willing to submit to the management. It is a recognized as well as a lamentable fact that the failure of the club in previous years was due to the refusal of the members to acknowledge a leader. In order that this fault might be obviated, Dr. Avirasnet has selected from the musical talent of the school those who are willing to enter upon the work in a business like manner; those who wish to see Bucknell have a first class glee club.

To Paul G. Stolz must be attributed the interest with which the members are entering upon the work, for it is under his leadership that the practicing is conducted. Mr. H. H. Adams as business manager, is arranging for several tours for the glee club during the coming vacations.

For the past two weeks practice has been held daily in preparation for the initial appearance on Tuesday evening in the opera house. Those who bid fair to bring Bucknell glee club to the front are: First tenors Adams, Gibson, Mathias, Burrows; Second tenors, Shrum, Fritz, Loomis, Hoechst; First bass, Gardiner, Nofsker, Manchester, Long; Second bass, Parsons, Stolz, Stennart and Fetter.

The Princeton Game.

The fourth game of the season will be played at Princeton on Saturday, and the team is in excellent condition to face the "Tigers." The practice this week will mean a great deal to the team, and the captains of the Scrubs, the Freshmen, and the Sophomores should do all in their power to get the men out to line up against the 'Varsity.

Princeton easily won from Georgetown on Saturday, and the strength of their team cannot be questioned. There is the right kind of material on Bucknell's team, but many lack experience. This handicap will be overcome by heavy practice each night. Every man come out and play on the scrubs, or on the different class teams. Bucknell's success depends greatly on this, and every man should do his part.

Bucknell received a rousing "send-off" on Saturday, as they left for Ithaca, and when they leave for Princeton they should be given a bigger one. A notice will be posted in due season, and let every one appear in time to get in on the cheering.

Chemical and Physical Society Meets.

The Chemical and Physical Society was called together on Thursday, October 5th, by Prof. Owens. He talked to the society on the subject of "Early Chemistry" after which the following officers were elected:

President, Hostetter, '08, Vice President, Knapp, '06; Secretary, Bertin, '08; Treasurer, Owens, '09.

An executive committee was appointed consisting of Brinker, '07, and R. M. Steele, '08.

BUCKNELL'S TROPHIES.

As the years go by the subject of preservation and display of Bucknell's trophies seems to press itself more and more forcibly upon our minds. At the present time these trophies are in a case in the museum. There are, in the collection, trophies that reflect honor on Bucknell; banners won at the annual Relay Races, and other things emblematic of victories on the grid-iron.

Dear are these trophies in the sight of those who helped to win them, and dear are they to the whole student-body. They recall in the best possible way former victories, and the fact that more have not reached the case is very lamentable. Surely, Bucknell should have innumerable tokens to tell of her victories.

But there is a cause for all this, in that the trophies are not properly displayed; consequently, there is a lack of interest in regard to the preservation of these trophies. If there was a proper way of displaying them, more would be preserved, and they would be cherished more highly both by the players who helped to win them, and by the students in general. Last year it was decided that a room should be fitted up as a trophy-room, but no action was taken and we are as well off today in this respect as we then were.

When we think how captains, with tears in their eyes, plead with their men to fight for victory; and when we think, that besides the glory, all they receive for their efforts is a football, do we not feel that these hard-earned memorials—for such they are—should find a place where they would serve as an inspiration to men in the future? It is unjust that these trophies, these emblems of victory, are kept in a place so inconvenient.

When the museum is moved the trophy-case will also be taken to some other place. Where can these trophies be displayed to an advantage? Some place that is open to everyone must be decided upon. Will a room in West College fitted up for the purpose answwer the need? Will the case find a home in the new library, or is there some better means of displaying Bucknell's trophies.

Kase Helps to Coach Football Squad.

During the past week Kase, a former Pennsylvania star has been assisting Coach Hoskins with the football squad. Kase is a man of experience and his work with the line men is noticeable. With him coaching the line Coach Hoskins can devote more time to developing a fast back-field. Everyone realizes that the presence of Kase on the field is doing a great deal of good for the team.

SHOP WORK BEGUN TODAY

Full Year's Work Open to Electrical Men.

The students in the Electrical Engineering course were called together on Saturday, at 10.20 for the purpose of organizing, in order to take up the shop-work begun today. This work is under the supervision of Prof. Burpee and consists of two hours work a week throughout the year. The shop-work is opened for the first time this year and offers a good course to the electrical men.

During the Fall term the course will consist in manual training with the proficency n the use of tools as the ultimate end. Near the close of the term some work from Mechanical drawings will be done. In the winter term simple pattern-making will be taken up, this developing into finer and more careful work in preparation for the course in the Spring term, which will consist in intricate pattern-work and moulding.

The course in shop-work is required of all candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Science and Electrical Engineering, Sophomore year, and is open to Sophomores in the other Courses. Prof. Burpee will be in the shops on Tuesday afternoon to confer with any students in regard to the work.

Fosdict Addresses Y. M. C. A.

On Monday and Tuesday nights Rev. H. E. Fosdict, pastor of the First Baptist church at Montclair, N. J., delivered addresses to the college men in the Y. M. C. A. Hall. The first meeting was in the form of a bible study rally, and Mr. Fosdict emphasized in his talk the value of bible study to college men. He showed how there was something to be gained from bible study, if men only took it up fearlessly, honestly and diligently.

The meeting on Tuesday night was termed by Mr. Fosdict a "decision meeting."

The main thought of his talk is found in this sentence: "The greatest reward one can obtain is the ability to reach out further, and this applies in bible study." As a result of these meetings classes in bible study are being rapidly organized.

Editorial

The way the students turned out to start the team off on their trip to Cornell shows that there is the proper kind of spirit at Bucknell. It is just this sort of thing that tries a mans college spirit. Each one knows that his presence at a "send off" will be felt, and if he acts rightly, he goes and does his share.

When the team leaves home to play on a new field very few accompany them, and there must be some way of showing that we are interested in their welfare. We did it admirably on Friday evening. The team left with "Bucknell-el-el" ringing in their ears, and how could they help but be inspired to do their best. These little things are manifestations of college spirit; these things help to mould men into true college men. This week our team leaves "Old Bucknell" again to use their strength against Princeton. Let those who the proficiency in the use of tools as Cornell come out again, and bring a friend along. This is an opportunity to do something for Bucknell's football team; a chance to show your true college spirit.

PLACE OF Y. M. C. A. IN COLLEGE.

The student entering college for the first time finds himself in the midst of a complex institution. When leaving home and turning their faces toward college few ever dream of the different organizations that will demand their influence and support. So many are these organizations, and so pressing are the claims for each that some are led to believe that the place of the Y. M. C. A. in college is of little consequence. This is where we want to pause a moment and consider.

The man in college is surrounded with peculiar circumstances; upon entering he assumes special responsibilities. In many respects he is a new man in an entirely new sphere. Yet he has entered all this with a definite purpose—To prepare himself for life; to train himself to assume the responsibilities of life as a man.

The Chicago business man was right, who said that college men could not be reduced to mere "cogs in the machinery," but they are rather the true, genuine and full hearted men ready to face the problems of life with the spirit that wins.

The world is growing more and more to realize the worth of trained and prepared service—the product of the college. But a "diploma" from Bucknell, or any college for that matter, will not earn a man a living. Neither will it distinguish him as a philosopher or declare him a hero. It is the initative which allows him to enter the arena where combatants are waiting, if possible, to make him their prey. If he wins it will be not by the "diploma" which he holds but by the strength of his own character and powers. The increasing demand of the modern day employers is not intellectuality alone, but character as well.

No other organization of its kind is doing so much toward developing men, in the truest sense, as the Y. M. C. A. The impression has gotten abroad that the Y. M. C. A. stands aloof from such things as athletics, etc., but there is no other class of men who have so much sympathy and interest for the success of the football teams as Y. M. C. A. fellows. But while they stand for these things in a marked degree, they also recognize the spiritual side as especially important for the man who will soon grapple with the world's problems. President Harrison of U. of P. some time since in speaking of the needs of his own institution said that if he had the funds at his disposal he would give them toward the erection of a chapel in which the student body could meet each day for fifteen minutes in true devotional service. When asked wwhy he said that he had come to realize how much fifteen minutes spent thus each day would mean toward building up the character of the young man.

Then if the Y. M. C. A. can do nothing more than stand for the man, physical, intellectual and spiritual it must be placed first in importance among the organizations of the college. The friend of all it stands ready, to help every man in realizing his purpose here and to enable him to leave college with the stamp of real, genuine worth upon his character.

Seminary Items.

Caroline Osler spent a few days with friends at the Seminary.

Marion Walker returned from her home in Norristown on Saturday.

Dean and Mrs. Edwards were entertained at the Senior table on Tuesday night.

The Delta Phis entertained their friends in the Seminary parlors on Saturday evening.

Missouri Wolfgang, ex-'08, of Ashland, spent Friday and Saturday with friends at the Seminary.

Miss Myer, of Reibersburg, has entered the Freshman class. Miss Myer is a sister of Myer, '06.

Tau chapter of Delta Delta Delta was at home to its patronesses and the Freshman girls on Friday night.

Emily Ebling, '03, who is teaching in the Williamsport High School, and Ida Luchsinger, '03, of West Pittston, visited friends at the Sem over Sunday.

Catharine McClaggan, '06, Jennie McClaggan, '08, and Mary Galbraith, '07, were initiated into Tri-Delta on Thursday evening.

College Locals

Yost, '06, spent Sunday with friends in Lock Haven.

Portser, '05, is back for a short visit among friends.

Kase, '09, spent Sunday at his home in Danville.

Kamensky, '09, shot a coon while hunting on Saturday.

Bliss, '06, accompanied the team to Cornell on Saturday.

Hilton, '07, will not return to college on account of illness.

J. Henderson, '08, was initiated into Phi Kappa Psi on Tuesday night.

Walters, '08, saw the State-Indian game at Harrisburg on Saturday.

Minor, '07, was initiated into Sigma Chi on Thursday before last Commencement.

Don't forget the "Way of Life" meeting at the chapel every Sunday at 4 o'clock.

Virginia opened her football season by defeating Randolph Macon by the score of 59-0.

The scrub baseball team was defeated at Montoursville on Saturday by the score of 5-0.

Juniors and Seniors should read the notice on the bulletin-board in regard to the theses.

The chapel choir has been revived, and the new start looks good. Here's hoping that it may last.

A new dramatic club is being organized, and work is started toward the production of a good play.

The Champion Athletes will play an exhibition game at Sunbury, Oct. 18. Blair will catch for the Sunbury team.

The class in Geology was inspecting some of the near-by hills on Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

Culverson and Childs, of State, stopped off on their way home from the game to visit their S. A. E. brothers.

State let us know that they were passing through town on Saturday morning by giving a yell at the Pennsy station.

Caruthers, '08, stopped off on his way to the State-Indian game at Harrisburg. He is attending State College this year.

Mattis, ex-'07, is working on bridge construction for the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Co., at Baker City, Oregon.

Elliot, ex-'07, spent Saturday and Sunday with friends on the hill. He is employed in Philadelphia as manager of the Globe Ticket Company.

The Denison football team which is being coached by "Cap" Stanton, '02, lost the first game of the season to Ohio Medical University by the score of 12-5.

Norman Gardner, '08, will not return to college this year. During the summer, as in previous summers, he has been working for the Edison Electric Light Co., of Sunbury, and now is doing the high pole stunts for the same company in wiring the town for the new trolley line.

Inter-collegiate.

State has an entering class of 300.

At Swarthmore all Freshmen are compelled to wear black caps with a green button.

Lafayette has an entering class of 100 men. The small number is due largely to the rigidity of entrance examinations.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who entered Harvard this year failed to make the Freshman football team. He was trying for right end.

They are having inter-class baseball at Lafayette now. Quite a good idea; it develops new material and keeps the old men in form.

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1905 No. 4

PRINCETON WINS EASILY

With Lenhart and Baldwin Out Tigers Score 48 Points.

On account of the absence of Baldwin and Lenhart, Bucknell was easily defeated at the hands of the Princeton eleven, at Princeton, last Saturday, by the score of 48 too. The team averaged favorably in weight, but the "Orange and Blue" were weak on offense, making their first downs but four times. Bucknell was forced to punt many times, but here her weakness showed up in the absence of Lenhart.

In the first half Princeton received the ball from Tolbert's kick-off on the 10 yard line. By successive line plunges on the right and left of Bucknell's center for gains from 5 to 15 yards each, the ball was advanced to Bucknell's 20 yard line, where the Orange and Blue braced up and fought every inch. McCormick made the first touchdown by a cross back. In actual playing time the touchdown was made three minutes after the kick-off. Freyer kicked goal. Bucknell then received the kick-off on the five yard line, and Tolbert advanced it 15 yards. Frank gained three yards on right end. Winegardner gained 1 yard on left, but on the next play were pushed back for a loss. Princeton made the second touchdown in three more minutes by line plunges, where they found Bucknell deplorably weak. Freyer kicked goal. Tolbert received kick-off on 5 yard line and advanced it 10 yards. No gain was made on first down. Winegardner dashed off three yards and then Tolbert punted. The punt was blocked by Princeton, Frank gaining the ball on Princeton's five-yard line. He was pushed back of the line for a doubtful safety. Bucknell punted from 25 yard line and Princeton advanced the ball from 50 to the 30 yard line. Here Princeton fumbled but regained ball. By line plunges the third touchdown was made and Freyer kicked goal. Tolbert received kick-off on 5 yard line and advanced ball 10 yards. Bucknell made short gains but was forced to punt. The ball went high, covering only two yards. Princeton made her fourth tochdown by end skirting and line plunges. Freyer missed goal. Winegardner receval kick-off and advanced ball to 25 yard line. Shade made two yards through line, Winegardner fumbled and Princeton gained ball, soon making fifth touchdown by line plunges. Freyer kicked goal. Glendorf received kick-off and advanced ball 15 yards. Winegardner lost 3 yards on end formation. A delayed pass was here tried, but the ball was passed into the hands of a Princeton man instead of Bucknell. The last touchdown of the first half was thus scored by Brasher. Princeton kicked off, and time was called on Bucknell's 25 yard line. Score 37-0.

In the second half Frymeyer was substituted for Winegardner, McNinch for Frank and Martin for Tolbert. Princeton kicked-off. McNinch received and ran back 10 yards. Bucknell failed to gain and punted. Princeton was penalized 10 yards on offside play. Gained three yards around left end and on fake play. Dillon scored touchdown. Freyer failed to kick goal. McNinch received kick-off and advanced 20 yards. Bucknell was forced to kick, which was blocked, Princeton gaining ball. Dillon made quarter-back kick, but interfered with fair catch by Oleadorf. Princeton was penalized 15 yards. Bucknell failed to gain and punted to Dillon. Here Bucknell held, and Princeton was forced to punt. Oleadorf fumbled ball back of goal line and Daub covered it, scoring for Princeton. Freyer kicked goal. Oleadorf received kick-off and advanced eight yards. Freymeyer gained three yards on end, Martin two, and McNinch three. Here Bucknell was forced to punt. Princeton received ball on 40 yard line and advanced 15 yards. Time called with score 11 to 0.

Scrubs Downed by Willi amsport H. S

The second team played their first game on Saturday with Williamsport High School, and lost by the score of 28-0. The lack of team play was to a great extent responsible for the defeat. The line-up of the "scrubs changes with the days, and the team that played against Williamsport was a team that had not played together as a team. Williamsport was represented by a strong team that has practically played together for three years, and their team work is almost perfect. For Bucknell Matthias at quarter played an exceptionally fine game, and ran the team well.

Bucknell received the kick-off, and failed to gain at first down. Williamsport got the ball and went over for touchdown. Five times the "cherry and white" crossed our goal-line, and four goals were kicked. The clever interference of the Williamsport team enabled them to circle our ends, and the brilliant work of the back field gave them great gains through the line.

For Bucknell Claypool was the surest ground-gainer, and Hoon proved to be the mainstay of our line. Captain Evans hopes to develop team play and speed in the team before the face Bloomsburg Normal on Oct. 29.

Glee Club Did Not Sing.

The Glee Club was to have made its initial appearance in the Opera House on Tuesday night, but owing to some disagreement with the management they did not sing. This was a great disappointment to the audience. Mr. Halfpenny's concert was good, but he made a mistake when he concluded that the absence of the Glee Club would not be noticed by the audience. It is hoped that there will soon be another opportunity of hearing the Glee Club.

LECTURE IN CHAPEL

Prof. Ralph Catterall Delivers an Address on Comte De Mirabeau.

Professor Ralph Catterall, Bucknell, '91, who now holds the chair of History at Cornell University, delivered a very interesting lecture in the chapel on Saturday morning. The subject of his lecture was Comte De Mirabeau, a prominent figure of French history.

He began the talk by tracing the ancestry of Mirabeau as far back as his grandfather. The main characteristic of the Mirabeau family was its determination. The father of Comte De Mirabeau was a political economist. Under the old regime the father was absolute master of the family, so Mirabeau was under the stern rule of his father until his death. If the children became unmanageable, the father could control them by means of the "sealed letters," which entitled him to inflict punishment. These "sealed letters" were one of the principal defects in French society that helped to bring on the Revolution.

Mirabeau's father was a man of high ambition. He desired to be a leader of political economy and wanted to produce the most illustrious family in France. He was resolved that his son should be the greatest, most beautiful, and most intellectual man in France and that he should carry out the work begun by his father. For the accomplishment of this purpose the son received early training, for his father began to make a political economist out of him at the advanced age of four years.

On sending young Mirabeau to school he robbed him of his name, giving him instead the name of his mother. He instructed the teacher of the school at Paris to "break him," saying that the boy was a liar, a crafty youth, and somewhat of a thief. The boy soon won the confidence of the teacher, and the father, provoked at his success, took him out of school and put him in the army. There he remained for nine months, and deserted. After this misconduct the father put Mirabeau under arrest, but he finally succeeded in joining the army at Corsica, making for himself a remarkable record. So well was the father pleased with his success that he allowed him to bear again the name of Mirabeau.

It was now the ambition of the youth to become married, but the father insisted that he learn practical economy first; this he did in six weeks. He then married a very rich woman, but his love of luxury misled him and in six months he had reached the end of his resources. The father made use of the sealed letter, and imprisoned him again. There was reason for this, for if his father had not imprisoned him, his creditors would have done so. Again Mirabeau was imprisoned at the age of 28; this time he was placed under stringent rules and was allowed no freedom. In his dungeon he had time for work and he wrote several books, and a few volumes of letters to Sophie, the woman with whom he had eloped. This confinement lasted for three years, and by it Mirabeau was improved both physically and mentally.

Comte De Mirabeau, though the greatest orator in France, never wrote a speech of his own, and he often delivered speeches written for him without ever having read them over. He was elected to the great Assembly of France, and here the errors of his youth stood squarely in the way of his ambitions. He could not save France for he had no influence. Mirabeau wanted to be minister of France, but a bill was passed by the court declaring that no member of the assembly was eligible to become a minister.

At the time of the French Revolution he wrote fifteen most wonderful papers, and had his advice been followed France might have been saved. His words had no weight, for the people would not trust him. His life was a failure, and on the second of April, 1791, he died; he was mourned by all France as the only man who could have saved the country, but who failed mainly on account of the reckless life he had lived.

This was the first of a course of lectures to be delivered during the year. A large number were in attendance and Professor Catterall's address was highly appreciated by all.

Johns Hopkins Game at Milton.

Although there is some hitch in the plans for the Johns Hopkins game, there is every likelihood that if the game comes off it will be played at the Milton ball park. The management feels that on account of the great prominence of Johns Hopkins University and the advantage of a closed grounds that a larger and a better paying crowd can be gathered at Milton. This would in no way interfere with the holders of season tickets. They will be good for the game whether played in Lewisburg or Milton.

Through wide advertising of this game and the fact of it being played in a large town, the management should realize handsomely on the proposition.

The student-body feels the loss of the Indian game, and this plan would in a way take its place.

The Milton Park is centrally located and should make a fine football field.

THE VIRGINIA GAME

The Itinerary For The Trip. Game to be Played at Norfolk.

The arrangements for the Bucknell-Virginia game are about completed. This will be our first meeting with Virgina on the gridiron, and we hope the game may become an annual affair.

The people of Norfolk, and especially the management of the Lafayette Park, have an elaborate plan of entertainment for the Bucknell boys.

Registrar Grezinger, Coach Hoskins, Manager Kegh, and eighteen players, will make up the party which will leave Lewisburg Thursday morning on the Pennsy for Baltimore. Thursday evening they will take a boat down the Chesepeake Bay for Norfolk, arriving there early Friday morning.

After a short rest the team will run through a light signal practice at Lafayette Park. In the afternoon the boys will be taken on an automobile sight-seeing run through the city, ending at the United States Navy yard, where they will be the guests of Chaplin Harry Jones, U. S. N., an adopted son of Bucknell.

As the Horse Show wwill be held at Norfolk during the week, the team has been invited by the officials of the Show to occupy boxes Friday evening.

It is seldom that a team is shown so much courtesy in a strange city, and Bucknell certainly appreciates this outpouring of Southern hospitality upon her football team.

The advertising of the game has been in most competent hands and a record breaking crowd is expected.

The team came out of the Princeton game in goodshape, several of the best men were kept out of the game entirely to insure their being in the best of condition for Virgin'a. Mr. Thomas M. Suter, of Princeton, will be one of the officials and Dr. Nathan Stauffer, of Pennsylvania, will probably be the other.

From all reports Bucknell should win this game, and even if we lose, Virginia will know she has been playing some football.

Football Squad Has Picture Taken.

About thirty men reported at Athletic Field on Tuesday night for the picture of the football squad. For many years the hill facing the athletic field has been the back-ground for the pictures of the squads, and it served the purpose again. There are only five men of last year's Varsity in this year's line-up. The abundance of material in the Freshman class has helped to bring up the total number of men in uniform.

Reception tendered to Prof. Catterall.

On Saturday evening in Bucknell Hall Professor Ralph Catterall delivered a lecture on Sir Walter Raleigh. A large and appreciative audience was present to enjoy it. After the lecture Prof. Catterall was tendered a reception by Mrs. Dr. Gundy at her home on Fourth street. The members of the faculty of both college and seminary were present.

THINK!

The world is beginning to realize more and more the importance of thoughtful men at the head of its great business. The college has always been the place where thinking men have recived their start in life. To the business man the college has become the main-spring of his future success. From these institutions each year goes out an army of trained men,—of men who think. President Roosevelt did not plunge into his great scheme of mediation between Japan and Russia without weighing in his mind the end of all his labors; the success of the plan proves that it was well worked out.

Many men come to college ignorant of the opportunities they will have to develop and train themselves; many come simply because they know some college men who have received a great deal of good out of the time spent in college. It is unfortunate that these men do not have a different conception of an education. Geo. P. Baker, of Harvard says that the failure of so many men to understand that to learn to think is one of the most important achievements in any life, is due either to a lack of training in the home or in the preparatory school. If the preparatory school forces untrained men upon the college, it is the work of the college to train them. But students should not rely on the college to make successful men of them, or they will be left. The most the college can do for them is to open the way, and present the opportunity; they must do the work. Then, learn to think. Geo. P. Baker expressed it better when he said "Now and then be idle; sit and think." This is a sentence that should be a maxim to every college man. Men are not called into prominent service today, because they are college men; it is because of training they have received in college. Hence, one man is called into a better position than another simply because while he was in college he applied himself. Elihu Root did not leave a position that was yielding him $200,000 yearly simply because he wanted to be in the President's cabinet. To be Secretary of State is an honor to be sure, but Root saw that by taking advantage of this opportunity he could do his country a great service, and at the same time fit himself for a greater work in the world.

Every man's life is a life of service, and just as far as it is such is it successful. And so it is that every college man is fitting himself for work in life. Thinking men are doing the great wwork of the world today. It would be well for every college man to keep fresh in his mind the words of Geo. P. Baker: "Now and then be idle; sit and think."

The Football committee did a very commendable thing when they decided to award "B-Seconds" to the members of the second team. They realized that a good "scrub" team was essential to a winning 'Varsity eleven. These "B-Seconds" will be awarded at the same time as the regular "B's" and those who have played faithfully on the second team will be eligible. This should be an incentive to men to come out and line up against the regular team. To be sure the "scrubs" have to undergo a lot of hardships, but they receive some remuneration too. Every man that plays on the second team stands a better chance for the 'Varsity, simply because he receives valuable experience by playing against them. The manager has arranged a schedule for the second team this year, and it is a good one. During the season they will play about six games including Lock Haven N. S. and Williamsport H. S.

These compensations in connection with the "B-Seconds" that are to be awarded, should be sufficient inducement to any man. There has been a good number of men on hand to line up against the 'Varsity since the opening of the season, but the tendency is for the number to dwindle down toward the close. In anticipation of this, these things have been set before you.

When the team boarded the train for Princeton on Friday an uninterested person would have thought that it was some visiting team leaving the place. A few had ambled down to the station to give them a "send off," but they failed in the attempt. The lack of college spirit was deplorable; there were not enough men on hand to give a decent cheer, and the countenances of those present were as cloudy as a March sky.

If every man knew that the team could not win from the "Tigers," he should also remember that there is as much glory in meeting defeat honorably, as in gaininga victory. When college men gather to cheer their team they should cast aside that gloomy countenance, and not make the team face defeat at both ends of the line. Every man is anxious enough to see the score come in, and will stand in front of the telegraph office for an hour to see the result of the game.

There are a few things highly essential to a team's success. In the first place they must be backed by the whole student-body. There were about one-tenth as many men at the "send-off" Friday as there should have been. Is that loyalty? Why do college men go to the hill, when they know that by spending fifteen minutes they can do their team a valuable service? Ask yourself that question, and then—be on hand when the team leaves for Virginia.

The Virginia game is a game we want to win. Coach Hoskins has been saving the team for this contest, and they will be in great condition. How many men will be present to start the team on the way? Just as many as would like to see Bucknell win.

Searchlight on Canada Life.

The following is taken from the Philadelphia North American, Thursday, Oct. 12, 1905: "The undoubted feeling of unrest which now exists owing to the startling revelations made in the affairs of several of the large life insurance companies in New York can hardly continue toward one company, which has taken prompt and effective steps to prove the straightforwardness of its methods and the soundness of its assets. We refer to the Canada Life Assurance Company, of Toronto, which has just received a thorough examination at thehands of the Insurance Department of Michigan." Copy of above can be had by addressing R. M. Darlington, Agent, Lewisburg, Pa.

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1905 No. 5

VIRGINIA WINS

Although Defeated, Bucknell Was Not Outclassed.

Virginia defeated Bucknell at Norfolk Saturday, by the score of 15-11, in the most sensational and spectacular game ever played in that city. The Baltimore Herald in commenting upon the game says the following: "A good portion of the luck favored the Virginians which counted largely in their victory. Bucknell gained consistently through the line and outpunted the Southerners.

Virginia made most of her gains by long runs around the ends.

The attendance at the game was large, about three thousand people being present. Naturally the sympathies of the crowd were with Virginia, but Bucknell was not without admirers. Our friend Chaplin Jones brought to the game a band and several hundred jackies from the U. S. Navy Yard; they cheered lustily for Bucknell. Chaplain Jones' boy wore his uniform and sat with the Bucknell subs on the side lines.

The game was remarkable for the clean playing of both teams. The umpire imposed but two penalties, each team being penalized once for offside play, due to over anxiety.

The Bucknell players say that the officials were the squarest they ever met on the gridiron.

Bucknell made a good impression in Norfolk and there is every reason to believe that the game will be played again next year.

The feature of Bucknell's play was the work of Baldwin, he was always sure to gain, and carried the ball over for both touchdowns. Frank also played a brilliant game. To illustrate how luck favored Virginia. Near the end of the second half Bucknell had the ball on Virginia's two yard line, on account of Virginia's line showing unusual strength, it was decided to try a field goal. At this time the score was eleven to nine in Bucknell's favor. The kick was blocked and Warren, Virginia's left end, ran the length of the field for the winning touchdown.

There has been much criticism of this play. Had the goal been made, it was Bucknell's game and the play would have been all right. There is always a great deal of fault to be found, if we look for it.

Both of Bucknell's touchdowns were scored through steady line plunges.

Virginia's first score was made throug a 40 yard run by Capt. Cook. The next was a field goal from the 25 yardline, kicked by Maddux.

The line up:

VIRGINIA		BUCKNELL
Warren	l. e.	Winegardner

Bucknell Minstrel.

The annual Minstrel show given by Bucknell talent has won an enviable place in the hearts of the students. Nothing can be substituted in its place, and in view of this fact it seems natural for us to look forward to this event. The spirit of progress that manifests itself in every movement today should not be lacking in the Minstrel show. This year's performance should be better than any preceding it, for the material is here for the successful carrying out of a first-class program.

The feature of last year's Minstrels was the parodies on popular songs. These will go far toward making the coming attraction a thing worth seeing. It is not too early to begin to think about this matter, and a musical director, to whom copy may be passed, should be appointed at once. Those in charge could then urge students to contribute any such material as they may have. Original songs would also be very appropriate for a minstrel show, and anyone who would care to leave out a little energy might compose a song and hand it in to the men in charge of the musical end of the proposition.

This might sound impossible to some at first thought, but do not forget that the students of Michigan and Princeton write and stage a play each year. Bucknell has an array of talent along this line, and all it needs is a chance for development.

In a concluding paragraph it might be well to add that to insure a good minstrel show it is necessary to elect three officers who will have sole charge. These are: A stage manger, a financial manager, and a musicl director. With a good line of parodies, and a system about the managing of the affairs, there is no doubt but that the Bucknell Minstrel Show of 1905 will surpass all former performances.

Dr. Stephens Recovering.

Dr. Leroy Stephens, '68, the venerable secretary of the Pennsylvania Baptist Educational Society, is at present slowly recovering from a most serious illness. Toward the end of August the Doctor was laid low with a severe case of typhoid fever. For a time those at his bedside feared for his recovery. The crisis, however, was successfully passed and the Doctor was on the road to recovery when a relapse set in a short time ago. At present Dr. Stephens is far from well, although he is getting better daily. His physician hopefully predicts that he will be up and doing in a short time.

BUCKNELL SPIRIT

The Team Sent Off for Virginia in Proper Fashion.

The parade on Wednesday night helped to arouse the enthusiasm, and prepared the way for the most successful "send-off" of the year—that of Thursday morning.

Scarcely had the last note died away in the chapel until the crowd that was to send the team away to Virginia began to form on the outside. Seniors, Juniors, Sophomores, and Freshmen mingled together in the first real outburst of enthusiasm of the college year,—the Sophomores forming the van-guard to keep the Freshmen in tact. The parade formed in front of the chapel, and headed by the band marched in the "Serpentine dance" down to Market square, where they formed to give yells and sing praises of "Old Bucknell."

From here the parade moved toward the Pennsy station to the tune of "Tammany." Here they cheered the members of the team one by one, and then listened to speeches by Mr. Gretzinger, Manager Koch, Professor Wolfe, Captain Cooper, and members of the team. The spirit ran high and yells were given for each speaker as he ascended and descended the platform. The train soon pulled out, and the team was off with "Bucknell-el-el" ringing loudly in their ears.

This was a proper display of college spirit; this was the way it should be whenever the team leaves to fight for honors on a foreign field. More glory will come to the "Orange and Blue" and every man will feel that he has been loyal to his team.

When the parade returned from the station, it gathered in front of main building, sang a few songs and gave a few yells. The parade in single file reached from the entrance at University avenue to the front of Main College.

Mathewson Premier Pitcher of World.

"Christy" Mathewson, ex-'02, by defeating the Champion Athletics in three shut-out games of the championship series has won for himself a place in the heart of every lover of baseball. As a token of friendship his team-mates presented him with a $500 diamond. "Christy" certainly deserves the honor of being the foremost pitcher of the world, for he has done great work for the New York Nationals. Besides being an alumnus of Bucknell his home is near Lewisburg, and everyone is deeply interested in him. While he was in college he was an all-around athlete and a star in football. Since he stepped into professional baseball he has been a world of strength to his team, and an honor to the college that gave him his start in the athletic world.

Physical and Chemical Society.

The regular meeting of the Physical and Chemical Society was held Thursday afternoon in the lecture room of the Laboratory. A large attendance heard Prof. Hunter speak on "The Chemistry of Photography." He explained the chemical reactions taking place in the processes of developing, printing and toning. After hearing a short talk on the object and history of the society by Prof. Owens the meeting adjourned.

Conference With Football Men.

In view of the fact that football does not today enjoy its old-time popularity President Roosevelt last week called a meeting of the general athletic directors and the head football coaches of Yale, Princeton and Harvard to confer with them in regard to means for suppressing unnecessary roughness and foul-play in the game. Though no definite action was taken, existing conditions and possible remedies were discussed, and it is supposed that this will result in some new rules.

As a result of the conference the following memorandum was drawn up and sent to the President:

At a meeting with the President of the United States it was agreed that an honorable obligation exists to carry out, in letter and in spirit, the rules of the game of football relating to roughness, holding, and foul-play; and the active coaches of our Universities being present with us, pledge ourselves to so regard it and to do their utmost to carry out these obligations (signed.)

Walter Camp, John E. Owsley, for Yale.

J. B. Fine, A. R. Hildebrand, for Princeton.

Edward H. Nichols, William T. Reid, Jr., for Harvard.

In reply to this memorandum the President sent this telegram to Walter Camp:

White House,
Washington, D. C.

Most heartily approve of memorandum. Greatly appreciate your sending it to me, and I thank you and your five colleagues as strongly as I know how for what you have done. Believe me, I appreciate your action. Will you communicate this to the others? Hope you will make memorandum public as one in exactly the form you have sent me with the signatures (signed,)

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

This action on the part of the President seems to point strongly in favor of the supposition that he will some day be the head of a great university. The active coaches of Yale, Princeton, and Harvard in order to aid in carrying out the agreement have decided to make a more stringent interpretation of the rules in regard to holding, coaching from the side lines and general roughness.

Freshmen Held Business Meeting.

A meeting of the Freshman class was held in Bucknell Hall Wednesday for the transaction of business. Miss Burgess and Mr. Woolson were elected class poet and historian respectively. Committes on class flower, colors and yell were appointed after which the meeting adjourned.

Johns Hopkins Game Cancelled.

By mutual consent the Johns Hopkins game, which was to have been played here on Saturday, has been cancelled. Manager Kech has decided to leave the date open, since the team will thereby be given a much-needed rest. The next game of the schedule will be Medico-chi on November 1.

Returned from Germany.

Professor G. L. C. Riemer and family arrived recently at Lewisburg after an absence of two years in Germany, where he went to pursue a course of studies at a German University. He has resumed his position as Professor of Modern Languages.

HISTORICAL LOCATION

Buffalo Valley and Surrounding Country Rich in Indian History.

Many of us look up the Buffalo Valley, and down the Susquehanna river without ever thinking that this stretch of country was once the scene of many struggles with the Indians who wandered through the valleys extending in almost every direction from Lewisburg. The country surrounding Bucknell is rich in Indian history. Few of us ever think that when we travel Fourth street we are walking on ground that the Indians trod in earlier days. There is an old Indian path "that left the river at the first ravine, a few rods below the Northumberland bridge, passed up it, following the main road, as it now is, for a few miles, then turning toward the river it came down the hill. From thence it passed to the present road, crossing directly through the fields from the Gundy road to Fourth street, Lewisburg; thence to Buffalo creek where the iron bridge now is, a very old fording place." Thence it turned toward the river, and ran up the river road into White Deer Valley.

Such is the history that is woven about Lewisburg, and the country surrouding Bucknell. Monday, Oct. 16, marked the 150th anniversary of the famous Indian Massacre in Buffalo Valley, and it was commemorated by a great mass meeting of the citizens of Lewisburg, and of the students, held in the Court House at 2.00 o'clock. Professor Albert W. Johnson and George G. Groff were the principal speakers of the day. Their addresses were instructive and historical, annd were appreciated by all present.

Since the Sophomore and Freshman teams have begun practice there is an unusual amount of supposition in regard to the outcome of the game to be played on November 4. The two teams compare favorably and a close contest is assured. The Sophomores have a large number of supporters who think that their experience will help their team gain the victory, while the Freshmen will depend strongly on the speed of their eleven. Both teams have been practicing hard, and will be in excellent form for the game.

The annual class game is always one of the most exciting of the season, and the great rivalry between the classes will make this year's contest most interesting. Neither team has yet had an opportunity to show its real strength, but by the end of the week one will be able to form a better idea as to their comparative strength.

Meeting of Union Co. Medical Society

The Union County Medical Society held its third quarterly meeting last Wednesday at 10.15 in Bucknell Hall. Dr. Persing, of Allenwood, read a short paper on "Sleep." Dr. Gass, Secretary of Northumberland County Med. Society, followed with a very interesting and practical paper on "Auto-intoxication." After this a discussion on "Typhoid Fever" was led off by Dr. C. Dimm, of Mifflinburg. The meeting adjourned to meet in December.

Editorial

That football is not as popular today as it was some years ago is an acknowledged fact, and many coaches and former stars have expressed their opinions in regard to the matter. All this comment was just and beneficial in a way, but it never resulted in any definite action. President Roosevelt has taken the matter up with Walter Camp and some other prominent football men, and his action has set the athletic world ablaze, and has caused every one to feel that in due time the much needed reform will be brought about.

Authorities agree that the cause for the decline of the once favorite sport is due chiefly to commercialism in the college teams of our land and vacalled-for roughness on the part of the players. This year's rules were so drawn up as to eliminate this unpleasant feature of the game, but the roughness in the Columbia-Wesleyan and the Penn-Swarthmore games have but added to the trouble. This is a question that will take time to solve. The North American of the 22nd in commenting upon the question editorially says that "the secret of the whole matter lies in the coaching of the teams." If the coaches could be prevailed upon to instruct the players to play clean football, ers are doing, and say as he sends would be unknown to the game. But the thing has come to this extreme, that unless a coach puts out a winning team he is not looked upon as being of any value, and in order to put a winning team in the field he finds it necessary to do as the others, and he enjoys the best wishes of them on the field: "By all means win."

Should the coaches of Harvard, Princeton, and Yale decide to eliminate unfairness and roughness, the other coaches of the country would soon follow their lead and the evil would be overcome in a very short time.

It is for the sake of the sport that our chief Executive has taken these steps, and enjoys the best wishes of every true lover of the game. His action, following so closely on the bitter attack by President Eliot, of Harvard, and coming when Henry Beech Needham's magazine articles have not yet lost their sting, will doubtless result in some definite action in regard to the matter. That the game has become unusually rough is admitted by all the lovers of football, and that President Roosevelt has acted justifiably is unquestionable.

This year a change will be made in the University publications. The "Bucknell Mirror" will no longer be the literary organ but will be continued in another capacity. The literary work formerly contained in the Mirror will be published as a Supplement to the Orange and Blue. The Supplement will be furnished to the subscribers of the Orange and Blue for no extra charge. The first issue will appear in November and will be followed by five others at monthly intervals there after.

It is the intention of the Editors and Managers to make the Literary Supplement a decidedly pleasing feature of the College weekly. The new paper will contain sixteen pages of the product of the best literary talent in the University and will be moderately illustrated. The Supplement is open to contributions from every undergraduate in any department of the University and the Editor most earnestly requests that each and every student who has any literary ability whatever shall feel himself personally invited to submit manuscript for publication. Short stories or long stories, poems or songs, bits of original description, anecdotes, jokes, or exposition are desired as well as any other matter that will be interesting to the readers of our college papers. Manuscript may be handed to DeMelt, '06, Editor, or to Ilcon, '06, and Miss Rebecca Shove, '07, Associate Editors.

Either thoughtlessness, or a great desire to wander about in the dark has prompted some students to indulge in breaking the electric lights in the different halls. Those who are inclined to take pleasure in this sort of thing should bear in mind that by an act of foolishness they are causing scores of other students a great deal of inconvenience. We realize that Sophomores by nature prefer darkened halls to lighted ones, but they should consider that they are by no means in the majority. There is no real amusement obtained from this practice, and in fact, it seems foolish. When lights are replaced in the halls every one should use good judgment, and not destroy them.

College Locals

Blair, ex-'06, is visiting friends in town.

Brinker, '07, was in Williamsport Saturday.

Cockill, '05, is visiting friends for a few days.

Lose, ex-'06, is back renewing old acquaintances.

Heidenreich, '05, is spending a few days among friends.

Woodward, of Muncy, has entered the Freshman class.

Conflict, '08, filled a pulpit in Mahanoy City yesterday.

Yost, '06, spent Sunday with his parents in Williamsport.

Lawshe, '08, called on some of his Muncy friends last Sunday.

John V. Lesher, '97, of Lewisburg, was a prominent visitor Monday.

Mathewson, ex-'02, has an offer of $1000 per week ot enter vaudeville.

Davis, ex-'07, is working in the Baldwin Locomotive Works at Philadelphia.

Kingsbury, ex-'06, has entered the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania.

Horace J. Sheppard, '06, would like to find the man that stole the door to his dormitory.

Rev. J.B. Focht, former president of Susquehanna University, spent Sunday in Lewisburg.

The Freshmen defeated the Academy in a short game on Friday evening by the score of 11-0.

The delay of the Freshmen in posting their proclamations has been the cause of much sleeplessness on the part of Sophomores.

Reinhold Stolz, ex-'06, was married last June and is now preaching in Altoona. His many friends wish him success in his profession.

Smith, '05, who officiated in the Susquehanna-Bloomsburg game at Shamokin yesterday is spending some time with friends on the hill.

Feinour, '06, will not return to college this year, he is employed in the office of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., of Pittsburg.

Weaver, '05, assistant principal of Williamsport High School, delivered an address before the teachers last week on the subject of "Children's Faults."

The cheer-leader was greatly in evidence on Wednsday night and Thursday morning, and his efforts in "marshalling the forces" are certainly to be commended.

The Indian-Dickinson game was marked by unusual roughness. The score resulted in a victory for the red-skins. Seems as though we are not the only college that had trouble with these Indians, they mix things up with some other teams, and Bucknell feels that she is not the only school that fails to appreciate the Indians' manner of play.

Alumni Notes.

Daniels, '04, is teaching at Nanticoke.

Miss Albright, '04, is teaching in Mechanicsburg.

Hirsh, '04, is employed on the engineering corps of the B. & A. V. railroad at Buffalo.

Palmer Lewis Williams, of the class of '97, died at his home in Scranton, Pa., on Sunday, October 22. After leaving college Williams studied law in Scranton and was admitted to the bar of Lackawnna county. He was practicing successfully until his father's death a few years ago, when he took charge of his father's extensive business. During the Spanish-American war Williams served as a corporal in Company F, 13th Regiment, P. V. I. He was a member of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity.

A Denial School of Exceptional Advantages.
Of all the American dental schools, there is none with greater facilities or more liberal in its range of work than the dental department of the Medico Chirurgical College of Philadelphia.
Here the student in dentistry are permitted to enjoy all the privileges of the students of the medical school, a privilege which is rarely accorded students of a dental college. A system of quizzes is conducted absolutely free of charge which is a material advantage to the students.
An abundance of material for practical work in the dental infirmary is supplied each individual. Each student is given the widest latitude and the greatest incentive for individual work, which has resulted in some of the greatest achievements by undergraduates in the dental profession.

Amherst has dropped basket-ball from her athletics.

Union is erecting a new building for electrical engineering.

"Mike" Murphy has called candidates for the cross country team, and will commence to get them in shape.

The regular game between the Army and Navy will be played on Frank Ilin Field in Philadelphia this year as usual.

The Sigma Chi House at State College was recently destroyed by fire, and ground has been broken for the erection of a new one.

Dartmouth has this year adopted the system of a single athletic tax instead of the usual subscriptions for each branch of athletics.

Taylor, the University of Penna. fast quarter miler and holder of the intercollegiate record for that distance, has been dropped from that institution on account of failure in studies.

J. Louis Roschen, assistant Professor of Modern Languages at Lafayette is publishing with Ginn and Company a work of William Heinrich Reihl entitled, "Die Vierzehn Nothelfer." It has been prepared for the use of third year students.

Henry C. Frick, of Pittsburg, has again made Wooster University the beneficiary of his wealth. He has ordered the trustees to make arrangements for the construction of a $40,000 addition to the library built by him in 1889. The library originally cost $40,000.

The borough of Dickinson City is excited over the action of the School Board, which recently peremptorily dismissed the superintendent, John E. Williams. It is alleged he exceeded his authority in the purchase of books. Mr. Williams proposes to contest the case in court.

Henry Sturgis Drinker was inaugurated president of Lehigh University on Thursday, October 12, in Packer Memorial church. The day also marked the twenty-sixth annual celebration of Founders' Day, and the breaking of ground for the new Dround Memorial Hall, which will be erected to the memory of the late Thomas L. Bround, late president of the university.

1906 L'Agenda

Every new student should have a copy of 1906 L'Agenda. This book is filled with information that makes it almost indispensable for a college man's library. It portrays college life in all its phases. It contains an accurate and complete record of the scholastic honors of the individual members of the faculty. The records of all athletic teams and all the permanent records of the University are given in a concise form. Owing to the great demand of the book only a few copies remain in stock. These can be purchased at the Registrars office or the book store.

Searchlight on Canada Life.

The following was taken from the Phila., North American, Oct. 12th, 1905.

The undoubted feeling of unrest which now exists owing to the startling revelations made in the affairs of several of the large life insurance companies in New York can hardly continue toward one company, which has taken prompt and effective steps to prove the straightforwardness of its methods and the soundness of its assets. We refer to the Canada Life Assurance Company, of Toronto, which has just received a thorough examination at the hands of the Insurance Department of Michigan.

Fine Furs—An Elaborate Collection

In Furs we lay claim to leadership in styles, quality and prices. The display of handsome furs to be seen here is a source of much pleasure to customers and ourselves. A new section has been arranged in the Ready-made department first floor, giving us better facilities for doing a Fur business—better than ever before—and here is presented the choicest collection of superb Fur pieces that we have ever gathered.

Real Isabella or Sable Fox from 5.95 up to 10.00. The line is the best values for the money that we have ever offered. In buying our Furs early and of the best manufacturers we have the best seasoned skins. We make the Fur business a specialty and always buy the best and sell at a moderate profit. Many styles of Foxes in round, single or double lengths. Some have shaped collar effects, all Fox pieces having natural tails.

The greatest line of small neck pieces, such as Scarfs or Ties, some collar effects, in Ermine, squirrel, genuine Martin, from 1.50 to 15

A fine line of Muffs to match our Furs with from one to four stripes, at different prices. If you have not visited our Fur store, do so this week, and do not deny yourself this pleasure.

Milton's Dress Goods Store

Come here for any weave in Dress Goods family and you will find it—that is if you want a fabric that is correct and superior in every way. Besides the many weaves in blacks, we especially mention a few new grays this week that have just been thrown on the Dress Goods counter and are very fashionable. The line includes Panamas, Crashes, Home-spuns, Mohairs and Raincloths and are priced from 50c up to the finest at 2.00 per yard. Also a special line of Broadcloths received this week, in plum, gray and new green, regular 2.00 values for 1.75 per yard. Also a full line of collars at 1.00, 1.25 and 1.50. Blacks at 1.00, 1.25, 1.50, 2.00 and 2.50 per yard.

New Gloves for Fall

A full line of Fall and Winter Gloves for Ladies and Misses received this week, and ours is a Glove Stock that cannot be equalled. We carry the kinds that are so much in demand, such as Heavy Cape Gloves in brown, tan and black, at 1.00. Silk-lined Gloves with patent clasp at 1.50.

French Dressed Kids in white, black, pearl, tan, gray, brown and Mode, at 1.00 same colorings at 1.50, with patent clasp.

Mocho Gloves in tans, browns, grays and black at 1.00. Silk Lined Mochas with new patent clasp.

Silk Petticoats.

Another consignment received this week of fine Silk Petticoats. This gives us the best selected line that we have ever been able to show. The styles are exquisite, prices from 3.98 to 8.95. The better ones are made of the celebrated "York money back Taffeta." Some extra sizes in this line.

The Orange and Blue.

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1905 No. 6

REFORM IN FOOTBALL

Prof. Wolfe, Registrar Gretzinger, Coach Hoskins Express Opinions.

The football world is alive with criticism in regard to the roughness and unfairness of the game as it is played today. This criticism will ultimately result in a complete reform over the present style of play, for the feeling of dissatisfaction is becoming more and more pronounced. Men prominent in football affairs are not averse to express their opinions freely, since they see that unless some steps are taken football may never again enjoy the popularity it once did. That there is something wrong in the way the game is being played is without doubt, and that this fault is known and acknowledged by all is certain. No one is prone to conceal their views on the matter; in fact, the men who formulated the rules for 1905-'06 are making a decided and strenuous effort to ascertain in just what respect the rules must be altered to meet the much-needed and urgent demands of the lovers of the sport. In view of these facts the "Orange and Blue" has gathered the opinions of some of the men who have been especially active in regard to the athletics of Bucknell.

In regard to reform in football Coach Hoskins says:

"Shall we keep football clean. Why is it? Because so many men are injured.

I have been watching the football question for the last seven years, and I have found that the main fault lies with the rules committee and the officials.

In the first place they do not always get the right men on the "rules committee,"—I mean men who have watched the game day in and day out, followed play for play, noticing in what plays men most often are injured, and what changes made in the rules would have effect on these plays. The men who comprise the rules committee are chosen from the large universities, and they try always to protect the style of play taught at their institutions, and if there are any new rules introduced that will hurt their manner of play they vote the new idea down, and adopt again the old rules. There should be more men from the smaller universities and colleges on the rules committee, so that three or more large universities could not control the making of the rules.

The second fault—and a very great one—is that of the officials. When a large university plays a small college, all the officials as a rule will favor the larger institution. I also have found that when two or more officials have been chosen for a game, they invariably want to take the position as referee. None wish to umpire the game for they are afraid that they might make a decision which would prove distasteful to the large universities, and which would prove their undoing as an official. But all of them charge very large fees for their services. The position of umpire is one of the most important in a game of football. The umpire should be a man who knows the rules well, has plenty of nerve to penalize a foul of any kind the minute he sees it; and at all times during a contest he should be unwilling to overlook hitting with hands or fists, or slugging of any kind. He should as quickly disqualify an offender, whether he be playing on a large university eleven or a small college team. But things are not thus on the football field for as a rule the umpire will overlook these offenses, since the offender might be a captain of a large college team or an exceptional player on one of the teams. He will pass these things by and that is why so many men are hurt. I have always instructed men under me to play clean football, for a small college cannot afford to have any members of their team disqualified, since it is too hard to fill the positions.

I think there should be a rule to stop a man from crawling on the ground after he has been tackled and has been thrown. If this were penalized by a loss of ten yards on the part of the offending side, a great deal of roughness would be elliminated from the game, and fewer men would be injured."

Registrar Gretzinger thinks there are three lines along which football must be modified:

"For more than five years the conviction has been growing upon me that in order to preserve football as a College sport, it will have to be radically reformed. It seems to me that football will have to be modified along the following lines:

1. The adoption of the one year resident rule.
2. The open style of play.
3. The absolute eradication of commercialism."

President Harris in a recent communication to the Philadelphia Press advocated the one year resident rule as a means of eradicating many of the faults.

Professor Joseph Wolfe agrees with the Public Ledger, which says in an editorial on "clean football:" Athletic authorities evidently are not concerning themselves to make up a "winning" team so much as to make up a team that shall fairly represent and uphold the honor of the university.

It requires some courage to rule out players who are known to give strength to a team.

A college eleven is not, and ought not to be, a body of athletes and experts gathered for the purpose. It is simply a representative group chosen from the students of the institution, and only when it is recognized as such can its victories bring any credit. It is never any disgrace to lose a game. The disgrace is only to those who win without deserving."

Entertainment by Glee Club.

Dr. Aviragnet is hard at work with the college glee club and an entertainment will be given on the 17th of this month. The manager has not yet fully decided on a place. The college girls' glee club under the direction of Miss Blackmer, will assist in the concert. The program will consist of male, female, and mixed choruses, several male quartettes, solos, and readings.

Dramatic Club.

A dramatic club has been organized, and work has been begun for the production of a play on Nov. 28, "The Modern Ananias," a comedy in three acts, will be presented. The following comprise the cast: Hennessy, Belford, Smithgall, Zugschwert, Powell, Godshall, Shrum, and Grimminger.

SECOND TEAM DEFEATED

Bloomsburg Scores Four Times in Two Twenty Minute Halves.

The scrubs worked hard last week to develop a team that would bring victory from Bloomsburg on Saturday, but the "tackle over" formation of the Normal boys proved too much for our second team. Four times they crossed our goal-line; and kicked two goals.

Captain Evans won the toss and chose to receive the kick-off. Bucknell rushed the ball for 50 yards without being held for downs and were on their way for a touchdown when they fumbled. Bloomsburg then carried the ball to our 7-yard line, where they were held for downs. Bucknell by line plunges netted 23 yards and Normal held them for downs. The ball was in Bloomsburg's possession on the 32 yard line. From here they carried it over for the first touchdown of the game; kicked the goal, and the half was over. Score 6-0.

In the second half Bloomsburg received the kick-off, and in a few minutes scored a touchdown principally by end runs. Bloomsburg kicked off to Bucknell, and the ball went out of bounds; the second time it went over the goal-line, and Martin punted from the 25-yard line. A fumble by each side left the ball in Bloomsburg's possession and they went over for the third touchdown of the game. Bloomsburg scored again near the close of the half. Score 22-0.

For Bucknell Baldwin and Sayre were sure ground-gainers. The contest was a close one from beginning to end neither side gaining more than 10 yards by a play. Winegardner, '09, was head linesman, and Professor Wolfe, umpire.

Sophomore-Freshman Game Saturday.

As the day draws near for the annual-class football game between the Sophomores and Freshmen more and more interest as regards its outcome is manifested. This is probably due to the evenly matched teams, since both have been practicing faithfully for two weeks and more, and primarily to the fact "that class spirit runs high."

The Freshmen squad under the able direction of Wagner, '07, have been doing fine work of late, developing a smoothness and speed of play that will go a long way towards making the game next Saturday a closely contested one. Their line will not be as heavy as their opponents' yet the men hold well as was evidenced against the Academy team. Where they are particularly strong is in the back field. This is fast and ought to gain a great deal of ground with good interference.

The Sophomore team on the other hand are confident that they will win. With a team that has played together for a year, a heavy line and a good back field they expect to put the game away. For the past two weeks their practice has been handicapped, since quite a number of their players are on the Reserve. Now that the Bloomsburg game is over these will practice faithfully with the squad and should be a mainstay of strength for '08. Claypool, '06, and other Sophomore 'Varsity express confidence in the team's ability although a hard-fought game is expected.

Seniors Meet in Bucknell Hall.

The Senior men were called together in a meeting on Thursday afternoon in Bucknell Hall. The possibilities of having a Senior banquet were discussed, and it was decided that a banquet be held some time between Thanksgiving and the Christmas vacation. A committee consisting of Smithgall, Coverdale and Wynne was appointed to see every member of the class, and make all necessary arrangements for the affair.

That the Senior banquet will be a success is unquestionable, judging from the way the idea was received by the members of the class present at the meeting. There was not a full attendance, and it is the wish of the class that those who were unable to be on hand at the meeting will lend their support to the new idea. At the end of the college year the class of 1906 leaves Bucknell, and are then listed as alumni. After that time there will be no possibility of getting together again, and this seems like a golden opportunity.

Special—To Every Student.

Medico-Chi and Bucknell meet on Athletic Field Wednesday and every student is wanted down on the hill to help in the rooting. Bucknell feels confident of winning the game, but we have not had a contest here for so long that everyone ought to be in good form to cheer. Perhaps there are some in the Freshman class who have never learned the Bucknell songs. There is plenty of time between now and Wednesday to do this. We should make more frequent use of our songs, and let us avail ourselves of this opportunity.

Y. M. C. A. Lecture Course.

Final arrangements have been made for the lecture course to be conducted under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. The course is especially strong this year. The Katharine Ridgeway Concert company, which has been so highly appreciated here in the past two years, heads the list. The entire course is as follows: Katharine Ridgeway Concert Company, Nov. 8 The Parland-Newhall Company, Dec. 11. Edward P. Elliott, Impersonator, Jan. 29. Frank R. Roberson, Feb. 13. Dr. Samuel Parks Coltman, Mar. 6th.

College Girls' Election.

During the past week the college girls held a meeting at which officers were chosen for the college girls' reception. The election was a most quiet affair—no offices being contested. The following officers were chosen;

Pres., Miss Carrie McCaskie, '06; Vice Pres., Miss Frances Williams, 07; Secy., Miss Margaret Kalp, '08; Treas., Miss Sara Walters, '09.

At the request of the Athletic Association a date was selected for the function, so that no basket-ball game might be arranged for that night. Friday, Feb. 23, was the date chosen.

Geology Class Takes a Trip.

Dr. Groff took the Geology class on an expedition to "Penns Cave" on Friday. The cave is about forty-five miles from Lewisburg, and is said to be the largest in Pennsylvania. It is a quarter of a mile in length, and is filled with ten feet of spring water, and is the source of Penn's creek. It required the whole day to make the trip, but the class returned with a good supply of material to work on.

BUCKNELL AT NORTHFIELD

Large Delegation Sent to Annual Y. M. C. A. Conference.

At the annual student conference held at Northfield, Mass., June 30-July 9, Bucknell was represented by a large delegation this year. The following men were in attendance: C. H. Scheick, H. V. Lesher, Havard Griffith, P. M. Irey, R. W. Shrum, Ralph Thomas, W. F. Elsesser, A. E. Barton, W. B. Hilton, G. E. Perez, E. W. Saylor. This is the largest delegation Bucknell has ever had at the conference, and the men all report an exceedingly pleasant and helpful experience.

Laying aside any reference to all that might be said as to the healthful, religious atmosphere which prevails at such a gathering, let it be said that one can scarcely realize how much it contributes to the standing of an institution among its sister institutions of the country to be well represented there. The gathering is unique, being the only place where seven hundred students representing a hundred and twenty-five schools and colleges meet on common ground. It is an international, intercollegiate, interdenominational gathering where college songs and cheers and college life in general finds fullest expression. Nor is the athletic spirit left at home. In the field-day exercises, held on the afternoon of July 4th, Bucknell had several entries, and won eleven points, although competing with some of the Big-four's best material. Irey took second place in the high jump, and in the half mile; Lesher second place in the low hurdle and third place in the hammer throw.

Williamsport Bucknell Club.

On Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock the students of the College from Williamsport and vicinity met in Room V to discuss the organization of a Williamsport Bucknell Club. It was a matter of surprise to some of the Williamsporters themselves to discover that their home city is so largely represented at Bucknell.

No definite organization was effected, Mr. Shoemaker being elected temporary chairman and he appointing a committee of five to formulate a Constitution and By-laws under which the club can be regularly organized at its next meeting, which it was decided should be held Friday, Nov. 3, at 4 o'clock in Room V.

It is believed that this movement will be porductive of much good, particularly in strengthening Bucknell's interest in Williamsport and vicinity.

Chaplain Jones to Lecture.

Arrangements are being made to have Chaplain Jones, U. S. N., at present stationed at Norfolk Va., lecture in Bucknell Hall, for the benefit of the Athletic Association. Doubtless the Chaplain will be greeted with a large house.

During the recent visit of the football team to Nofrolk, Chaplain Jones helped to make the stay of the boys pleasant, and he was besides one of Bucknell's most ardent rooters at the game with Virginia.

CROSS COUNTRY RUNNING.

A stranger coming to Bucknell and noticing our activities would be very apt to ask about our cross-country squad, and would be surprised to find that we have none. He would be more surprised if he were acquainted with other colleges.

The cross-country run is a branch of athletics which almost any college of pretension upholds. There is no reason why Bucknell should not be represented in that line. There are enough men here to make it a "go." Expert runners are not needed, all that is necessary is a pair of legs. As for country, everyone knows that we have country enough around here and good land for cross-country work too, hills, flats, cornfields and fences. Expense need hinder no one; there is practically no expense. All the equipment needed is a jersey, a pair of running pants and light shoes,—"sneakers" are good. Little time is required. A three-mile run takes but a half hour and if we allow another half hour for dressing and bath, we have but an hour in all. If a man can't spare an hour a day for exercise, he'll soon be sparing all his time and paying a doctor besides. He'll gain back his hour in good spirits and good health.

Yes, good health. A man who takes a run across country every afternoon need fear no headaches, no tired feelings. A man gets nearer what God intended him to be when he gets out and stretches his legs and feels good elastic ground beneath his feet. It was not altogether myth that said that Atlas renewed his strength tenfold every time that he touched the earth. Track running is a good thing in its way, but the monotony of it. Running round and round on a track like a tin toy locomotive, what is that compared with bounding along over ditches, through fields and taking a fence in one leap.

But we hear some one say that it is getting rather late for that now, rather cold to be trotting around with bare legs. Our dear friend, how we sympathize with you; you had better lay in a stock of jamaica ginger and triple-lined socks. The weather isn't cold, you are. If you will once get out and run, you will see the point. After you have started, you don't stop to think about the weather, you're warm enough. One of the colleges ran its cross-country last fall in two inches of snow.

You, you little Freshman, quit writing so many letters, come out from under the bed and get some togs on and run. You, you Sophomore of the spreading corduroy, shut off on your hazing for a night or two and get out and run. You, you Junior, get that derby off, stop looking so wise and get out and run. And you, you honorable Seniors, put your dignity in your pocket and get out and lead the running.

We have the material here for a good cross-country team, and we have a mighty good country to practice in. Let us "cut out the dope" for a month squeeze into a jersey and get out and run.

LOOKING WISE.

The widespread notion that the sheep skin is the culmination of a college man's efforts has given rise to a new art—that of "looking wise" in the class-room. Though this practice results in no direct benefit to a man, it has become so popular that today the student who goes into class having peprared his work depends almost wholly upon his ability in this direction to gain for him a passing mark on the day's recitation.

Many a professor has been a prey to the man who is artful in this art, and many a student has been the lose on account of his artfulness. The student who succeeds to pass through a recitation simply on the strength of his ability to "look wise" gains confidence in himself, and this is the cause of more than one unprepared lesson. Very few instructors are unable to tell when a man knows what he is talking about, and when he is trying to talk on a subject about which he knows nothing, for every instructor is a student of human nature to a great extent.

It is only the man that is satisfied with himself, who will resort to this way of going through college,—because one who begins the practice invariably keeps in the much-trodden path. Every student should be in college to get something out of every subject he undertakes, and to do this requires work this day and every day until the end of the college year.

"Looking wise" is only a little side track along the road "work," and it eventually leads one altogether from the better way. This is a time when knowledge counts and not an age when one can make people believe that he is wise. To realize this fact means harder work, but it is the keynote to success. No man is holding a high position today for a very long time if he does not deserve it. Some have attained to high offices through inheritance, but they soon see their social position cannot give them a great place in the woird. We have but to follow the progress of the probe into the New York Insurance Companies for an example of this very thing.

So, those who make a practice of "looking wise" will wake up some day to see that in all their craftiness, they have been the losers. They will accuse themselves, but it will be too late. They will censure themselves for being near-sighted, for they will then be able to see where they deliberately robbed themselves of the opportunity to get the best out of the college course, but again, they will be too late. Now is the time for them to begin to work for what they get, and not when they have become handicapped by a habit which they are not able to overcome.

Juniors Take Notice!

The editor of 1907 L'Agenda requests the members of the Junior class to have their photographs taken as soon as convenient. If possible, all pictures should be in before the Christmas vacation.

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1905 No. 7

MEDICO-CHI DEFEATED

The First Half of Game Interesting. Score: 18 to 5.

Wednesday was not an ideal day for football, but notwithstanding the fact the Bucknell-Medico-chi game drew a good audience from the college. Spirit ran high and "Bucknell-ell-ell" was never used to better advantage.

The first half of the game was one of the prettiest exhibitions of football seen here this season, and the back-field showed decided improvement in their playing. Bucknell chose the goal with the wind in their favor and kicked off to the 10 yd. line. The ball was advanced 15 yards before Ruddy could be stopped. Medico-chi could make no games and punted, O'Brien recovering the ball on the 15 yard line. With gains made by Baldwin, Frank, Lenhart and Olendorf, Baldwin crossed the line for the first touchdown, in two minutes and thirty-eight seconds time Lenhart kicked goal. Lenhart kicked to the 2 yard line and it was advanced 18 yards, Cooper making a spectacular tackle. Medico-chi could make no gains and punted 30 yards, out of bounds. Short gains were made by Bucknell, but by fumbling the ball was lost on downs. Medico-chi fumbled and Shade pounced on ball. End runs by Binns, line plunges by Baldwin and Tolbert, advanced the ball to the 20 yard line. Frank kicked and Tolbert recovered ball, being sent over for the second touchdown a minute later. Lenhart kicked goal. Medico-chi kicked-off to Olendorf, and by good interference he was advanced 25 yards. Frank kicked. Medico-chi received and being held, punted to Olendorf on the 23 yard line. Olendorf made first down, and Lenhart was sent over for touchdown. Lenhart kicked goal. Medico-chi kicked to Frank on 15 yard line. Advanced 15 yards. Binns made large gain on end run. At this juncture Frymire was substituted for Tolbert. Small gains were made, and when time was called the ball was on Bucknell's 35 yard line. Score: 18-0.

The second half was void of interest on account of costly fumbling and scrapping. Four times the officials were forced to interfere on this account. Pearsol was substituted for Lenhart. By good end running and line plunges, Bucknell advanced the ball within striking distance of Medico-chi's goal three times, but by costly fumbling failed to cross it once. In the latter part of the half Medico-chi held Bucknell stubbornly in her own territory. Frank punted and Long returned the ball to Bucknell's 6 yard line, where Frank made a flying tackle and downed him. Bucknell held like a stone wall for the first two downs, but on the third down, Reddy carried the ball over by a terrific line plunge. They failed to kick goal. This half ended the game by the score of 18 to 5. The line up:

Permanent Underclass Rules.

In view of the fact that for many years back a great deal of confusion and uncertainty has resulted from attempts of upperclassmen to formulate rules for the governing and guidance of too conspicuous freshmen, a joint meeting of the Senior and Junior classes met in the Laboratory Tuesday last and drew up a set of permanent rules for under-classmen. A great deal of discussion resulted from an attmpt to lay down a rule for the guidance of "Freshie" in his society attempts but nothing definite could be done and it was decided to put the matter before each class separately. The result will be announced sometime soon.

Below will be found a copy of the nine rules adopted.

RULES FOR UNDERCLASSMEN.

1. Freshmen must wear blue skull caps with green button for the entire college year except on Sundays.
2. All underclass proclamations must be up by Oct. 15.
3. (Referred to a committee.)
4. Freshmen must not be seen in Milton or Sunbury after 7.00 p. m. at any time during the whole year unless accompanied by an upperclassman.
5. Freshmen must at all times salute members of the Faculty and Seniors and must also show proper respect for all upperclassmen.
6. Freshmen must not wear numerals, monograms or class colors during the entire year. Furthermore, they must not wear jerseys or sweaters until after Thanksgiving, 'Varsity men excepted.
7. Freshmen must not loaf on the main steps of any college building or around any class memorials.
8. Freshmen must not smoke in the halls or on the campus at any time and pipes are prohibited at all times.
9. No underclassman shall at any time loaf on main college steps or on 1904 memorial.
10. These rules, instituted by the classes of 1906 and 1907 shall remain permanent rules for underclassmen at Bucknell University and any additions thereunto shall be considered amendments.

All these rules with the exception of Nos. 1 and 2 go into effect at once The two upperclasses are determined to see the matter through and it would be quite a good stunt for certain individuals to "hop on."

Halloween Party at Academy.

Prof. and Mrs. B. F. Thomas entertained the students of the Academy with a well appointed Halloween patry on Tuesday evennig. The boys were ushered into a darkened room where Jack o Lantern's gleamed from every nook, and the voice of a mysterious but delightful witch soon gave the boys assurances of a happy and double life, or doomed them to single woe, and all sorts of misfortune. The customary apple-bobbing and Halloween games filled the evening with enjoyment, and at ten o'clock, when a delightful lunch was serveld, the "preps" found that their joy was full.

SOPHOMORES VICTORIOUS

1908 Able to Score But Once Against Plucky Freshmen.

The Sophomores defeated the Freshmen in the best played game of the season. Saturday was cold and damp, but it did not interfere with the size of the crowd or the enthusiasm of the classes. As usual the Freshmen girls were the leading feature, and attracted much attention with their gaudy maroon and white ribbon and pennants, and their lusty cheers.

The Sophomores had some good songs written to Tammany and other popular tunes. The effort was lost as the tin horns of the girls drowned them out.

The team came on the field about 2.15 and were greeted by cheers from their respective classes. It was soon seen that the Sophs had the heavier team, but the Freshies seemed to have more speed. Although the Freshmen were greatly out weighed they put up a plucky game, and through their ability to hold at critical times, and some costly fumbles by the '08 team, held the Sophs to a single score.

The Sophomores used their big line men to great advantage in advancing the ball. Hawk varied the play by some sensational quarter back runs. (2) Nipple at right half made good gains, but the burden of advancing the ball fell upon Sayer, Royer, and Groff.

For the Freshmen, Baldwin seemed to be the only man who could gain at all. The Freshmen made a great mistake in not varying their play more, they had a good and fast back field but they were never used. The quarter was tried around the ends, but the halves and ends seemed to have been forgotten. The game was characterized by clean play.

The Freshmen kicked off to the Sophomores who defended the south goal. Frick kicked to the fifteen yard line and Sayer ran the ball back five. Sayer was sent into the line but gained only a yard. Gardner then went through the right side for three. Kershner made five yards through right tackle, Hawk made the first of his end runs by slirting left for eight yards. Sayer, Royer and Gardner then made short gains. Hawk took the ball around right end for Royer, Sayer and Kishner by steady twelve, Hayes lost on an end play. Royer, Sayer and Kershner by steady pulnges took the ball up to the twenty-five yard line. Hawk made four around right end. Royer went through left guard for eight, Nipple around left end gained seven. Groff was given the ball and tore through left tackle for seven yards and a touchdown, the only score of the game Hawk kicked out to Nipple, who heeled on the fifteen yard line. Harris kicked the goal.

Harris kicked off to the forty-five yard line. Darlington secured the ball and ran back ten. Fetler made one yard through left tackle, Baldwin failed to gain at the same place, Baldwin tried right guard, no gain. Sophomore's ball. Hawk one yard around right end, Royer, Hawk, Groff and Nipple carried the ball by steady gains to the five yard line. Ball is fumbled but regained by Hawk. Harris tried a field goal from the ten yard line but Haines blocked the ball. Hawk falls on the ball on the thirty yard line. First half ends.

Second half Sophomores kicked off. Harris kicks to Mathias on twenty yard line, runs back ten. Mathias makes two around left end, Sophs penalized for off side play, Baldwin makes eight through right tackle, and Russel loses one. Sophomores are penalized five for off side play, and Mathias failed to gain. Baldwin gained two and Fetler loses, Baldwin fumbles and Thompson secures the ball. Freshmen hold Sophs for downs for the first time, Baldwin and Mathias make small gains when ball was lost in mid field.

Sophomores carried the ball to the twenty-five yard line by using the line men, here they were held for downs. Haggerty makes a small gain and Mathias loses. Time called, Freshmen having ball on the twenty-five yard line.

Chemical and Paysical society.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Chemical and Physical Society of Bucknell University was held Thursday afternoon at four o'clock. The [illegible] was well attended and the audience listened to an interesting and instructive address by Professor Owens. The Professor chose for his address the subject of "Diamonds." After tracing the early history of diamonds in general the instructor described the Kimberly Mines and the process of mining followed there.

The Kimberly mines cover an area of 22 acres and has a maximum depth of about 3000 feet. In this mine is a natural pipe or well, believed to have been formed by the pressure of gas which was produced by the decomposition of water. This mine is filled with blue clay in which the diamonds are found.

This blue clay is raised to the surface and spread over a large area. Then it is plowed and harrowed, after being moistened to disintegrate it. After this the diamonds are separated by passing the washed debris over a greased surface to which the diamonds adhere.

Y. M. C. A. Course.

On next Wednesday evening, Nov. 8, the lecture course being given this year by the Y. M. C. A. will be opened by an entertainment in the Luth- consist of the ever-popular Katherine Ridgeway Concert Co. Miss Ridgeway's company will be remembered by many, since this makes the third consecutive year that she appeared here. Her continued popularity is as strong an argument as could be advanced in her favor.

DRAMATIC CLUB ENTERTAINS

Girls Spend a Yery Exciting Halloween.

There were big "doins" in the Sem Tuesday night. The Dramatic club girls under the directoin of Miss Schillinger gave a Halloween party to the Semites and Faculty.

This affair was the christening of the new gymnasium and a royal christening it was.

Each one wore her fanciest togs and happiest smile, even the dignified Sem teachers appeared arrayed as giddy young sixteen olds. The characters represented were certainly various. There were Japanese maidens, Indian squaws, Holland peasants, Grecian goddesses, Colonial dames, witches, clowns, ghosts and many others.

After the guests had all assembled and had said "Hello" to one another, a short program was rendered, Misses Burgess, Hare and Stage gave recitations about Hobble Gobbles, and such spooky subjects, then the witch scene from Macbeth was given by Misses Finley, Samne and Burgess. Between the various selections an orchestra of combs played all the latest Coon songs and Rag Time.

Various amusements went on during the evening.

The smaller children amused themselves by blowing soap bubbles and diving for apples. The more intellectual endeavored to win prizes by finding their names from symbolic pictures and solving puzzles. The sentimental read their fortunes on the Fortune Tree and received letters continuing proposals of marriage. The amusements were so numerous that the guests were never at a loss for something to do.

After a grand march every one left saying they had enjoyed a most delightful evening.

Much credit is due Miss Schillinger for her energy and ingenuity which made the affair a complete success.

Dramatic Club Working.

The Dramatic Club has been working on their play, "The Modern Ananias." This is a farce comedy in three acts, and they have the first two acts well in hand. The play is to be given in the Opera House on Tuesday, Nov. 28, and by that time every member of the cast will have mastered his part perfectly. The following compose the cast: Bedford, Smithgall, Shrum, Godshall, Zugschwert, Powell, Grimminger, and Hennessy, Hennessy, '06, is manager and Gardner, '06, assistant. The play is being staged by Miss Schillinger.

"The Modern Ananias" is to be given for the benefit of the Athletics, and everyone should be willing to lend their support by buying tickets; these will be placed on sale two weeks beforehand.

L'Agenda Dedicated.

The Junior class has respectfully dedicated their L'Agenda to Rev. Dr. Henry G. Weston, President of Crozer Theological Seminary, and for a long time a trustee of Bucknell.

Edwin Paul, '87, an attorney at Milton had his leg badly broken by being thrown from a vehicle while out driving with ex-Senator Hackenberg one evening last week.

Editorial

The football season is fastly drawing to a close, and it is from now until the end of the season that the best games of the year will be played. Bucknell has passed through the first part of a hard schedule with varying success. There remains four games to be played, and we hope to win the majority of them.

The game at Annapolis on Novembe 12, will be a hard-fought contest. Though we have beaten Annopolis three consecutive times, we will find her a hard proposition this year. Debarring injuries sustained in practice, we can say that our team will go into the game in the prime of condition. The Villa Nova game should result in a victory for Bucknell, for in former years they have not proven themselves a match for our team. This season they have a much stronger eleven, and yet there should be no fear as to the outcome of the contest, judging from the fact that State was able to run up 29 points against them.

Bucknell should find Georgetown comparatively easy, since their team has not been playing very consistent football this season. Of these three games we feel sure that the result will be as many victories, but for the game with Lafayette there is no such certainty. The Eastonians have been playing very clever football this season, and the very fact that they scored on the Tigers puts us in doubt as to the real outcome of our game with them.

This game is a month off, and many things can happen between now and then. Though we have but one real hard game, we cannot say that any of the others will be easy. That the Lafayette game is the hardest of the four is unquestionable. For Bucknell to come out with four victories would certainly be a brilliant climax for the season of 1905.

During the past week there has been a great deal of discussion in regard for the relation of the Sophomores and Freshmen to the upperclassmen. The attitude of indifference displayed by some of the members of the lower classes has necessitated the action of the Seniors and Juniors in regard to the matter; thus, we have a new set of rules that affect both under-classes to a degree.

These rules have been formulated so that they might become permanent, and thus each incoming class will be subjected to the same restrictions.

High class spirit seems to be essential to good college spirit, and the man that can lay aside all class distinctions when the college is concerned, is surely the best college man. But in the ordinary routine of college life class distinction is extremely necessary, or we might have under-classmen taking too active a part in the affairs of the university. That they will become upper-classmen some day should prove sufficient consolation for them.

Traditions play an important part in college life, and we are not blessed with too many of them. In view of this fact, it has been decided that we have a few new customs, and the duty of accomplishing the task naturally falls to the Seniors and Juniors. The under-classmen can contribute their just share by paying due respect to the rules laid down. Recently, at Syracuse the class of 1909 held their banquet before the time set by custom; as a result their president was forced to publicly apologize for the action of his class. This is a good example of the combination of class and college spirit.

No one need question the validity and authority of the new rules, for they were formulated and adopted by the Seniors and Juniors in a joint meeting. That they will be enforced cannot be doubted, since the co-operation of the two upper-classes should be sufficient to insure that part of it. The only thing to be hoped for is that there will be true college spirit shown in the matter, and that those affected will look upon them as a step toward the adoption of a new and much-needed custom.

CLASS SPIRIT.

The courtesy with which the two underclasses treated each other on Saturday is certainly worthey of mention. The plenipotentiaries of the two classes passed back and forth, and after considerable discussion came to the natural conclusion that the day be marked by profound peace in undeclasrs circles. This was not surprising.

The Freshmen should get an entirely new conception of class spirit; for never before has a defeated class deigned to cheer for her rivals. We use the word rival with caution, however, since Saturday's affair makes us doubtful in the matter.

The Sophomores should have shown their appreciation of a well-earned victory by doing something that would have been in keeping with the occasion. We are not an advocate of open riot, but we look with a cynical smile upon what we term "cold feet." But,—we understand that the sentiment was worked up among the lower classes, that they do not make themselves a source of amusement to the upper-classmen. They didn't.

Well, the much-dreaded class game is over, and neither side suffered harm—and they are breathing more easily. Let us hope that never again may an opportunity present itself for the classes to clash, for it isn't right. But how will they manage the class banquet? Easily,—why they will just decide to have everything done in a peaceful manner. May the Freshmen ever be so considerate toward the Sophomores that there be no fear of their being harmed, and may their class be praised for having so graciously given 1908, their rivals, a yell; may the Sophomores ever after do things more commendable than to follow the lead of the Freshmen.

College Locals

Mathewson, ex-'09, is in Michigan on a hunting trip.

Gert Lenhart spent Sunday with frends in Shamokin.

Kase, '09, attended a dance in Danville on Monday night.

A great many of the fellows have gone home "over" election.

Curt Wagner, ex-'08, and Barton Smith, of State College, spent Sunday with friends.

DeWald, ex-'06, who is now taking medicine at Penn stopped off Saturday to see the boys.

Banzhaf, ex-'07, is in the St. Joseph Hospital of Philadelphia, suffering with typhoid fever.

Laughorn who once attended the Academy, and his sister, accompanied Burows to Picture Rocks on Saturday.

Perrier has acted very wisely in taking legal action against the party who assaulted him on the football field.

A number of fellows attended a Halloween Dance given by the young people of Muncy in the Mozley Opera House on Tuesday night.

Prof. Owens has undoubtedly heard of "lowing" cows but he never had such a time "lowering" a cow as he had getting his down the chapel steps last Wednesday morning.

Where oh where is Bucknell's "big game" of football this year? Too bad. Whose fault is it? Is it possible that we have to make the State-Dickinsonn game our "big game."

The manifestation of college spirit at Bucknell this fall is surely a commendable feature. Keep it up, and when the call comfes—"Every Body Out"—"Wake up" and report for service.

The Freshmen of State College won the annual cider scrap from the Sophomores. They outnumbered the 1908 men by seventy, yet they were forced to use stratagy to come out victorious. A fake barrel of cider was rushed on one end of the campus, and the Freshmen drank all the cider they wanted from the real barrel as it was brought on at a distant point.

Alumni Notes.

Rev. J. E. Perry, '78, has moved to Standish, Mass.

Miss Annie E. Noaker, '02, is principal of the High School at Spring Valley, Ill.

John H. Stahl, '04, is employed at the National City Bank, Wall Street, New York City.

A. O. Vorse, '05, has gone to Reading, where he will represent a New Jersey Cereal firm.

Walter Bertolette, '03, of Mauch Chunk, spent Wednesday and Thursday with friends in town.

C. E. Hankey, '01, has recently been made superintendent of the public schools of Kittanning, Pa.

George Shorkley, '92, has gone to Hawthorne, Fla., where he will spend the winter months.

Academy

C. Edgar Dreher was home over Sunday.

Klerx and Neff attended a Halloween party at Sunbury, Tuesday evening.

Palmer Way is suffering from a sprained knee, received while playing football.

Mr. P. A. Clarko, of Scranton, the father of Mrs. B. F. Thomas, spent Sunday at the Academy.

Miss Margurite Hilliard, former Matron of the Keystone Academy, Factoryville, Pa., has accepted a similar position at the Academy, and entered upon her new duties.

The football team was defeated by Shamokin High School team on Saturday by a score of 18-0. The lack of opposition in practice showed plainly in the playing of the boys. Nevertheless they played a better game than the one at Dickinson. Watkin's playing was a feature of the game.

CANADA LIFE STANDS TEST

Commissioner Barry Endorses it Without Reservation.

He stated that the Company is most conservative and careful in regard to its investments and that there has been no attempt in any way to inflate the assets. The Company's business is further referred to as being on a stronger reserve basis than that of any other Company in America. He also stated, "with no hesitation that the Canada Life Assurance Company had no improper or unprofitable financial relations or alliances with any other institution." Mention is also made of the policy holders defined rights in the Company's profits and their share in its management.

The press of other states has been advocating Mr. Barry's appointment as national representative of Insurance.

Further information concerning the Company can be had by addressing R. M. Darlington, Mgr., 1 Hart Building, Williamsport, Pa.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1905 No. 8

NAVY DEFEATS BUCKNELL

Middies Run Up 34 Points in a Punting Contest.

At Annapolis on Saturday, Bucknell was defeated by the Navy, 34-0. The Oarnge and Blue fought as they have never fought this year, and their defeat was no disgrace, it being due to the perfect condition of the Navy's men. In the first eighteen minutes of play neither goal was in imminent danger, the ball being kept in the middle of the field. It was a punting duel, in which Lenhart showed exceptionally well, outpunting his opponent.

Navy received the kick-off on the 1 yard line, but was advanced 15 yards before downed. The next play was a fake, advancing the ball ten more yadrs. The Navy punted to Frank on the 40 yard line. Bucknell could not gain and Lenhart punted to 35 yard line, the ball being advanced 5 yards. Navy punted to 30 yard line, out of bounds. Gains of from 2 to 5 yards each were made by Olendorf, Binns and Baldwin. Lenhart punted to 20 yard line, where the Navy were unsuccessful in gaining. Navy punted to 40 yard line, and the Orange and Blue failed to gain. Lenhart punted to the Navy's 10 yard line. They retaliated by punting to Bucknell's 40 yard line. No gains were made and Lenhart punted to the 20 yard line. Here the Navy made first down on a quarter-back run, and then punted to Frank on the 25 yard line. Binns, Lenhart and Tolbert made gains. Lenhart punted to the 30 yard line. Spencer was here given the ball, and he made a dash on a fake punt of 70 yards for a touchdown. Navy failed to kick goal.

Navy kicked off to Olendort on 10 yard line, and was advanced 15 yards. Bucknell fumbled and Navy got ball on 30 yard line. A drop-kick for goal was tried but failed. Bucknell kicked out from 25 yard line to middle of the field. By short end runs and line plunges, Navy made her second touchdown through the center. Navy kicked goal.

Bucknell kicked to Navy on 12 yard line. They were forced to kick, Olendorf receiving ball on 15 yard line. Lenhart tride place-kick, but was Lenhart tried place-kick, but was fine. Navy was againg forced to punt, and time was called with Bucknell in possession of the ball on the 7 yard line. Score: Navy 11 Bucknell 0.

Second Half—McNinch received the kick-off on the 5 yard line. By superior dodging and fast running he left both teams behind him except the Navy quarter-back, who succeeded in downing him after advancing the ball 45 yards. Lenhart kicked to 20 yard line. The Navy then scored another touchdown by short end runs and line-plunges.

Navy kicked-off to Tolbert. Being held, Lenhart punted 40 yards. The Navy's speedy half-back was then sent around the end for a touchdown. Failed to kick goal.

Bucknell kicked to Navy. They woe semt back for loss and forced to punt. Lenhart punted; the Navy fumbled, and Shade recovered ball on 12 yard line. Baldwin made 3 yards. Frank kicked and McNinch advanced 5 yards. Baldwin and Lenhart made two yards each, but were held for downs on the 1 yard line. The Navy punted, and Bucknell failing to gain punted back to 20 yard line. The Navy punted and Bucknell fumbled. The sailors then carried the ball down the field for another touchdown. Navy kicked goal.

The last touchdown was made in the same manner, Bucknell failing to stop the fierce line plunges. The final score: Navy 34—Bucknell 0.

Ministerial Association Meets.

The Ministerial Association of the college held its regular monthly meeting in Theta Alpha hall on Thursday evening of last week.

In previous years this association has met only once or twice during the year. This year meetings will be held once a month, and at each meeting some member of the faculty will give a talk on a selected subject relating to the present or future of the ministerial student. At the meeting on Thursday evening President Harris gave a very helpful talk on "Manners and mannerisms in the pulpit."

The Modern Ananias.

The Dramatic Club is working hard on their play "The Modern Ananias," and they have it well in hand. Universal interest is shown in the progress of the work. On Thursday night they will hold a rehearsal of the first two acts. The prices of admission will be 25, 35, 50 and 75 cents.

Physical and Chemical Society.

The next meeting of the Physical and Chemical Society will be addressed by Dr. Gundy, who will present a paper on "Poisons." The meeting will be at 4 p. m., Thursday, November 16th, in the lecture room, chemical laboratory. All interested in science are cordially invited to attend.

Villa Nova Game.

Arrangements are on foot to take the Villa Nova game to Harrisburg as it is thought that it will be a more convenient and desirable place. There are other games in Philadelphia on that date which may detract the attendance.

Reserves Hard Schedule.

The Reserves will finish the season with three hard games; Lock Haven Normal School, Nov. 18; Wyoming Seminary, Nov. 25; Mansfield Normal School, Nov. 20.

Have the Orange and Blue sent to your address for this year.

JUNIORS DEMAND APOLOGY

1907 Claims Indignity at Hands of Sophomores.

The Junior class met in Bucknell Hall on Thursday afternoon, and decided that the class of 1908 by an unwise act on Wednesday night had committed an unpardonable offense; and that they demand a public apology from the Sophomore class for the indignity.

The facts of the case are that on Wednesday night while the Freshmen were out protecting the numerals and trying to provent the "Sophs" from making some of their number use their strength at sand-papering the paint that had been spread about the town, a Junior became mixed up with some Sophomores. It is said that a band of upper-classemen followed the Freshmen in the hope of seeing some excitement. Reese, '07, during the course of the night was wandering about the cemetery, when by chance he ran into a "bunch" of Sophomores. The 1908 men either mistaking him for a Freshman, or suspecting that he was doing scout duty for 1909 surrounded him and were about to take him along. There were more Juniors in the grave-yard, however, and Reese seeing that he was in difficulty began to call for their assistance. The "Sophs" were few in number, and were trying to be as quiet as possible in order to evade the band of Freshmen, and in the excitement Reese was handled somewhat roughly.

This is the cause of the action taken by the Juniors, and the insult for which they demand reparation.

Returned Missionary to Give Address

Mr. Robert R. Galley, the well known Princeton football player, who has been supported by Princeton University in his work among the educated classes of Tientsin, has returned for a furlough and will visit Bucknell on Dec. 13, when he will address a meeting in Bucknell Hall. Further announcement will be given later. It will be of interest to state here that Mr. Galley is associated in his work with Charles W. Harvey, Bucknell, '99, whom we are helping to support.

Freshman Class Meeting.

The class of 1909 held a meeting on Wednesday for the purpose of condemning the party or parties that took it upon themselves to spread their numerals about the town. Just who was responsible for the act they were unable to discover, but they passed a resolution by which they condemned the person or persons as being guilty of an offense to the Freshman class, inasmuch as they acted without the authority or co-operation of 1909.

Matriculation.

The day for matriculation has been set for November 27, this year. Matriculation gives member ship in the college and is a condition precedent to all degrees and honors as well as to honorable dismission. No student is admitted to matriculation until he has shown by his class work during at least ten weeks and by his deportment that he is worthy of membership in the college.

The National Lumber Manufacturing Association is raising a fund to endow a chair of lumbering in the Yale Forestry School.

Different View of Class Spirit.

Since the publication of the editorial last week concerning the absence of class spirit at the Freshman-Sophomore football game there has arisen considerable discussion as to what constitutes class spirit. There are a number—the minority, fortunately—who, like the author of the editorial in question, apparently consider class spirit synonymous with fisti-cuffs. But is this the correct conception of class spirit?

If so, ought not we as educated men rather rejoice at the decline of this so-called class spirit? Or is there enough of the savage in us yet to demand as dessert for a football game a slugging match? This we can scarcely believe. Fist fighting and scuffling are to be looked for in boxing pavilions and iron mills and not in institutions of learning. Here one looks rather for culture. Let those of us who are men outgrow this childish notion that class spirit consists of tearing the shirts off each other's backs.

But of what then does the proper class spirit consist? The natural spirit of a class partakes of the spirit of individuals composing it. If the spirit of the individuals is magnanimous and peaceful, then the spirit of the class is magnanimous and peaceful.

Such evidently is the spirit in the Freshmen and Sophomore classes that has called forth the unfavorable comment above mentioned. The gentlemanly spirit of the underclass is evidently due to the fact that the Freshmen and Sophomores are, on the whole, gentlemen. This is the better class spirit and one to be commended; not rebuked. Let us never lose sight of the fact that as class spirit becomes more civil, courteous, and cultured it but denotes a like change in us individually.

A JUNIOR.

Duffy, a Confessed Professional.

Arthur Duffy, of Georgetown, the holder of the record of 9 3-5 seconds for the hundred yards, has publicly confessed himself to be a professional. This announcement was not surprising to those who have followed track athletics closely but to the general public it came as a shock.

It seems like a sad blow to the Amateur Athletic Union that a man who has so often declared himself anything else than professional, and who has established several amateur records both in England and in our own country should have his name erased from all records of the Amateur Athletic Union. Georgetown will share in a great deal of just and severe criticism for having allowed Duffy to represent her on the track in the inter-collegiate events.

Glee Club Postpones Concert.

The Glee Club has postponed its concert to Nov. 22, in order that the program can be more definitely arranged. In the mean time earnest practice will be held that the entertainment may excel any given here for some time.

A Correction.

Instead of the 1907 L'Agenda having been dedicated as was published last week, the editors make the correction and state that it will be dedicated to Rev. Dr. Henry G. Weston, President of Crozer Theological Seminary.

Y. M. C. A. COURSE OPENS

The Katharine Ridgeway Company Greeted by a Large Audience.

The opening number of the Y. M. C. A. course for the year 1905-6 was given on Wednesday evening, November 8. Owing to inability to secure the Lewisburg Opera House as usual, the entertainment was given in the lecture room of the Lutheran church. The lecture room was filled by a representative crowd of college and towns people, and the continued applause which greeted each number gave evidence of approval.

For the third consecutive year the Katharine Ridgeway opened the winter's course. As usual, the strongest member of the company was Miss Ridgeway herself, and no other proof of her popularity and of her hold on Lewisburg audience is necessary than the continued applause which greeted every appearance of this popular entertainer.

The other members of the company, although new to Bucknell audiences were well received and worthy of praise; especially the singing of T. Francis Hughes, who was greeted with rounds of applause second only to that accorded to Miss Ridgeway.

Taking this opening number as a standard, the present course of entertainments promises to be the most successful ever given at Bucknell, both as to character and finances.

W. H. S. Club Permanently Organized.

The Williamsport-Bucknell Club met on the afternoon of Friday, Nov. 3rd, for permanent organization. The committee which had been appointed at the previous meeting to draw up a constitution and by-laws made its report which, with some slight alterations was adopted as read.

Acting under the constitution, then, a permanent organization was effected by the election of Miss Emma McCart, '06, President; Miss Harman, Vice President; Mr. Clyde Hostetter, '08, Secretary and Mr. Earl Geyer, '09, Treasurer. The President then appointed Mr. Shoemaker, '07, Hostetter, '08, and Miss Curtin, '09, members of the Business Staff and Miss Anna Galbraith, '07, Miss Gertrude Meyers, '07, Miss Sara Walters, '09, Berton, '08, Ritter, '09, members of the Standing Committee on Entertainment.

From the fact that numerous requests have been made for particulars as to the scope of the qualifications required for membership in the Club it was decided to have published that article of the Constitution relating to membership, which reads as follows:

"The members of this Club shall be those students in the University who are residents of Williamsport, Pa., or who are graduates of or have attended school at the Williamsport High School, or who live, at the time of their reception into the Club, within a radius of not more than five miles from Williamsport; provided, that such persons make application for membership."

It is requested, therefore, that anyone who is eligible to membership in the Club and who desires to be admitted present his or her name to Mr. Hostetter, the Secretary.

Cornell has an enrollment of 3500 students this year, 1000 of whom are Freshmen.

THE JUNIOR-SOPHOMORE QUESTION.

The complication between the Junior and Sophomore classes is a new topic at Bucknell. For authority on the question we cannot refer to history, so we are forced to discuss the matter in view of the facts as they are presented in another column.

Facts are a sure basis of discussion, however, but on any subject there are always so many views expressed that it is really difficult to get at the issue of such a question. We feel free to express an unprejudiced opinion on the subject.

The Sophomores were wise in avoiding the band of Freshmen, since they were not out in a body, and besides they had enough 1909 men in charge to accomplish their purpose. When the Junior was seized on suspicion that he might be scouting for the Freshmen, they were taking a precaution; but they exceeded their authority the minute they began to use force on the man. Any upper-classman, we hope, can be trusted to keep his word; the Sophomores should have used such discretion in their treatment of this upper-classman, and should not have done more than exacted from him a promise that he would not divulge to anyone the secret of their whereabouts. This much would have served them as well, and better perhaps, than anything they could have done.

We believe that the Sophomores acted on the "spur of the moment," and that had they stopped to think they would not have been guilty of the indignity of which they are justly accused. The Juniors are right in demanding from 1908 an apology as a reparation for what they justly deem a grave offense. We hope that the Sophomores appreciate the seriousness of the situation, and will lose no time in making the required apology.

WORKING FOR MARKS.

Everyone has become fairly settled in his work by this time, and, doubtless, is beginning to look forward to the end of the term when he shall receive his marks. It is true that men in college work for marks, and it is equally sad. The marking system seems to be so deeply imbedded in a person's mind when he is young, so that when he comes to a maturer age he fails to see the uselessness of it all.

It is a lamentable fact that colleges are forced to resort to a system of marking, but it seems that the plan is inherent, and the possibility of eradicating it is mighty slim. In view of this fact it behooves the student to meet the circumstance, and thereby do what is best both for himself and for the college.

For himself, since any conscientious man is here to derive the most good out of the best course he can take. For the college, since by working consistently he raises the standard of his work and ultimately the criterion of his Alma Mater. Everyone comes to college with an academic training, good or bad as the case may be; and very many come with the idea of "working for marks" firmly fixed in their minds. This is an entirely erroneous idea, and the sooner the student can be brought to realize it, the better it will be for him.

There are plenty of college men who work to get the most they can out of their subjects, and at the same time strive for high marks. These men have proper motives back of their efforts, and they are indeed the exception to the general rule. It is not this class of men that need to be cautioned in regard to this matter for they realize too fully the meaning of an education. It is rather, the man who thinks that an "Ex" in a certain subject about which he knows nothing means as much to him as a "G" in another branch of work in which he applied himself and has been unfortunate in recitations. Very often a man is unable to tell what he knows, and yet he is far better off than the one who can make the instructor believe he understands a subject about which he really knows nothing at all.

Some one is graded low, and he loses no time in blaming the Professor for marking him down. A student seldom stops to ask himself the question: "Does my mark indicate what I know about this subject?" He invariably argues that he stood well in comparison with other members of his class, and thus should have received a better mark. This is a selfish view, and results in dissatisfaction. By what has been said it is not meant for anyone to infer that he is marked unfairly, for such is not the case.

The idea of working for marks has become so prevalent, that it is a matter of no little import. When a man enters college he should be able to say that he is too wide awake to the things going on about him to be misled by any such false conceptions; he should be able to feel that before many years have passed he will be thrown upon his own resources, and how well he performs the duties of life will depend largely upon his ability to comprehend them. "Working for marks" may seem like a trifling thing, but it is safe to wager that the marking system has helped to break more men than it has helped to make.

The editorial of last week on "class spirit" has caused varied discussion, and in view of the fact we publish a letter which gives to you another version of class spirit.

We feel that during the last week the under classes have taken on new life, and more spirit has been shown. The two under classes should be full of activity—not necessarily ready to fight whenever an opportunity presents itself, but every member of the class should be there to stand by his respective colors when occasion demands.

The University of Pennsylvania contemplate granting the privilege of wearing the "P" to men who during the year succeed in making the University debating team.

The Freshmen of Adelbert College, Western Reserve are wearing green caps as a token of respect for the rules laid down by the Sophomores and upper-classmen.

Full Bleached Linen by the yard. Special at 25c to 2.00 a yard. A special running words 1.00 will be 85c a yard, full bleached. Silver bleached, special from 25c to 1.00 a yard.

The favorite rose, lily, scroll, carnation, chrysanth mum, polka-dot, and fleur-de-lis patterns are among our extensive line

We bought a big lot of Napkins for this sale that we offer special at 1.60 to 2.50 per dozen. Pure Linen Linen Cloths beautifully hemstitched from 75c to 3.50. A large lot of Linen Damask Towels, with hemstitched border, we bought under price and give our patrons the benefit by offering them from 39 and 50c each to the finest at 1.25 each.

We pride ourselves in having the largest and best selected stock of linens in this vicinity.

Tailor-Made Suits

Received the last lot of Tailored Suits for the season and you will find some very nobby styles in the new mate ial The latest colorings, such as "London Smoke," etc., are in this assortment. From this time on we will close out some styles of Suits that have not been moving very rapidly and styles that we received early in the season and have put clearance prices on them. You will find about 100 Suits in the lot that have been greatly reduced. Some Eatons, some Jacket effects, others with Long coats. Many of them only one or two of a style, and in this great assortment we ought to be able to please any lady. We also offer a few Suits that were left over from last season to the persons who are looking for a bargain, and not so particular about the latest sleeve, etc. We can save you from 5.00 to 10.00 on a Suit. If you come here and examine these Suits, the chances are you will find a bargain and pay so much less than you expected.

New Sweaters

The celebrated Hand-Made Sweaters, in new weaves, have just been received. This new lot are the best to be found, to sell from 2.50 to 5.00. These goods have a different tone and style to them, than the ordinary cheaper kinds, and we recommend them for durability and neatness. We also have the cheaper goods which show up very nicely and give good satisfaction. We are showing all the new colorings in our stock of Ladies' and Misses' Sweaters.

The Orange and Blue.

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1905 No. 9

BUCKNELL VICTORIOUS

Southerners No Match For Orange and Blue Eleven.

Georgetown University's scalp was added to the trophies of the "Orange and Blue," as a result of the game played at Washington on last Saturday. Three times Bucknell crossed their opponent's goal line, and as many times did Lenhart kick goals.

Bucknell lost the toss and Lenhart kicked-off, the ball landing back of Georgetown's goal line. Georgetown kicked out from 25 yard line to McNinch, who advanced 15 yards before being downed. Frank gained 15 yards; Olendorf, Baldwin and Lenhart also made small gains. McNinch and Tolbert each cut off 5 yards, when Bucknell was held for downs on the 5 yd. line. Georgetown punted to the 20 yard line, Frank recovering the ball. Lenhart and Baldwin each gained 5 yards, and Frank made the line. Baldwin was sent over for the first touchdown. Lenhart kicked goal.

Bucknell kicked-off to 10 yard line and Georgetown advanced ball 10 yards. By short end runs and line plunges they shortened the distance to their goal line 45 yards. They were held on the 40 yard line, the ball going to Bucknell on downs. Frank gained 2 yards; Winegardner fumbled and Lenhart punted 20 yards. Georgetown failed to gain and punted to Olendorf on 35 yard line. McNinch lost on fake punt; Tolbert gained 4 yards and Lenhart punted 15 yards. Bucknell again held and ball was forfeited on downs. Frank sliced off 15 yards; Lenhart, Tolbert and Shade also making good gains, but the latter fumbled the ball on Georgetown's 40 yard line. Georgetown failed to gain and punted to Olendorf on 45 yard line. Frank gained 35 yards on quarter-back runs and Olendorf was sent around the end for a second touchdown. Lenhart kicked goal. After Bucknell kicked-off time was called for first half. Score: Bucknell 12 Georgetown 0.

Georgetown kicked to Tolbert on 5 yard line, who advanced ball 25 yards before he was downed. Only small gains were made and Lenhart punted to 40 yard line. Georgetown made a few small gains, but being held punted to Bucknell on 40 yard line. McNinch, Baldwin, Lenhart, Frymire and Shade advanced the ball to the 30 yard line. Olendorf made 4 yards; Lenhart hurdled for 12, and Frank circled the end for a touchdown. Lenhart kicked goal from kick-out.

Bucknell again received the kick-off and by excellent judgement and hard, fast playing the ball was advanced to Georgetown's 15 yard line. Here Bucknell fumbled and was prevented from making a fourth touchdown. The ball wavered between the center of the field and Bucknell's goal line, and when time was called Georgetown held possession of the ball on the 15 yard line. Final score: Bucknell 18, Georgetown 0.

The line-up:

Bucknell.	Positions.	Georgetown.
Goldsmith	left end	Pallen
Hawk		Cockrell
Baldwin	left tackle	Fitzpatrick
O'Brien	center	McGuire

Tolbert	full back	Dutcher

Touchdowns, Shade 2, Baldwin. Goals kicked from touchdowns, Lenhart 2. Referee, Jack Gass, Lehigh Umpire, George Woodruff, Pennsylvania. Timers, Hoskins, Bucknell, and Abbattichio, Georgetown. Linesmen, Snavely, Bucknell, and Green, Georgetown. Time of halves 25 and 20 minutes.

"A Modern Ananias."

After the rehearsal for "A Modern Ananias" which was held last Thursday those who witnessed it remarked; "It will be one of the best treats in store this year for the college public."

The "Modern Ananias" is a farcical comedy which is absolutely certain to provoke laughter from beginning to end. The comic situations, the deep entanglements into which the Ananias gets, the originality of the plot; all tend to enjoyment.

The college amateur actors who take part in the comedy are those who have proved themselves competent to take their roles. Considerable time has been given in selecting the personnel of the play with the result that after the first rehearsal it was remarked "that this will be one of the best productions ever given by the students, and one which no student can afford to miss."

The management is busily perfecting all details, and judging from the interest that is taken in the play, "A Modern Ananias" expects to be greeted by one of the largest audiences in attendance at the opera house this season.

The farcical comedy is being given in benefit of the Athletic Association of the college, and those who are interested in athletics will take this opportunity of showing their appreciation.

All students and the general public are urged to remember the date, Tuesday evening, Nov. 28.

Watch this column next week.

Chemical and Physical Society.

The Physical and Chemical Society held its regular meeting on Nov. 16th. Dr. Chas. A. Gundy of Lewisburg addressed the meeting on the subject of "Poisons." Dr. Gundy read a carefully compiled paper which had required much patient work. After giving several definitions of poison and impressing his hearers with the importance of the definition especially in cases before courts, the speaker took up the principal poisons known to the scientific world. He described the symptoms, minimum and maximum dose, and antidotes. He also described in detail several cases of poisoning that had met his individual attention.

The lecture was highly interesting and instructive, and was greatly appreciated by all present.

Prize for Best Written Essay.

A prize of $100, known as W. H. Baldwin prize, has been offered by the National Municipal League of America to the writer of the best essay on some phase of the subject; "Relation of city to gas and electric light service." The phase of the geneeral subject must be on municipal ownership, and the essay must be at least 10,000 words in length. All essays must be handed in by March 15, 1906. The offer is open to all American universities and the man who wins the prize will work.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT

Big Musical Program To Be Rendered on Friday Evening.

On Friday evening of this week the Bucknell Glee Club will give a concert which promises to be a treat to all music lovers. That it will be a success in every way is a natural consequent of the interest which has been exhibited by the whole club, for each member has made himself responsible for the maintainance of interest, a quality, heretofore woefully lacking at Bucknell.

The management has wisely chosen such selections as will entertain as well as those which will exhibit musical ability. Those who have heard "The Soldiers' Chorus" from Faust will appreciate the class of music which the club has undertaken to sing. With twenty voices on such a selection, the glee club can assure its hearers of good music.

The College Girls' Glee Club which is being instructed by Miss Blackmere will sing its best selection. This promises to add strength to the programme. Besides this there will be solos, duetts and quartetts. Mr. Shoemaker will be at his best in his selected readings.

However, the feature of the evening's entertainment will be a mixed chorus by the two glee clubs numbering forty voices. Under the direction of Dr. Aviragnet the clubs have been rehearsing for several weeks, and much of the credit of the evening's entertainment will go to him.

Rehearsals are to be held each evening where some "musical sandpaper" will be used upon the selections in the way of putting on the finishing touches.

The management requests that those stay in their rooms and study Monday's lessons who have a dislike for good music. "But" says he "Let him who can appreciate good music appear at Bucknell Hall with his ear attuned and twenty-five cents in his pocket and he will get his money's worth."

Sophomore Class Meeting.

1908 held a class meeting in the Chemical Laboratory Tuesday, 4 p. m. A committee of one was appointed from those who "held up" Reese, '06, in the cemetery the previous week, to apologize to him on behalf of the "bunch" and to him as an upper classman. Numerals were awarded to the '08 men who participated in the class football game and to those members of the team on the side lines who had faithfully practiced for the game. The rules laid down by the upper classmen were read and approved of in every instance. Steps were taken to enforce all rules more riggidly than ever.

Educators Meet.

The convention of the Association of State Universities met at Washington on Wednesday. The questions of football reform and a uniform standard for admissions of students to colleges were discussed. In regard to football they could not agree either on condemning or praising the game as it is now played. A committee was appointed to propose to the presidents of universities the plan of a uniform standard for admissions of students to colleges.

"The Pittsburg Press" recently picked two representative elevens from the colleges of Pennsylvania. This is an idea that seems to be worthy of consideration. There are in Pennsylvania a large number of good colleges, all supporting strong football teams, and the fact that there is so much good material in the state makes it possible to select two teams that will compare favorably with any great eleven in the country.

The territory to be covered is not so extensive as that embraced in the choice of an "All-American" team so the man who chooses an "All Pennsylvania" eleven has an excellent chance to see each team play.

The following is a list of the twenty-four institutions of Pennsylvania: University of Pa.; Lafayette, Lehigh, Bucknell, State, Carlisle Indian School, Ursinus, Dickinson, W. & J., Gettysburg, Swarthmore, Haverford, F. & M., Pennsylvania Military College, Allegheny, Geneva, Westminster, Grove City, Western U. of Pa., Lebanon Valley, Albright, Susquehanna, Pittsburg College, and Villanova.

Captain Cooper has been chosen as a guard on the second eleven and we feel sure that he is highly deserving of the honor. "Happy" always plays good, consistent football.

The writer of the article in the "Pittsburg Press" has seen fourteen of these teams perform this year, and has taken careful notice as to the work of the other ten teams.

Prof. Keough Addresses Forum.

Professor Keough recently addressed the Forum literary society on some phases of his trip abroad last summer. The professor touched on his residence in Paris, his battles with the French dialects, and on several trips he took into Germany and the surrounding territory, and the impressions derived from these regions. The talk was an extremely interesting one and was greatly enjoyed by all who heard it.

Villa Nova Game at Harrisburg.

The football game between the Bucknell and Villa Nova teams scheduled to be played in Philadelphia, has been changed to be played at Island Park, Harrisburg, Saturday, Nov. 25. The change from Philadelphia to Harrisburg was deemed advisable by the management of both teams, and will be sure to attract a great crowd from this section. The game promises to be a hotly contested one.

COLLEGE WOMEN ENTERTAIN

The First "At Home" a Very Pleasant Success.

The "At Home," tendered the faculty and students of the University by the ladies last Monday afternoon from 4 to 6, was the most successful affair of its kind that has been given in Bucknell for several years. Not only was this fact true in point of attendance, but also as regards the satisfaction and enjoyment that prevailed on all sides.

Promptly at four o'clock the boys began to pour in easer for the fray. They were received by a galaxy of the fair sex with smiling faces and hearts attuned to the occasion. In a short time the parlors and school room were literally packed with entertainers and entertained. Students brushed shoulders with the professors, and a feeling of good cheer seemed to pervade the very atmosphere. The tasty decorations in the school room were found most conducive to the spirit of the occasion. Several of the musically inclined favored the company with pretty selections which served to draw forth from those assembled many bursts of pleasantry. After refreshments the guests departed, bearing with them most pleasant memories of the pretty faces, amiable manners, and genial treatment of their hosts —the Bucknell girls.

Death of Goul Carrier.

Goul Carrier, '04, died at his home in Summerville, on Tuesday last from an attack of typhoid fever from which it was thought that he was recovering. He had been in the employ of the Westinghouse company at Pittsburg during the summer and early fall and it is believed that he contracted the disease in that city. His funeral was attended on Thursday by Mr. Leach, '07, representing the Sigma Alpha Epsilon, of which fraternity Mr. Carrier was a member. A quiet, unobtrusive gentleman, studious in habits and courteous in demeanor, he had gained the respect of both teachers and students who regret that a life promising such usefulness has so early come to an end.

Alumnae Club Meeting.

The Bucknell Alumnae Club held the regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening. The Colonial History of the United States is being studied with considerable interest this year.

The subject assigned for the November meeting was the Spaniards in the United States. Miss Margaret Groff read a paper on the Spanish Colonies in Florida; Mrs, Loomis, on the Spanish Colonies in the South West; Miss Annie Van Gundy, on Reasons for the Failure of the Spaniards in the United States and Success in Mexico and South America. Miss Sarah Nesbit sang a solo, and Miss Irene Humphreys gave the second Mazourka by Porter on the piano. X

Freshman Class Meeting.

Editorial

Rounds of applause went up from the crowd gathered on Smith's corner on Saturday night when the Georgetown score was announced. Bucknell was playing the game on Saturday as they know how to play it, and they deserve credit.

Next Saturday the team faces Villanova at Harrisburg, and we should win. The game that attracts the attention and about which greatest interest centers is the one with Lafayette on Nov. 26. Bucknell would rather win this game than any game on the schedule, and debarring injuries we should be able to carry victory back from Easton. Lafayette played well against Princeton and tied with Penn, but Swarthmore turned the tables on the Eastonians by defeating them by the overwhelming score of 27-0.

Bucknell has taken a decided brace in the past week, and by Thanksgiving will be in great condition.

"HEADS OUT."

Last year two elderly ladies appeared on college hill accompanied by a gentleman. The party was desirous evidently of inspecting the buildings and of seeing what our campus was like. They had the opportunity denied them. Some student saw them from his window and yelled "Heads out." Promptly the heads did come out and a number of voices joined in the chorus. At first the ladies did not notice that they were the cause of the commotion; they had an idea that they were in a community of gentlemen. As soon as the shock was over and they realized that they had been mistaken, the impulse was to retreat. They did retreat, one down one path, the other down another, anyway to get away from the jeering mocking voices. When they got home, they told their friends what sort of fellows those Bucknell boys were. Oh, didn't they? And if the gentleman had been a moneyed friend of the university, he would have immediately written a check for a few thousand dollars more. Certainly.

A lady residing in Lewisburg was entertaining two other ladies. Naturally, they wished to see the buildings on the hill. They found the building populated with the same joyous chorus. Then they, too, thought that the Bucknell students were gentlemen. Of course they did.

"AT HOMES."

For some time there has existed in the minds of many of the students an unexpressed desire for more frequent "At Homes" at the Women's College. This desire needed but an "At Home" such as the last one to transform it into a request. Never was a more successful "At Home" given at the Women's College. Never has there appeared a more opportune time to urge the claims of the many for a more frequent recurrance of this delightful function.

Several years ago it was the custom of the college girls to under the faculty and the college men an "At Home" once a month. These affairs were always largely attended and the men looked forward to them with eager anticipation and backward upon them with pleasant recollection. But this state of affairs was suddenly changed. On account of the death of a relative, the person who had been the mainstay of this form of social activity withdrew for a time from social life and the "At Home" then passed into a period of decadence from which it has never recovered. Sometimes two, and at most three "At Homes" a year has been the limit for the past few years.

Why not revive the old custom of giving the "At Home" once a month? If it turned out a success several years ago, there is no reason to believe that it will result otherwise at present especially in view of the fact that the last one prospered so happily. We relize that the affair entails a little labor on the part of the girls, but is it not worth while? The girls, we believe, enjoy these events fully as much as the boys. The "At Home" is the only opportunity that many of the boys and girls get for meeting each other in a social way. Social life around Bucknell is not by any means overdone. Let us have more frequent "At Homes."

The Bucknell Glee Club has been formed as a permanent organization, and that its permanency may be insured an entertainment is to be given in Bucknell Hall on Friday evening. It has always been a matter of discussion that we have not had such an organization long ago, and now that it has become a reality it is only right that we heartily support the movement. These different phases of college life make it worth the living, and they are always beneficial to the student-body. Let us show our appreciation of well directed effort by being present at the Glee Club entertainment.

The yelling of the Bucknell delegation that attended the State-Dickinson game was a feature. The students need a game of their own like this; they need a game nearby, one that can be attended by the whole student body and we ought to have it next year.

Wisconsin University has taken the initative in founding a western basketball league.

An Inquiry.

Editor Orange and Blue:

Would you be kind enough to ascertain from the proper authorities for the benefit of a considerable number of Freshmen whether or not it is permissible for them to wear Derby hats on Sunday. FRESHMAN.

In answer to this inquiry we have been requested to say that the rules laid down by the "Sophs" and not the permanent rules apply in regard to the wearing of derbies. Rules 1 and 2 of the permanent code do not go into effect this year, and according to the rules laid down in the early part of the year by the Sophomores Freshmen are not allowed to wear derbies at any time. The reason for this confusion is that the permanent rules for Freshmen made their appearance too late to apply in regard to the proclamations, the green button and derby clauses.

Lowest Prices On Winter Merchandise.

A Brilliant Display of Long and Short Kimonos

Attractive styles, abundant variety, and the utmost economy. No better values have been offered this season. The styles are prettier and the materials and trimmings more elabrate. Short Kimonas in Japanese Silk, many very beautiful patterns, priced at 5.00. Colorings in castor, green and red effects.

Short Crepe Cloth Kimonas, different colors, and trimmed in Satin Persian bands and narrow Persian wash ribbon, having the yoke effect in fine shirring, priced at 1.00, to 1.95. Japanese Crepe very beautiful at 1.89. Beautiful Flannelettes in pink and blue at 50c. Persian effects, 75c and 1.00.

Dressing Sacques in fine Flannelettes in light blue and pink at 75c and 1.00. Red with embroidered collar at 1.95.

Long Kimonas in pink, light blue and red at 1.50 to 2.25, in silk embroidered band and polka dot trimming, very new and stylish. Our Kimonas are the popular styles, and of the very finest Silk and Flannelettes. The Silks are of the latest charming Japanese conceits, in the wide flowing sleeves that are very graceful. The Flannelettes are of the soft, luxurious and fleecy materials, too pretty for their humble purposes. New ideas in trimming effectively expressed through the aid of satin and Persian ribbons and silk embroidery. We wish we could describe these garments, that their actual value and quality would be apparent to you, then we would be sure to see you here this week selecting one of those beautiful styles ere the sale is over.

Annual Dress Goods Sale

Will be continued another week, as we have ample variety left by adding many fine things, and many of the more staple weaves as well. Our Dress Goods sale is held earlier than former years, that the goods may be used for the winter wardrobe. It is remarkable to find such bargains this year, because all the Woolen Stuffs are getting dearer. You will find black as well as colored fabrics in this collection of specials.

Many weaves on the 98c table that were worth up to 1.50 and all 54 inches wide, such as the new invisible plaid effects, Mixed Suitings, Black and all the new shades of Broadcloths, Venitians, Cheviots, Serges, Granites Home Spuns and Rain Cloths, any one heavy enough for a Tailored Gown.

At the 75c table are values up to 1.00, and the display consists of Panamas, Granites, Serges, Henriettas, Mohairs, Mixed Suitings and Silk and Wool weaves.

You next pass on to the 50c table, where "plums" await you in All-Wool Cheviots, Serges, Mohairs, Suitings, Homespuns, Venitians, Granites and Checks.

The inexpensive lot at 39 and 25c have many wool and part wool materials in the assortment, that make beautiful dresses, skirts, waists, or even a tailored gown. Don't let this sale pass you by without at least a call, if you wish to buy or not, and let us prove to you that this is no "fake" but a real bargain sale in every respect, quality and price.

BUCKNELL DOWNS VILLA NOVA

Superior Condition of Orange and Blue Eleven Makes Victory Easy.

The "Orange and Blue" came out victorious over the speedy Villa-Nova team in a hard fought battle at Island Park, Harrisburg, on Saturday afternoon. It was an exceedingly rough game, and every inch of ground was fought for. On account of Bucknell's superior condition Villa-Nova took out considerable time, but in play they were fast and snappy.

Capt. Cooper lost the toss and Bucknell received the ball on the 10 yard line. It was advanced to the 20 yard line before being downed. Bucknell being held, Lenhart punted, and Villa-Nova secured ball on the 50 yard line. They steadily advanced the ball until they reached the 20 yard line, but being held tried goal from field. The ball sailed between the goal posts, scoring Villa-Nova four points.

Bucknell braced up and soon scored a touchdown, often carrying the ball down the field on line plunges by Lenhart, Shade and Baldwin. Tolbert carried the ball over the line. Hawk was substituted for McNinch.

Before the end of the half a second touchdown was scored by the "Or-

The Lafayette Game.

The last game of our football season is at hand, and we are ready for Lafayette. This is an event that we have looked forward to with no little amount of interest. The last contest of the season comes as a climax both in regard to enthusiasm shown and in regard to rivalry between the two teams. Two teams, each representing classical institutions and each standing well up in the world of college athletics, will meet on Thanksgiving Day to decide their supremacy. It will be "do or die" with either of them, and we hope victory for the Orange and Blue.

A victory over the Eastonians would mean success to an otherwise unsuccessful season. Our team this year has been handicapped by the presence of a large percentage of inexperienced men, who need training and playing to develop them. This defect seems to have been remedied by this time, and those who were once green in their positions have found out how to play a game in which eleven men should work as one individual. To bring a team to this stage of development has meant hard and consistent work on the part of the coach and the players.

In the past two weeks the team has shown that they can get together

"A MODERN ANANIAS"

Dramatic Club to Give Their First Play in Opera House.

Hard, persistent work has been the order of the week for those who are busy in preparation for the production of "A Modern Ananias" in the opera house to-morrow evening. The play is all ready for the public, and it will be a rare treat.

"A Modern Ananias" is written by J. A. Fraser, Jr., who is the author of a number of popular successes. It will provoke laughter from beginning to end. The situations into which the various characters are dragged through the mendacity of the hero are so intensely absurd in themselves, and Lysander, the hero, shows such wit and ingenuity in extricating himself and them until he is finally involved in a hopeless mass of complications, that the piece positively plays itself.

Every man in the cast is well adapted to his part, and this will go far toward making the play a success. The proceeds are to go toward the maintenance of Bucknell athletics, and this fact should insure a crowded house.

To those who are lovers of good [illegible] acted, the "Modern Ana[illegible]al strongly. Miss Schill[illegible]n devoting much of her [illegible]taging of the play; ev[illegible]embers "The Cheerful [illegible]year that was coached [illegible]llinger, and this leads [illegible]t something fine in "A [illegible]las." No one can af[illegible]the first production by [illegible]Dramatic Club in the [illegible]-morrow night.

Eminent Bugologists Disagree.

Who is the real bugologist in Pennsylvania, Prof. H. A. Surface of State College, or Dr. Geo. G. Groff of Bucknell? Disagreement in regard to the manner of exterminating the San Jose scale, a great tree pest, has brought these two scientists face to face with each other, and it makes the above question of unusual interest. Bugs,—plain bugs, have been the cause of the heated discussion between these two professors; as a result one or the other must fade away and acknowledge a superior. Will this be the one who has had a wide range of experience in dealing with all sorts of bugs, or will it be the man who has been called upon to do a service for the State o Pennsylvania.

The two men have been trying to overcome each other by means of the Philadelphia "North American," which has been keeping up the bug war. Dr. Groff holds that the way to exterminate the bugs is by means of gas, while Prof. Surface believes the only way to get rid of these miserable little creatures is to invelde them into a bath of chemical cocktails. Dr. Groff claims that the bugs can never be destroyed as long as the tree nurseries keep sending out trees that are infected with the dreaded scale. He says he was taken from the State Board of Inspection because he condemned the nursery stock that Prof. Surface did not wish condemned.

Professional reputations are at stake and the question has become of a serious nature. Prof. Surface in his scaling invective against his opponent, says: "I will stake my professional reputation against that of my adversary in a contest to decide eropterous hemipterous insect that of our particular branch of learning, and if I am not declared the winner, I cheerfully engage to eat every heteropterous hemipterous insect that my opponent can produce." That such a war could have reached these dimensions in the course of a few days seems quite impossible, but it is a fact.

How far this discussion will go toward exterminating the San Jose to prove the truth or falsity of the scale no one can tell, but it is sure to prove the truth or falsity of the different methods of procedure.

Mrs. Dr. Stephens Taken Ill.

Dr. LeRoy Stephens, '68, a member of the board of trustees of Bucknell University, who has been suffering for a long time from an attack of typhoid fever, is able to be out. Everyone is overjoyed to hear of the recovery of Dr. Stephens. However, Mrs. Stephens has been taken with the dread disease, and is now confined to her bed. The sad news of her illness comes as a shock to her friends.

Norman D. Sturges Weds.

Norman D. Sturges, ex-'04, of Bucknell, and '04, of Syracuse, was married on Tuesday to Miss Ethel M. Rood, Syracuse, '05. The wedding took place at the home of the bride on South Warren street, Syracuse. The groom is well known at Bucknell having taken his Sophomore and Junior years here. He was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity at Syracuse.

Mr. and Mrs. Sturges will make their home in Scranton, Pa., where Mr. Sturges is connected with a large manufacturing concern.

GRAND GLEE CLUB CONCERT

Entertainment A Success, And Well Attended.

There was music in the air on Friday evening while the Bucknell Glee Club was giving its initial concert in Bucknell Hall. The house was crowded to the doors, and every song that was sung, every word that was spoken from 8.30 to 10.00 o'clock fell upon listening and attentive ears.

The large audience had gathered to hear fine music, and their wishes were gratified. The Bucknell Glee Club is composed of sixteen of the best voices in the college, and they showed that they were trained to the occasion. The "Soldiers' Chorus" from Foust was a masterly selection, and was rendered in excellent style.

The College Girls' Glee Club assisted very materially toward the success of the affair. The first number on the program, "The Hunters' Chorus," was received with great applause. Every selection was encored. Mr. Shoemaker handled "Benedict Arnold" in old-time form, and his presence was appreciated by all. The solos by Miss Langdon and Miss Gearhart were features. "Moses in Egypt" by a mixed chorus was a climax to the entire program.

The proceeds from the entertainment will be used to place the "Bucknell Glee Club" on a firm basis, and judging from the attendance the permanence of the organization should be assured. The chances for the development of musical talent have been very few during the past few years and the appearance of such a strong glee club meets with hearty approval. The different phases of college life cannot be developed too well, for there is always enough material to supply the want along every line. The Glee Club has come to stay, and much praise is due to those through whose efforts its success was made possible.

Though the attendance at the concert was very good, yet one could not help but notice the small number of college men present. The students did not turn out as they should have done. The Glee Club went to a great deal of trouble to prepare a first-class program, and those who did not take part in the entertainment should have shown more appreciation. There was alarge number of Lewisburg people in attendance, but the number of students was far below the expectation of the management. When the dramatic club gives their play, "A Modern Ananias" in the Opera House to-morrow night every man ought to make an effort to be present.

Rhodes Scholarships Vacant.

Owing to the fact that several committees have failed in the last two years to send qualified candidates, fifteen American and Colonial scholarships are now vacant through lack of a sufficient number of qualified scholars. Five states and territories failed to qualify scholars in 1904, and this year Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, and Wyoming failed.

Sixty-seven new names have been added this year to the list of those in residence in Oxford, under the bequest of Cecil Rhodes, so that the total for the year 1905-6 is about one hundred and fifty. The total number for whom permanent provision has been made is 190.

When the class games are over, and the football season is drawing to a close there is a tendencey for the squad to dwindle down to about twenty-five men. The last games of the season are always hard ones, and we need but refer to our own schedule to find proof of this statement. To have the 'Varsity in good form for the Lafayette game it is necessary that they get the best practice possible.

This is ideal weather, and no one can do anything better than get out and play football. There is plenty of room for all and plenty of chance to get into the game. The "B Seconds" of the Reserves are forth coming and they will be awarded to those who have earned, and who deserve them. One more game remains to be played by Thanksgiving and the success of the team depends greatly on the practice they receive.

The Reserves finish the season with a good game, and they will need more than eleven men to play it. Our schedule is a hard one to the end, and if we want to see the team give a good account of themselves on November 30, the thing to do is to come out and play football. If you are craving for more exercise, come out; if you are unable to work in the evenings, come out; if you want to see Bucknell's team win games, come out and line up against them.

VACATION.

When the students are given a vacation, such as the one coming on fastly, there is a tendency for many to prolong it about one or two days at both the beginning and end. Those who grant the vacations mean that the duties be resumed on time, and th's is reasonable. The men who cut classes are the ones who lose, and not the instructors. Vacation begins on Wednesday at noon and ends Monday at 11.15 A. M. This gives all plenty of time to enjoy a pleasant Thanksgiving.

"A Modern Ananias" to be given in the opera house to-morrow evening deserves the hearty support of every student. The production of such a play means a great deal of hard work to those who take part, and the student body should show their appreciation of voluntary effort by attending the play. It is practically a new thing at Bucknell to have a permanent dramatic club, but it is a good thing. The future success of the organization depends largely upon how well the fellows patronize this first production.

The proceeds of the play are to go toward Bucknell athletics, and we all know that there could be no worthier cause. The athletics of the university must depend each year to a certain extent on support from such sources. In former years the Athletic Association gave a dance in the Armory, and thus made up any deficit. If there was a surplus it went toward the fund that is being raised to purchase a new athletic field. In view of these facts we have been informed that by special permission, Freshmen will be allowed to take ladies to the play.

The glee club met with unusual success in their concert on Friday evening, and there is no reason that the dramatic club should not receive a hearty welcome. If these organizations are to become a part of the college life they must be encouraged, and there is no better way of showing proper appreciation of this one than by being present at the play to-morrow evening. The great interest taken in the progress of the play, and the large advance sale of tickets insures an exceptionally fine house. Let us not disappoint the management.

We hear that a Bucknell quartet is being formed, and that they contemplate an extended tour. Last year a heated discussion arose in regard to a similar movement, and to avoid any unnecessary confusion it might be well for those in charge of the affair to consult proper authorities before going too far with their arrangements.

Every man is anxious to see the Orange and Blue down Lafayette on Thanksgiving Day, and all can play an important part. The fellows should make it a point to be down on the field every night to watch the practice, encourage the players, and show the team that you are interested in their welfare.

Everyone that can play football get out and line up against the 'Varsity. Everyone that can't play, come down to the athletic field and by your presence encourage the players. We must win this Lafayette game. Can't we give an hour of our time to the support of our football team? We can do it easily enough, but will we? Let us decide this question by an emphatic "yes," and then be on hand to do our part toward helping the team defeat Lafayette.

Can you answer it?

"If three cats catch three mice in three minutes with all the cats working all the time, how many rats will 100 kittens catch in one hour provided a rat is twice as hard to catch as a mouse and two-thirds of the kittens stop to eat the rats they have already caught."—Ex.

Chose the Canada Life.

Dear Sir:—

Your favor of January 31st received, and, noting contents, I am only too pleased to add my comments regarding the Canada Life Assurance Company.

At the time of taking out insurance with your Company I made a rigid comparison of the several companies, and was so well pleased with the results and management of the Canada Life that I placed the whole sum therewith. Seventy per cent. of the insurance I carry is with the Canada Life, other policies having been taken out before the merits of said Company were placed before me.

In the near future I hope to take out another policy, and shall place it with the Canada Life, being well pleased with the ones I now hold in said Company.

Yours truly,
HERMAN W. REYNOLDS.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1905 No. 11

BUCKNELL DEFEATED

Eastonians Outclass and Defeat Bucknell 47-0.

In the final game of the season Bucknell was defeated by Lafayette by a score of 47-0. The winds were cold and icy, but a crowd of three thousand people braved the weather to see the contest. The Eastonians expected a hard game and the large crowd that had gathered were disappointed.

Lafayette played fast football and time and again the Maroon and White broke through for long gains. Bucknell could not get her plays off fast enough to make any ground against the Eastonians; very often the plays were broken up behind the line and the runner thrown for a loss. Captain Cooper played a wonderful game. His knee was badly twisted in the early part of the contest, and he was forced to retire to the side-lines. After he was taken from the game the team seemed to lose heart, and this was doubtless the cause of a few of the touchdowns scored against them. The Lafayette back-field was very quick and time and again they circled Bucknell's ends for long gains. The fine tackling of Frank was a feature of the game, while the work of McAvoy on defense for Lafayette was wonderful.

The whistle sounded at two o'clock, Bucknell receiving the kick-off. The ball was carried to the 30-yard line. A gale was sweeping down the field, and Bucknell failing to gain punted to Lafayette's 10-yard line. Lafayette fumbled, but Bucknell was unable to make the distance and this was the Orange and Blue's only chance to score. Lafayette secured the oval and rushed down the field for a touchdown. Newberry kicked goal.

The Eastonians were penalized several times during the contest, but never failed to make the required distance. Several times a runner broke through the Bucknell line, and left only the quarter-back to prevent a touchdown, Newberry went over for the first score after a 45-yard run by McAvoy. Lafayette having the wind to their backs, it was no time until McAa went over for a second touchdown; Newberry for the third. The half ended with the score 17-0.

Bucknell went into the second half with Cooper out of the game and with the hope of keeping the score to a respectable size, but the strain of the first long half had weakened the team greatly and Lafayette had little trouble to cross the goal line five times. During this half Wack, of Lafayette, twice circled the end for 65-yards, a touchdown in each case resulting. Toward the close of the half the Orange and Blue became weaker and weaker and the Eastonians scored at will. The length of the halves had much to do with the size of the score however. Coach Bull, of Lafayette, insisted upon 35 minute halves, and thus the final score; 47-0.

Thanksgiving "At Home" at Sem.

The college and "Sem" girls gave an "At Home" on Friday evening for the benefit of the fellows who were hibernating on the hill during Thanksgiving recess. The number present was limited, but those partaking of the festivities report a swell time. The reception hall was tastefully decorated, and the light refreshments served by the ladies were much enjoyed. The feature of the evening was an original Bucknell song written by Miss Galbraith. At a somewhat later hour than usual, due perhaps, to the "favored few," all departed in high spirits humming the new song.

'RAY BUCKNELL.
Air; "Jingle Bells."

When the first gleaming ray
Shines behind old Mount Montour,
And steam pipes start to play
Their morning overture,
When from the bon-fire's blaze
The last spark has gone out,
Morn or night, we'll gladly raise
For old Bucknell a shout.

Chorus:—
'Ray Bucknell, Ray Bucknell
'Ray for old Bucknell,
Three times three for old Bucknell
Given with a heavy yell,
B U C K N E L L.
Then a double l
B u c k n e l l.
Hooray for old Bucknell.

If Odyssey is hard
And Psychology no "snit"
Football is a drawing card
And tennis makes a hit,
But if we "flunk" or "grind"
We can this one thing tell,
That B. U. ne'er comes in behind
Whoop-er-up for old Bucknell.

Bucknell's Record For This Season.

Bucknell's season closed with the Lafayette game on Thanksgiving Day. The 'Varsity has played ten games, winning five and losing five. The defeats have been by large scores each time, and the victories by much closer scores. The Georgetown game was by far the most creditable of the entire season. The record of games:

Lebanon Valley, Lewisburg, Sept. 23, 29-0.
Mansfield Normal, Lewisburg, Sept. 30, 27-0.
Cornell, Ithaca, Oct. 7, 0-24.
Princeton, Princeton, Oct. 14, 0-48.
Virginia, Norfolk, Oct. 21, 11-15.
Medico-Chi, Lewisburg, Nov. 1, 18-5.
Navy, Annapolis, Nov. 11, 0-34.
Georgetown, Washington, Nov. 18, 18-0.
Villanova, Harrisburg, Nov. 25, 17-9.
Lafayette, Easton, Nov. 30, 0-47.
Totals, 120—182.

FIRST PLAY A SUCCESS

"A Modern Ananias" by Dramatic Club Produced to Large Audience.

The first production of the Bucknell Dramatic club was played in the opera house on Tuesday night. "A Modern Ananias" proved to be a treat to the theatre goers of the college and Lewisburg. The audience was good, though the unfavorable weather kept many from being present. That the production was appreciated is certain, judging from the unselfish applause.

As for the play, "A Modern Ananias" proved to be a comedy full of life and wit, very interesting and with just enough plot to carry it along.

The plot was not strong but the characters were introduced in such a manner that it made the performance spirited and always-moving. The complications of the "Ananias" were a source of discomfort to every other member of the cast. He was a liar up-to-date, ever ready to respond, and able to retaliate as quickly.

The way each member of the cast took their parts proved that the play had been well chosen and well staged. Hennessy was extremely successful in his impersonations of the "Modern Ananias." His imagination proved to be vivid enough, and his manner of extricating himself from difficulties was clever. Powell, in the role of "Baby" was happy with the tantalizing smile. Those eyes and the ever-beautiful profile made her appear too tempting for the forgiving Col. Lyon, and in the end they were united in the holy bond. Age was telling on her, however, and she was becoming desperate in her vain search for a mate. "Nellie Goldengate" and "Prudence Mayflower"—roles taken by Shrum and Godschall—were rivals for the love of the "Ananias," but the artfulness of "Nellie" was too much for "Prudence" to overcome with her kangaroo swing. Zugschwert imparted a touch of humor to his character and played his role in a tactful manner. Grimminger and Smithgall were especially adapted to their parts, and Belford, as one of the principal characters, showed the effect of training and experience, and by his work added snap and mirthfulness to every scene.

The keynote of the play's success was the smoothness with which it was acted. It would be hard to pick the feminine hit of the evening, since all of the fair ones had their peculiar charms. The performance was immensely enjoyed and the laughter and applause never licked sincerity.

One commendable feature was the presence of a good number of college men and women. The students owe such movements their support, and the only way for them to show proper appreciation is by attending. The Thanksgiving vacation took many home who would likely have been present.

The management realized fairly well on the proposition, and the permanence of the Dramatic club should be assured. It is reported that the club will give another play some time during the middle of next term. The cause for which the organization is working,—The Athletic Association—is a worthy one; the Dramatic club in itself, and for its value to the student body as a new form of activity supplies an urgent need. Everyone hopes for its success and looks forward with eager anticipation to the next performance. To the untiring efforts of Miss Schillinger as coach of the production too much cannot be said. Her work was evident in every line of the play and it need only be suggested that this was greatly the cause of its tremendous success.

Cast of characters:

Lysander Lyon, M. D., with a vivid imagination—John F. Hennessy.

Col. Lyon, with a forgiving disposition, Lysander's uncle—Ralph L. Belford.

Derby Dashwood, with a Piccadilly accent, Lysander's classmate—J. Peck Smithgall.

Francisco, with an elastic conscience, Lysander's valet—Fred R. Zugschwert.

Baby, with the soubriquet of "Little Tootsywootsy," Lysander's stepdaughter—Timmy F. Powell.

Nellie Goldengate, with a fickle fancy, the colonel's ward—Reuben W. Shrum.

Prudence Mayflower, with New England notions, Nellie's friend—C. Harold Godschall.

Kittie, with so much a month and board, Baby's maid,—Jimmy Grimminger.

Date of Junior Debate Changed.

The Junior Debate which has heretofore been given during Commencement week will hereafter take place toward the end of the winter term. This change is due to the fact that six months of preliminaries, as has hitherto been the custom, drags the preparation through such long course of time that the debators lose interest. Those in charge believe, therefore, that as good, if not better, results will ensue from the shorter term of preparation. The first preliminaries will come off the third week in the winter term. The final decision, as stated above, taking place at the end of the second term.

Pi Phi Sorority Ball.

The ladies of the Pi Phi Sorority gave a delightful dance in Wilhelm's hall, at Milton, on Friday evening. The event was one of the most successful social functions of the season. There were about twenty-five couples present. The music by Comstock's orchestra was one of the leading features of the evening's program. The hall was artistically decorated in the colors of the sorority, lavender and white, and light refreshments were served.

The students of Milan, Italy, have sent out invitations to all universities to send delegates to a student conference to be held at the time of the international exhibition to be held there next year. Each university is asked to send a list of questions that they would like to have discussed at the conference.

PENNSYLVANIA'S REFORM

Few Colleges Fall in Line With The New Movement.

The University of Pennsylvania has made a stand for reform in football, but the code adopted will receive the support of very few of the smaller colleges.

The combination of the first and third clauses of the new eligibility code will prove distasteful to the minor colleges of the land. These are:

1. No student shall be allowed to represent any college or university in intercollegiate athletic contests until he has been in residence there as a bona fide student for an academic year, and shall have passed satisfactory examinations on a course of study as a candidate for a degree; or, if a special or partial student, shall have taken a course which requires at least fifteen hours per week, and shall have passed satisfactory examinations in subjects aggregating at least twelve hours of such courses.

No student shall represent his college or university in intercollegiate athletic contests unless he shall be at the time in good academic standing in the class of which he is a member.

3. No student shall represent one or more universities or colleges in intercollegiate athletic contests for more than four years.

In determining what constitutes a university or college within the meaning of this rule due consideration shall be given to the athletic and scholastic standing of the institutions represented.

A student who from any cause participates in intercollegiate athletic contests during only a small fractional part of a year, may in a succeeding year be charged with only that part of the year which is equivalent to that in which he participated during the incompleted year.

To the University of Penna. these rul s would sound good enough, for theirs is a professional school and they would receive the benefit of a large influx of men from the teams of the smaller colleges who would be eligible to play a year on the larger college eleven.

To Bucknell these two rules come as altogether unwelcomed, for by them the small college is robbed of one of the most fruitful years of the college athlete, his last year. Under these rules the teams of the small colleges would serve rather as a means of training men for positions on large university elevens. Very many men go to the large professional schools after their graduation from a smaller institution and this makes the rule seem quite unfair.

There is little doubt but that the one year resident rule would meet with universal acceptance at Bucknell, but coupled as it is with the four years eligibility rule the two fail to receive hearty approval. The one year resident rule would give every man in college a better chance for the team, since it would debar all first year men from playing on the 'Varsity eleven. This would tend also to eliminate professionalism from college football, since no school would care to keep a man over a year simply for his football ability. It is not plain how the new code would drive

RESUMING WORK.

Vacations are essential to the best work of students, and they are always appreciated. They are a rest from duties that with length of time tend to become tiresome. They give one a chance to think of something besides the every-day routine of college work; they take many of us back to friends, and are thus a source of extreme pleasure.

With all their benefits they seem to instill in the student a desire for all vacation and less work. This fault lies wholly within the student himself, and the fact that he is given a vacation should not mean that he "loaf" for a week after college opens again. This is the tendency of the majority of students and it is to a certain extent a habit. Students can resolve to begin to work as soon as they return from their vacation. They have received the benifits of an outing; they have had a chance to refresh their minds, and they should be willing to resume work with the first class.

At last a Bucknell Glee Club has arrived. It has hung up its hat with the express purpose of making its home here permanently. While its reception last week was not of the heartiest nature yet we prophesy a deeper interest in its work as the year passes.

With a deep interest in its welfare the management has decided on a course, which, if accepted by the students, promises a good musical club. It is their intention to make admittance thereto competitive. Anyone, therefore, who with interest manifests a certain amount of musical ability has a claim upon membership, irrespective of class, clique or clan.

We approve heartily, of this method of organizing the club. Now its up to everyone musically inclined to present himself to the proper authorities and have his vocal apparatus examined. Though he does not know "do" from biscuit let him come and show a willingness to strengthen Bucknell where she is woefully weak.

THE COLLEGE MAN AND THE DAILY NEWSPAPER.

The small percentage of college men that read the daily newspaper is the cause of no little surprise; and yet the average college man wants to be up to date. There must be some reason that the newspaper is not read more widely. This lack of interest in regard to a matter of such great importance may be attributed to the fact that the college man is too busily engaged to keep up with the times, or to an indisposition on his part.

That a college man does not have time for one of the most wonderful and potent factors in our civilization seems hardly imaginable. The newspaper of today is recognized as such, and the one who fails to realize its importance needs to be modernized. The mere fact that journalism is being looked upon as a profession on a par with any of the old professions, such as law and medicine, leads one to believe that the newspaper, the product of the journalist, is worthy of an important place in the world. And it has gained its position mainly through the ends it is able to accomplish. We have an excellent example of its power in the work of the leading Philadelphia dailies against graft in that city. As a result of their incessant efforts the "gang" has been deposed, and the people have been roused to the condition of politics in Pennsylvania.

There are many men in college who spend hour after hour on a Latin lesson, and who would be unable to talk intelligently for ten minutes on the progress of the Panama canal, or the insurance probe in New York City, yet these are the topics of the day; these are things that one should keep their eyes on, for in them is worked out the progress and history of our nation. We have heard of people who were happy in their ignorance, but we feel that the college man would not care to be told that he is so far behind the times as such dullness would imply. If one could prove that he is actually too poor to afford a newspaper, or too busy to read one, there would be some excuse for such woeful neglect, but can anyone do it? When a newspaper can be bought for the price of one cent and when a man spends hours each day in fruitless discussions, the objections of time and cost seem to lose their weight.

The newspaper is probably the greatest moral and educational force of the time. It reaches the people and is moulding American character. There is no reason for a college man to overlook the value of this great medium in civilization; there is no excuse for a man's failing to read some good newspaper each day. Newspapers are being read by more people every day, and it seems that the college man should even be eager to acquaint himself with the affairs of the world.

Forty-eight men have come out for the Brown and Dartmouth debates at Williams.

"How far and on what grounds should the state control and provide for the machinery of parties?" is the subject announced at Nebraska for the W. J. Bryan prize essay in the science of government.

Dr. Richard Harlan, of Lake Forest University, has announced that the winner of the William Bross $6,000 prize for the best religious book is Rev. Dr. James Orr, of Glasgow College. The contest is held every ten years.

One out of every three of the '09 men at Minnesota are registered for Bible study. This is a remarkable showing and was only secured by consistent effort. Nearly every Freshman has been called on in his room and urged to take this work. As a result, the registration is nearly double that of last year. Eight more men were added recently, bringing the total up to 257.

commercialism from large colleges however. It seems that it would give them a better and more fruitful field to work in. They would have a chance to import men who have had three years training on a college eleven, and who would prove very beneficial to them. The one year rule would be a good provision, but not in connection with a four year eligibility rule.

Additior. to Power House.

Prof. Burpee and his construction gang have just completed the installation of a new 150 horse power boiler at the power house. The placing of the new steamer required an addition to the power house, since the old quarters were completely filled up. The increase was necessitated by the recent addition to the number of buildings at Bucknell.

Lehigh University Library contains 125,571 volumes at the present time. More books are being added continually.

Red-haired students of Washburn College, Topeka, Kan., have organized an "incandescent club" to exploit the achievements of red-haired people. They assert that most of the big events in history either were planned or executed by red-haired men or women. Minnesota's "red owl" league will welcome a branch of the "incandescent club" with open arms. The "red owl" league meets in a hall where there are no chairs.

NATIONAL SUPERVISION OF LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

The following is taken from the Cleveland Plain Dealer, October 26, 1905:

"Whether national supervision would correct the evils that exist in regard to Life Insurance management as we now have it, may be a debatable point, but that national supervision works well in Canada is shown by the splendid report on the Canada Life recently published in these columns. It seems that in Canada the Superintendent of Insurance is appointed by the government, and being a permanent official is independent of the political parties. His duties include an annual head office inspection of every native company, a thing practially unknown in this country but which should prove eminentlydesirable. The record of the Canadian companies so far as we know them, certainly seems to justify the system under which they have grown up."

I will be pleased to show some of the different forms of policies written by the CanadaLife. You can have illustrations of same sent, by addressing R. M. Darlington, Mgr., 1 Hart Building, Williamsport, Pa.

The Orange and Blue.

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1905 No. 12

CONCERT TO-NIGHT

Parland-Newhall Co., to Give Entertainment in Lutheran Church.

The second number of the Y. M. C. A. lecture course, which was recently ushered in so auspiciously by the Katherine Ridgeway Concert Co., will be given this evening in the Lutheran church. This number consists of the Parland-Newhall Company—male quartette and bell ringers. The company is a new one here but it comes highly recommended. The program will comprise a number of vocal and instrumental selections by the four members of the company, and also various numbers on the five octaves of bells. Tickets on sale at Heiser's Drug Store and the door.

Communications.

"The Orange and Blue," invites communications, but does not necessarily agree with the opinions expressed therein. All communications must be signed, though the name will not be published if so desired.

To Editor "Orange and Blue":—

Often the question is heard "Why are Literary Societies at Bucknell so lacking in spirit?" Frequently all blame for the condition is thrown on fraternities and similar organizations. But after careful consideration the writer is inclined to ascribe a more pertinent reason.

This deeper reason is that the members of the societies do not take a sufficient interest in the society. Everything connected with the societies is carried on with a perfunctory air. There is no life, no spirit. Even the officers who should have the best interests of the society at heart are careless and frequently absent from the meetings. With such an example, there is little wonder that committees fail to do their duties in posting programs or in notifying members of their assignments. In as much as these as well as other important duties evolve on the officers, the question is pertinent, "Why are not the best qualified persons selected to fill the respective offices?" As the time of election is approaching, it is perhaps fair to suggest that a more careful consideration be given to the selection of proper men for these positions.

When the best officers available have been selcted, it should be impressed upon them that programs should be made out with a view of bringing something new, something interesting before the societies. With this end in view officers should spend some time in the preparation of a program. Not only Freshmen and Sophomores but upper classmen as well, should be induced to take part. The question of how this can be accomplished then suggests itself. By way of suggestion, if the member were given the privilege of selecting his own subject, one of life and interest to himself, is it not probable that he will make it of life and interest to the society as well? Thus by a small amount of personal endeavor on the part of the proper officers, can not the best literary talent of the college be brought forth and a new spirit be awakened? "1907"

What We Owe to College Activites.

Since the Glee and Dramatic clubs have made their appearance at Bucknell, the question naturally arises, "What do the students owe to these movements as new forms of activity in college life?" These two organizations have come to stay, and thus this becomes of paramount importance to every loyal student.

College life is what the fellows make it, and each student helps to make his own course in college a means of benefit and pleasure, or a source of worry and discomfort. That a college education should be worth something to every man is set down as an established fact. This would make it seem that life at Bucknell is dependent on each man for its value to the student-body, but not necessarily. Every one owes a certain duty to his Alma Mater,—a duty to do something for her welfare and honor. Those who have undertaken the task of reviving the two important factors in our college life are surely doing their work for old Bucknell. It stands to reason that such movements do not embrace the entire student-body, nor could they. If they do not give every man in college a chance to develop along these lines they are no more selfish than the ordinary college activity, for does every college man learn to play the piano, try his strength on the gridiron, or excel in oratorical contests? Such wide representation is altogether impossible.

Those who do not form a part in the Dramatic or Glee clubs owe their support to the productions of the two organizations. The size of the audience at the Glee club concert, and the small number of college men present proves that there was a large percentage of the fellows some place else than the entertainment. The attendance at the production of "A Modern Ananias" was not nearly as large as was expected. If the students will not support these movements, who will? Should the college organizations be forced to depend on patronage of the public for their maintenance? Such good-will is appreciated, but neglect on the part of the college men is equally distasteful. Time and cost could not be brought as argument against either undertaking, for they were both arranged for a convenient time, and the price of admission in either case was moderate.

The permanency of both organizations seems to be assured, but the majority of us must feel that we have been very lax in regard to movements that should excite a deeper interest. The ideal college man is the man that is well rounded out, broad-minded, and ever ready to stand for his college. Here some have failed to show that thye have in them the proper stuff. When the opportunity presents itself again, let us be ready to do what will be for the best interests of ourselves and our college.

"A SENIOR."

Frank Captain of 1906 Eleven.

The members of the football team met on Saturday morning and unanimously elected Frank, '08, captain of next year's eleven. Frank has played on the 'Varsity for two years, and is an all-around man. This season he has been in every game, and has played good consistent football. As a quarter-back he is plucky, and uses good generalship. The choice of the members of the team meets with the approval of the studentbody.

The honor system has been approved by the Amherst faculty and is now in operation in that college.

MINSTRELS ORGANIZE

Dramatic Club and Minstrels to Form a Permanent Organization.

Those who were interested in Bucknell Minstrels met Monday. It was decided to run the minstrels in connection with the Dramatic club, and thus a permanent organization was effected. The following officers were elected: President, Hennessy; Sec., Powell; Manager, Grimminger; Pianist, Leach; and Musical Director, Burrows.

Vaccination.

A general announcement has been made that all students of the University must present to the Registrar a certificate showing successful vaccination. After this week a notice will be sent to each student, personally, who has not already done so, to present such certificate before the close of the term. State Health Commissioner Samuel G. Dixon in a communication to the Philadelphia Press in regard to vaccination says:

"Those in charge of schools in Pennsylvania are not required to refuse admission to persons until they are vaccinated, because the Department of Health has so ordained. It is the law of the Commonwealth, a law passed for the protection of the public health, and, as the safeguarding of the health of the people of Pennsylvania has been entrusted to this department, the commissioner proposes to see to it that this health law passed by the State Legislature and approved by the Governor of the Commonwealth on June 18, 1895, and still in full force, is carried out."

Gymnasium Work.

Coach Hoskins has charge of the gymnasium work which is required during the winter term, and on December the sixth he issued a call for all those who must take the course in physical training to report at Tustin Gymnasium to be measured. The gymnasium is provided with the apparatus such as usually found in well furnished gymnasiums. The Directors of the physical training class examine every student, taking and recording in a book his physical measurements, and prescribing such exercise as may be required for his physical development. Regular exercise in the Gymnasium is required of all students during the winter term and the measurements are taken this term so that the work may be begun promptly with the opening of the next term.

A Gift to the Library.

Through the kindness of Mr. Hopper, Chairman of the Board of Trustees the Modern Language Department has procured "Kurschner's Deutsche National Litteratur" a complete collection of Germany's literary treasures from the earliest times up to Goethe's death (222 volumes, 12 mo., half mor.;) "R. M. Meyer's Die deutsche Litteratur im 19. Jahrhurdert;" and "G. Koennecke's Bilderatlas zur Geschichte der deutschen Nationallitteratur." From Goethe' death up to the present the department intends to add separate editions of the various authors. As circumstances may demand and allow. In the same manner the French collection is to be enlarged and completed.

Basket-ball Practice Begins.

In response to a call from Captain Lenhart thirty basketball candidates reported at Tustin Gymnasium for practice on Tuesday afternoon. The prospects for a good team seem to be fairly bright. The class of 1905 took a whole basket-ball team with them, and left Bucknell with but one old 'Varsity man in the field. Some good new men have made their appearance and these together with the men who played against the 'Varsity during all of last year should compose a good five.

Captain Lenhart is the lone member of last year's 'Varsity, and he will probably be the mainstay of the team. Wagner, who substituted on the 190 4-5 team and who was kept out of football on account of a broken shoulder sustained during the summer vacation, will doubtless fill one of the guard positions this season. Of the other old men Claypoole, Goldsmith, and Lose, on account of their training on last year's second team, stand excellent chances for places.

Of the new men Freetly, who was the quickest and most experienced man, has left college. He showed training and a knowledge of the game, and would have filled a forward position creditably if he had remained in attendance. There are many others who will develop into fast men after a certain amount of coaching.

From these men, as likely candidates for 'Varsity positions, we should be able to expect a good team. All have had thorough training, and understand the game. The schedule which will be announced next week contains some hard games.

R. R Galley Coming.

On Wednesday evening of this week Mr. R. R. Galley, of Tientsin, China, will speak in Bucknell Hall at 8.30 o'clock. As previously announced Mr. Galley, who a few years ago was Princeton's famous foot-ball centre, has spent six years as Y. M. C. A. secretary at Tientsin, China, where he has been successful in gaining the confidence and good will of the Chinese officials and the literati. Many of the former class have contributed liberally to the association work, a noteworthy fact in the light of the conservatism of those people.

For the past two years Mr. Galley has been assisted in his work by Charles W. Harvey, Bucknell, '00, and for this reason he comes to Bucknell with special interest. He will doubtless have a good word for Mr. Harvey.

We hope to see two or three hundred students out to hear Mr. Galley. Let us show our sympathy for his noble work by our presence.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Reiff, of Conshohocken, Pa., announce the engagement of their daughter, Ella de H., to J. Wallace Green, of Norristown, Pa. Congratulations "Wally."

It is reported that Mr. and Mrs. Green will reside in Lewisburg after the holiday season.

Freshmen Meet in Bucknell Hall.

The Freshmen met in Bucknell Hall on Friday afternoon at four o'clock. The Vice-president presided over the meeting. It was voted to give the football jerseys out before Christmas. The L'Agenda cut was decided upon definitely, and will be sent for at once.

BUCKNELL RESERVES

This Year's Second Team Deserves Praise For Loyalty.

Seldom does one find a Reserve team that works as faithfully as has our own team this year. Not often during the entire season has the 'Varsity been without a strong "scrub" team to line up against. On one night shortly before the class games there were five elevens on Athletic Field all anxious for practice. In former years Coach Hoskins has had some trouble with his squad owing to the lack of interest among the men in regard to the practice of the 'Varsity.

The season of 1905 has been free from this fault, and all honor and praise is due to those who so faithfully have sacrificed their time, their outings, their many sources of pleasure, and themselves that Bucknell might make a good showing on the gridiron.

Last year during the latter part of the season the 'Varsity was often left without a team to line up against. The efforts of Coach Hoskins to instill spirit into the men were fruitless. This year things have been quite different. Captain Evans has been a great factor toward the success of the second team. He has taken an unusual interest in the development of the "scrubs," and although the team has won few games, they have played good football considering the fact that they are never coached by any one man for a long time. Besides, they have played against teams that train continually and are coached by college stars or all-around players. The Williamsport High School team belongs to this class, and is doubtless the best high school team in this end of Pennsylvania.

That the Reserves have been so successful both in their relation to the 'Varsity and in regard to their own schedule goes to prove that the adoption of a rule by the Athletic Association by which every player on the "scrub" team would be awarded a "B-Second" was a commendable act. The Reserve team needs something to work for, some incentive for their efforts. They have a very hard task to perform, and they go far toward determining the condition and standard of the 'Varsity eleven.

The second team is a sort of school for the development of 'Varsity material, and every man who has played on this year's scrub should have learned the rudiments of the game and should therefore stand well in line for a position on the first eleven in the season of 1906.

The fondest hope of every true Bucknell athlete is the ever-glorious, much adored "B." The man who plays football that the name of his college may be kept high in the estimation of the intercollegiate world is the one who deserves honor. The members of the second eleven certainly have few other incentives offered than the hope of some day wearing the "B." In this sense the Reserves of Bucknell and of every other college are true athletes, men who ought to be praised for their loyalty to their Alma Mater.

By action of the Northumberland county court this morning mandamus was granted for the erection of the free bridge at Lewisburg.

Editorial

We have finished our football season, and it has been one full of reverses. The class of 1905 took from our team six men who would have been able to play on any team in the land, and left but five old players to form a nucleus for this year's eleven. This has been one of the main causes for our poor showing on the gridiron this season. The team was composed of an unusually large number of Freshmen who never had any experience, and who had to be trained to the college game. The preparatory school serves as a good place for a player to learn the rudiments of football, but few of the high school teams are under the direction of efficient coaches. Bucknell has been forced to go on the field with men who lacked both training and experience.

This year's schedule, too, was a very hard one, and with but two insignificant games beforehand, our eleven faced Cornell on Percy field. The big "C" looks especially great to a man who has never before faced a large college team.

The year has been a disastrous one, and yet we feel that we can look with confidence for a winning team next year. Practically all the old men will return, and with a year's coaching and experience on their shoulders they should be able to make an enviable record in 1906.

SLIPS THAT WE MAKE.

"Wait on me." How many times we have heard this cry sound across the campus. One would think that the speaker was some agonized female at a bargain hunt running about trying to induce some overworked clerk to wait on her. The speaker usually means, "Wait for me." Sometimes the cry is further embellished by a "wunce." Would that we could get rid of that "wunce." It sounds everywhere, on the athletic field, at the dining table and even invades the class room.

One of the most noticeable mistakes is the use of "have a right to," meaning ought to. We "had a right" to do this and that and the other thing until our rights are as numerous as our mistakes. The use of the past assertive tense instead of the perfect to denote completed action is one "slip up." "He didn't go then yet" demands considerable thought of a stranger before he is able to translate it as "he hadn't then gone." We persist, too, in using superfluous "any mores" in saying eye-dea instead of i-de-a and in using u instead of l and e in final syllables, l. e., Pilgrum instead of Pilgrim, hallowud instead of hallowed, and licunse instead of license.

Men who are in college should speak purer English than we hear at Bucknell. We can at least do better than the Sophomore who, on last Friday, said "had saw."

"A JUNIOR."

President Harris has announced that vaccination certificates be required of every student of the university. This action was made necessary by section 12, of the Act of Assembly, June 18, 1895. This act states that all school authorities are required to refuse admission of any person to the schools under their charge or supervision except upon a certificate signed by a physician setting forth that such person has been successfully vaccinated, or that he has previously had small-pox.

These certificates should be handed in to the Registrar at once. They will be recorded by him in a book kept for that purpose, and then returned to the student. In this record will appear the name of the student, the name and address of the physician, and the date of certificate showing successful vaccination.

Those who have been successfully vaccinated can obtain certificates from their physicians, and these will be accepted. No time should be lost in producing certificates. Last year the same plan was used, and it proved to be a very good one. Registrar Gretzinger has received word from the Department of Health at Harrisburg congratulating Bucknell in regard to the stand, take in the matter, and it is now the duty of every student to procure a certificate and have it recorded as quickly as possible.

As the time for holding the class banquets draws near a word in regard to the places of holding them would be timely. The experience of the present Senior class, who took their banquet to Harrisburg in their Sophomore year, and that of the present Sophomore class in going to Wilkesbarre last year seem to point forcibly to the conclusion that it is not the best plan to take the banquets so far from home.

These two examples are too fresh in our minds to be overlooked. In both instances the attendance at the banquets was not as good as it would have been had the banquets been held at some nearer place. Time, cost, and inconvenience are to be considered, and these are sufficient reasons for the suggestions. There are many in every class who cannot afford to spend so much money for a little affair, and banquets are successful only so far as the members of the class attend.

By a rule of the Western College Conference, freshmen are prohibited from playing on 'varsity football teams.

Honor in Examinations.

The Princeton "Honor System" has been the cause of wide and varied discussion in different sections of the collegiate world, and although it has not received universal acceptance, many colleges have adopted the method. Amherst is the most recent college to adopt this form of carrying on examinations. The success of the plan at Princeton proves that it is far from impossible.

Bucknell has never taken any such step, and present conditions do not point very forcibly to the conclusion that such a plan will be adopted very soon. There are reasons for not doing this at Bucknell and the move is not expected. The examinations in our college are under the supervision of some member of the faculty. The results thus obtained are, as a rule, satisfactory, and this speaks for the continuance of the present plan. In view of the fact that "exams" are to be carried on as they have been for many years, it seems quite natural to suggest that a bit of honor theory be brought into our examinations.

Very many feel when an instructor is placed in the class-room to conduct an "exam" that it would be accomplishing a great thing to "crib" before his eyes. Here is where the question of honor enters in.

The average man will write down on paper what he knows about a given set of questions, and hand it in; the dishonest man will try to gather up as much as he can from what his neighbor knows, what his book can give him, and what his "trot" contains. This is the person who makes an examination seem dreadful to the honest, honorable student. To eliminate this element from the student-body is an impossibility, and the best thing is to endeavor to make the number as small as possible. Every man can aid the instructor in accomplishing this end; first, by being honest himself; second, by influencing as many as he can to act fairly and squarely in examinations.

Dance in Armory.

A formal dance was held in the Armory on Friday evening. Thirty-five couples attended and all had a very pleasant time. Excellent music was furnished by the Imperial Orchestra of Lewisburg. The decorations made the hall appear very artistic and the refreshments were a feature of the evening's entertainment.

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1905 No. 13

MEETING OF BUCKNELL A. A.

Officers and Managers Elected. Reports Submitted.

The annual meeting of the Bucknell Athletic Association was held in Tustin Gymnasium on Saturday morning at eleven o'clock. The meeting was called to order by President Sheppard and the two hundred members present listened to the reading of the minutes of last year's meeting by Secretary McCall. There was little interest manifested owing to the lack of competition for the different offices. The only office that was balloted upon was that of Assistant Football Manager. The season-ticket plan brought the attendance of the fellows up considerably.

The report of Treasurer Gardner was the first to be submitted to the action of the association, and it was accepted as follows:

Football Manager Kech then submitted his report for the season just closed, and it was approved as read:

Total ....$	1450.38
Loss	16.79

This is an excellent report considering the fact that the management did not have any big games such as we have had in former years. The Indian game has been our financial mainstay and this sum is greatly missed in the account. Besides, Georgetown refused to pay the promised guarantee and that game was played for expenses. Our schedule contained some good games, and it is fortunate that we realize so well on the entire season.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Hall, '07; Vice President, Bernhard, '07; Secretary, Higby, '08; Treasurer, Riggs, '07. Olmsted was elected to office of Ass't Field and Track Manager in the place of Reimensnyder, '07, whose death caused the vacancy. Snyder, '08, and Whitby, '07, were chosen for the Finance Committee.

Two resignations were filed and accepted. The first was that of Minor, '07, from the office of Assistant Baseball Manager to which he was elected last spring. Evans, '07, was chosen to fill the place. On March 20, 1905, Professor F. E. Rockwood resigned from the Advisory Committee of football, baseball, and basketball. His resignation was accepted and a vote of thanks was extended to Prof. Rockwood for his untiring efforts and faithful service in the interest of Bucknell athletics as a member of the Advisory Committee. President Sheppard had appointed Prof. Thomas on football and Prof. Wolfe on baseball and basket-ball and the Association decided that these men should continue to serve in the same capacities.

Thompson, '08, was elected Assistant Football Manager. The following amendment to the constitution was adopted on recommendation of the Football Advisory Committee:

"That the substitutes of the 'Varsity eleven shall be awarded a four inch block B. U., and the members of the Reserves be awarded a three-inch block B 2 with a one-inch block 2 placed to the right, above the B, the same to be worn on left side of the jersey. That awarding of said insignia shall be subject to the approval of the excentive committee of the Football department; this amendment to go into effect so as to include those who played on the football squad during the season of 1905.

Interesting Address in Bucknell Hall.

Bucknell Hall was filled on Wednesday evening by students and towns people assembled to hear Rev. R. R. Galley, a returned missionary, from Tientsin, China. Mr. Galley's presence was of especial interest to Bucknell students because of his close fellowship and co-work with Charles W. Harvey, '00, of Bucknell.

Mr. Galley told of the conditions found in this city, of over one million inhabitants at the beginning of his work in 1898. He then described the existing conditions and the opportunities for the future. He said in part: China is not reawakening, for the never was asleep; China is being modernized by her contact with modern nations. It is only a matter of time until she will take her place in the sisterhood of nations. In the changing conditions the greatest factor is education. A new system of education will take the place of the old competitive system, in July, 1906, according to an edict by the Emperor. In this new life China is looking to her greatest friend, the United States; to this country is China looking for teachers and education. Here is America's opportunity. China does not mean the "yellow peril;" China means the "golden opportunity."

After the address, President Barton of the Y. M. C. A. caused to be passed envelopes for the Harvey fund and announced that $200 was desired from Bucknell this year. About $80 of this sum was subscribed.

Note—Any one desiring to subscribe to this fund, see Barton, '06.

JOHN IRVEN WOODRUFF.

JOHN IRVEN WOODRUFF

Sketch of Bucknell Alumnus Since His Graduation from College.

John Irven Woodruff, Dean of Susquehanna University, has been very successful since his graduation from Bucknell in 1890. Since he left college his work has been of a high order, and his advancement has been steady.

Prior to entering Bucknell Professor Woodruff taught in public schools for two years. He then began his preparation for college at Missionary Institute, Selinsgrove, Pa. This institution has since been developed into Susquehanna University. After finishing a course of work in the Seminary, he entered Bucknell and graduated, in the classical course, in 1890, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Arts. At that time the honors were designated by orations; his was the "First Class Oration." He was a member of Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity.

After graduation Prof. Woodruff taught for one year at Rising Sun, Md., as principal of Friends Normal Institute (1890-1891.) He was principal of Mifflin Academy (1891-1892) and in the following year was elected to the chair of Latin and History at Missionary Institute, 1892. The degree of Master of Arts was awarded to him from Bucknell in June, 1893. The next year Missionary Institute was expanded into Susquehanna University. Under the new order of things he became professor of Latin and English.

The success of Professor Woodruff at the University was marked, and in June, 1901, he was elected Dean of Susquehanna. The President, Dr. Chas. W. Husler having resigned during the summer, he served as Acting President for 1901-2. Again, he conducted the University as Dean during the non-resident presidency of Dr. Geo. W. Enders during the years 1902-3 and 1903-4. In the spring of 1903 he received from Wittenberg college, Springfield, Ohio, the degree of Doctor of Literature (Litt. D.) During the years of Deanship and active Presidency he taught in connection with the English, the Philosophical and Metaphysical branches and since 1904 has been Professor of English.

Professor Woodruff has always taken a deep interest in education in general, and for the last five or six years has been an instructor in various teachers' institutes. On December 4, he addressed the Annual Teachers' Meeting at Middleburg, Pa., on the subject "How to teach Literature in Public Schools.

Since his graduation he has ever been one of our most active alumni, and in 1903 was "Alumni Poet." He has always been a friend of Bucknell, her faculty and students, and his life promises to be one full of still greater usefulness.

Football "B" Awarded.

The Football Committee met Tuesday and awarded The 'Varsity "B" to the following members of the football team:

Cooper, '05, (Capt.), Frank, '08 Baldwin, '08. Lenhart, '08. Blinn, '08. Goldsmith, '06. Shade, '09. Tolbert, '09. Olendorf, '09. McNinch, '07. Winegardner, '09. O'Brien, '09. Kech, '06, (Mgr)

The committee also awarded the "B. U."s to the following students.

Wm. Hawk, '07. Piersol, '08. Frymire, '07. Snavely, '07. David Hawk, '08. Shorkley, '07. Martin, '09.

The following reserves were awarded B 2 which is a three inch block B and a one inch block 2 placed on the left side of the sweater.

Evans, '07. Harris, '08. Claypool, '06. Hayes, '08. Vernam, '09. Mathias, '09. Baldwin, '09. Kerschner, '08. Sayre, '07. Shorkley, '07. Haggerty, '09. Granfield, '09. Mgr. Fasset, '07.

L'Agenda Board Outlines Work.

The 1907 L'Agenda board met recently to lay plans for the production of one of the best annuals Bucknell has produced. The editor reviewed briefly the present status of the work. He urged the necessity of having all pictures of groups and individuals taken at an early date, especially photographs of the Juniors. It was decided to extend a general invitation to all those in college, who have any literary talent, to hand in contributions, subject, of course, to rejection if unsuitable. Proper credit will be given in the volume to all who contribute.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

Manager Claypool Arranges For Ten Home Games.

Manager Claypool announces the following basket-ball schedule:

Mansfield Normal at Lewisburg, Jan. 12.
Susquehanna University at Lewisburg, Jan. 19.
Villa Nova College at Lewisburg, Jan. 26.
Lebanon Valley College at Lewisburg, Feb. 2.
Geneva College at Lewisburg, Feb. 9.
Swarthmore College at Lewisburg, Feb. 10.
Open, Feb. 17.
Gettysburg College at Lewisburg, Feb. 22.
Dickinson Law School at Lewisburg, Feb. 24.
Gettysburg College, at Gettysburg, March 3.
Muhlenburg College at Lewisburg, March 9.
Lehigh University at Lewisburg, March 17.
Open, March 24.

One of the open dates will likely be filled by the Williamsport Y. M. C. A. team. The manager is endeavoring to get another game on the Gettysburg trip, and has offers from several good teams. The Wilkesbarre team is making a trip through this section and wants a game with Bucknell; they have games scheduled with Bloomsburg, Williamsport, and State. The management would be able to secure a game from them for a low guarantee, and it would doubtless be a good one judging from the reputation of the team in the past years.

The schedule contains some good games and should give the lovers of basket-ball at Bucknell an opportunity to see good exciting contests. Many colleges new to us appear on the schedule. The game with Geneva College takes the place of the one with Allegheny and should prove to be an attraction. Swarthmore and Lehigh are both new. Swarthmore was scheduled for a game last season, but it was not played. Lehigh will, doubtless, be the hardest contest and it comes near the close of the season when the team will be in good form. One noticeable feature of this year's schedule is the large number of home games. Basket-ball is a favorite sport at Bucknell and this year we will see a good line of games.

Communications.

To Editor "Orange and Blue":—

The thoughtlessness of those who on Hallowe'en removed the steps from in front of West College has been the cause of extreme inconvenience to many of us. The steps were not destroyed, for they were taken to some other place in a first class condition. We need those steps, and unless they are replaced there will probably be some accident before the close of the winter. At present, we are forced to slide down the embankment in a sea of mud. We confess that those who took the steps away acted unwisely; but they used discretion in not destroying them. Those who live in West College feel the need of these steps more and more each day, and we wish for their return.

Editorial

The permanent organization of the Dramatic club and Bucknell Minstrels has been effected, and the movement is received in open arms by the student-body. Under a single management both organizations will be able to offer better productions and competition between them will be avoided. In former years the Minstrels have not been so successful as they would have been, had their organization been more complete. This year the step of placing the Minstrels under the direction of an organized managing staff has been wisely taken, and prospects for a good production are very bright.

Another commendable feature of the Bucknell Minstrels is the fact that they are open to wider competition than ever before. Every man with a desire in this direction is given a chance to show that he is capable of filling a place on the program. We do not mean anyone to infer that the best men have not filled the places heretofore, but the field for work has never been so wide as it is made by the action of the present management. All organizations that are supposed to display the talent along any particular line at Bucknell must necessarily be competitive.

Since the opportunity is so freely given we should embrace it. Many feel that the success of the various productions given by the Dramatic club and similar organizations depends entirely upon those who have charge of the matter. This is an erroneous conception. The value of any undertaking to the student-body is commensurate with the number of fellows the movement embraces. The management of the Minstrels has opened the way for every man to show his talent and ability. The best success of the Minstrels is placed in the hands of the students, and our efforts in this direction will determine it. If the best material at Bucknell comes out for the Minstrels, then, the best possible production will be the result.

The action of the editors of the 1907 L'Agenda, in opening their book to all contributors, is very commendable. In former years this has been customary to a certain extent, but each class has been rather jealous to have appear in their annual the work of the members of their own class.

The college annuals are always of a high order, and yet it seems that such a broad plan makes better results possible. The best work of all the members of the college would naturally be the best representation of the grade of work capable of being done at Bucknell. Since the way has been opened, there should be numerous articles handed in to the editors, and everyone with any ability along literary lines should try their hand at the work. We will look for a good book from the present Junior class, and we can all make this better by giving a little of our time, and by extending a bit of our energy towards the production of the L'Agenda.

The examinations of the next few days will close the first term of our college year and usher in the Christmas vacation. We can look back over the three months that have passed and see what we have done. To some of us this will be pleasant; to others it will be discouraging. There are those of us who are satisfied with the work we have accomplished; there are some who are, no doubt, discouraged; there are others who are disappointed. Those of us who feel that we have done the best we could, have no field for progress, and will stand still. The artist who can find no fault in his production has reached the height of his glory.

There is more to do than to look back over the work of last term, we should determine what we will do next term. If we have succeeded thus far in our course we should endeavor to do even more, and if we have failed to come up to our own standard, we should keep that standard just as high, and work harder. We are here for a well-rounded out education, and we are the one's who determine us to how far we shall succeed in getting it.

The Y. M. C. A. makes the announcement that this year they wish to raise $200 for the support of our representative in the mission field, Charles Way Harvey. This man is an alumnus of our college, and if any one deserves our support in this direction, he surley does. Every year Bucknell sends a fund to the missionary field known as the "Harvey Fund." Let everyone contribute liberally this year.

The report of the football manager Koch should receive the approval of everyone. This season has been a hard one both in regard to the schedule played, and in regard to the inexperience of the team as a whole. There was no big game this year to yield a surplus, and to come out so well financially is commendable.

Vacation.

College closes for the Christmas vacation on Thursday. The second term begins on Wednesday, January 3, 1906. The President does not grant excuses for Thursday or Friday of the first week of school; an unexcused absence counts materially against one, so a prompt resumption of work is advantageous.

Varsity Overwhelms Second Team.

The first game of the basket-ball season was played on Friday night between the 'Varsity and "scrubs." The game was very one-sided and resulted in a victory for the 'Varsity by the score of 59-6.

The position of the baskets has been changed and this made it hard for the men to locate it. The first few minutes of the game were exciting and for some time no score was made. The 'Varsity five soon began to score, and twelve baskets were rolled up against two by the second team. Taggert played in this half and did some clever work. Wagner succeeded in getting the largest number of baskets in the first half, having five to his credit.

In the second half O'Brien took Taggart's place at forward, and a new "scrub" team was put on the floor. Lenhart played well at forward throwing six baskets, and Claypool scored five times. The work of the men as a team was good considering that it was the first game of the season. By the time of the next game on Jan. 12, there will be marked improvement both in individual playing and in team work. The final score: 59-6.

The line-up:

VARSITY.		SCRUBS.
Lenhart	forward	Shirley
Taggert	forward	Shirley
Lose	center	Comstock
Wagner	guard	Gibboney
Claypool	guard	Rolfe

Substitutes, O'Brien for Taggert, Russell for Gibboney, Ritter for Ogden, Kase for Rolfe, and Granfield for Shirley. Goals: Lenhart 7, Wagner 5, Lose 5, Taggart 3, Claypool 6, O'Brien 3, Gibboney 1, Comstock 1, Russell 1. Goal from fouls: Lenhart 1. Referee, Hoskins. Time of halves 20 minutes.

College Locals

Frank Caruthers, '05, of Irvin, Pa., spent one day of last week among friends on the hill.

Delta Theta Upsilon gave an informal dance in their halls on Saturday evening.

The W. H. S. club, at a meeting last week, decided to give a reception the second Friday of next term.

Davis, ex-'07, was in town one evening of last week. He is employed in one of the large car works at Milton.

Professor Colestock will lecture to the Union county Teachers' Institute to be held in the Court House in Lewisburg, December 25 to 29.

It is reported that Freetly, '08, will return to college next term. This comes as good news for he is capable of creditably filling a forward position on the basket-ball team.

Reinhold Stolz, ex-'07, who at present is pastor of a Baptist church in Altoona, was visiting friends at college during the past week and receiving congratulations on his recent marriage.

Harold Perrine, '04, came home on Wednesday on a short visit with his father, Dr. Enoch Perrine. He is a traveling salesman covering a large territory over the country for a large firm in Philadelphia manufacturing neckwear.

Y. M. C. A. to Give Reception.

The Social Committee of the Y. M. C. A. deemed it wise to dispense with the football reception this term owing to the many other events that claimed the attention of the students. However, the work of the team is greatly appreciated by all Y. M. C. A. men, and in spite of the fact that the reception was not tendered, interest in college athletics is unabated.

The organization feels that mental, moral and physical development go hand in hand. Early next term a reception will be given which will be general in its purport.

Parland-Newhall Company.

The second number of the Y. M. C. A. Lecture Course drew a large and appreciative audience to the chapel of the Lutheran church on Monday evening, December 11, 1905. The attraction was the Parland-Newhall Company of Bell Ringers. Four artists of exceptional ability and great versatility composed the company. Their work with the bells was a revelation to the audience which showed its appreciation in continued outburst of applause. Besides excelling with the bells they presented a quartette of singers and also of brass instruments.

In an evening's entertainment of such merit it is impossible to select the strongest points but it is fair to say that in precision and versatility the Parland-Newhall Company excelled any company that has been presented in the Y. M. C. A. courses in recent years. If the remaining numbers on the Course for the present year prove as strong as those already presented, the Course of 1905-6 will be adjudged the best in the history of the Y. M. C. A.

BASKET-BALL SEASON OPENS.

Bucknell Wins From Mansfield in a Loosely Played Game.

Bucknell opened her basket-ball season on Friday night by defeating Mansfield Normal by the score of 25-11. The contest from start to finish was full of dash and the Normal boys kept in the game until the final whistle sounded.

The first half started off with a rush, and for nearly five minutes neither side was able to locate the baskets. All this time the ball was kept in Bucknell's territory; the Mansfield boys seemed to be everywhere at the same time, and consequently no goals resulted; the score stood 2-0 until O'Brien evened it up by scoring a goal for Bucknell. Mansfield was in the game at all times and often broke up the passing of the Orange and Blue five.

The second half was as lively as the first, but Bucknell got together and scored more easily. In the first part of the half it looked as though Mansfield has struck a faster pace, for several goals were scored with the beginning of play. The score 10-9 in favor of Bucknell stood until Lenhart threw a goal from foul. After this the Orange and Blue had little trouble in running up a number of points.

Neither team showed very good team work, and the playing of both sides was ragged, especially in the first half. O'Brien played a good game scoring six goals. The line-up:

BUCKNELL		MANSFIELD
Lenhart (capt.)	Forward	Mathews
Lose	Forward	Doane
O'Brien	Centre	Payne
Wagner	Guard	Trowbridge
Claypool	Guard	(Capt.) Murray

Goals; Lenhart 3, Claypool 2, Wagner 1, Matthews 1, Payne 3, O'Brien 6, Referee—A. W. Murray. Time of halves—20 minutes.

WEDDINGS.

Davis-Briggs.

The wedding of Miss Ella Mallon Briggs and Professor Nelson F. Davis was solemnized at the home of the parents of the bride, at Shelton, Conn on Wednesday, December twentieth, at high noon. It was a quiet home wedding and yet a very pretty one. The decorations were holly with red and white roses in keeping with the Christmas season. The bride wore her traveling costume and after the ceremony which was performed by Rev. E. J. Bosworth of New Rochelle, the entire party present consisting of members of the families only, sat down to a wedding breakfast served by Caterer Cook. The gifts were many and beautiful, consisting in the main of articles for use and beauty in the new home of the happy pair.

The bride is a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College and has pursued graduate work at Cornell University, Wood's Hole and Cold Spring Harbor. For several years she has been in charge of Biology in the high school at New Rochelle.

Prof. Phillips on Dr. Harper.

the regular meeting of the Min- ial Association last Thursday noon Prof. Phillips gave an in- al address on Dr. Harper, late ident of Chicago university, whose h is regretted particularly in edu- nal circles. This informal talk dsted of incidents drawn from Pro- or Phillip's personal acquaintance Dr. Harper.

rof. Phillips suggested that while Harper has died at the untimely of 49 years, yet he has done work of a full lifetime. When t years of age he entered preparaschool, graduated from college 14, and received the degree of tor of Philosophy at 18 years of . No course of education was too icult for him to attempt and to mpt was to master.

wonderful physique gave him power and energy required by enthusiastic pursuance of every se of educational work and addistinction. He was of a deep re- ous nature and did an extensive k in placing the Bible in the ools and in other fields of practi- use throughout the country. An ex- ent mind gave him remarkable vers of concentration and a mory that seldom forgot a name or face. He was always frank, outdoor and to the point in the classm and out.

Jen had a large place in the heart Dr. Harper and many owe their sent position of power to the inence of his encouragement. He beved in men and wanted to know nply that they could do something. As an educator and administrator has been acknowledged as the leader in America. He brought the cleanness and exceptional powers of work of scholars to the people and took much pains to put it in practical form. As a teacher he possessed clearness and exceptional powers of presentation. A strong personality won to him many men, and his frank way of demanding their best added much to the power and influence of this peer of educators.

THE NEW LIBRARY.

A Building Well Furnished and Containing Thirty Thousand Volumes.

The new Carnegie library built within three dollars of the appropriation has been in constant use since the last book was moved over from the old building during the vacation. There could be no better proof of the appreciation by the students of this splendid gift. The building is neatly and elegantly furnished, and offers a pleasant place for study.

Bucknell's library was established with the university in 1846 and since that time has enjoyed a steady growth. To-day there are nearly 30,000 volumes for the shelves of the new library. In this number are books treating on all subjects, and supplementing every department of instruction. The gifts to the library during the year of 1905 aggregate twelve hundred and twenty volumes.

The new library is sixty-four feet in depth, and ninety feet in length. The central reading room, thirty feet wide, runs through the full length of the building, is clear to the skylights, with gallery running entirely around it. The interior is in handsome oak finish with white trimmings. The library has a shelf capacity of 150,000 volumes, that of the lower floor being 30,000, and that of the stack rooms being 60,000 each.

Taking a glance into the future, the college may be pictured as crowning the entire hill; the library forming the center of a quadrangle, to be completed by the erection of an East college to match the present West college, and then duplicating the plant thus far on the South. This plan completed, the location of the library would be most advantageous. The building is so constructed that either end of the present library a transverse building may be added—these wings running north and south, and connecting immediately with the present library as a main section. Judging from Bucknell's rapid growth in the past decade, it will not be many years until this dream will be realized.

Juniors to Give "Prom" in February.

At a business meeting of the Junior class on Jan. 6, 1906, it was formally decided to hold the annual "Junior Prom" and a committee, consisting of the best representatives of the class, was appointed to arrange for the annual dance. The committee: Lemmon, chairman, August, Andrews, Baer, Beam, Brinker, Brockway, Burrows, Evans, Hawk, Heinze, Hinman, Leach, Manley, Oberdorf, Rockwell, Schuch, Smilgiski, Weddle, Wagner, and Zyzaskwert.

Since the appointment of the committee Chairman Lemmen called a meeting at which time it was decided to hold the "Prom" on February, 5th or 22rd, the choice depending on the facility of arrangements and the possibility of securing the Armory. For the first time since the Junior classes of Bucknell have been giving annual dances, a home orchestra will furnish the music.

Under election of officers at the class meeting J. Harry Schuch was elected manager of the class basketball team.

UNDER-CLASSMEN BANQUET

Freshmen and Sophomores Feast at Williamsport.

The Freshmen of Bucknell held their class banquet last Tuesday evening at the Park Hotel in Williamsport. The banquet is believed to have been the most successful that has yet been given by any class at Bucknell. With the exception of a few members detained by the Sophs, and four others, the entire class was present.

Zest was added to the affair by the happenings of the night before. On Monday when the Freshmen awakened to the fact that several of their men had been kidnapped by the wily Sophomores, they gathered in a room in West College, where they had several second year men imprisoned, for the purpose of holding a meeting. In a short time the Sophs gathered outside and began bombarding the first year students with water, ink, catsup, and lamp black. After a while those in the room broke forth upon their tormentors and over-powered them. The result of the conflict was that twenty of the Sophomores attached to a chain accompanied the Freshmen to the Reading depot when they departed at 9.50 Monday evening.

Shortly after nine o'clock on Tuesday evening those present betook themselves to the banquet hall. When all were finally seated it was found that 112 were on hand to enjoy the jolly good feast that was awaiting them.

The festivities were enlivened by the presence of an excellent orchestra that discours d airs continually.

The finishing of the Epicurean feature of the affair found the participants in a prime frame of mind for the even more pleasing portion of the program that was to follow—the toasts. The toasts were of a most excellent character, being brief and to the point. They were all well received and greatly enjoyed.

During the progress of the evening the Freshmen received word of the departure of the Sophomores from Lewisburg for the Updegraf, in Williamsport. They prepared for them a lively reception but were foiled by the reserve force of the Williamsport police.

The following Juniors were present; Miss Mary G. Stanton, Miss Ursula Parmley, W. W. Baker, H. L. Hall, Harold C. Godshall, C. F. Potter, C. C. Wagner, and Elkanah Hulley.

Sophomore Banquet.

The annual Sophomore banquet was held at the Hotel Updegraff at Williamsport, last Wednesday night, Jan. 10th, 1906.

The class left Montanden Tuesday night shortly after midnight over the Penna. R. R. in a special car. Arriving at Williamsport they found the whole Freshman class had completed their banquet and program and were waiting with hostile intent for '08, having previously been notified in detail of the Sophomores' plans. Both sides seemed anxious for the "fray" but the Williamsport police force who had heard of this unexpected meeting, to be, in the small hours of the morning, reinforced by their reserve squad prevented a conflict between the two classes.

The car containing the Sophomores was switched up and down on different tracks until the Freshmen were about exhausted in keeping up with it. Then it was taken at a fast rate to the Market St. station nearly a mile distant, which allowed '08 to cover the ground to the Updegraff hotel, about two squares distant, in a leisurely manner, unmolested. Here again, a large police guard prevented any trouble.

The banquet held on the following evening was a great success. An elaborate menu was served to which all did justice. Pres. Steele introduced fourteen speakers who responded to their toasts in a happy and fitting manner. About 2 a. m. the program was concluded, and it is safe to say that each Sophomore regretted that this, their last banquet was a thing of the past.

Prof. Phillips on Dr. Harper.

At the regular meeting of the Ministerial Association last Thursday afternoon Prof. Phillips gave an informal address on Dr. Harper, late president of Chicago university, whose death is regretted particularly in educational circles. This informal talk consisted of incidents drawn from Professor Phillip's personal acquaintance with Dr. Harper.

Prof. Phillips suggested that while Dr. Harper has died at the untimely age of 48 years, yet he has done the work of a full lifetime. When eight years of age he entered preparatory school, graduated from college at 14, and received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at 18 years of age. No course of education was too difficult for him to attempt and to attempt was to master.

A wonderful physicue gave him the power and energy required by his enthusiastic pursuance of every phase of educational work and administration. He was of a deep religious nature and did an extensive work in placing the Bible in the schools and in other fields of practical use throughout the country. An excellent mind gave him remarkable powers of concentration and a memory that seldom forgot a name or a face. He was always frank, outspoken and to the point in the classroom and out.

Men had a large place in the heart of Dr. Harper and many owe their present position of power to the influence of his encouragement. He believed in men and wanted to know simply that they could do something.

As an educator and administrator he has been acknowledged as the leader in America. He brought the clearness and exceptional powers of work of scholars to the people and took much pains to put it in practical form. As a teacher he possessed clearness and exceptional powers of presentation. A strong personality won to him many men, and his frank way of demanding their best added much to the power and influence of this peer of educators.

The January "Inter Collegiate."

The Inter collegiate magazine for January contains an interesting article on the educational system of New York city written by Kenneth Groesbeck. Pictures of all the men chosen by Walter Camp for the All-American football eleven appear. This first issue of the year is especially attractive.

"Short" Lawrence, '07, will resume work this term.

THE NEW LIBRARY.

A Building Well Furnished and Containing Thirty Thousand Volumes.

The new Carnegie library built within three dollars of the appropriation has been in constant use since the last book was moved over from the old building during the vacation. There could be no better proof of the appreciation by the students of this splendid gift. The building is neatly and elegantly furnished, and offers a pleasant place for study.

Bucknell's library was established with the university in 1846 and since that time has enjoyed a steady growth. To-day there are nearly 30,000 volumes for the shelves of the new library. In this number are books treating on all subjects, and supplementing every department of instruction. The gifts to the library during the year of 1905 aggregate twelve hundred and twenty volumes.

The new library is sixty-four feet in depth, and ninety feet in length. The central reading room, thirty feet wide, runs through the full length of the building, is clear to the skylights, with gallery running entirely around it. The interior is in handsome oak finish with white trimmings. The library has a shelf capacity of 150,000 volumes, that of the lower floor being 50,000, and that of the stack rooms being 60,000 each.

Taking a glance into the future, the college may be pictured as crowning the entire hill; the library forming the center of a quadrangle, to be completed by the erection of an East college to match the present West college, and then duplicating the plant thus far on the South. This plan completed, the location of the library would be most advantageous. The building is so constructed that either end of the present library a transverse building may be added—these wings running north and south, and connecting immediately with the present library as a main section. Judging from Bucknell's rapid growth in the past decade, it will not be many years until this dream will be realized.

Juniors to Give "Prom" in February.

At a business meeting of the Junior class on Jan. 6, 1906, it was formally decided to hold the annual "Junior Prom" and a committee, consisting of the best representatives of the class, was appointed to arrange for the annual dance. The committee; Lemmon, chairman, Aucant, Andrews, Baer, Benn, Brinker, Brockway, Burrows, Evans, Hawk, Heinze, Hinman, Leach, Manley, Oberdorf, Rockwell, Schoch, Smigelski, Weidle, Wagner, and Zugschwert.

Since the appointment of the committee Chairman Lemmon called a meeting at which time it was decided to hold the "Prom" on February, 9th or 23rd, the choice depending on the facility of arrangements and the possibility of securing the Armory. For the first time since the Junior classes of Bucknell have been giving annual dances, a home orchestra will furnish the music.

Under election of officers at the class meeting J. Harry Schuch was elected manager of the class basketball team.

THE WINTER TERM.

As the school year progresses we find ourselves becoming more and more adapted to the work we are undertaking, and capable of doing better work. The winter term is the one in which the best efforts are put forth, and, consequently, the best results are attained. This term covers the three cold months, and hence is conducive to study. Fewer activities demand the attention of the students; basket-ball is the leading sport and besides the gymnasium work is the only form of athletics in vogue.

Debating takes the most prominent place among the college activities, and Juniors will be working hard for places on the Junior debate. The new library will receive its share of use during the coming months, and will prove a valuable training to any who may choose to take advantage of it. The "grind" will grind still harder than he did in the beautiful fall season that has just passed; even the man who boasts that he worked so little during the last term will deign to study; the society man may forget his "society stunts" for a time, while the cold winter blasts are blowing, and take to hard work as a means of breaking his habitual routine. So we will all work this term, and when Spring comes we will be able to look back over the few months of diligent application, and congratulate ourselves on having accomplished something worth while.

The success of the "Orange and Blue" as a college weekly depends entirely upon the amount of effort put upon its production from time to time. The publication should represent the combined efforts of the student-body in so far as such a thing is possible. A certain number are chosen to see that the paper appears each week; on them rests the responsibility. If anything happens that escapes the notice of the editors, someone should take it upon themselves to hand it in. Communications on any topic of interest to the student-body are urged. These must be free from all personal references, and in every case must be signed. Communications open the field of work to every one in college, and it is hoped that during the coming term deeper interest will be taken in this respect than has been the case heretofore.

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS.

The New Year's resolutions have become quite popular among the American people, and we sometimes wonder if the man who is forced to make and break such resolutios year after year is not the worst man in the world. With many of us this is rather a precedent which we are impelled to follow, than any means of eradicating certain faults within ourselves. The year of 1906 is here, and we have heard different ones resolve upon different things. All these things seem to be confessions of weaknesses, shortcomings, faults, which ought to have been overcome long before the new year had made its appearance. But those who are accustomed to resolve upon a new way of living with each New Year's day will welcome 1906 as another opportunity.

THE OLD YEAR.

As the year of 1905 has been a memorable one in the history of the world, so it has been a great one in the history of Bucknell. An exceptionally large class was graduated and a larger one entered. The year was marked by the erection of two new and beautiful buildings,—the Carnegie Library, and the new Cottage for Women. Many other improvements were made about the college. Two new courses were added,—a course in Electrical Engineering, and one in Forestry; several of the other courses were strengthened. The success of our basket-ball team in 1905 was up to the Bucknell standard, and the baseball season was a good one, judging from the number of games won and from a financial point of view. In football we cannot boast of having done anything very creditable, but we, at least, paved the way for a successful season in 1906. Thus, Bucknell starts the new year with an exceptionally bright future. We hope soon to be able to have a new athletic field, an East college, and a thousand students enrolled. The growth of our college during the past ten years proves that this is but a picture of Bucknell a few years hence.

A Christmas Dance.

Delta Theta Upsilon gave a Christmas dance in their halls on Thursday evening, December 21, 1905. The rooms were decorated in red and green, and sprigs of holly and spruce scattered about here and there added to the attractiveness. There were twenty-five couples present and this went far toward making the event a successful one. Light refreshments were served during the evening. Twenty numbers were rendered by five pieces of Prof. Miller's Imperial orchestra.

Fraternity Initiations.

May Jones, Pi Beta Phi; Mary Evans, Delta Delta Delta; Edward Innes, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Philip Irey, Delta Theta Upsilon; Charles Baldwin and David Binns, Kappa Sigma; Barton Savidge, Phi Gamma Delta.

The Harvard basket-ball team of which Ralph Griffith, ex-'05, is captain lost to Pennsylvania on Jan. 6, by the score of 13-9. The Sunday Press said: "The feature of the game was the work of Captain Griffith." Griffith played on Bucknell during the season of 1904.

Minstrels to Begin Work.

The Dramatic association met Monday afternoon to lay plans for the production of a minstrel show sometime near the beginning of March.

From the present date every production of the student-body, musical, dramatic, or minstrel will be under the supervision of the Dramatic association. It was further decided at the meeting Monday that all casts, choruses, and the like should hereafter be selected by the officers of the association.

Preparations for the minstrels will begin at once, and prospects for a good, up-to-date show are very bright. The material is here; all that is needed is the proper development of the same into an interesting programme.

Dr. G. I. M'Leod, Eminent Physician, Dead.

Dr. George I. McLeod, '52, Bucknell's s cond oldest alumnus, secretary of the State Committee on Lunacy, and for thirteen years president of that body, died December 18, 1905, of pneumonia, in Bryn Mawr Hospital.

Dr. McLeod was born in Philadelphia and was graduated from Bucknell University and the University of Pennsylvania. H's father, George McLeod, a Scotchman, settled in Wellsboro, this State. After three years' service as resident physician in the Philadelphia Hospital, a service which was the basis of his work in after life, the young man entered the medical corps connected with troops from this State who fought in the Civil War. He became a member of the State Board of Charities eighteen years ago, and served continuously until his death. In January, 1903, he resigned the chairmanship of the Lunacy Committee of the board to become secretary.

Doctor McLeod served thirty-one years on the Twenty-seventh Sectional School Board. His wife, who died several years ago, was Miss Burtis. Three sons survive him, George J., Jr., Norman and Malcom M. McLeod. Norman McLeod married Miss Elizabeth Wanamaker, and Malcom married Miss Armina Rosengarten.

Preliminary to the Junior Debate.

The winter term will see a change of time for holding the annual debate of the Junior Class. In past years it has been customary to hold this debate during Commencement week, but owing to the large number of other attractions at that time it is believed that better results will be obtained by holding it during the present term.

The contestants held several preliminary debates last term and are now preparing for the final preliminary which will be held in a few days. The number who are trying for this debate is lamentably small in comparison to the number who took the preparatory courses of the Sophomore year.

The question to be discussed for the preliminary is the further Restriction of Immigration by an Illiteracy Test. Some phase of the Chinese Immigration question will be the subject of the final debate. Those who are "out" this year are: Cober, Whitney, Griffith, Bernhard, Brockway, Hulley, Hall and Baker.

Dr. Charles R. James Dead.

Charles R. James, '75, a member of Lehigh county bar, died at Allentown, Pa., on December 18, 1905, of apoplexy. He was a son of the late Chas. S. James, for many years professor of mathematics at Bucknell University. Mr. James was president of the Lehigh County Law and Order Society. Besides his second wife and four children, he leaves two brothers, the Rev. Dr. J. Sexton James, of Altoona and Dr. Edwin James, of Montana, and one sister, Mrs. Alice James Chambers, of West Chester, widow of the Rev. Dr. J. H. Chambers.

Got In Wrong.

Scarcely had Prof. Phillips begun his speech to the ministerial association when loud voices were heard in the hall. Someone rose from the meeting and went to the door, where he was confronted by two fellows on precisely the same mission. "Where is this minstrel meeting?" they asked, and without further ceremony they were ushered into Eneyia Hall.

The annual reception of the Academy boys under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. to the girls of Seminary and College will be held on Friday, March the third.

len from daily toil experiments of all dramatic but by no important of which ful attempt to snatch from heaven, a feat an anything he had him famous in Eu- rope. True to his commercial instinct he would not take a patent or any commercial advantage for himself, nor accept copyrights for his publications: he said that "as we enjoy great advantage from the inventions of others, we should be glad to give the world the benefit of our own. No one in the colonies could have made the money faster than he—he ceased to do so before the love of money had squeezed the life out of his heart.

Had Franklin confined himself strictly to printing and scientific pursuits of which he was passionately fond, he would easily have reached a high degree of eminence both at home and abroad. Yale and Harvard did him honor with the master's degree, Edinburgh and Oxford and St. Andrews crowned him with the docorate.

On being chosen President of Pennsylvania Franklin said: "I have not firmness enough to resist the unanimous desire of my country folks, and I find myself harnessed again to their service another year. They engrossed the prime of my life. They have eaten my flesh, and now seem resolved to pick my bones." Again in 1786 and in 1787 he was unanimously re-elected."

How many-sided he was. Social service, of which we hear so much,—in that he was a herald with few helpers, as he called men to hasten their progressive steps; a writer,—he sought only to increase by wise words lighted up with humor the intelligence of his countrymen; an amateur in science,—he made the most startling contribution then known to humanity, the Royal society indulged in laughter when they first heard of it; a business man,— he early struggled away from poverty and was ever after a strong tower for the defense of many others; a statesman,—he never lived for an hour upon his country; a philospher,—his keen observations are still quoted in many languages; a diplomat,—he thrust and parried with a blade finer than Saladin's; a conversationalist,— he stood before kings with as much ease and charm as before the men in his shop; a friend,—he forgot unkindness and misrepresentation, and drew his associates to him as with hooks of steel; superior to bitter disappointment and even to incurable disease he ranks to-day "among the greatest and rarest of men."

Inter-Class Basketball Schedule.

The following schedule for the inter-class basket-ball games has been announced:

Seniors vs. Juniors, Jan. 22, 4 p. m.
Juniors vs. Freshmen, Jan. 29, 4 p. m.
Seniors vs. Freshmen, Feb. 12, 4 p. m.
Seniors vs. Juniors, Feb. 29, 8 p. m.
Juniors vs. Sophomores, Mar. 6, 4 p. m.
Sophomores vs. Freshmen, Mar. 12, 8 p. m.

The schedule for the 'varsity has been completed by the addition of two games with the Williamsport Y. M. C. A. The first will be played at Lewisburg on Feb. 17; the second, at Williamsport, on March 9.

Season Tickets Must Be Produced.

The new finance committee have been having quite a little difficulty on account of the laxness of some of the fellows who hold season tickets. If everyone would remember that the present sommittee did not sell them the tickets, they would understand the position. If those who hold season-tickets would bring their little yellow cards with them to every game the work of the committee would be greatly facilitated.

Assault Case Settled.

The charge of assault and battery preferred against Mr. Bridge, of Lewisburg by Casimir Perrier, '08, has been settled before reaching court. Mr. Bridge realized that Perrier had a clear case against him and so agreed to pay all costs as well as a small balm for Perrier's wounded feelings.

BUCKNELL WINS EASILY

Susquehanna Plays Well But Loses by the Score of 27 to 8.

Friday evening "Ginger Teufel's Susquehanna University team was defeated by Bucknell in a most interesting contest. The score of 27 to 8 does not indicate the fierceness of the play. Bucknell's new 'Varsity showed a decided improvement in team play over the Mansfield game. The passing was good, but the shooting far from accurate. Wagner was the only man who had his eye on the basket Rolfe and Comstock were substituted in the second half, and both showed up well.

The early part of the first half was rather slow until Wagner scored the first goal, after that the Susquehanna boys seemed to wake up and made Bucknell fight for every point.

In the second half the play was so fierce at times that the large audidence was brought to their feet. Referee Hoskins called fouls repeatedly on both teams, but it had little effect on the play. Although the game was hard fought throughout, a very gratifying feature was the good spirit which was manifest among the players. Notwithstanding the fact that the Bucknell team is virtually an inexperienced combination, if the improvement continues they should prove to be a winning five for the hard games coming in the latter part of the season.

Benfer and Shaffer played the star game for Susquehanna.

The line-up:

BUCKNELL		SUSQUEHANNA
Lenhart (capt)	forward	Geis
Lose	forward	Benfer
O'Brien	centre	(capt.) Shaffer
Wagner	guard	Sunday
Claypool	guard	Weaver

Substitutions: Comstock for Wagner; Rolfe for Lose; Reinhart for Sunday. Goals from field: Wagner 5, O'Brien 3, Lenhart 4, Comstock 1, Shaffer 2. From fouls: Lenhart 1, Shaffer 4. Officials Hoskins and Teufel. Time of halves 20 minutes.

Indoor Relay Races at Philadelphia.

Bucknell has been invited to send a relay team to Philadelphia to compete in the annual Indoor Relay Races to be held in the First Regiment Armory, on February 22, 1906. The important events of the meet are: Inter-collegiate special two mile race, Yale-Pennsylvania; inter-collegiate special one mile race, Princeton-Pennsylvania; minor college Middle States intecollegiate rrelay indoor championship, Swarthmere, Lehigh, Lafayette State,, Bucknell, and other members of the A. A. U.

Track Team Elects Captain.

The members of the Track team met Saturday to elect a captain to fill the place of George Gaskill, '06, who will not return to college this year. John G. Denninger, '06, from Great Valley, N. Y. was elected to captain the team for the season of 1906.

Denninger is a two-mile runner and won his "B" in his Junior year. He will probably run in the distance events this season.

The loss of Gaskill will be felt keenly, since it leaves but one member of last year's relay team—Irey, '08.

A Fancy.

The dusk fell in love with the dawn—fell deep,
Lo, borne on the ebbing tide unbreaking
He waits till Day enters his kingdom of sleep
And touches him into awaking.

Then he wanders forth with his silent trail
Of mists and shadows and slumber and dreams
And he calls with the voice of the nightingale
For his love through the pale stargleams.

He lingers and murmurs and sighs through the trees
Till the moon tries to drown the stars in her light,—
One long purple gaze through the quivering breeze,
He is lost in the chambers of night.

Unseen and unheard he seeks through the gloom
'Mid spirits with pinions and robes far-sweeping
Till there in the last, long,dim chill room
Night gives her up to his weeping.

And borne on the waves' inflooding surge,
With the voice of the lark's glad upward flight,
While the moon slow faints on the sea's low verge,
She blushes herself into sight.

One rose-flung breath, one clasp—gold seamed,
Her azure robes into morn have swept,
Back he flees to the land of dreams undreamed,
To his kingdom of sleep unslept.

S cond Poem in Heine's "Harzreise."
Translated by C. F. Potter, '07.

Mount ye up, ye oldtime visions;
Open thou, my heart's closed door.
Songs of joy and tears of sadness
Forth in wondrous torrent pour.

Through the fir-tree I will ramble
Where the sparkling fountain springs,
Where the proud stag wanders stately,
Where the darling throstle sings.

I will climb far up the mountain,
Up the rugged, rocky height
Where the ancient castle-ruins
Boldly greet the morning light.

There I seat myself in silence;
There I think how, long ago,
Noble houses grandly flourished.
Gone long since are pomp and show.

Grass now decks the place of tourney
Where of old the haughty lord
Conq'ring e'en the country's noblest,
Won with ease the prized reward.

Ivy twines about the terrace
Where, with merry laughing eyes,
Looking down, the fair dame conquered
Him who proudly bore the prize.

Ah, both victor and his lady
Now lie low by Death's harsh hand.
That rude scythe-knight shows no favor,
Strikes us all down on the sand.

ter, will come to the front fairly and put no obstacles in the way. There is no doubt but that the resumption of relations would be of great benefit to each college athletically and financially.

If this matter can be brought to a head, we would suggest that each college appoint a committee consisting of one member of the faculty, one alumnus and two undergraduates, to meet and draw up articles of agreement for a definite period; consisting of rules of eligibility, etc. We would like to see Bucknell and State playing basketball this winter, yet this may be somewhat premature; but there is no reason why two baseball games cannot be scheduled.

The arrangement of this reconciliation may be a rather delicate matter, but the authorities of either institution should not leave too much col-

Fire in S. A. E. House.

A fire broke out about eleven o'clock Wednesday morning in a study-room on the second floor of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house. But for the timely action in putting out the blaze the building would have been destroyed; as it was, the personal effects of several of the fellows living in the house were destroyed. Considerable damage was done to the room in which the fire started. The origin of the blaze is unknown.

ROY W. HOON, '06.

All day long the old dormitory had rung and clattered as the fall immigration of college men strung in. From his room on the first floor, Gerst could see the travel worn file hurrying past his door and on down the long dim hall.

He was a new man at school and his scant supply of decorations had soon been scattered over the bare walls of his room. This work finished, he now sat on his trunk watching the passing line outside and enjoying the cool air that floated from the hall through his room. Under his door he could see the hollow in the floor worn by fifty years of college leather. In the cool air filtering past him lurked the faint perfume of ancient college pipes whose embers had long since died out.

Down the dim hall students still came, singly and by pairs—the last marchers in the long line whose leaders had left forever the shelter of the worn old hall to battle out into the open light and din of the world. Here famous men had burned out the young heat of their youths and helped incense the ancient hall and here Gerst knew four fleet years would hold the mold into which his now molten life would be cast. Then came homesickness.

He looked up sharply. One of the endless file outside had walked into his room.

"Just looked in to see who roomed here this year," was the easy way the newcomer had of asking Gerst's name while he scanned the all but naked walls.

Sliding off the trunk Gerst politely offered the stranger the only seat in the room.

"Thanks, Mr.—"

"Gerst," the freshman suggested.

"—for the seat. My name's Weltner. I suppose you're having all kinds of trouble getting settled. The boys always find it a little tough at first," he finished, noting the tinge of wistfulness on Gerst's face. Weltner planted his heels on the edge of the trunk and leaned back.

"Yes, I was feeling a little blue when you came in. I'm not used to it yet. I suppose you're an old man here?"

"Senior this year."

Weltner next pulled out his pipe and tobacco and while lighting his own pipe asked Gerst if he smoked.

"Guess it's not good for the freshmen to smoke pipes, is it?" from Gerst.

The senior thoughtfully closed the door before he answered.

"Oh you can smoke when I'm here. I'll see that they don't take you out' for it."

On this encouragement Gerst was soon drawing satisfaction from his neglected pipe. This clean cut fellow

Bucknell and State May Soon Resume Athletic Relations

lege pride or any narrow prejudice enter into their decisions. There is no reason why the two colleges cannot meet like fair sportsmen and taken no recognizance of the matter, will come to the front fairly and put no obstacles in the way. There is no doubt but that the resumption of relations would be of great benefit to each college athletically and financially.

If this matter can be brought to a head, we would suggest that each college appoint a committee consisting of one member of the faculty, one alumnus and two undergraduates, to meet and draw up articles of agreement for a definite period; consisting of rules of eligibility, etc. We would like to see Bucknell and State playing basketball this winter, yet this may be somewhat premature; but there is no reason why two baseball games cannot be scheduled.

The arrangement of this reconciliation may be a rather delicate matter, but the authorities of either institution should not leave too much col-

No one in the colonies could have made the money faster than he—he ceased to do so before the love of money had squeezed the life out of his heart.

Had Franklin confined himself strictly to printing and scientific pursuits of which he was passionately fond, he would easily have reached a high degree of eminence both at home and abroad. Yale and Harvard did him honor with the master's degree, Edinburgh and Oxford and St. Andrews crowned him with the docorate.

On being chosen President of Pennsylvania Franklin said: "I have not firmness enough to resist the unanimous desire of my country folks, and I find myself harnessed again to their service another year. They engrossed the prime of my life. They have eaten my flesh, and now seem resolved to pick my bones." Again in 1786 and in 1787 he was unanimously re-elected."

How many-sided he was. Social service, of which we hear so much,—in that he was a herald with few helpers, as he called men to hasten their progressive steps; a writer,—he sought only to increase by wise words lighted up with humor the intelligence of his countrymen; an amateur in science,—he made the most startling contribution then known to humanity, the Royal society indulged in laughter when they first heard of it; a business man,— he early struggled away from poverty and was ever after a strong tower for the defense of many others; a statesman,—he never lived for an hour upon his country; a philospher,—his keen observations are still quoted in many languages; a diplomat,—he thrust and parried with a blade finer than Saladin's; a conversationalist,— he stood before kings with as much ease and charm as before the men in his shop; a friend,—he forgot unkindness and misrepresentation, and drew his associates to him as with hooks of steel; superior to bitter disappointment and even to incurable disease he ranks to-day "among the greatest and rarest of men."

Inter-Class Basketball Schedule.

The following schedule for the inter-class basket-ball games has been announced:

Seniors vs. Juniors, Jan. 22, 4 p. m.
Juniors vs. Freshmen, Jan. 29, 4 p. m.
Seniors vs. Freshmen, Feb. 12, 4 p. m.
Seniors vs. Juniors, Feb. 29, 8 p. m.
Juniors vs. Sophomores, Mar. 6, 4 p. m.
Sophomores vs. Freshmen, Mar. 12, 8 p. m.

The schedule for the 'varsity has been completed by the addition of two games with the Williamsport Y. M. C. A. The first will be played at Lewisburg on Feb. 17; the second, at Williamport, on March 9.

Season Tickets Must Be Produced.

The new finance committee have been having quite a little difficulty on account of the laxness of some of the fellows who hold season tickets. If everyone would remember that the present committee did not sell them the tickets, they would understand the position. If those who hold season-tickets would bring their little yellow cards with them to every game the work of the committee would be greatly facilitated.

Assault Case Settled.

The charge of assault and battery preferred against Mr. Bridge, of Lewisburg by Casimir Perrier, '08, has been settled before reaching court. Mr. Bridge realized that Perrier had a clear case against him and so agreed to pay all costs as well as a small balm for Perrier's wounded feelings.

BUCKNELL WINS EASILY

Susquehanna Plays Well But Loses by the Score of 27 to 8.

Friday evening "Ginger Teufel's Susquehanna University team was defeated by Bucknell in a most interesting contest. The score of 27 to 8 does not indicate the fierceness of the play. Bucknell's new 'Varsity showed a decided improvement in team play over the Mansfield game. The passing was good, but the shooting far from accurate. Wagner was the only man who had his eye on the basket Rolfe and Comstock were substituted in the second half, and both showed up well.

The early part of the first half was rather slow until Wagner scored the first goal, after that the Susquehanna boys seemed to wake up and made Bucknell fight for every point.

In the second half the play was so fierce at times that the large audience was brought to their feet. Referee Hoskins called fouls repeatedly on both teams, but it had little effect on the play. Although the game was hard fought throughout, a very gratifying feature was the good spirit which was manifest among the players. Notwithstanding the fact that the Bucknell team is virtually an inexperienced combination, if the improvement continues they should prove to be a winning five for the hard games coming in the latter part of the season.

Benfer and Shaffer played the star game for Susquehanna.

The line-up:

BUCKNELL	SUSQUEHANNA
Lenhart (capt.)	forward
Geis	forward
Benfer	centre
O'Brien	(capt.) Shaffer
Wagner	guard
Sunday	guard
Claypool	guard
Weaver

Substitutions: Comstock for Wagner; Rolfe for Lose; Reichart for Sunday. Goals from field: Wagner 5, O'Brien 3, Lenhart 4, Comstock 1, Shaffer 2. From fouls: Lenhart 1, Shaffer 4. Officials Hoskins and Teufel. Time of halves 20 minutes.

Indoor Relay Races at Philadelphia.

Bucknell has been invited to send a relay team to Philadelphia to compete in the annual indoor Relay Races to be held in the First Regiment Armory, on February 22, 1906. The important events of the meet are: inter-collegiate special two mile race, Yale-Pennsylvania; inter-collegiate special one mile race, Princeton-Pennsylvania; minor college Middle States intercollegiate relay indoor championship, Swarthmore, Lehigh, Lafayette State,, Bucknell, and other members of the A. A. U.

Track Team Elects Captain.

The members of the Track team met Saturday to elect a captain to fill the place of George Gaskill, '06, who will not return to college this year. John G. Denninger, '06, from Great Valley, N. Y. was elected to captain the team for the season of 1906.

Denninger is a two-mile runner and won his "B" in his Junior year. He will probably run in the distance events this season.

The loss of Gaskill will be felt keenly, since it leaves but one member of last year's relay team—Irey, '08.

who squared his well clothed back against the wall and ran the talk off his tongue so easily stirred a certain admiration in him. For a freshman to be talking so easily to a fourth year man was odd—and very fine.

After some more talk Weltner walked across the room and looked over some of the pictures.

"Oh, I see," he laughed.

Gerst flushed a trifle and had to admit that "she was his little home girl." He seemed to thaw out completely now and was on better terms with Weltner. Soon the senior had an innocently given account of Gerst's home and parents.

"Play any?" was the older man's next question as he noticed a violin case in the corner.

"Yes, a little now and then."

Remounting the trunk, Weltner went on,

"Don't suppose you know many of the ' fellows yet. Where are you boarding?"

"Not any place in particular yet," was the rather hungry way Gerst told him.

"Suppose you come down to supper with me," Weltner suggested. "Bring your violin down too and we can have a little music afterwards."

The invitation was readily accepted.

A golden glint shot from the senior's vest held Gerst's eye as they left the room. It was a curious little death's head cut from gold and marked with the letters of a fraternity.

As he sat down at the table after meeting Weltner's twenty "brothers," Gerst felt embarassment warm his face a little. Soon, though, he felt more and more in place and answered pleasantly the inquiry of the brother at the left "if he would have some of this" or the suggestion of another one "to be sure and not starve ourself."

When the meal was over and everybody was comfortably settled in "the smoker" Gerst caught his first glimpse of real fraternity life. All the brothers smoked, they talked, they laughed; "Irish" Lafferty was telling how he had been hazed the year before to the uproarious approval of his other brothers while "Moap" Adams idly tortured "Chop Sticks" from the patient old piano over in the corner. Gerst's body slackened out luxuriously in the after supper glow of talk and mirth, but he kept from mixing in it too much. But his emotional self seemed to have caught fire and he felt it blown to a glow by the strange witchery of contentment that stole through the room.

The smoke thickened in layers. Presently Gerst heard Weltner ask him if he would play some for the boys now." Opening his case obediently he lifted out the violin while one of the others volunteered to accompany him on the piano.

The new audience seemed to hold him back at first. Quickly adjusting himself, however, as he heard the familiar voice of his instrument, he was playing with long, sinuous strokes. Dulcet tones fluttered from the violin and wandered through the smoke tinted space of the listening room. Talk ceased, pipes burned out, and evryone sat quite s'll. Having finished suddenly he sat down. A din of applause went up and he had to play again and again. Later he sang a few songs.

Plainly he saw that more attention was being paid to him the rest of the evening and once he saw two brothers talking together in an undertone.

At last he reluctantly told them that he must go back of the dormitory and "get out" his lessons.

As he left, many of the members shook his hand and told him to be sure to stop in whenever he wanted to.

From the door he caught sight of something he had seen before that day; high in a dim corner it hung, empty eyed and beetle browed, dry, bony, cracked in a deathly smile—the elusive warmth and mystery of the fraternity hardened into an emblem—the death's head.

Huddling over his table late that night and probing into his books Gerst almost felt ashamed to finger the neglected leaves. Page after page he turned as a monk telling his worn beads, and then in the late hush of night he leaned back and closed his eyes for some time. He saw it all. College life to him must be a struggle with countless distractions from study—a struggle with books alone. The fraternity that he felt was about to ask him to become one of them was one of these distractions. Here he must submit to the tried and true curriculum of college lore that had made men of generations of unripe students just like him. Here must his warm emotions bow down to the chill of his intellect.

To his surprise someone walked up to his door and came in. He faced Weltner. Gerst sensed rather than knew his errand and tried to look easily into his now grave face while he rapidly thought of the words of the refusal he knew must be made.

Weltner stepped boldly into the matter and simply told him that "the fellows had been very favorably impressed with him and would like very much to have him be one of the bunch."

The sickly light of the lamp glimmered over the bit of gold on Weltner's vest. In Gerst sprang up a longing to share its mystery.

His positive refusal weakened momentarily and instead he told Weltner that he would hold off for a week and then let him know.

As an experienced fraternity man, Weltner stopped right there and after a cheerful smoke and a friendly "good night" he left.

In the next few days Gerst spent much time with his books. His classes were running smoothly and he felt that he had a firm grip on his chosen course. A sort of gloom settled on him but he knew it would be easy to tell Weltner now.

All around him he saw "pledged" fraternity men and old fraternity men settling into their work and strangely, too, they seemed to be doing as well as he. Still when he saw two brothers talking together in a dim nook of the hall he saw the lineaments of the bony visage lurking nearby; sometimes he would see the cheek of a youth shot with sudden anger against another brother and taken no recognizance of the matter, will come to the front fairly and put no obstacles in the way. There is no doubt but that the resumption of relations would be of great benefit to each college athletically and financially.

If this matter can be brought to a head, we would suggest that each college appoint a committee consisting of one member of the faculty, one alumnus and two undergraduates, to meet and draw up articles of agreement for a definite period; consisting of rules of eligibility, etc. We would like to see Bucknell and State playing basketball this winter, yet this may be somewhat premature; but there is no reason why two baseball games cannot be scheduled.

The arrangement of this reconciliation may be a rather delicate matter, but the authorities of either institution should not leave too much col-

Inter-Class Basketball Schedule.

The following schedule for the inter-class basket-ball games has been announced:

Seniors vs. Juniors, Jan. 22, 4 p. m.
Juniors vs. Freshmen, Jan. 29, 4 p. m.
Seniors vs. Freshmen, Feb. 12, 4 p. m.
Juniors vs. Sophomores, Mar. 6, 4 p. m.
Sophomores vs. Freshmen, Mar. 12, 8 p. m.

The schedule for the 'varsity has been completed by the addition of two games with the Williamsport Y. M. C. A. The first will be played at Lewisburg on Feb. 17; the second, at Williamsport, on March 9.

Season Tickets Must Be Produced.

The new finance committee have been having quite a little difficulty on account of the laxness of some of the fellows who hold season tickets. If everyone would remember that the present sommittee did not sell them the tickets, they would understand the position. If those who hold season-tickets would bring their little yellow cards with them to every game the work of the committee would be greatly facilitated.

Assault Case Settled.

The charge of assault and battery preferred against Mr. Bridge, of Lewisburg by Casimir Perrier, '08, has been settled before reaching court. Mr. Bridge realized that Perrier had a clear case against him and so agreed to pay all costs as well as a small balm for Perrier's wounded feelings.

BUCKNELL WINS EASILY

Susquehanna Plays Well But Loses by the Score of 27 to 8.

Friday evening "Ginger Teufel's Susquehanna University team was defeated by Bucknell in a most interesting contest. The score of 27 to 8 does not indicate the fierceness of the play. Bucknell's new 'Varsity showed a decided improvement in team play over the Mansfield game. The passing was good, but the shooting far from accurate. Wagner was the only man who had his eye on the basket Rolfe and Comstock were substituted in the second half, and both showed up well.

The early part of the first half was rather slow until Wagner scored the first goal, after that the Susquehanna boys seemed to wake up and made Bucknell fight for every point.

In the second half the play was so fierce at times that the large audidence was brought to their feet. Referee Hoskins called fouls repeatedly on both teams, but it had little effect on the play. Although the game was hard fought throughout, a very gratifying feature was the good sprit which was manifest among the players. Notwithstanding the fact that the Bucknell team is virtually an inexperienced combination, if the improvement continues they should prove to be a winning five for the hard games coming in the latter part of the season.

Benfer and Shaffer played the star game for Susquehanna.

The line-up:

Substitutions: Comstock for Wagner; Rolfe for Lose; Reichart for Sunday. Goals from field: Wagner 5, O'Brien 3, Lenhart 4, Comstock 1, Shaffer 2. From fouls: Lenhart 1, Shaffer 4. Officials Hoskins and Teufel. Time of halves 20 minutes.

Indoor Relay Races at Philadelphia.

Bucknell has been invited to send a relay team to Philadelphia to compete in the annual indoor Relay Races to be held in the First Regiment Armory, on February 22, 1906. The important events of the meet are: Inter-collegiate special two mile race, Yale- Pennsylvania; inter-collegiate special one mile race, Princeton-Pennsylvania; minor college Middle States intecollegiate rrelay indoor championship, Swarthmore, Lehigh, Lafayette State,, Bucknell, and other members of the A. A. U.

Track Team Elects Captain.

The members of the Track team met Saturday to elect a captain to fill the place of George Gaskill, '06, who will not return to college this year. John G. Denninger, '06, from Great Valley, N. Y. was elected to captain the team for the season of 1906.

Denninger is a two-mile runner and won his "B" in his Junior year. He will probably run in the distance events this season.

The loss of Gaskill will be felt keenly, since it leaves but one member of last year's relay team—Irey, '08.

Pole vault, entered by Fries, Perez, Whitney, Owens, and Hall; won by Hall, 9 feet.

Shot put (16 lb.), entered by Lenhart, Sayre, Shorkley, O'Brien, Tolbert and Claypool; won by Lenhart, 37 feet, 1-4 in.; second, Shorkley, 28 feet, 6 1-2 in.

Fire in S. A. E. House.

A fire broke out about eleven o'clock Wednesday morning in a study-room on the second floor of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house. But for the timely action in putting out the blaze the building would have been destroyed; as it was, the personal effects of several of the fellows living in the house were destroyed. Considerable damage was done to the room in which the fire started. The origin of the blaze is unknown.

Wear Made-to-Measure Clothing and be Thoroughly Satisfied.

It costs buta trifle more than to wear good ready-made clothes, and the added satisfaction is worth the slight extr expense.

To open the Autumn season we are now showing an elaborate assortment of splendid worsteds, cheviots, thibets, tweeds, etc., of the most exclusive patterns and effects, and handsome fashion plates of the new Autumn and Winter styles, specially designed by the smart New York custom tailors.

then as swiftly the heat would fade and chill—a grey, fleshless face was hiding somewhere near them; one night he came across a grave senior neglecting his work to help patiently a new freshman brother over some hard Latin—a circle of glimmering fraternity gold clasped one of the fingers that guided the translation; that very day he had seen one of Weltner's brothers give a concealed "grip" to the hand of an old alumnus back for a few days with "the boys." —something hidden in the clasp made him young again. Queer letters of different fraternities were printed with the common type of the college papers; college rooms were emblazoned with pennants and shields of odd colors and strange Greek legends. Even in the shelter of his own room it haunted him—without his sensing it there stole upon him that changeless leer—death alive, he thought.

Late one afternoon he came across Weltner on the football field. As he held out his hand he heard himself saying,

"I guess the week's up, Weltner, and you never will know how sorry I am to have to tell you this,—not that you fellows need me so much, understand,"—it may be that the heat of Weltner's hand affected him, and too, he caught sight of a golden gleam just then, "but I just couldn't hold off any longer. There's my hand on it."

"You Can't Fool Mother."

C. F. POTTER, '07.

"Mother" didn't approve of it. She said that they were altogether too young. Therefore, whenever Jack came to get Mary to help him translate German, "Mother" remained within seeing distance. Mother also showed Jack down to the door when he "guessed he must be goin." Mary looked disgusted at times and Jack ground his teeth and thought. For three visits he had been trying to see Mary in private but had found no opportunity. Then he grew desperate and hired an accomplice. At nine o'clock on a certain evening, the accomplice was to ring the door bell, and while "Mother" went to the door, Jack was to embrace-er-the opportunity. Promptly at nine o'clock the door-bell rang. Mary looked puzzled; Jack seemed nervous; but "Mother" was as calm as a college-professor.

"Mary," she said, "will you please go to the door?"

The College Man And Politics.

WILLIAM G. MURDOCK, ex-'04.

The question has often been asked, "Is the college man a success in politics?" Of course the answer depends largely upon our conception of the meaning of the word "politics," whether it be used in the narrow, ordinary sense of "ward-heeling," office grabbing, and distribution of patronage, or whether we are to enlarge it so as to include the broader term "statesmanship." In the latter case the scholar or college man must be considered as eminently successful. In an interview with a reporter a few months ago Col. Henry Watterson said "I desire to bring this to the attention of the American people, that the college man is not a success in politics." This remark was called forth by some exposures in the Department of Agriculture at Washington in which many of the employees are college men. But both honesty and dishonesty are far older than colleges and because all public servants do not regard public office as a public trust is no justification for the statement that the college man is not a success in politics. It is a fact that men of high education, ability, and refinement most frequently prefer to give their time and talents to private enterprises where the remuneration is much greater than that offered by public office and where the element of incertitude is not so prominent as in the vocation of politics, which as a result have so far fallen into the hands of less able and less scrupulous men that its profession is regarded as degrading and the candidate for public office considered self seeking; a situation which acts as a barrier to the scholar entering politics as it places him in a positon which is offensive to a self respecting man.

A review of our national, state, and municipal administrations shows that the college man has played and is now playing an imporantt part in each, and under the awakening sentiment against boodlers and corruptionists he is destined to play a still more important part in the future, especially in municipal affairs.

Every elected President of the United States since the War of the Rebellion with the exception of Cleveland has been a college man; the members of Roosevelt's Cabinet and the Ambassadors abroad are with a very few exceptions college men, a condition which is natural as these offices must be filled by men of ability and training rather than by men whose principal acquirement is a mastery of th art of political chicanery. Of course one cannot pick out examples here and there to suit his argument and then say "this goes to show that the college man has been a success or a failure (as the case might be) in public life." The three taken no recognizance of the matter, will come to the front fairly and put no obstacles in the way. There is no doubt but that the resumption of relations would be of great benefit to each college athletically and financially.

If this matter can be brought to a head, we would suggest that each college appoint a committee consisting of one member of the faculty, one aluminus and two undergraduates, to meet and draw up articles of agreement for a definite period; consisting of rules of eligibility, etc. We would like to see Bucknell and State playing basketball this winter, yet this may be somewhat premature; but there is no reason why two baseball games cannot be scheduled.

Fire in S. A. E. House.

A fire broke out about eleven o'clock Wednesday morning in a study-room on the second floor of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house. But for the timely action in putting out the blaze the building would have been destroyed; as it was, the personal effects of several of the fellows living in the house were destroyed. Considerable damage was done to the room in which the fire started. The origin of the blaze is unknown.

Adams, the Harrisons, the Clintons, the Livingstons, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Tyler, Polk, Pierce, Buchanan, Burr, Calhoun, Jay, Hancock, Randolph, Webster, Everett, Seward, Stanton, Sumner, Chase, Hampton, Bancroft, Waite, Evarts, Hoar Hendricks, Tilden, and many others whose names adorn the pages of American history were college men; while Franklin, Clay, Henry, Douglas, Lincoln, Cameron, Wilson, Colfax, Greely, Edmunds, Morton, Hanna, and others equally successful in political life were not college men. Platt and Quay, our most accomplished politicians, were both college men, while neither Washington or Lincoln, our ablest statesmen, were. We cannot say of the one class that their success was due entirely to the fact that they were college men, nor of the others that their succ ss would have been greater had they had the advantages of a liberal education. It is the man himself who is responsible to a great extent for his triumphs, but the above examples show that those who are so fortunate as to obtain a degree are in no way handicapped in their political life by that fact.

The right men with the right kind of an education is in greater demand today than ever before, especially in the administration of our states and large cities, where the mercenary politician has been more successful than in national affairs. The Platts, the Braytons, the Quays, the Gormans, the Taggarts, and men of their type, must give way, in time, to men like Folk and La Follette who put honor above self and country above party. New York may have been run by Tweed or Croker or Murphy; Cincinnati may have been run by Cox, and Philadelphia by a corrupt political organization, but an awakening public are realizing that cities with executives like Johnson of Cleveland, or McCormick, of Harrisburg, are in a far better way than if an Ashbridge or Van Wyck had been at the helm. Cities cannot afford to have ward politicians at their head; they require men skilled in the science of municipal government.

In comparing the organization and administration of city governments today with those of a century ago we find many differences, some of which tend to simplify and improve, while others render administraton less effective. Conditions now are vastly more complex, but on the other hand we have made great advances in our knowledge of city affairs; municipal and social reformers are not blind to the difficulties of successfully carrying out a policy which will meet with the approbation of all sorts of men; industrial conditions which cause the population of cities to increase so rapidly make an effective administration very difficult, but the more difficult the task the more capable should the officials be. In this respect I am afraid we do not live up to the ideas and ideals of the Fathers who risked their lives and their fortunes in establishing a free government and who were unwilling to defeat that end by placing incompetent men or men of questionable integrity in office. The reins of government in most of our cities today are in the hands of a well organized political machine existing not to benefit their party or their country but for the purpose of fattening the pocket books of the leaders. In order to do this to their satisfaction they must obtain long leases of power, to accomplish which they resort to any means, fair or foul. With the prestige of a great party name behind them these "close" political organizations, controlled by a few men, nominate their own candidates sworn to stand by their interests, and then parade them before the voters as the choice of the whole party. Theoretically any man if qualified, may become a candidate for a nomination, but he has little chance of winning unless he is backed by a "boss." After machine candidates are nominated the next step is to win the election. In order to make this more certain the ward leaders, if their party has been in power any length of time, have false registrations made and on election day send "repeaters" to vote at the various precincts where they have been registered. To ascertain the extent to which such fraudulent and criminal practices are carried out it is only necessary to review the recent exposures in the city of Philadelphia. After carrying the election the desires of the leaders must be realized. City offices are dealt out to "right hand men," whether especially fitted or not. And now that the municipal machinery is in the hands of the "gang" their object is to make money. Contracts are awarded in the city's name, not always to the lowest bidder, or to the one best qualified to do the work, but to the one who gives them the largest rake off. If ordinances are to be passed, unless the public demands that they be passed, a price must be paid. If there is a chance to sell a franchise it will be sold regardless of the city's interest.

RELATIONS WITH STATE!

Bucknell and State May Soon Resume Athletic Relations.

This condition of affairs should call forth the wrath and indignation of every honest, law abiding voter in the country. If the people would demand more honest and efficient officials they would soon be forthcoming but so long as this state of affairs does not directly affect them they say nothing and devote their time to their personal business. But bad as conditions are an enlightened public is slowly but surely causing a relaxation of the politicians grip and demanding a more effective, if more centralized, administration, and this change must be brought about to a great extent through the efforts and skill of the trained college man.

lege pride or any narrow prejudice enter into their decisions. There is no reason why the two colleges cannot meet like fair sportsmen and both be willing to make concessions

No one in the colonies could have made the money faster than he—he ceased to do so before the love of money had squeezed the life out of his heart.

Had Franklin confined himself strictly to printing and scientific pursuits of which he was passionately fond, he would easily have reached a high degree of eminence both at home and abroad. Yale and Harvard did him honor with the master's degree, Edinburgh and Oxford and St. Andrews crowned him with the docorate.

On being chosen President of Pennsylvania Franklin said: "I have not firmness enough to resist the unanimous desire of my country folks, and I find myself harnessed again to their service another year. Social service, of which we hear so much,—in that he was a herald with few helpers, as he called men to hasten their progressive steps; a writer,—he sought only to increase by wise words lighted up with humor the intelligence of his countrymen; an amateur in science,—he made the most startling contribution then known to humanity, the Royal society indulged in laughter when they first heard of it; a business man,— he early struggled away from poverty and was ever after a strong tower for the defense of many others; a statesman,—he never lived for an hour upon his country; a philospher,—his keen observations are still quoted in many languages; a diplomat,—he thrust and parried with a blade finer than Saladin's; a conversationalist,— he stood before kings with as much ease and charm as before the men in his shop; a friend,—he forgot unkindness and misrepresentation, and drew his associates to him as with hooks of steel; superior to bitter disappointment and even to incurable disease he ranks to-day "among the greatest and rarest of men."

Inter-Class Basketball Schedule.

The following schedule for the inter-class basket-ball games has been announced:

Seniors vs. Juniors, Jan. 22, 4 p. m.
Juniors vs. Freshmen, Jan. 29, 4 p. m.
Seniors vs. Freshmen, Feb. 12, 4 p. m.
Sophomores vs. Freshmen, Feb. 29, 8 p. m.
Juniors vs. Sophomores, Mar. 6, 4 p. m.
Sophomores vs. Freshmen, Mar. 12, 8 p. m.

The schedule for the 'varsity has been completed by the addition of two games with the Williamsport Y. M. C. A. The first will be played at Lewisburg on Feb. 17; the second, at Williamsport, on March 9.

Season Tickets Must Be Produced.

The new finance committee have been having quite a little difficulty on account of the laxness of some of the fellows who hold season tickets. If everyone would remember that the present committee did not sell them the tickets, they would understand the position. If those who hold season-tickets would bring their little yellow cards with them to every game the work of the committee would be greatly facilitated.

Assault Case Settled.

The charge of assault and battery preferred against Mr. Bridge, of Lewisburg by Casimir Perrier, '08, has been settled before reaching court. Mr. Bridge realized that Perrier had a clear case against him and so agreed to pay all costs as well as a small balm for Perrier's wounded feelings.

Day of Prayer for Colleges.

On Thursday, the day of prayer for American colleges, Dr. Robert G. Seymour, of Philadelphia, will address the students in both morning and afternoon.

BUCKNELL WINS EASILY

Susquehanna Plays Well But Loses by the Score of 27 to 8.

Friday evening "Ginger Teufel's Susquehanna University team was defeated by Bucknell in a most interesting contest. The score of 27 to 8 does not indicate the fierceness of the play. Bucknell's new 'Varsity showed a decided improvement in team play over the Mansfield game. The passing was good, but the shooting far from accurate. Wagner was the only man who had his eye on the basket Rolfe and Comstock were substituted in the second half, and both showed up well.

The early part of the first half was rather slow until Wagner scored the first goal, after that the Susquehanna boys seemed to wake up and made Bucknell fight for every point.

In the second half the play was so fierce at times that the large audidence was brought to their feet. Referee Hoskins called fouls repeatedly on both teams, but it had little effect on the play. Although the game was hard fought throughout, a very gratifying feature was the good spirit which was manifest among the players. Notwithstanding the fact that the Bucknell team is virtually an inexperienced combination, if the improvement continues they should prove to be a winning five for the hard games coming in the latter part of the season.

Benfer and Shaffer played the star game for Susquehanna.

The line-up:

BUCKNELL		SUSQUEHANNA
Lenhart (capt.)	forward	Geis
Lose	forward	Benfer
O'Brien	centre	(capt.) Shaffer
Wagner	guard	Sunday
Claypool	guard	Weaver

Substitutions: Comstock for Wagner; Rolfe for Lose; Reichart for Sunday. Goals from field: Wagner 5, O'Brien 3, Lenhart 4, Comstock 1, Shaffer 2. From fouls: Lenhart 1, Shaffer 4. Officials Hoskins and Teufel. Time of halves 20 minutes.

Indoor Relay Races at Philadelphia.

Bucknell has been invited to send a relay team to Philadelphia to compete in the annual indoor Relay Races to be held in the First Regiment Armory, on February 22, 1906. The important events of the meet are: inter-collegiate special two mile race, Yale- Pennsylvania; inter-collegiate special one mile race, Princeton-Pennsylvania; minor college Middle States intercollegiate relay Indoor championship, Swarthmore, Lehigh, Lafayette State, Bucknell, and other members of the A. A. U.

Track Team Elects Captain.

The members of the Track team met Saturday to elect a captain to fill the place of George Gaskill, '06, who will not return to college this year. John G. Denninger, '06, from Great Valley, N. Y. was elected to captain the team for the season of 1906.

Denninger is a two-mile runner and won his "B" in his Junior year. He will probably run in the distance events this season.

The loss of Gaskill will be felt keenly, since it leaves but one member of last year's relay team—Irey, '08.

One Summer Day.

W. E. DEMELT, '06.

"Skipper, there is something the matter with my line," said Pickles as he stood vigorously pulling his strong blue-fish line while a look of vexation clouded his face. "No," he added slowly, "it is yielding but it draws hard."

"Mebbe y' have a fish," suggested the skipper without showing much interest, "pull in."

Pickles pulled stoutly while the skipper leaned lazily over the side. Down in the water the outlines of a bluish mass were growing distinct when suddenly a great body came to the surface with a rush. At the flash of a white belly and the whisk of a tail Pickles suddenly sat down with a surprised look. His heavy line had broken. "A shark," said the skipper, "I could a' got it with the gaff."

Four persons, not including the skipper of the sloop, were enjoying a day of deep-sea fishing off the coast of Cape Cod. The tall white whisker-ed man of dignified appearance who was gravely watching his line was the Gentleman from Rehoboth. As near as possible to the hampers of provisions and the cases of "soft" drinks sat a short, stout, red-faced man with bald head and bristling iron-gray whiskers; this was Doctor Garrie, a Boston Missionary, a self-important individual whose thirst wes as unquenchable as his appetite was insatiable. The fisherman who had so unceremoniously sat down was a tall young man who, on account of his solemn face, had been nicknamed Pickles. In the bow of the boat, as far away from the land as he could possibly get, with line thrown straight from the shore sat the fourth member of this party, a youthful towhead who was referred to as the Kid.

Early that morning these four worthy individuals had reluctantly left their snug beds, had taken their well filled hampers, and with the Kid in advance had marched to the beach where the skipper was waiting with his boat to take them out to the sloop which was anchored in the bay. Ten boat lengths from shore the Kid became thirsty but he could not get ahead of the veteran missionary who already had had a lunch and two drinks. No other incident except one more sudden thirst on the part of the missionary occurred until the party arrived at the sloop when there was a scramble for lines. Pickles, who was a novice in the fishing business, was last to secure a line. This proved to be a heavy bluefish line with a hook about three inches long.

Four or five miles out the fishing began. Bluefish were scarce but scup were plentiful. The missionary alone had poor luck; now he found fault with the bait which was the same as the others were using, now he complained that his place in the boat was unfavorable, finally that his line and hooks were the worst of the lot. The complaints of the missionary finally stirred the Gentleman from Rehoboth who had been quietly and unostentatiously hauling in scup. "Mr. Garrie," said he in his polite way, "when I catch an even hundred fish I will exchange seats and tackle with you. Perhaps you would have had more fish if you had paid greater attention to your line and less to the bottles and baskets." It was not long before the exchange was made and fishing was resumed. Together they pulled in; the missionary's hooks were stripped clean of bait but on the hooks of the gentleman from Rehoboth were two fine scup. Mr. Garrie looked in astonishment, shook his head sadly, and reached for a bottle. "Mr. Missionary," volunteered Pickles," you are as full of woes as an eel is of wiggles."

When the sun was low in the west lines were stowed away and the skipper headed the sloop for the harbor. As the little vessel entered the wide mouth of the bay the wind, at no time very brisk, died entirely away and the fishermen sitting becalmed within sight of home watched the day die and the night come on. The sun going down behind the low hills left the sky afire with its red glow. Soon the red turned to golden yellow and then twilight coming slowly from the east enveloped sea and shore with its ever deepening purple mantle. Light after light started from the windows of the many cottages and the silvery tinkle of a piano sounded faintly over the water. Overhead the sars coming out one by one shone like brilliants in an azure setting. On all sides the water, black as ink and smooth as glass stretched away into the night.

In a silence unbroken save for the murmuring sounds from the distant shore and without breath or breeze but borne on the breast of the incoming tide the little sloop slowly carried the weary fishermen to the pleasures and rest of their summer home.

You little word "i-f"
What dream worlds you recall
What joys might once have sprung to life,
Had you not changed it all.
If time were not so ruthless swift,
Days did not come and go,
Our youths would not flee from us thus—
If time were only slow.

If other loves had not entranced
Those "Old Sweethearts" of ours, might Perhaps their dream kissed faces
Be near if love were ours.
If—oh well—why discourse at length
We know 'tis better thus—
If time flew not, if love failed not
E'en then 'twould not please us.

RELATIONS WITH STATE!

Bucknell and State May Soon Resume Athletic Relations.

Every college has a natural rival, and in the great majority of instances [illegible] lege pride or any narrow prejudice enter into their decisions. There is no reason why the two colleges cannot meet like fair sportsmen and both be willing to make concessions. In an affair of this kind the wishes of the students should carry some [illegible] weight, and it is a well-known fact [illegible] of relations would be of great benefit to each college athletically and financially.

If this matter can be brought to a head, we would suggest that each college appoint a committee consisting of one member of the faculty, one alumnus and two undergraduates, to meet and draw up articles of agreement for a definite period; consisting of rules of eligibility, etc. We would like to see Bucknell and State playing basketball this winter, yet this may be somewhat premature; but there is no reason why two baseball games cannot be scheduled.

The arrangement of this reconciliation may be a rather delicate matter, but the authorities of either institution should not leave too much college pride or any narrow prejudice enter into their decisions. There is no reason why the two colleges cannot meet like fair sportsmen and both be willing to make concessions. In an affair of this kind the wishes of the students should carry some [illegible] weight, and it is a well-known fact [illegible]

Had Franklin confined himself strictly to printing and scientific pursuits of which he was passionately fond, he would easily have reached a high degree of eminence both at home and abroad. Yale and Harvard did him honor with the master's degree, Edinburgh and Oxford and St. Andrews crowned him with the decorate.

On being chosen President of Pennsylvania Franklin said: "I have not firmness enough to resist the unanimous desire of my country folks, and I find myself harnessed again to their service another year. Inter-Class Basketball Schedule.

The following schedule for the inter-class basket-ball games has been announced:

Seniors vs. Juniors, Jan. 22, 4 p. m.
Juniors vs. Freshmen, Jan. 29, 4 p. m.
Seniors vs. Freshmen, Feb. 12, 4 p. m.
Seniors vs. Juniors, Feb. 29, 8 p. m.
Juniors vs. Sophomores, Mar. 6, 4 p. m.
Sophomores vs. Freshmen, Mar. 12, 8 p. m.

The schedule for the 'varsity has been completed by the addition of two games with the Williamsport Y. M. C. A. The first will be played at Lewisburg on Feb. 17; the second, at Williamsport, on March 9.

Season Tickets Must Be Produced.

The new finance committee have been having quite a little difficulty on account of the laxness of some of the fellows who hold season tickets. If everyone would remember that the present committee did not sell them the tickets, they would understand the position. If those who hold season-tickets would bring their little yellow cards with them to every game the work of the committee would be greatly facilitated.

Assault Case Settled.

The charge of assault and battery preferred against Mr. Bridge, of Lewisburg by Casimir Perrier, '08, has been settled before reaching court. Mr. Bridge realized that Perrier had a clear case against him and so agreed to pay all costs as well as a small balm for Perrier's wounded feelings.

Day of Prayer for Colleges.

On Thursday, the day of prayer for American colleges, Dr. Robert G. Seymour, of Philadelphia, will address the students in both morning and afternoon.

BUCKNELL WINS EASILY

Susquehanna Plays Well But Loses by the Score of 27 to 8.

Friday evening "Ginger Teufel's Susquehanna University team was defeated by Bucknell in a most interesting contest. The score of 27 to 8 does not indicate the fierceness of the play. Bucknell's new 'Varsity showed a decided improvement in team play over the Mansfield game. The passing was good, but the shooting far from accurate. Wagner was the only man who had his eye on the basket Rolfe and Comstock were substituted in the second half, and both showed up well.

The early part of the first half was rather slow until Wagner scored the first goal, after that the Susquehanna boys seemed to wake up and made Bucknell fight for every point.

In the second half the play was so fierce at times that the large audience was brought to their feet. Referee Hoskins called fouls repeatedly on both teams, but it had little effect on the play. Although the game was hard fought throughout, a very gratifying feature was the good spirit which was manifest among the players. Notwithstanding the fact that the Bucknell team is virtually an inexperienced combination, if the improvement continues they should prove to be a winning five for the hard games coming in the latter part of the season.

Benfer and Shaffer played the star game for Susquehanna.

The line-up:

BUCKNELL		SUSQUEHANNA
Lenhart (capt.)	forward	Geis
Lose	forward	Benfer
O'Brien	centre	(capt.) Shaffer
Wagner	guard	Sunday
Claypool	guard	Weaver

Substitutions: Comstock for Wagner; Rolfe for Lose; Reichart for Sunday. Goals from field: Wagner 5, O'Brien 3, Lenhart 4, Comstock 1, Shaffer 2. From fouls: Lenhart 1, Shaffer 4. Officials Hoskins and Teufel. Time of halves 20 minutes.

Indoor Relay Races at Philadelphia.

Bucknell has been invited to send a relay team to Philadelphia to compete in the annual indoor Relay Races to be held in the First Regiment Armory, on February 22, 1906. The important events of the meet are: inter-collegiate special two mile race, Yale- Pennsylvania; inter-collegiate special one mile race, Princeton-Pennsylvania; minor college Middle States intecollegiate rrelay indoor championship, Swarthmore, Lehigh, Lafayette State,, Bucknell, and other members of the A. A. U.

Track Team Elects Captain.

The members of the Track team met Saturday to elect a captain to fill the place of George Gaskill, '06, who will not return to college this year. John G. Denninger, '06, from Great Valley, N. Y. was elected to captain the team for the season of 1906.

Denninger is a two-mile runner and won his "H" in his Junior year. He will probably run in the distance events this season.

The loss of Gaskill will be felt keenly, since it leaves but one member of last year's relay team—Irey, '08.

Shot put (16 lbs.) [illegible] hart, Sayre, Shorkley, O'Brien, Tolbert and Claypool; won by Lenhart, 37 feet, 1-4 in.; second, Shorkley, 28 feet, 6 1-2 in.

Fire in S. A. E. House.

A fire broke out about eleven o'clock Wednesday morning in a study-room on the second floor of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house. But for the timely action in putting out the blaze the building would have been destroyed; as it was, the personal effects of several of the fellows living in the house were destroyed. Considerable damage was done to the room in which the fire started. The origin of the blaze is unknown.

Scarcely had Prof. Phillips begun his speech to the ministerial association when loud voices were heard in the hall. Wanted—A few arguments in favor of football as it is played under present rules.

"Well," he muttered, butting his head on a landing as he fell down the elevator shaft. "As Mr. Kipling would say, that is another story."

Much has been written about college spirit but it appears not to have entered the understanding of the writers that properly prepared recitations are the best evidence of good college spirit.

The Pittsburg Gazette of last Sunday contained a very interesting article upon football, and Dr. Maxey, of the Law Department, was its author. It is a very logical and sensible resume of a sport which, for the past few months has received more than its share of abuse from those who are not really acquainted with the game. Coming as it does from one in Dr. Maxey's position it should have some weight at least in our own community. We believe with Dr. Maxey that football, when played as it ought to be, is both a physical and mental training. So thinks Dr. E. Benjamin Andrews, Chancellor of the University of Nebraska, one of the most liberal thinkers and educators in the country to-day. The Athenaeum—University of West Virginia.

Dr. Maxey is a graduate of Bucknell University, Class of '93.

A valuable addition to our knowledge of the Susquehanna drainage basin will be found in two publications recently issued by the U. S. Geological Survey, which contain the results of extended investigations on this stream and its tributaries.

One of the papers mentioned is entitled "Hydrography of Susquehanna River Drainage Basin," and has been so prepared as to be of use to the layman as well as the engineer, providing for the former a comprehensive view of the conditions in the area, and supplying the engineer with data for making estimates in hydraulic investigations. In view of the fact that the power resources of this basin are so little developed, the discussion of water powers and the tables of elevation and developed horse power are most interesting and valuable. This report is the joint work of Messrs. John C. Hoyt and Robert H. Anderson, of the Hydrographic Branch of the Survey.

The second paper is entitled "The Quality of the Water in the Susquehanna River Basin," and contains numerous analyses of the water in the

RELATIONS WITH STATE!

Bucknell and State May Soon Resume Athletic Relations.

Every college has a natural rival, main stream and many of its tributaries. The portions devoted to the pollution of streams by mine wastes are especially interesting. It is doubtful if a stream polluted with mine wastes could be satisfactorily employed as a source of domestic water supply, but the Susquehanna is so befouled with sewage that it could not be used in its raw state for household purposes, even if no mine drainages were turned into it. Mr. M. O. Leighton, the author of the report, shows by a series of chemical analyses that the water is acually more free from organic matter at the lower end of Wyoming Valley than at the upper, and this condition is traceable to a large amount of acid mine refuse which is turned into the stream. He finds also that the precipitation of immense quantities of sewage matter and coal dust into the river eventually will fill up the channel along certain reaches.

It is probable that the Susquehanna, especially that portion below the West Branch, is chiefly valuable as an agent of sewage disposal. It would be impossible, with the present large population upon the drainage area, to render the stream fit for domestic use, and therefore it may as well receive city sewage up to a certain limit.

These papers which are known as Water Supply and Irrigation papers Nos. 108 and 109, may be obtained free of charge upon application to the Director of the U. S. Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

"The Delineator" for December contains several pages of very fine illustrations in color symbolizing the twenty-third psalm.

We are glad to see in "The Susquehanna" that our neighboring University is starting the year with such bright prospects.

"The Sibyl" contains much good material of interest.

The football number of the "Red and Blue" is especially interesting.

"The Cheermaster" in "The Allegheny Literally Monthly" is an exceptionally good piece of work.

Other exchanges received: "The Touchstone," "The Colgate Madisonensis," "The Swarthmorean," "The College Student," "The Albright Bulletin," "The Lesbian Herald," "The Haverfordian," "Schuylkill Seminary Narrator," "Shamokin High School Review," "The Liberty College Student," "The Herald," The Ogontz Mosaic," "The Amulet."

is no doubt but that the resumption of relations would be of great benefit to each college athletically and financially.

Season Tickets Must Be Produced.

The new finance committee have been having quite a little difficulty on account of the laxness of some of the fellows who hold season tickets. If everyone would remember that the present committee did not sell them the tickets, they would understand the position. If those who hold season-tickets would bring their little yellow cards with them to every game the work of the committee would be greatly facilitated.

Assault Case Settled.

The charge of assault and battery preferred against Mr. Bridge, of Lewisburg by Casimir Perrier, '08, has been settled before reaching court. Mr. Bridge realized that Perrier had a clear case against him and so agreed to pay all costs as well as a small balm for Perrier's wounded feelings.

Day of Prayer for Colleges.

On Thursday, the day of prayer for American colleges, Dr. Robert G. Seymour, of Philadelphia, will address the students in both morning and afternoon.

Fire in S. A. E. House.

A fire broke out about eleven o'clock Wednesday morning in a study-room on the second floor of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house. But for the timely action in putting out the blaze the building would have been destroyed; as it was, the personal effects of several of the fellows living in the house were destroyed. Considerable damage was done to the room in which the fire started. The origin of the blaze is unknown.

Hall, 9 feet.

Shot put (16 lb.), entered by Lenhart, Sayre, Shorkley, O'Brien, Tolbert and Claypool; won by Lenhart, 37 feet, 1-4 in.; second, Shorkley, 28 feet, 6 1-2 in.

BUCKNELL WINS EASILY

Susquehanna Plays Well But Loses by the Score of 27 to 8.

Friday evening "Ginger Teufel's Susquehanna University team was defeated by Bucknell in a most interesting contest. The score of 27 to 8 does not indicate the fierceness of the play. Bucknell's new 'Varsity showed a decided improvement in team play over the Mansfield game. The passing was good, but the shooting far from accurate. Wagner was the only man who had his eye on the basket Rolfe and Comstock were substituted in the second half, and both showed up well.

The early part of the first half was rather slow until Wagner scored the first goal, after that the Susquehanna boys seemed to wake up and made Bucknell fight for every point.

In the second half the play was so fierce at times that the large audience was brought to their feet. Referee Hoskins called fouls repeatedly on both teams, but it had little effect on the play. Although the game was hard fought throughout, a very gratifying feature was the good spirit which was manifest among the players. Notwithstanding the fact that the Bucknell team is virtually an inexperienced combination, if the improvement continues they should prove to be a winning five for the hard games coming in the latter part of the season.

Benfer and Shaffer played the star game for Susquehanna.

The line-up:

BUCKNELL	SUSQUEHANNA
Lenhart (capt.)	forward
Gels	forward
Lose	Benfer
O'Brien	centre (capt.) Shaffer
Wagner	guard Sunday
Claypool	guard Wenver

Substitutions: Comstock for Wagner; Rolfe for Lose; Reichart for Sunday. Goals from field: Wagner 5, O'Brien 3, Lenhart 4, Comstock 1, Shaffer 2. From fouls: Lenhart 1, Shaffer 4. Officials Hoskins and Teufel. Time of halves 20 minutes.

Indoor Relay Races at Philadelphia.

Bucknell has been invited to send a relay team to Philadelphia to compete in the annual indoor Relay Races to be held in the First Regiment Armory, on February 22, 1906. The important events of the meet are: Inter-collegiate special two mile race, Yale- Pennsylvania; inter-collegiate special one mile race, Princeton-Pennsylvania; minor college Middle States intercollegiate relay. Indoor championship, Swarthmore, Lehigh, Lafayette State,, Bucknell, and other members of the A. A. U.

Track Team Elects Captain.

The members of the Track team met Saturday to elect a captain to fill the place of George Gaskill, '06, who will not return to college this year. John G. Denninger, '06, from Great Valley, N. Y. was elected to captain the team for the season of 1906.

Denninger is a two-mile runner and won his "B" in his Junior year. He will probably run in the distance events this season.

The loss of Gaskill will be felt keenly, since it leaves but one member of last year's relay team—Irey, '08.

RELATIONS WITH STATE!

Bucknell and State May Soon Resume Athletic Relations.

Every college has a natural rival, and in the great majority of instances these rivals engage in contests for supremacy along various lines.

Bucknell has a natural and, we believe, a worthy one in Penna. State College. For reasons which are now immaterial to the present student bodies, athletic relations were severed six years ago and since then neither college has made effort to heal the sore. This is the day of reform; the students at State and Bucknell have for some time been wondering why they are nursing an old sore, the cause of which they know nothing about. Through a false college pride neither wished to take the initial step toward resumption of relations. At last Bucknell has come to the front.

At the semi-annual meeting of the Athletic Association, December 16, the following resolution was proposed and unanimously passed with great enthusiasm.

Resolved, That the Athletic Association of Bucknell University favors the resumption of athletic relations with Penna. State College. Both colleges closed the following week for Christmas vacation. The resolution was not formally sent to State, but was published in the Philadelphia dailies, attracting much attention and comment.

It was now up to State; the question was would she meet us half way? Last week Manager Himes of the State base-ball team called Manager Stevenson on the phone and wanted to know whether Bucknell meant business. Manager Stevenson answered that "so far as the student body was concerned, she did." State's manager said he would refer the matter to their faculty committee. This is as far as negotiations have gone between the colleges. The State Collegian says that the faculty committee has decided to leave the question to the decision of the students, with the understanding that they will endorse the action taken by them.

We understand that the result of the students deliberations will be something similar to the action of Bucknell. Should the students at State vote to re-establish relations and receive their faculty's endorsement, we sincerely hope that the Bucknell faculty which to date has taken no recognizance of the matter, will come to the front fairly and put no obstacles in the way. There is no doubt but that the resumption of relations would be of great benefit to each college athletically and financially.

If this matter can be brought to a head, we would suggest that each college appoint a committee consisting of one member of the faculty, one alumnus and two undergraduates, to meet and draw up articles of agreement for a definite period; consisting of rules of eligibility, etc. We would like to see Bucknell and State playing basketball this winter, yet this may be somewhat premature; but there is no reason why two base-ball games cannot be scheduled.

The arrangement of this reconciliation may be a rather delicate matter, but the authorities of either institution should not leave too much college pride or any narrow prejudice enter into their decisions. There is no reason why the two colleges cannot meet like fair sportsmen and both be willing to make concessions. In an affair of this kind the wishes of the students should carry some weight, and it is a well known fact that the students of Bucknell and State want to see a reconciliation.

Bucknell's Dissecting Table Cheated.

The corpse of Evan Thomas, a brother of Wm. Thomas, of Shamokin, was saved from the dissecting table of Bucknell University Thursday by Undertaker H. F. Clifford of Mahanoy City.

Evan Thomas, aged 59 years, died in the Reading almshouse on December 27, from lung trouble. As no person claimed his body at the time it was sent to University of Pennsylvania for anatomical purposes. Several days later the body was shipped here. John Thomas, of Mahanoy City, a brother of the deceased, learned of the death and quickly made an investigation, finally learning that the remains had been sent to Lewisburg. He made a hurried trip here on Tuesday and claimed the body. Returning home he instructed Undertaker Clifford, of Mahanoy City to secure the body, and the latter returned with it to Schuylkill county on Thursday, where it was interred.

Philadelphia Alumni Club to Meet Feb. 1.

The executive committee of the Philadelphia Alumni club are planning to make the annual dinner on Feb. 1st, one of the greatest in the history of the organization. The meeting will be made more popular and entertaining than ever before. College songs, printed on the menus, will be sung in order to make the recollection of old college days most pleasant.

Honorable John Weaver, Provost Harrison of the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. W. W. Keen, Rev. George H. Ferris, Prof. Llewellyn Phillips and Mr. William C. Gretzinger, are expected to make short after dinner speeches.

Indoor Meet Saturday Afternoon.

An indoor contest was held in Tustin Gymnasium on Saturday afternoon and on account of the small number of candidates out, but three events were contested. These were:

High jump, entered by Perez, Shorkley, Owens, Harris, '08, Whitney and Farr; won by Cure, 5 feet, 3 in.; second Owens, 5 feet, 1 in.

Pole vault, entered by Fries, Perez, Whitney, Owens, and Hall; won by Hall, 9 feet.

Shot put (16 lb.), entered by Lenhart, Sayre, Shorkley, O'Brien, Tolbert and Claypool; won by Lenhart, 37 feet, 1-4 in.; second, Shorkley, 28 feet, 6 1-2 in.

ADDRESS IN CHAPEL

Dr. Perrine Gives Instructive Talk on "The Fame of Franklin."

The commemoration of the two hundredth anniversary of Franklin's birth Dr. Perrine addressed the students in chapel on Wednesday morning on the subject,—"The Fame of Franklin." The lecture was new and instructive, and was greatly appreciated. Dr. Perrine said in part:

"Franklin's fame is secure. Secure—because it is based upon the only foundation that will stand. "Whosoever would be first among you, shall be servant of all." Franklin seems to have been born a statesman, a man of the state. He cast his eye not alone on the immediate surroundings but upon the remotest periods and made his impress upon it. No matter what theory of the solidarity of society one entertains, one may find the germ of it in Franklin's thought and deed. For no narrow individualism did Franklin stand, but he always believed and taught that when one member suffers, they all suffer.

At the age of seventeen the homeless and wandering boy reached Philadelphia. He succeeded in business to be sure; but he did so largely because he was soon recognized as a valuable public servant. His spirit, though militarian, was tempered by philanthropy. He published the first magazine in this country, and may be said to be the father of our journalism. Directly from his famous "Proposals Relating to the Education of Youth in Pennsylvania" came the little Academy that has since developed into the University of Pennsylvania. If Franklin did not point men to the skies, he did teach them how to get on with themselves and each other. He taught the people by his wit—"Fish and visitors smell in three days;" by antithesis,—keep your eyes wide open before marriage and half shut afterwards;" by epigram,—"A fat kitchen makes a lean will;" by alliteration,—"Silks and satins, scarlets and velvets put out the kitchen fire;" by many of these literary devices that charp n the arrow and send it quivering to the heart of its object.

In hours stolen from daily toil Franklin made experiments of all sorts—the most dramatic but by no means the most important of which was his successful attempt to snatch the lightning from heaven, a feat which more than anything he had yet done made him famous in Europe. True to his commercial instinct he would not take a patent or any commercial advantage for himself, nor accept copyrights for his publications: he said that "as we enjoy great advantage from the inventions of others, we should be glad to give the world the benefit of our own. No one in the colonies could have made the money faster than he—he ceased to do so before the love of money had squeezed the life out of his heart.

Had Franklin confined himself strictly to printing and scientific pursuits of which he was passionately fond, he would easily have reached a high degree of eminence both at home and abroad. Yale and Harvard did him honor with the master's degree, Edinburgh and Oxford and St. Andrews crowned him with the docorate.

On being chosen President of Pennsylvania Franklin said: "I have not firmness enough to resist the unanimous desire of my country folks, and I find myself harnessed again to their service another year. They engrossed the prime of my life. They have eaten my flesh, and now seem resolved to pick my bones." Again in 1786, and in 1787 he was unanimously re-elected."

How many-sided he was. Social service, of which we hear so much,—in that he was a herald with few helpers, as he called men to hasten their progressive steps; a writer,—he sought only to increase by wise words lighted up with humor the intelligence of his countrymen; an amateur in science,—he made the most startling contribution then known to humanity, the Royal society indulged in laughter when they first heard of it; a business man,— he early struggled away from poverty and was ever after a strong tower for the defense of many others; a statesman.—he never lived for an hour upon his country; a philospher,—his keen observations are still quoted in many languages; a diplomat,—he thrust and parried with a blade finer than Saladin's; a conversationalist,— he stood before kings with as much ease and charm as before the men in his shop; a friend,—he forgot unkindness and misrepresentation, and drew his associates to him as with hooks of steel; superior to bitter disappointment and even to incurable disease he ranks to-day "among the greatest and rarest of men."

Inter-Class Basketball Schedule.

The following schedule for the inter-class basket-ball games has been announced:

Seniors vs. Juniors, Jan. 22, 4 p. m.
Juniors vs. Freshmen, Jan. 29, 4 p. m.
Seniors vs. Freshmen, Feb. 12, 4 p. m.
Seniors vs. Juniors, Feb. 29, 8 p. m.
Juniors vs. Sophomores, Mar. 6, 4 p. m.
Sophomores vs. Freshmen, Mar. 12, 8 p. m.

The schedule for the 'varsity has been completed by the addition of two games with the Williamsport Y. M. C. A. The first will be played at Lewisburg on Feb. 17; the second, at Williamsport, on March 9.

Season Tickets Must Be Produced.

The new finance committee have been having quite a little difficulty on account of the laxness of some of the fellows who hold season tickets. Editorial

The question of resuming Athletic relations with State College has been discussed in another column, and the possibility of such an action should instill in any fair-minded person an enthusiasm for the favorable outcome of negotiations. For years Bucknell and State have alike felt that they were without a real rival in any sense of the word, and a glance into the athletic history of either institution would prove the statement.

The student-bodies of Bucknell and State have keenly felt the loss of the annual games between the two colleges, and are ready to sacrifice a bit of their college pride in order to bring the two institutions back to friendly terms. The lapse of time has helped to eradicate the strong feeling of prejudice, and has helped to make the present the golden opportunity for the resumption of relations.

The State Collegian in commenting editorially upon this same question says. "To any reasonable mind the renewal of friendly relations with our old rival at Lewisburg will certainly prove beneficial. Bucknell is our nearest college neighbor with whom we should certainly learn to live on terms of friendship and fair recourse."

That the student bodies are ready for the contemplated action is proven by the way in which they are working for the renewal of relations. Action has been taken by both the State and Bucknell student-bodies, and in both cases was enthusiastic and general. The Alumni of both colleges favor the movement, since they feel that it will be beneficial to both institutions. That the present negotiations may culminate in the renewal of athletic relations between State and Bucknell is the universal and fervent desire.

Theta Alpha and Enepia Literary societies have good reasons for self congratulation when they take account of the personnel of their numbers. To begin with, the new members of both societies form a very promising nucleus from which Bucknell will draw her defenders in intercollegiate debates. The new members give evidence of thorough training received in Literary Halls. This is noticed in many ways: In a good command of language; in ease of speaking; in a mastery of parliamentary rules and discussions and debate; and in the lack of self consciousness while speaking,—a matter so noticeable in first year men. Oratorical training, as is now pursued at our institution, has accomplished much for the new members. This is the more marked by the comparison of the new and old members.

A sad lack of oratorical ability and platform ease are serious faults among the upper-classmen. Hitherto our literary societies received most of their members as raw material, and four years intimate association with society halls was required for the transformation of efficient speakers. There is no excuse for this lamentable lack of knowledge of parliamentary rules of discussion and debate. With the influx of the present Freshmen a new era has begun. An evening spent in either of our society halls is no longer filled with the dull recital of uninteresting data but is replete with bright, crisp discussions of an order highly original. Of course what has been said of the new men applies as well to many of the veterans. We must not forget that "Theta Alpha and Enepia," owe their existence to the constant interest and devotion of their old members. Both societies would long since have passed into oblivion save for the faithful few. Prospects are brighter now, for with the trusty veterans, and the enthusiastic and competent new men, "Theta Alpha" and "Enepia Literary Socities can look forward to better times than they have known for many a year.

The basket-ball team deserves credit for the game they played against Susquehanna. Though the contest was never in doubt, it is agreed that it was not the easiest kind of a game. The team work has greatly improved since the opening game with Mansfield Normal, and we note with pleasure the progress made.

The attendance at the basket-ball games is very commendable. Everyone shows a deep interest in the welfare of the "Orange and Blue" five, and this will do more than anything else to keep the team playing in winning form.

The inter-class basketball schedule has been announced, and this is of special interest because of two games it contains. The Senior-Junior and the Sophomore-Freshman contests are among the most exciting of the year, and like the class football games are great attractions because of their local interest.

The class games, too, in any form of athletics, help to instill a broader interest, and thus serve to make the standard of the 'Varsity teams higher. The popularity of this sport at Bucknell always brings a large number of candidates for the positions on 'Varsity and class teams. This year promises to be a banner year in this respect.

After Jan. 25, the names of those students who have not filed vaccination certificates will be officially reported. Certificates should be filed at once so that the records can be completed.

Rev. H. E. Stilwell, D. D., '81, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Cleveland, Ohio, writes: I am about to leave for a four months' trip abroad, especially for a study period in Egypt and Palestine. I am hoping to return to this country in time to attend the Commencement exercises at Bucknell in June, it being the twenty-fifth anniversary of my graduation.

Bucknell vs. Villanova.

Next Friday night the 'Varsity will play the Villanova college basketball team in Tustin Gymnasium. Judging from the standard of Villanova's football and baseball teams the contest should be worth seeing and should attract a large crowd.

For the purpose of arousing interest in cross-country runs, an alumnus of Brown University has offered a handsome cup to be run for in the near future. The conditions of the race will be: 1. The three men who finish first will receive their numerals. 2. The cup will become the property of the class of which the winner is a member.

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, JANUARY 29, 1906 No. 16

A NEW SPORT FOR BUCKNELL

Wrestling to be Introduced This Term by Coach Hoskins.

Last year the efforts of Coach Hoskins to introduce wrestling among the students at Bucknell met with such take up the training in wrestling as the establishment of this form of athletics in 1906.

With the opening of the winter term the Tustin gymnasium begins to be used by the majority of the men in college, and especially by the members of the two under-classes.

Basket-ball receives the greatest amount of attention, but with all that there are many left who could ship of the A. A. U. at the Metropoffered by the physical director. Bucknell was forced to decline an invitation to participate in a dual meet at the University of Pennsylvania for the reason that there was no team to send. The material for a good team is here; all that is needed is its proper development.

A call for candidates was issued recently by Coach Hoskins. He wishes to develop men in the 105, 115, 125, 135, 155 and 185 pound classes. The contest will be held in connection with the annual Indoor Meet on March 6th. Coach Hoskins is well fitted to train such a team, since he held the National Amateur Championolitan Opera House, in New York City during 1890.

'Varsity 60; Reserves 10.

The Villa Nova team failed to appear on Friday night, and for the first time in seven years Bucknell was dissappointed by a visiting team. Manager Claypool had received no word from the Villa Nova manager and consequently no other game was scheduled. The 'Varsity and "Scrubs" played an exhibition contest in which the hardest task fell to one not on the basket-ball floor—the score-keeper.

This game was played to satisfy a large crowd that had gathered to witness the Villa Nova contest, and served as a good practice game for the 'Varsity. The final score was 60-10.

The line-up:

'Varsity	Positions	Scrubs
Lenhart	forward	Gibney
Lose	forward	Hawk
O'Brien	center	McNinch
Claypool	guard	Ezleberner
Wagner	guard	Rolfe

Substitutes: Waltz for Rolfe, Shelley for McNinch, Hayes for Ezleberner. Goals from field: Lenhart 7, Lose, 9, O'Brien 6, Wagner 7, Claypool, McNinch, Rolfe, Waltz, Gibney. Goals from fouls: Lenhart 2, Hawk 2. Referee, Hoskins. Time of halves, 20 minutes.

Bucknell Academy Wins from L. H. S.

Bucknell Academy defeated Lewisburg High School in basket ball by a score of 8-5 Saturday evening. The game was fiercely contested from stare to finish and was very rough. The first half ended with the score 2-1 in favor of High School, Kauffman having thrown a foul and Atkinson a goal for them while Tully threw a foul for Academy.

In the second half Neff for the Academy soon scored which evened the count. Kauffman a little later scored the last goal for High School, making the score 5-2 in the latter's favor. Watkins for Academy then tied the score again 5-5. A foul thrown by Tully and a goal by Osborn for the Academy made the final score 8-5. Next week the Academy plays Milton High School.

B.A.		L. H. S.
Neff	forward	Kauffman
Butler	forward	Crumbling
Osborn	center	Atkinson
Watkins	guard	App
Tully	guard	Cromley

Referee, C. C. Wagner, B. U. Timer Wall, B. A. Time of halves, 20 minutes. Goals from fouls, Tully 2, Kauffman. Goals from field, Atkinson, Neff, Kauffman, Watkins, Osborn.

"Sophs" Victorious.

In the opening game of the interclass basket-ball series the Sophomores won from the Seniors on Monday afternoon by the score of 17 to 10. The game was hard fought throughout, and was full of brilliant plays. Claypool for 1906, and Gibney for 1908 played star games. The lineup was as follows:

Seniors	Positions	Sophomores
Goldsmith	forward	Lose
Hennessy, capt.	forward	Gibney, capt.
Claypool	center	Lenhart
Comsteck	guard	Nipple
Waltz	guard	Harris

Substitution: Shelley for Hennessy; Pease for Waltz. Goals from field, Gibney 3, Lenhart 3, Hennessy 2, Claypool, Lose, Nipple. Goals from fouls, Claypool 4, Lenhart 1. Referee Heskins. Time of halves twenty minutes.

The Nashville Convention.

The Y. M. C. A. will send three delegates to the Fifth International Student Volunteer Convention to be held at Nashville, Tenn., from Feb. 28 to March 4. This convention is held once every student generation and representatives from every part of the world are present. It is expected that there will be 3000 delegates at the convention.

The purpose of the gathering is to bring together at Nashville representatives, delegations of students and professors from all important institutions of learning in Canada and the United States, to consider unitedly the leading problems of the world's evangelization, and to gain a vision of the missionary possibilities of the church. At the last convention held in Toronto in 1902, there were present 2,957 delegates including about 250 professors.

The leading features of the conference will be addresses by the ablest missionary speakers of North America and other lands, discussions concerning the development of the Student Volunteer movement, exercises for the deepening of spiritual life, opportunities for students to visit and interview representative missionaries from all lands, and an exhibit of missionary literature including books and periodicals of rare value.

Bucknell is entitled to 9 delegates to the convention, including women, faculty, and college men. Robert R. Galley, of Tientsin, China, who spoke in Bucknell Hall during his visit here last term, and Rev. H. C. Mable, D. D., Home Sec. of the Baptist Foreign Mission Union, who preached in the Baptist church yesterday will be two of the speakers at the convention. Among other speakers are Robert E. Speer and John R. Mott.

DAY OF PRAYER OBSERVED

Dr. Seymour, of Philadelphia, Addresses Large Audience.

Thursday, January 25, was the day of prayer for American colleges, and Bucknell commemorated the occasion by having Dr. Robert G. Seymour deliver addresses both morning and afternoon. The first service was held in the Baptist church at 10:30 o'clock, and a large number of students and town people were in attendance. The directness with which Dr. Seymour spoke made his words effective.

Before beginning his address Dr. Seymour spoke of a trip into Florida on which he had the privilege of seeing the John B. Stetson University at De Land. Dr. Lincoln Hulley is president of the institution, and Dr. Seymour says it is growing under his supervision.

Dr. Seymour said in part: Public opinion means much to us today. The question in our lives is, do we discover these truths of the scriptures, these teachings, or is it merely tradition? In reading and talking over the scriptures have we really experienced them as true, or have we come to regard tradition as truth, because it was taught us from early childhood?

The scriptures teach us not to accept tradition as truth, yet all history and all literature, and many of the books of scripture are simply an outgrowth of tradition. The attestation of history is the human heart, and truth is of no real value to one unless he has experienced it in his own heart. The great thoughts and teachings of today have all emanated from the truths and principles set forth by Jesus centuries ago.

With us, is truth a question of tradition or experience? There are three principles which determine the answer. They are forgiveness, faith, and loyalty to the king. These three principles we may use as a test of our lives by which we may answer all its important questions.

Bucknell Alumnae Club Entertained.

The Bucknell Alumnae Club of Philadelphia was entertained at luncheon on last Wednesday by Mrs. Joseph Barker, of Tioga, Phila., Colleges were represented as follows: Vassar, Miss Margaret Brenglinger; Wellesley, Mrs. Ayers, of Chester; Smith, Miss Helen Tuxbury, Philadelphia; Bryn Mawr, Miss Emily Palmer; Radcliffe, Mrs. Kent, West Philadelphia; Barnard, Miss Florence Sanville; Bucknell, Miss Blanche Bane, Philadelphia; Mrs. I. H. O'Harra, of West Philadelphia; Mrs. Daniel Sutton, of Mount Holly, were the program committee. About fifty of the club members were present.

Freshmen Turn Tables.

While the Sophomores were hazing Isman and Payne, of the Freshman class, on Friday night, the entire class of 1909 turned out and captured some of the 1908 men as they were returning from their little escapade. Two of the men were retained in a room guarded by the Freshmen and were marched down to chapel Saturday morning before the band of 1909 men, bearing the placard "Hazers." It is said that they had taken no part in the affair. The discretion of the Freshmen in going to this extreme is questioned by many of the upper-classmen.

Henry C. Mabie Lectures in Chapel.

"The choice of a profession," was the subject of a lecture delivered before a large audience in Bucknell Hall at the Way of Life meeting yesterday afternoon by Dr. Henry C. Mabie. Mr. Mabie is a graduate of Chicago, and greatly resembles "our own Dr. Whitman" in personality and in manner of delivery. This feature would insure him a cordial welcome, such as he received.

Dr. Mabie urged throughout his address that the profession for a young man was that of the ministry. He tried to impress upon the audience that what men need in their lives today is something that is monumental, something that will stand. Quoting an example he said: "The character of John G. Payne, whose work in the South Sea Islands made him famous, will survive as long as the world shall stand, even though it shall endure for five millions of years." It will live because his work in those lands was monumental, a work of service and devotion for others.

Is there anything such as luck in human life and character? The whole universe was made to co-operate with man. We must meet the kings of iniquity, and to do this our only hope is to come back to Christ. Mayor Weaver is over-coming the evil in Philadelphia; Mr. Hughes is doing the same work in New York city. If one wants to be worth anything in this world, he has to face the conflict with evil. The world has no use for a selfish or self-centered man. There is no power on earth that can tell one what he wants to be; God alone can do this, and He wants to save the whole life."

Fire Damages House.

The house of Wm. Bell, near the University siding, narrowly escaped destruction by fire on Tuesday morning. There was no one in the house at the time the blaze broke out. A neighbor, who saw the smoke rolling from the windows, sent in an alarm and before the fire company could reach the place the students had cleared the house of its contents, and had a bucket-brigade working. Everything was saved but a few of Mr. Bell's personal effects, and a subscription which is circulating among the students promises to make up for this loss. The house belongs to Bucknell University, and is insured The building was badly damaged.

Edward P. Elliott, Impersonator.

The third number on the Y. M. C. A. Lecture Course will be given this evening in the Lutheran church. Mr Edward P. Elliott will appear before his Lewisburg audience in "Masterpieces of Modern Comedy." Mr. Elliot is a humorist of no mean rank and will fully maintain the high standard that has thus far characterized the lecture course this year.

Those who have heard Mr. Elliott say that there is a good treat in store for those who attend.

Newspapers as Text Books.

At Northwestern University newspapers have been ranked as text-books, and hereafter students in the American history classes of that institution must come to the recitation rooms prepared to answer questions on the news of the day.

CONVENTION TO BE HELD HERE

B. Y. P. U. Will Meet on Bucknell Campus Next August.

The B. P. U. is making arrangements to hold its annual convention at Lewisburg, on the campus of Bucknell University, on August 1 to 10 inclusive. Preparations are being made to offer the guests the very best advantages in the line of recreation, study and lectures. This conference is called the Summer School of Methods, and courses for Bible School teachers, Junior Leaders, and Young People's Society Workers will be given.

Bucknell is an ideal place for such a gathering, since it is a Baptist institution, centrally located. A large number of delegates are expected to attend the convention and plans are being laid for the accommodation of the large crowd.

Junior "Prom" to be Held Feb. 23.

The date of the Junior "Prom" has been set for February 23, and arrangements are being made to make this year's annual dance one of the greatest ever given by a Junior class of Bucknell University. The success of the "Prom" depends greatly upon the number of people that attend, and 1907 extends an invitation to every college man, and especially to Juniors to be present. The date is a very convenient one for those who are entertaining guests from out of town, since it is preceded by the Gettysburg basket-ball game on Feb. 22, and followed by the Dickinson game on the 24th.

Basket-ball Seats Will be Reserved.

The management of the Athletic Association announces that at the next basket-ball game reserved seats will be provided. This action is taken in order to overcome the confusion which "grab" seats cause, and to afford better accommodations.

There will be a few more than a hundred reserved seats, and since they are necessitating extra expense a charge of ten cents will be made to have seats reserved. This may be done at Baker's drug store or at the College Book Store on the day of a game between the hours of 4 and 6 p. m.

Theta Delta Tau Initiates.

Theta Delta Tau held their initiation on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. The banquet was held at the Lochiel Tavern on Wednesday night. The initiates were:

Phi Gamma Delta, Barton Savidge and Merle Whitney.

Phi Kappa Psi, James Lose, Rockwell Cole and Elmer Bolton.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Edward Innes.

Kappa Sigma, David Binns and Reuben Shrum.

All American Football Team.

Walter Camp has chosen the following men as members of the All-American football eleven for 1905: Roome, Yale, half-back; McCormick, Princeton, full-back; Hubbard, Amherst, half-back; Shevlin, Yale, end; Squires, Harvard, tackle; Tripp, Yale, guard; Torrey, Pennsylvania, center; Burr, Harvard, guard; Lamson, Pennsylvania, tackle; Glaze, Dartmouth, end; Eckersall, Chicago, quarter-back.

Editorial

We are hearing too much today of men who go out from college as physical wrecks, and it seems that such examples should only serve to make us careful in this regard. This is the term when we expect to do our hardest and best work, yet there are a few spare hours which we might spend in strengthening ourselves physically.

Coach Hoskins, as physical director, opens the way for us in as many different lines as possible, and only recently has he endeavored to interest the student-body in wrestling. We all know the benefits derived from this form of athletics, and we dare not doubt the efficiency of Coach Hoskins as a trainer and director. Thus, we have two of the three essentials that will make wrestling a popular sport with us. The third requisite is a disposition on our part to take up this new form of athletics. The growth of our college in regard to the number of students enrolled each year warns us not to neglect this opportunity. As it is there are those of us who play neither basket-ball, foot-ball or base-ball, and who would be glad for such a chance to do something. In a few years this number will have increased until there will be a demand for some other winter sport.

Hockey, association foot-ball, and lacrosse are not in vogue at Bucknell, simply because conditions are not favorable for their introduction. The time may come when some one of these forms of athletics will become popular with us,but that time is not the present. Wrestling comes as an available sport and conditions for its establishment may never be more promising. The thing for about forty or fifty of us to do is to answer this call by Coach Hoskins, and report to the gymnasium for practice. If this opportunity is taken hold of, we may see some good bouts at the Indoor Meet on March 6th.

CUTTING CLASSES.

Too many of us have the idea that "a little vacation, now and then, is always good for the best of men," and going on this supposition we absent ourselves from classes whenever we feel indisposed. There may be those of us who are so good in our classes that a "cut" will not make the least difference, yet we will not always be attending college. When we have launched forth into the world, very few of us will expect to be able to sleep until ten; or to take an "afternoon off" whenever we wish.

At Bucknell the rule in regard to the "cutting" of classes is not so stringent, and the delinquents, as we might call them, seem to think that by absenting themselves from recitations, they are not the losers.

A little thought on the subject would bring most of us to our senses, and would help us to form the opinion that the regular attendance of classes is essential to the best grade of work. If we are here to work, we should not betray our purpose; if we have no idea of working, we should not be here. College is no place for men who cannot buckle down to a good hard task, and master it; then, we are here for an education, and not to see how little we can apply ourselves, and still make passing grades. Every class is an opportunity and by taking advantage of every one we may prove a quality in ourselves, and that quality is steadiness. If we do not possess it, surely, the time is not too late to begin to practice it. Steadiness, we will never gain by "cutting" a class now and then, and planning by every possible means to keep above grade.

The two recent fires, which have been the cause of wet clothing and vacant class-rooms on the hill, and delicious flutters of excitement at the "Sem," must have made a few of the more practical minded members of our college community reflect upon one of the few dangers that menace Bucknell's welfare.

We have inadequate protection from fire. With all due deference and respect to the "L. F. D.," it must be owned that a single piece of apparatus could do little to check a fire that had a good start on the hill. Still less effective in putting out the blaze would be anything that the college men could do with the few buckets at hand. Once under way in the seasoned timbers of Main Building, the fire would have a merry time, respecting in its frolic neither the priceless curiosities in the Museum of Natural History nor the magnificent new stage in the Smith Auditorium.

Seriously, however, for the matter is a serious one, something should be done about the matter at once. The agitation two years ago, under the influences of our gifted Stevenson, amounted to nothing. Let us not continue to slumber. A little well-directed energy would organize a fire brigade. A few dollars spent for hose now would be nothing compared with the cost of new dormitories or the expense of repairing half ruined buildings. Let us hear a few expressions of opinion on the subject.

Misfortune may come to any of us at any time, but the fire that drove Mr. Bell from his home on Tuesday was surely a piece of ill luck. A subscription paper is circulating among us and it should meet with universal support. The faithfulness of our veteran janitor merits the good-will and aid of every man in college.

INTER-COLLEGIATE.

A society has been founded at Cornell known as the Cosmopolitan Club. Its object is the study of questions of civil government by bringing together the foreign students of the University. Fifty-seven nationalities are found on its rolls.

Governor Utter, of Rhode Island, has offered prizes to students of Brown university. One, a prize of $30 for the best essay of three to five thousand words on the subject: "Arbitration is a practical method for the adjustment of International Controversies;" two prizes, a first of $40, and a second of $20 to the winners of a public debate on the same subject.

A Civil Service University.

Edward Jones James, the new president of the University of Illinois, has determined upon an entirely new departure in American higher education. President James intends to make Illinois a "civil service University," and he will make the preparing of young men for federal and state positions the chief aim of the big institution of which he has assumed control.

College Annuals.

At this time when the L'Agenda board is in the midst of the work of preparing the book, it might be of interest to note what are some of the names by which college annuals are known. The Athenaeum of W. V. U. recently contained a good list.

West Virginia, Monticola; Ohio State Makio; W. & U. W. Va., Murmurmontis; W. & J., Pandora; Penn. Miss Wrigley, matron of the Women's College, has been very ill the past week.

Misses Galbraith and Hankins were entertained at dinner by Prof. and Mrs. Wolfe on Friday night.

Date of Relay Races Fixed.

The date for the annual relay carnival of the University of Pennsylvania has been set for April 28. The contest will be held at Franklin Field, as usual, and the leading colleges, preparatory and high schools of the country will be invited to enter teams. The management has already been assured of an entry list that will make the meet the greatest ever given by Pennsylvania. Chicago, Michigan and Wisconsin will enter teams to meet the best of the eastern university runners.

Bucknell always sends a team to Philadelphia to take part in these races. The only man that ran on last year's team is Irey, '08, and the prospects for a winning team this season depend greatly upon the material in the Freshman class.

The Lebanon Valley Game.

The next basket-ball game of the schedule will be played with Lebanon Valley, in the Tustin gymnasium, on next Friday night. Bucknell wishes to win this game to avenge herself for the defeat suffered at the hands of Lebanon Valley last season. The game last year was played at Lebanon Valley college and the Chapel had been converted into a basket-ball floor, since the gymnasium had recently been destroyed by fire. The floor was a small one, and the Lebanon Valley team was composed almost entirely of 'ringers.' This year conditions will be different, and Bucknell expects to win.

Indoor Meet in Tustin Gymnasium.

An indoor meet was held in the gymnasium on Saturday afternoon. Three events were contested.

In the pole vault Knapp, '09, won from Hall, '07, height 9 ft. 5 in.

Shade, Tolbert, Claypool, McNinch, Grimminger '09, and Sayre entered the shot put. Shade threw 33 ft. 4 in. Parsons, 31 ft. ½ in., Tolbert 30 ft. 1 in.

In the five-lap race Woodward, '09, ran in 54 seconds, Carl 56, and Deninger 56 3-5 seconds.

Article by Prof. Colesteck.

In the "Outlook" for Jan. 20, Prof. Henry T. Colestock has an article, on "The Religious Beliefs of Students," that is well worth reading. The article is the substance of an address delivered in Bucknell Chapel, Sunday afternoon, May 28, 1905. A review of the article would be useless since the magazine is within reach of all, and since every one can get a better idea of the theme by reading it.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1906 No. 17

LEBANON VALLEY BEATEN

Bucknell, by Superior Team Work, Runs Up a Large Score.

Bucknell easily defeated Lebanon Valley college in Tustin gymnasium on Friday evening by the score of 47-11. The game was not fast and was characterized by the large number of fouls that were called. Lebanon Valley failed to come up to the expectations of the large crowd that had gathered to see a close game, since this was the only team that defeated Bucknell last season.

Scarcely had the whistle sounded until Lose scored a pretty goal. The ball was tossed up again and Lose scored almost as quickly. Lebanon Valley was taken off her feet and the ball was kept flying around Bucknell's basket. Toward the close of the half Hall shot a clean goal for Lebanon Valley. Another basket by Hall just before time was called left the score 27-4 at the end of the first 20 minutes of play.

The second half was slow and Lebanon Valley resorted to the defensive game. Claypool's work at guard and Lose's shooting were features. Hall and Carner excelled for the visitors.

The line-up:

Bucknell	Positions	Lebanon Valley
Leonhart (capt.)	forward	Wilders
Lose	forward	Knauss
O'Brien	center	Hall
Wagner	guard	(capt.) Maxwell
Claypool	guard	Carner

Goals from field—Lose 10, Wagner 3, O'Brien 5, Claypool 2, Hall 2, Knauss, Lenhart, Goals from fouls; Knauss 3, Lenhart 3. Referee—Hoskins. Time of halves—20 minutes.

Juniors 7; Freshmen 6.

In the second game of the interclass series the Juniors won from the Freshmen on Monday afternoon by the close score of 7-6. The contest was rough from the start and was in doubt until the final whistle sounded. With but two minutes to play in the second half, and the score 6-5 in favor of the Freshmen, Wagner threw the winning goal for the Juniors. The playing of McNinch for the Juniors, and that of Rolfe for the Freshmen were the features of the game:

The line up:

Juniors	Positions	Freshmen
Wagner	forward	Kase
Leach	forward	Rolfe
McNinch	center	O'Brien
Rockwell	guard	Woolson
Baer	guard	Shirley

Goals from field: Wagner 2, Rolfe 2, Shirley, McNinch. Goals from fouls: McNinch. Referees: Hoskins (first half), Claypool (second half). Time of halves: 20 and 15 minutes.

Bunnell Named as Chairman.

Attorney Willard M. Bunnell, '97, has been chosen to lead the Democratic hosts, of Scranton, in the campaign for mayor. He was chosen city chairman at a meeting of a number of party leaders held on January 25.

Chairman Bunnell was city chairman last year during the campaign for city controller, and showed his worth as a leader in that fight. He is a young man of great ability, has the tact of handling men during a campaign, is resourceful, shrewd and capable in every way.

Successful "At Home."

The February "At Home" was given today by the girls in the Women's College. Shortly after four o'clock the guests began to appear, and they were received by the Senior College girls dressed in cap and gown. The parlors into which the guests were ushered were plainly decorated, thus bespeaking the fact that the ladies are reserving their energies in the decorating line for the impending College Girls' Reception. The attendance at the function was most gratifying to all concerned. A number of new faces were discerned among the ranks of the old regulars, interspersed here and there among the boys were the staid members of the faculty. The girls were out in force, and they succeeded most brilliantly in their efforts to entertain. Among those who enjoyed their first "At Home," many converts were made for the function as carried on by the girls. After light refreshments the guests retired with hopes for a repetition of the affairs in the near future.

State Again.

At a meeting of the State College Athletic Association last Saturday the question of resuming athletic relations with Bucknell was brought up before the student body and discussed thoroughly. After a long discussion a motion was made and carried, that athletic relations be resumed with Bucknell.

The question comes up as the most timely and most interesting one before the student-body to-day, and it assumes this form: Is there any reason why these two neighboring institutions could not enjoy a sportsman like rivalry, in spite of the break of six years ago? Both colleges feel the loss seriously, and both are inclined to a reconciliation. There seems to be no time better than the present for the resumption of athletic relations between these old rivals.

The final preliminary to the Junior debate for the year 1906, occurred Thursday evening February 1st. The question debated was "That foreign immigration should be further restricted by an educational qualification."

The debate on the question was well prepared; and the spirit of the contest was such that the judges Professors Burpee and Wilcox, and Mr. Steininger, were a long time in reaching a decision.

It has been the source of much regret that the number of contestants was so small. Only seven from the large number that pursued the course in Argumentation entered the contest. From this number the judges selected the following men for the Junior debate, Berghard, Brockway, Cober and Griffiths.

Phi Gamma Delta Dance.

Phi Gamma Delta gave an informal dance in their halls on last Thursday evening. The affair was a very enjoyable one, seventeen couples being present. The music was furnished by Miss Miller from Watsontown. During the course of the evening the party adjourned for a time to partake of a well-prepared luncheon at Mrs. Huth's parlors. The halls were prettily decorated in the colors of the fraternity.

PORTRAITS IN BUCKNELL HALL

Men Who Were Instrumental in the Success of Bucknell.

Every time we attend chapel we are confronted with the portraits of those whose efforts in the early days of Bucknell's history have made the present institution possible. These portraits bear a singular significance, but to have them bear anything to us it is necessary that we know who they are. Though this subject has been one much discussed, there are few who are able to name the three men whose portraits occupy the enviable position in Bucknell Hall.

Above the central platform hangs the portrait of William Bucknell, the donor to the University of Bucknell Hall, Observatory, Chemical Laboratory, the "Annexes" to the Seminary and Academy, and thousands of dollars in money, president of the Board of Trustees 1882-90, and the man after whom the University was named. The portrait was presented to the institution by him at the time of the completion of Bucknell Hall.

In the northeast corner, to the right of Mr. Bucknell is a life-size, sitting portrait of the first president of the University, a gift from his family. Dr. Howard Malcolm, educated in Philadelphia and Princeton Theological Seminary, was an author of note in religious and philosophical circles. elf has been President of Georgetown College, and pastor of the Sansom Street Baptist church in Philadelphia. In 1851 he became the president of the University at Lewisburg, as Bucknell was then called. In 1857 he resigned to finish his "Index to Religious Literature" published in 1869. He died in Philadelphia in March, 1879, at the age of 81 years.

To the left of Mr. Bucknell, in the northwest corner appears the portrait of Dr. Justin R. Loomis, a graduate from Brown in 1835. For several years he pursued scientific research work in Bolivia, Peru and Chili, and accepted the chair in natural science at the University at Lewisburg in 1854. The following year he became the second President, and after a very able term retired from the office in January, 1879, the year of Dr. Malcolm's death. During his presidency the first endowment fund of $100,000 was raised, and the graduation of the campus was completed. He was the author of several works, "Principles of Geology," "Philology," and "Anatomy," all of which were of great value to the educational world. He died in 1898.

Edward P. Elliott.

The third number of the Y. M. C. A. lecture course for the year 1906-'06 was rendered Monday evening, January 29th, 1906, in the lecture room of the Lutheran church. The hall was filled with those who were anxious to hear the popular impersonator, Edward P. Elliott, of Boston, Mass.

Mr. Elliott being a man of splendid appearance and address, soon won the appreciation of his audience. From the beginning everyone listened with intense interest to his recital of the three act comedy "Christopher Jr." After an evening mixed with wit, humor and art, the impression left with everyone present was that Mr. Elliott is the master of his profession.

Alumni Banquet.

A most successful banquet of the Philadelphia Bucknell Alumni Club was held at the University Club 1510 Walnut Street, Philadelphia on February 1st, 1906.

The tables were beautifully decorated by Hugh Graham & Sons, and an orchestra discoursed all the latest popular airs during the dinner.

The menu was as follows:

Blue Point Oysters
Celery Olives
Mock Turtle Soup
Fillet of Trout
Tartar Sauce
Chicken Pattie a la Reine
Tenderloin of Beef
Potatoes New Peas
Lettuce Salad
Cheese
Ice Cream
Cake
Coffee

When the coffee and cigars were served, the President in a witty speech, deplored the absence of Hon. John Weaver, Mayor of Philadelphia, the first speaker, who was detained at Harrisburg, and then introduced Charles C. Harrison, LL. D., Provost of the University of Pennsylvania, who was received with enthusiastic applause. Provost Harrison bore the greetings of the University of Pennsylvania to Bucknell, and spoke of the high record Bucknell boys made in the classes of the University. He expressed the earnest desire that the relations between the two Universities continue of a most fraternal character, and paid a glowing tribute to the late President Harper of the University of Chicago, making an earnest plea for the cooperation of all institutions of higher learning.

At the conclusion of his speech, after the applause had died away the orchestra struck up "The Red and the Blue" and the Bucknell Alumni Club gave a royal greeting to the University of Pennsylvania, in singing the well known University song.

Dr. William W. Keen, LL. D. F. R. S., the distinguished professor of Jefferson Medical College, made a graceful and witty speech, giving an account of his visit to the University at Lewisburg in 1856, paying a beautiful tribute to his high school classmate and friend, the late Francis Wayland Tustin, and then in a few well chosen remarks caught the sympathy and enthusiastic applause of the Bucknell men present by advocating that college men should only be required to take a three years course in medicine, on account of their previous training, by which he contended they possessed at least a year's advantage over the minds of the untrained.

At the conclusion of his speech, the orchestra to the tune of "Maryland, My Maryland," played the Jefferson College song, which the diners enthusiastically sang.

Doctor Rowland then spoke for the University Trustees and read an interesting paper from President Harris showing the great progress made by the University under his able direction.

Frederick Hertolette, Esq., always popular among the Alumni, was then called upon to represent the general Alumni Association which he did in a clever speech, at the conclusion of which the Club sang "Dear Old Bucknell."

ALUMNI COMMUNICATION

Western Pennsylvania Association Endorses State Movement.

To Editor of "Orange and Blue."
Dear Sir:—

We observe with great pleasure that the student body, through the Bucknell Athletic Association, has taken the initiative in recommending negotiations looking toward the establishment of broad, definite, permanent, and properly regulated athletic relations with our logical rival, State College, and take this opportunity of heartily seconding, in a public manner, such action as expressing the unanimous sentiment of the Western Pennsylvania Alumni. We believe all negotiations should be based upon the present and future conditions and relations.

The affiliation of the State and Bucknell Alumni in Western Pennsylvania has always been most cordial, and we are of the opinion that a healthy permanent rivalry is better cultivated by personal friendly intercourse than by the stiff formal correspondence of a soulless corporate committee.

We will be pleased to co-operate in any way, with any committee or representatives of either State or Bucknell, in which our services will be most beneficial for the purposes of facilitating and expediting the consummation of the agreement.

Very truly yours,
Harry B. Wassell,
Creighton M. Konkle,
Carl C. Law,
Edwin P. Griffith,
Geo. W. English,
Edw. A. Burrows.

Communication.

The "Orange and Blue" invites communications but does not necessarily agree with the opinions expressed therein. All communications must be signed, though the name will not be published if so desired.

To the Editor Orange & Blue:—

The writer does not wish to be considered a crank or a kicker, but he feels that he, with every other holder of a season athletic ticket, has a just complaint against someone.

When the idea of selling season tickets was advanced it met with the approval of almost every student, and accordingly, a fairly large number of the tickets were sold last fall. But every purchaser believed that he had paid his athletic expenses for the entire year. Is such the case?

The basket-ball season has scarcely opened and we are confronted with an extra charge for a reserved seat, which, if one wishes to escort a lady to the game entails an expense almost equal to that of last year, in addition to his season ticket. Are the fellows going to stand for this extra charge? If the expressions one hears about the Hill and town are any criterion, the writer believes that they will not.

We understand that the finance committee determined to do this because of the complaint of a few town people. These persons claim that they come late and are unable to obtain a seat. Yet you very seldom see town people standing; if anyone stands it has been those from the Seminary who come unescorted and who are not permitted to come until time for the game to begin.

Editorial

The popularity of basket ball at Bucknell, and the great interest that has been taken in the sport this season has rendered the present seating capacity of the gymnasium quite inadequate. The games that have been played thus far have been characterized by large crowds, and the contest last Friday night was so well attended that a premium was placed on standing room.

The increase comes as a direct result of the season-ticket plan. The reserved seats helped to overcome this difficulty, but a greater seating capacity is needed.

When Bucknell faces Swarthmore and Williamsport later in the season it will be impossible to accommodate the crowd that will surely be on hand. Some plan should be devised to meet this demand before it has become too late.

According to report the interest in the minstrel practice has been gradually dying down and the manager has been unable to get the members of the club to come out. "Practice makes perfect" is an old saying that seems to be overlooked in our day. The hurry of this age has forced upon us the habit of putting things off, and making the gallant finish. A minstrel show in order to be a success must be worked, and unless the men who are to take part in this year's event realize this fact and begin to practice, the hopes of those who are sacrificing their time to make this a good show will be but dreams. If there are those in the cast so good that they do not need practice, they should at least come out and set an example for the less accomplished.

The action of the Western Pennsylvania Alumni Association is voluntarily lending their support to the present movement toward resumption of athletic relations with State is highly commendable. They feel that the question should be judged in the light of the present and future conditions, rather than the past relations. The alumni can help bring about this long-looked-for reconciliation, and we believe in no instance will their support be wanting. The "Orange and Blue" would be glad to receive communications from other Bucknell alumni associations.

For some time we have been enduring the inconvenience of not having water anywhere save the basement of West College. The water company has been shutting off the supply between the hours of 8 and 11 in the evening, or those at the pumping station have been putting in a little time in sleeping. Whatever the cause, the matter should be remedied, since in the event of fire in either of the buildings the lack of a proper water supply would prove disastrous. Besides, the idea of going to the cellar for a drink of water becomes quite monotonous.

Has Sailed for Nome, Alaska.

John F. Blain, having recently been appointed captain of the "Pennsylvania," of the northwest Steamship Company lines, set sail from Wilmington, Del., on Tuesday morning with a cargo of valuable freight consigned to parties in Nome, Alaska, where the boat is due in the latter part of March. The voyage is via Cape Horn, and enroute the ship will make a few stops in the ports of South America. Capt. Blain invited Fred Jaekel,'03, to join him, and he accepted. Mr. Jaekel will go only as far as San Francisco, where the boat is due in sixty-five days.

No Celebration of Anniversary.

Next Commencement will be held as usual on Wednesday, June 20. This year marks the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of Bucknell University and the report has been spread about that a celebration was being planned. This statement is groundless, as nothing special is being arranged.

Alumni Banqnet.

Concluded from first page.

After a glowing introduction by the Chairman, Hon. E. A. Armstrong, of Camden, N. J., was called upon and made a most earnest and able plea for the further development of the University.

After a few remarks by the Chairman of the Executive Committee, Ernest L. Tustin and Dr. Samuel W. Morton, the meeting was brought to a close by the orchestra playing "Dearest of All" in which the diners enthusiastically joined.

During the evening the orchestra played many Bucknell airs—"When We Were at Bucknell," "Retrospect," "Back Again," "Dear Old Bucknell," and "Dearest of All."

The following is a list of the members of the Club who were present:

E. A. Armstrong, Curtis T. Baker, Fredrick Bertolette, Walter Bertolette, Edward Bell, Jr., Samuel Bolton, M. D., W. J. Coxey, Lewis J. Cross, Alan Craig Cunningham, Milton G. Evans, C. W. Elliot, M. Women's College Notes

Mrs. W. V. Bacon, of Canton, is spending a few days with her daughter Florence.

Miss Parmley was called home on Wednesday by the death of her grandmother.

Dr. and Mrs. Harris and Dean and Mrs. Edwards were entertained at dinner on Friday night.

Mr. Perry, who has been spending some time with his daughter, Kate, returned today to his home in Goshen- ind.

Communication.

Concluded from first page.

Is the Athletic Association going to gain anything by the new move? We are unable to see where they will for there is considerable expense connected with the plan, and although the attendance was good on Friday night, the idea will become monotonous and people will hesitate at paying thirty-five cents where they would not at the former charge, especially for the smaller and less important games. Where it takes one hundred and thirty people to fill the reserved seats, it needs but thirty to stay away to offset this gain.

While we feel that the Finance Committee has done an unwise thing in adopting this plan, we know that they brought down the ill will of a large number by their method of disposing of the seats. The regular bills advertised that the seats would be sold at a certain time at two different places. These bills are posted in several places about town. Then they decided to offer the seats a day earlier and accordingly posted two notices to that effect. It seems that several—and they were those town people for whom this plan was inaugurated—did not see these second notices and when they went to purchase seats they were informed that they had all been sold the day previous. Who stood then? No one. Evidently those people didn't come to the game for the unreserved seats upstairs were unoccupied.

Not only was the time changed, but the writer knows that several seats were sold several hours before the time set for the second time. If we are going to have reserved seats, let us all have a fair chance to obtain them.

Because of the several circumstances noted, several of the fellows were overheard to say that they would hesitate when season tickets were offered for sale again, if unexpected expenses were to be added. Personally this has not affected the writer, nor will it, as he will continue to occupy a seat on the main floor, but he feels that those who are in the habit of going upstairs have a just and reasonable complaint. 1907.

SWARTHMORE WINS

Bucknell Plays Hard But Loses By Score 22-16.

Saturday night Swarthmore defeated Bucknell in one of the greatest contests, and before probably the largest audience, ever seen in the Tustin Gymnasium.

The game was resplendent with sensational plays and the final outcome was in doubt until almost the end of the second half.

The gallery was packed, and for the first time ladies were forced to seek seats on the bleachers. Everyone was out to see Bucknell win this, the most important, game of the season. Notwithstanding this partiality, one of the pleasing features was the generous applause accorded the plays of the Garnet.

The game started off with a rush, both teams playing fiercely. Referee Turner soon put a check on this by calling a foul on Lenhart. Heed threw the goal for Swarthmore, making the first score of the game. It was not long though until Claypool dropped the ball in the basket from the center of the floor, the most sensational play of the evening.

After this the game was resumed with the fastest kind of play. Swarthmore fouled repeatedly: Krueger, the giant center and captain of next year's football team, was the worst offender. Swarthmore showed a great superiority in passing and general team play. Seldom has such passing of the ball been seen on this floor. Olil, the cat-like Swarthmore guard, was especially brilliant in this line.

Both teams seemed over anxious in shooting, and as a result many baskets were lost. Lenhart and Lose each secured two very difficult goals. Lenhart's defense play was a feature of the game. He seemed to be all over the floor at once. Claypool played his usual steady game, his opponent getting but one goal.

Krueger threw four goals in the first half, his height and strength enabled him to basket the ball several times while a Bucknell player was on his back.

Bucknell missed five throws from fouls in the first half, making but two. Swarthmore threw one and missed one. The half ended with the score thirteen to ten. Swarthmore having the long end.

Bucknell played her best game in this half. In the early part of the second half, Swarthmore increased her lead to nineteen by two difficult one hand shots by Vernon.

Lenhart and Lose shortly afterward threw a goal each, renewing Bucknell's hopes. Claypool made good on two fouls, Lenhart later missing one. Heed missed two, and Olil scored the last point of the game by dropping in a foul. O'Brien's defense was better and Krueger was able to get but one goal in the second half. About the middle of the half Wagner retired on account of an injury to his knee, McNinch taking his place. He did some fine work in dribbling.

Claypool and Lenhart were easily the stars for Bucknell, although every man on the team gave a good account of himself. Olil excelled in the general play for Swarthmore. Krueger and Vernon did good work in securing scores. Referee Turner is to be commended for his efficient and impartial officiating. Swarthmore made seven points and Bucknell six in the second half. Final score 22 to 16.

The line-up:

BUCKNELL		SWARTHMORE
Lenhart, capt.	forward	Heed
Lose	forward	Vernon
O'Brien	center	Krueger
Claypool	guard	Palmer, capt
Wagner	guard	Olil
(McNinch)

Goals: Lenhart 2, Lose 2, Wagner 1, Claypool 1, Heed 1, Vernon 3, Krueger 5, Palmer 1. Goals from fouls: Heed 1, Olil 1, Claypool 4. Referee, Mr. Turner, Williamsport Y. M. C. A. Timers, Mr. Hoskins and Mr. Shell. 20 minute halves.

Bucknell had no trouble in defeating Delaware college on Thursday night. This was the first time that an athletic team from Delaware College ever met Bucknell, and we hope it will not be the last.

The Delaware boys played a fast game, but the Orange and Blue guards were too strong for the game little fellows from "Blue Hen" state. The Bucknell men looked like giants beside the Delaware team.

Bucknell put in two new men in the second half, while Delaware also made several substitutions. This half was more closely contested than the first. Lose and O'Brien were again the stars, the former scoring five goals in one half: while O'Brien shot up to his usual standard and was all over the floor. The entire Bucknell team played a great game, and we predict that they will give as good an account of themselves in the remaining games of the season.

Line up:

BUCKNELL		DELAWARE
Lenhart	forward	Miller
Lose	forward	Newman
Rolfe	forward	Shaffer
O'Brien	center	Robin
Claypool	guard	(capt) Huber
		Stewart
Wagner	guard	Baldwin
		McNinch

Goals: Lenhart 3, Lose 5, O'Brien 7, Claypool 1, McNinch 5, Rolfe 1, Miller 2, Shaffer 1, Robin 1. Fouls: Robin 2. 20 minute halves. Referee Hoskins.

Bailey and Riggs Will Lecture for Benefit of Y. M. C. A.

"A Visit to Our Island Possessions" is the subject of an address that will be given by J. R. Bailey, '06, and G. A. Riggs, '08, some time during next week. This will be a lecture based upon observation and fact, and will be illustrated by stereopticon views. Bailey spent some years in the Phillipines, and Riggs has visited Porto Rico and Cuba. The slides were made from photographs taken by the two men in their wanderings about the islands, and will be highly realistic and interesting.

The address is to be given for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. and the funds raised will go toward sending our delegates to the Nashville Convention to be held from Feb. 28 to March 4. The lecture was given a number of times during the past summer and met with unusual success.

Theta Delta Tau Dance.

Theta Delta Tau gave their annual dance in the Armory on Friday night. There were twenty-two couples present, and the affair was a great success. Prof. Miller's Imperial Orchestra furnished the music.

LECTURE TOMORROW NIGHT

Frank R. Robertson Gives Fourth Number of Y. M. C. A. Course.

Mr. Frank R. Robeson, traveller and lecturer, will present to-morrow evening in the Presbyterian church his famous lecture on Russia. This lecture, which constitutes the fourth number on the Y. M. C. A. lecture course, will be illustrated with 150 views gathered by the speaker during the past summer. At that time Mr. Roberson travelled throughout the length and breadth of this dark despotism and consequently he is thoroughly acquainted with his subject. His lecture will be entertaining as well as instructive.

Death of Rev. Geo. Bowman, '63.

The Rev. George Bowman, '63, passed away January 6, at his suburban home on Anacostia Heights, overlooking Washington, after a short illness. He was buried the following Saturday at the Arlington National cemetery. Mr. Bowman was an able preacher and pastor. Having taken his A. B. degree at Bucknell in 1863, he received his A. M., in '66. He was ordained in 1863, when he became pastor of the Milesburg Baptist church. He was afterwards pastor at Factoryville, Hatboro, Allegheny City, Pa., Newfield, N. J., and Anacostia, D. C. During his pastorate at Hatboro he studied at Crozer Theological Seminary, graduating in 1874. In all these places Mr. Bowman proved an able preacher and successful pastor. He died as he lived, honored and loved by all who knew him. Mr. Bowman is survived by several children, one of whom Katherine, attended Bucknell a short time ago.

The Williamsport Game.

Bucknell meets Williamsport Y. M. C. A. in Tustin gymnasium on Saturday night, and the game promises to be one of the best of the entire season. The two contests that were played last year resulted in victories for Bucknell, the first by the score of 32-17, and the second played on Williamsport's floor by the score of 14-12. The up-river five is fast this year and can be depended upon to give a good account of themselves. There is a certain rivalry existing between these two teams, which need only be mentioned to be understood by all. The visitors will likely bring with them a good contingent of rooters, so our cheering squad had better prepare to do some effective work.

The Junior Party.

The Juniors are busy laying plans for their coming "Junior Party," which promises to be one of the notable events in the history of the class. The committee in charge has chosen March 2nd, which comes on Friday night, one week after the Junior Prom, as the date, as it was found impossible to hold it sooner on account of the many other affairs coming in the next two weeks. Arrangements have been made with proprietor W. H. Molnof the Union Hotel at New Berlin, to accommodate the crowd on that night by furnishing a chicken and waffle supper. If there is snow at that time, bob-sleds will be used to take the class out and back, and if there is no sleighing some other means will be secured.

Communication.

To the Editor "Orange and Blue."

The writer read the little article in last week's "Orange and Blue" with much interest.

But say, old fellow, before you pick up your scorching pen again just squeeze out twenty-five cents extra and take a coy little "co-ed" to a game. But remember. Don't buy any reserved seats—that's horrible extravagance to waste on a mere girl, you know. Do like they did in the olden days. When your little queen floats in go up and tell her how glad you are to see her, (etc.) and then walk 'round and round the running track with her in search of a seat. Nothing doing—everything grabbed up. Nobody seems particularly enthusiastic about giving poor little "Co-ed" a seat, icy stares everywhere. You are standing out the game but hardly feel as though you are standing in with the girl. Some fellows would feel rather abbreviated at this point—others, I fear, would not.

Well, perhaps you've learned your lesson and swear not to be "stung again." When the next game comes around you may be seen shivering around the entrance to the "gym," about seven o'clock in company with Charlie Bell, "Crusty," "Ducksy," and his gang. When at last the door is opened you rush in—the memory of the last game still raw in your mind and clutch onto several feet of planking.

After patiently nursing this for close to an hour and having many passing fair ones give you liquid air glances for crowding them out of a seat with yourself and raincoat, she comes. Horrors, you must leave your jealously guarded treasure and go out and meet her. At last you get back with her and find your seat still there. Stealthily you hope and pray that some clever genius will invent some way of holding a seat for you so that you will no longer have to burn up the gray matter in worry.

Then comes the reserved seat. Ah, what bliss now. At last you can sit beside her and coo to your heart's content and not be troubled by any dark memories of a lonely vigil on a cold hard plank. But reform must needs always meet with opposition,—'tis always thus.

One of the fellows downstairs in bachelor's row thinks he should have something to say as to whether or not the fellow "up in the cocoanut tree" should spend ten cents foolishly on a girl. Well, old fellow, you don't know what you're missing. Just take a little fairy somtime—it's great. And if you don't think she's worth spending an extra ten cents on, I'll climb down and be the goat.

You'll find out after you get in on the ground floor of this reserved seat business that the thing originated among the fellows who take girls themselves. At the opera you fight to pay several times ten cents for a reserved seat—at other up-to-date schools you can buy reserved seats at any game. The fellows up-stairs are willing to pay for this convenience—why should you howl? Take my advice and try it sometime. 1906.

COLLEGE MEN'S RECEPTION

Movement on Foot to Give a Big Reception.

During the last week the idea of giving a college men's reception to [illegible] and women has been considerably agitated. This project is due probably to the fact that the college men as a body do not give any social functions throughout the entire college year. True, in our college life we have much society. The respective fraternities give their formals and informals, but these of necessity are exclusive; the college girls' give their annual reception, but this, sad to relate for some of us, is limited, and the classes give their annual dances, but these do not appeal to the college men as a whole either on account of their inability or principle.

In view of the fact that we as college men do not have a social function sufficiently comprehensive to include all the college men at the same time, it is thought that a reception of the kind would meet the need. At all events it would make it optional with the fellow as to whether he would participate or not. The scheme is to give the reception in West College. In this space the details cannot be set forth. However, the fellows have been sounded pretty generally with reference to it, and they are decidedly favorable to the project. Futhermore, Dr. Harris has been consulted on the matter and he gave his "hearty approval," hoping that the idea would be taken up by the college men and successfully worked out.

Of course it is up to the fellows whether the reception shall be an accomplished fact or not. It will have to be entered into heartily by all. The affair in order to accomplish this purpose will have to include the men as a unit.

In order to bring the motto before the fellows for a decision there will be a meeting of the college men tonight, Monday, in the Y. M. C. A. parlors at 9.00 o'clock. Everybody out; this is for all; be free to express your views on the prospective college men's reception.

Again, All out.

Preparation for Inter-Society Debate.

During the past four weeks Eulpia and Theta Alpha Literary Societies have been holding preliminary debates in preparation for the annual inter-society debate. The final preliminaries were held Friday evening, February 9th. At these debates the societies chose the following men: Eulpia, Ridge, '08, McLaughlin, '09. Theta Alpha, Hummer,' 08, Higby, '08.

Great interest has been shown in the preliminaries which promises well for the final debate. During recent years there has been a constant increase of interest shown on part of college students in these debates and it is hoped that the present year will show an increase over the preceeding ones. The date for the final debate has not been selected but will occur during the closing weeks of the present term.

The Senior Group.

All Seniors should have their pictures taken as soon as possible in cap and gown, cabinet size, according to arrangements made by the committee for grouping same.

Editorial

Too many years there has been an unbounded need of a co-operative book store at Bucknell. By a "co-op" store we mean, one that is controlled, and managed by the student-body, and run for the benefit of its subscribers.

At many other colleges this plan has been tried with great success, and in almost every instance students have realized on the proposition. At Cornell and State, our neighbors, these stores are in operation; the "Co-op" store at State handles athletic goods and several other lines. There has been a co-operative store at Yale since 1885, and the idea has been to give the students their goods as cheaply as possible. Harvard's "co-op" has been in operation since 1882 and the society has paid out over $100,000 in dividends.

Naturally, these are difficulties to be overcome before such a plan can be successfully carried out at Bucknell, but the idea is far from impossible. In the establishment of co-operative stores, the greatest problem to be solved is that of capitalization.

The most satisfactory solution to the question of the capitalization of a "co-op" store has been brought about by the formation of a company known as "The American College Stores Corporation." This firm furnishes the funds for capitalizing a co-operative store, does all its buying, and claims for its service five per cent. This company can get lower rates from almost every publishing house than is possible by any local dealer. Their sporting goods, gents furnishings, etc; are obtained in large quantities through contracts direct with the manufacturers, and because of the wholesale rates are secured.

By this plan the expenses of the local store are provided for by the sale of annual membership tickets at one dollar each. These tickets entitle holders to "co-op" rates on all purchases. Those who do not hold membership tickets are charged a higher rate, this forcing everyone to support the plan.

There are other very good ways of capitalizing "co-op" stores. At Michigan, the $800 that set in motion their great "co-op" was furnished by eight professors; the sum required to launch this great enterprise seems insignificant in comparison to the first year's sales,—$5000, and those of the fifth,—$20,000. Besides, each year a rebate of 10 per cent. has been paid to the members on their purchases. The store handles books, stationery, drawing supplies, and athletic goods. The university furnishes the room, with heat and light, free of charge. There was a dividend the first year; the money lent was paid back, and since then the store has been absolutely owned by the students.

Thus, every man will naturally be a share-holder in the co-operative store, and every man will receive dividends according to the amount of his purchases for the college year. The average expenditure for books and supplies is rated now at $20 per annum. Considering that this amount must be paid out year after year by every man in college, we can conceive of a large sum,—and, consequently, a good profit on the investment.

And this would be no losing venture, since the attendance of the university is steadily increasing, and since text-books are absolutely indispensable. Any competition that might arise could be put down by the low price which the "co-op" store could set and maintain through reason of its relation to the student-body.

College "co-ops" are the modern means of supplying students, all over the land, with books; they have been established and maintained at many colleges with the best results. Their rapid spread throughout the inter-collegiate world stamps them as the fairest and most reliable agencies for supplying the needs of student-bodies. The book question is one of vital importance in every institution of learning, and equally so at Bucknell. An open opportunity for the establishment of a "co-op" store at Bucknell may never present itself; the student-body must force the issue by means of concentrated effort and opinion.

The failure of the men at the power house to flash the lights at 11.40 p. m. has been the cause of much discomfort. In the early part of the year this matter was carefully attended to, and the plan was appreciated. When one is working it is not customary to look at a watch every few minutes to keep track of the time; what is more, one does not care to be stopped abruptly in his study because the light has been turned off without even a warning signal. The flash at 11.40 does not cause much inconvenience, and is a favor greatly appreciated by all.

Invitations for Reception.

The invitations for the College Girls' Reception were sent out Monday evening, and those who were lucky enough to receive them are congratulating themselves on their good fortune.

The affair is to be held Friday evening, February sixteenth, in the Institute parlors. Special preparations are being made for this year's social function and in order to maintain the enviable reputation the event has attained through its success in former years. A great evening is looked forward to, and none will be disappointed in their expectation.

Kase, '09, entertained his sister over Saturday and Sunday.

The date for the minstrel has been set for Monday, March 5th.

Bliss, '06, was confined to his room several days of last week with a severe attack of la grippe.

L. O. Manley, '07, has been enjoying for the past few days a visit from his father and mother.

Sylvester B. Dunlap, '03, Asst. Prin. of Muncy Normal, saw the Swarthmore game Saturday evening.

Hon. Clinton Rogers Woodruff, of Philadelphia, will lecture in Bucknell Hall on 'Washingtons' Birthday.

Shoemaker, '07, lectured recently on "Dickens as an Educator" before a teachers' institute at Proctor, Pa.

Sebring, Williamsport's captain, and a former Bucknell star, has been engaged to coach the State College baseball team.

Coach Hoskins entertained his friend, Mr. Shell, on Saturday. Mr. Shell is athletic trainer in Swarthmore College.

In order to increase the seating capacity of the gymnasium, another bleacher is being put in that will accommodate about 50 persons.

Follmer, '06, has been carrying his arm in a sling for the past week because of a dislocated shoulder sustained while boxing with his father.

Mazro, '06, has just returned from a week's visit to Philadelphia and New York City; at the latter place he took the entrance examinations preparatory to entering Columbia University.

At the monthly meeting of the D. A. R., held at the home of Mrs. J. C. Nesbit last Monday evening, Prof. Bartol dellvered a very instructive and exceedingly interesting address on the Matlack Meteorite, and on meteorites in general.

Ministerial Association Meeting.

Thursday afternoon in Theta Alpha Hall, the Ministerial Association of Bucknell University held its regular monthly meeting. Twenty-five or thirty members enjoyed being present. During the business session it was voted that the next meeting be a conference and of a social nature. A special committee will be appointed to arrange for the meeting.

At these meetings it is customary for the students to listen to an address. Evangelist Price who is working at the Baptist church for a few days, occupied the platform and spoke at some length. Mr. Price is especially qualified to give advice to ministerial students, for in the past eighteen years he has been constantly travelling, staying but two weeks in a place and visiting over thirty states. He described many of his experiences in an interesting manner, showing the future D. D's. that their beds would not always be rose-lined Ostermeor mattresses. He cheerfully assured them, however, that he didn't think that they would starve to death. He spoke somewhat of the other side of a pastor's life and gave some good advice. As regards theological seminaries he recommended Louisville, Rochester, and Crozer especially Louisville.

Many students availed themselves of the opportunity, after the talk of meeting and conferring with Mr. Price. The whole meeting was very helpful. As interest is increasing, the association will probably become one of the controlling influences of the university.

George W. Cheeseman, '05, who was captain of the basket-ball team in his Junior year and who did some track work in the weight department, has been playing a good game at forward for Chicago.

We notice that Mrs. Margaret F. O'Harra, '83, and a teacher at Bucknell for three years, now residing at 4723 Cedar Ave., Philadelphia, is a candidate of the City, Independence and Lincoln parties of that city for the office of school director, three year term. Mrs. O'Harra is the daughter of the late F. W. Tustin, who for many years was an influential man at B. U.

Alumni Play Basket-ball.

During the Xmas vacation a game of basket-ball was played between the Irwin, Pa., team and a team composed of Bucknell Alumni and undergraduates. The Irwin five won, but only by playing up to their best form. The line-up for Bucknell was, Wassel, and Treetly, ex-'08, forwards, Anderson, ex-'05, center; Claypool, '06, and Griffiths, ex-'05, guards. Goldsmith, '06, was substituted in the second half.

Goals from field: Griffith 2, Claypool, Goldsmith, Anderson, Treetly. Goals from fouls: Treetly 5.

Bucknell was greatly handicapped by being compelled to play National League rules.

Seniors Hold Important Meeting.

Though the attendance at the Senior class meeting held in Bucknell Hall, on Friday afternoon, was very small yet some very important business was transacted.

The Senior sleigh-ride was discussed and a committee appointed to make arrangements to hold the affair soon. Class memorials and the establishment of new customs with a view to making them traditional were dwelt upon at length, and met with approval. Committees, having charge of these different matters, were chosen, and reports will be made at a later date.

ONE PRICE TO ALL AT SEIDEL & SPANGLER'S

Beginning Feb. 10th all discounts will be discontinued to Dressmakers, Ministers or any others receiving discounts heretofore on merchandise. A great many reasons can be assigned for this movement, among which is the extra office work it requires, also an extra percentage had to be addde to many different lines which will, under this new rule, be done away with and a smaller margin of profit placed on these lines, giving every person a chance to buy at the same price.

We would kindly ask the buying public to take particular notice of this new rule, and not ask us to deviate from it but stand by us in this movement and we promise in the future, as we always have done in the past, to give you the largest and best selected stock of merchandise as well as the lowest prices to every one alike.

Please come and compare prices, and notice your savings.

Annual Clearance Sale of Ready-Made Suits and Ladies', Misses' and Children's Coats

Every year just about this time we "round up" our stock of Ready-made Garments and put prices on them to make them move quickly, to make room for our new spring styles that are already in and need room to display them.

We have therefore decided to have on sale two days, Saturday and Monday., February 10th and 12th, a lot of Suits and Coats,, and give our out of town trade a chance to share in these wonderful bargains.

The special sale consists of the following:

Thirty new, up-to-date, this season's style Tailor-made Suits at one-half price.

$35.00 Suits will be $17.50, $22.50 and $25.00 Suits will be $12.50. Stylish $18.00 and $19.50 Suits sale price $10.00. Elegant Tailored Suits that were $15.00 will be for this sale $7.50 and so on through the entire lot.

Also in this sale we will place a few last season's Suits with special prices placed on them and have them on sale until all are closed out. A lady wishing a serviceable and well-tailored Suit, and who is not so particular about the latest sleeve effect, can save from $10.00 to $15.00 on a Suit out of this lot.

Those looking for the new "Eatons" and "Pony" Suits for spring can have a peep at them now, as they have arrived already.

Special lot of Coats for Saturday and Monday. A small lot of ¾ length, tight-fitting Covert Cloth Coats were $25.00, sale price $12.50 each.

One chinchilla Bear Skin Coat was $25.00 now $17.50.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1906 No. 19

WILLIAMSPORT OUTPLAYED

Bucknell Surprises the Up-River Five, Winning Easily.

Bucknell outplayed the Williamsport Y. M. C. A. team in the Tustin Gymnasium on Saturday evening and won by the comfortable score of 33-18. In former years the Orange and Blue has found a formidable rival in the up-river five, but the team that played on Saturday evening was an easy proposition for Bucknell.

The game started off with a rush and it looked as though the contest would be a fight to the finish. Lose soon succeeded in landing a goal, and the score stood 2-0 in Bucknell's favor. Williamsport seemed to be unable to get together and during the first twenty minutes of play Jackson was the only man for Williamsport who could locate the basket, he having thrown three goals, and four fouls. The half ended 18-10, Bucknell having a safe lead.

The second half was slow from the beginning and at no time did Williamsport become dangerous. The team work of the Orange and Blue was far superior to that of their opponents. Bucknell had the ball four-fifths of the time, and the excellent passing was by all means the feature of the game. Williamsport scored three goals in this half, one by Turner and two by Jackson, Turner threw one foul, Bucknell located the basket seven times, and Lenhart threw a foul, making the final score 33-18.

O'Brien, at forward, played a star game. His goal shooting was sensational in many instances. Lenhart, at center, played Williamsport's star center to a standstill and shot four baskets. "Tony" Steinhilper Bucknell, '05, held down one of the guard positions for the visitors. "Tony" was a "sub" on last year's 'Varsity five and kept several of the regulars working hard to keep their places on the team.

The line-up:—

BUCKNELL.		WILLIAMSPORT.
O'Brien	forward	Turner
Lose	forward	C. Smith
Lenhart	center	Jackson
Wagner	guard	Lutcher
Claypool	guard	Steinhilper

Substitution McNinch for Wagner.

Goals from field; O'Brien 6, Lose 3, Lenhart 4, Claypool 2, Jackson 5, Wagner, Turner. Goals from fouls: Jackson 4, Lenhart. Referee, Teufel. Time of halves 20 minutes.

Seniors 16-Freshmen 12.

In one of the best played games of the inter-class series the Seniors won from the Freshmen on Monday afternoon by the close score of 16-12.

The Freshmen lead in the first half and made the result look doubtful, but 1906 bunced in the second 20 minutes of play and maintained a lead. Both teams played well.

The line-up.

SENIORS.		FRESHMEN.
Goldsmith	forward	Rolfe
Hennessy	forward	Olendorf
Claypool	center	O'Brien
Waltz	guard	Shirley
Comstock	guard	Ogden

Goals from field: Hennessy 2, Comstock 2, Claypool 2, Rolfe 3, Goldsmith, Olendorf, O'Brien, Shirley. Goals from fouls: Claypool 2. Referee—McNinch. Time of halves 20 minutes

Communication.

The "Orange and Blue" invites communications but does not necessarily agree with the opinions expressed therein. All communications must be signed, though the name will not be published if so desired.

Editor of the "Orange and Blue"—

The growth of our library during the past few years has been marvellous, and the contributions by alumni and friends of the university have been greatly appreciated. The books on the shelves of our new library supply the needs of the student-body very nicely, but we need a much larger collection. With the increased shelf capacity which the new library building affords we have an excellent field for growth.

The library supplements in great measure the monographic treatment of text-book study, and it makes out of the student an investigator. Practical acquaintance with books and biographies forms a very important part of a liberal education. For these purposes our library answers the present need but for a wider range of work one comprising more volumes would serve the end to a much greater advantage.

To keep in pace with the rapid growth of the university, the library must increase greatly in respect to the number of volumes. In its new home there is found plenty of room for extension, and the year of 1906-7 should see the increase go far beyond the 1200 mark. Everything depends on the amount of interest taken in this regard. With so many good books on the market, it should be no trouble for anyone to select a series that would prove to be a worthy and valuable addition to our collection. Those interested in the welfare of our library will look forward to 1906-7 as a banner year, and will bend every effort to make it such. "06."

College Men Decide to Give Reception

A mass meeting was held in the Y. M. C. A. Halls, in West College, on Monday night to decide in regard to the College Men's Reception that had been strongly "talked up" during the preceding week. The large number present voted Powell temporary chairman, and the suggestions for the contemplated function were thoroughly explained. The question of giving the reception was discussed thoroughly, and it was decided that West College would be the most suitable and most convenient place for holding the affair. Powell was unamiously elected chairman of the committee and he was given the power to appoint; Snavely was chosen as treasurer of the organization.

The committee consists of Shuch, Meyer, Barton, Beaver, Wise, Hoon, Yost and Drake, '06; Minor, Andrews, Griffith, Godshall, August, Evans and Brockway, '07; Gardner, Hawk, Steele, Baldwin, Bolton, Snyder, Luchsinger and Innes, '08; McLaughlin and Timlin, '09. A sub-division of the committee will be made at a later date. A meeting will be held in the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Wednesday evening.

The Senior Sleigh Ride.

All arrangements have been made by the committee to hold the Senior sleigh ride as soon as there is snow enough to make the trip in sleds. Within a few days the class will be canvassed to ascertain how many to provide for. The trip will be taken in hacks if there is no snow within a reasonable length of time. In this case the party will go to Vicksburg.

COLLEGE GIRLS' RECEPTION

The Social Event of the Year and One of the Best Ever Given.

The College Girls' reception, the foremost social function given by the women during the entire year, was held in the Institute parlors on Friday evening. The event was delightfully successful, and one of the largest crowds that ever attended such an affair was present.

Nearly three hundred invitations had been sent out by the college girls, and when the men began to stream in about 8.15 it was clearly evident that there would be no disappointment in regard to the number present. The Faculty, the light of every pleasant evening, was well represented; the Seniors determined to enjoy this, their last chance, mingled in the crowd; the Juniors, who spent some of the evening in thinking of the first period of the next day, were there; the Sophomores and Freshmen, shoulder to shoulder fought out their social aspirations without noticing each other's presence.

The evening was one that will not be forgotten soon, because of the clever way in which the event was carried on. The Imperial Orchestra played continually from nine o'clock until the time for departure. The frequent and unselfish applause was sufficient evidence of the appreciation of this feature of the reception. There were some who thought the music discoursed rather tuned the feet, but they remained tuned during the entire evening, since experience or intuition seemed to keep several members of the faculty from enjoying the pleasures of the first table.

Little it matters whether the faculty repaired to the feast in a body, or in relays, the same excellent supper was partaken of by one and all. This part of the evening's entertainment seems to appeal to all alike, yet there are those who hold that the first delegation held chairs longer than any succeeding one. Perhaps it was eager anticipation that caused such a remark to be made.

While the crowd feasted, turn by turn, the parlors and school-room fairly hummed. The decorations, in the spacious rooms, bespoke of no little work and the skillful manner in which the bare walls were covered caused even the staunch members of the faculty to say that they had never seen the room decorated so artistically.

The morning hours had arrived when someone began to make the piano ring with the old familiar tune, "We Won't Go Home Until Morning." The orchestra had ceased playing, and a little later the piano sending forth the notes to Home, Sweet Home," struck a farewell key, and the guests departed.

The New Catalogue.

The catalogue for 1905-6 has made its appearance, and contains some very interesting facts in regard to Bucknell's progress, growth, and standard of work.

The faculty has been increased to include forty-one members, and courses have been built up accordingly. The number of students enrolled in the different departments is as follows: Graduate Students 11; Seniors 70, Juniors 72, Sophomores 87, Freshmen 117, Specials 23, making the total enrolled in the college department 490. The Academy has an enrollment of 105 students, and there are ninety-nine pursuing work at the Institute. The total number enrolled in the collegiate and academic departments of Bucknell is 694.

During the past year several new buildings have been added to the college group. Among these the new Carnegie Library, containing about 20,000 volumes besides many pamphlets, is a much appreciated addition. Two rooms have been reserved in the library as a museum, and the collection in main college will be transferred to these rooms. The "New Cottage for Women" is the other new building erected in 1905, and it answers a very pressing need. The building contains eight-seven rooms.

According to a new ruling by the Board of Trustees a student in registering for a room will be compelled to make a deposit of ten dollars when the room is chosen. Should a student be unable to return, the sum will be refunded provided that the Registrar is notified a month before the opening of the college year.

Sophomore to Give Cotillion.

The Sophomores held a class meeting in Bucknell Hall Monday, Feb. 12th, at 4 p. m. It was decided to have a Sophomore Cotillion and the following named men were appointed by the president, as a committee to make all arrangements for holding the same: Cole, chairman, Frank, Haller, Steele, D. A., Hostetter, Lose, Lenhart, Duncan, W. D. Thompson, Harris, Irey, Gardner, Bertin, Baldwin, Moris, Innes, Schultz, Ball, Sheehan, Binns, Whitney and Piersol.

After a discussion as to the advisability of holding "A College Men's Reception" a vote was taken and by unanimous consent '08, decided in favor of the movement.

A committee was appointed to reconstruct the constitution subject to the approval of the class to read, that, no member shall vote in a class election who shall not have paid his dues to date of election.

Wayland Hoyt to Lecture.

Dr. Wayland Hoyt, D. D., will lecture here several days during the first week of March. Dr. Hoyt is now connected with religious work in Philadelphia, and was the Lecturer in Oratory, at Bucknell, in 1903.

Dr. Wayland Hoyt graduated from Brown in 1890, and Rochester Theological Seminary in 1863. He has been pastor of the Strong Place Baptist church, Brooklyn; Tabernacle Baptist church, New York City; Shawmut Avenue Baptist church, Boston, and is now connected with one of the leading churches of Philadelphia. He is the author of "Hints and Helps of the Christian Life," and of late works.

A speaker of ability, earnest thoughtful and logical; a platform speaker, ready, clever, and forcible, he should be gladly received by all.

JOHN B. STETSON DEAD

Bucknell Trustee and Hat Manufacturer Succumbs to Apoplexy.

Hon. John Batterson Stetson, a trustee of Bucknell University, and founder of the John B. Stetson University, at Deland Fla., died suddenly at 1 o'clock yesterday at his winter home, Gillen, at Deland Florida.

Mr. Stetson's death was caused by a stroke of apoplexy. For years he had suffered from rheumatism, but of late had seemingly been in very good condition.

John B. Stetson was one of the foremost men in Philadelphia. He was known the world over through the hats he made. Born in Orange, N. J., he was scarcely in his teens until he was thrown upon his own resources. He was too ambitious to remain in a little Jersey town, and he soon moved to Philadelphia where he built up a great business. Later in life he founded and endowed the John B. Stetson University, which has been a great educational factor in the far South.

Metallurgy Class Goes to Steelton.

Twelve members of the class in Metallurgy accompanied by Prof. Owens went to Steelton last Thursday to inspect the iron works at that place, and gain an insight into the methods employed in the working of iron ores. The class left about seven o'clock in the morning and stepped off at Harrisburg long enough to take in the Pipe Bending Works and the Capitol. Arriving at Steelton in the afternoon, they met McCormick, ex-'04, the former Bucknell full-back, Smiley, '05, last year's center, and Shipp, the star tackle of two years ago. These alumni are all working at Steelton and took pleasure in showing the class through the different departments of the works.

During the afternoon they visited the Blast Furnaces, Open Furnaces, Bessemer Convertors, Crucible process steel plants, and the Prog Shop. The trip was highly interesting and instructive.

Fourth Number of Y. M. C. A. Course.

On Tuesday evening, Feb. 13th, Mr. Frank R. Roberson, the noted lecturer, writer and traveler gave as the fourth number of the Y. M. C. A. course his celebrated lecture, "The Empire of the Czar" in the Lewisburg Presbyterian church. The lecture was illustrated with over two hundred slides which were gathered by the lecturer himself on a tour through the Russian Empire during the past summer. These slides enabled the lecturer to picture to his audience as no talk possibly could, the conditions existing to-day among poor and rich, in church and government. Among the many pictures those which interested the audience most, were those of the different royal palaces. The magnificence of the inside of these palaces, which the lecturer had been given special permission ot photograph was amazing to the large audience. All present watched eagerly the rapid pictures changes from squalor to magnificence and left with a new realization of the character of the Russian situation.

Rainey, ex-'05, now attending State, shook hands with old acquaintances on Friday.

Editorial

When the Spring term begins, the Seniors expect to introduce some new customs which they hope will become traditional. We trust that the committee will decide upon some customs that will meet the approval not only of 1906, but of classes that are to follow, since this is the only possible way of making the new customs traditional.

We feel that Bucknell does not have enough traditions to honor, and that the recent suggestion that all Seniors appear in "Cap and Gown" each Monday morning of the Spring term will meet with universal approval. It is not definitely known that the committee will report favorably upon this suggestion, yet we believe that it would be followed up as willingly by next year's Senior class as by 1906, it's founders.

At the class meeting some time ago one custom was instituted. The class voted to observe a "Senior's Day." A special programme will be arranged and 1906 will celebrate class-day. No definite arrangements have been made, but the day will be observed sometime during the Spring term.

The college men held a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. hall in West college,on Monday night, and amid great enthusiasm decided to give a College Men's Reception. The social impulse that brought about this idea helped to carry it through, and the affair is going to be held in the Spring.

Those who nurse society aspirations, and whose coyness keeps them away from the abode of their fair sisters will all be given a chance to shine with the regulars. The function is to surpass everything yet given by college men, both in the excellence of entertainment, and in the choiceness of refreshments.

Eager to make the event a land mark in the social history of the institution the committee has already begun work. It is rumored that our "fair ones" are beginning to fear that the coming event may eclipse some of their own little "blows," but surely then, it will have been successful.

We learn that the baseball "B's" for last year have not yet been awarded, and we feel that the members of the team who have won their "B's" are being dealt with unjustly by being deprived of the privilege of wearing them. The baseball "B's" should be awarded before the close of each college year, and that the matter has been allowed to drift on for such a length of time is lamentable. The committee of the Athletic Association that has the awarding of the insignia of this department in their charge should see to it that those who have won, and who deserve this honor be given the privilege of wearing the insignia.

We never refer to Washington, the father of our country, in any other terms than of deep respect and reverence, and when we celebrate his birthday on Thursday, we will be honoring one of the greatest men our country has ever produced. Hon. Clinton Rogers Woodruff, of Philadelphia, will address the students in Bucknell Hall immediately after chapel services, and he should be greeted by a large audience. We owe our presence at this lecture.

With the close of the class basketball series drawing near interest centers around the outcome of the two important contests the Senior-Junior and Sophomore-Freshmen games. All the teams have shown up well in the series thus far and the result is uncertain.

There is no doubt but that either game will be worth seeing and large crowds should be in attendance.

Two Games This Week.

The Gettysburg basketball team plays here on Thursday evening, and does not need an introduction to insure a good attendance. Though the team lost to Bucknell last year in two games, the first by the score of 19-13, and the second 34-17, there is no doubt but that this year's team will make the "Orange and Blue" work for every point.

The game on Saturday night should result in a victory for Bucknell. The Law School of Dickinson did not play with us last year, but the contest with Dickinson college resulted in a victory to the tune of 46-11. Dickinson is not supporting a basketball team, but the Law School will doubtless be composed of the best material in the college.

An Illustrated Lecture Feb. 23.

An illustrated lecture on "Our Island Possessions," will be given in Bucknell Hall on Friday evening, Feb. 23, at 8 p. m., by J. R. Bailey, '06, and G. A.Riggs, '07. Admission: 25c for adults, and 15c for children. The proceeds of this lecture will go to the fund for sending delegates to the Nashville convention.

Improvements in Engineering Dept.

The equipment of the pattern-making shops is rapidly being completed. A gas engine has been put in, and two new wood turning lathes are in operation. Prof. Simpson is setting up a new laboratory for Senior physical work, which will be finished within a few weeks.

Junior Notice.

Owing to the fact that the Academy reception will be held on Friday night, March 2, the committee in charge of the Junior party has decided to change the date to Thursday night March 1st. All Juniors please take notice and lay their plans accordingly.

A Tinge of Spring Arrived

Fashion has set her styles, dressmakers being engaged, th enew spring fabrics all opened up—the procession has started to Spring, sewing time. We are already to show a wide range of choice to well dressed lady.

Greys take first place in colors for dress and street wear, checks are very strong, both large and small, possibly invisible plaids will be most prominent, then there are many effects in stripes and the ever good plains.

At 50c we show a fine wool fabric in grey, both small and large checks. A finer one in plain weave melage at $1.00.

Panamas will have more followers than ever; we show them in plain and fancy.

Mohairs still hold their well deserved popularity, cream, black and plain colors, many fancies in stripes, shadow checks, and changeable effects, from 50c to $2.00.

Chiffon Broadcloths are especially in vogue for tailored suits, light weight, soft, fine and lustrous.

Henriettas, French and Storm Serge, cheviots, melrose—new arrivals in the always good as wheat or sugar kind.

College Locals

Haines, '09, visited friends in Lancaster over Sunday.

Howell, '06, has been confined a few days by sickness.

Staver, '07, was in Williamsport several days last week.

Gardner, '05, is spending a week with his Phi Gamma Delta brothers.

Captain Cockill, '05, visited his Kappa Sigma brothers on Saturday.

L. J. Ulmer, '02, instructor in Chemistry in the Williamsport high school witnessed the game Saturday night.

Prof. John Ballentine, '72, instructor in Clarion Normal School, is visiting his son, Prof. F. G. Ballentine, this week.

Capt. Cooper, '05, returned for a short stay with friends. "Happy" is in the employ of the American Tin Plate Co., at Pittsburg, Pa.

"Ginger" Teufel, '04, coach at Susquehanna, greeted old friends Saturday evening. Same old "Ginger;" same old smile, and cheery word of greeting.

Browning, '04, is spending several days with his brothers in S. A. E. He is located at Lewistown in the employ of the Engineering department of the P. R. R.

The Junior Debate will be held in Bucknell Hall, on March 16, 1906. The question is: "The Policy of the United States with Respect to Chinese Immigration should be Continued.

The Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., wishes that those who have not yet paid for their course tickets would attend to the matter as soon as possible, as he wishes to balance accounts.

Steinhilper, '05, Assistant Principal of the Montoursville high school was a guard on the Williamsport Y. M. C. A., basketball team on Saturday evening. "Pony" was a "sub" on last years 'Varsity five.

Arrangements for the Junior Prom to be held in the Armory on Friday night have been completed and a good attendance is expected. According to reports the number of out-of-town guests will be quite large.

The date of the Minstrel show Mar. 5, 1906, is not far off, and the work is progressing. Beginning with this week three practices will be held each week. The programme has been completed and contains some excellent numbers.

Among the many attractive features of the coming minstrels show Evans and Baker will precent their latest original sketch, "Rameses the 26th." Owing to the fact that Baker is in Philadelphia this term, the men who will constitute the cast for Rameses will have but two days to work up the sketch, as Baker will not arrive in Lewisburg until the 3rd.

Academy Notes

The following officers were elected at the last Y. M. C. A., meeting. Pres. A. S. Wahl; Sec. Chas. Hencock; Treas. Frank Kawashimi. The president will attend the State Convention at Washington, Pa., Feb. 22-25.

The Senior class, Academy, slipped away from classes Friday afternoon and pitched camp in the Mansion House, Watsontown, where a delicious banquet was served by the genial proprietor, Mr. Kramer. The Third Form who had sworn to prevent the banquet, dutifully attended classes, and did not realize that their prey had gone, until too late to prevent it. At the banquet the choice viands were leisurely stowed away, and over coffee and cigars, toasts were given by Klerx, Way, Liddy and Blaser.

George Mattis, ex-'07, has been transferred to the Bridge Engineer's office of the Oregon Railroad and Navigation company, and is located at Portland, Oregon.

In the Outlook of Feb. 10, there appears a very well written article on the "Need of an International Conference," from the pen of Dr. Edwin Maxey, '93, Professor of Law in the University of West Virginia; The writer mentions a number of questions of International Law which the recent Russo-Japanese war has brought to light and he uses them as points in the argument which he presents in favor of an International Conference.

The Water Supply.

An editorial of last week commenting upon the water supply during the evening has brought forth a very satisfactory explanation. The company has been doing some repairing, and this could only be done between the hours of 7 and 11, thus necessitating the cutting off of the water at Milton. Arrangements have been made so that in case of fire water can be had at the hill within five minutes after the alarm has been sent in. The inconvenience will soon be remedied, and good accommodations will again be afforded.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1906 No. 20

GETTYSBURG DEFEATED

Game Slow, Team Work of Both Sides Ragged; Score 18-10.

Bucknell defeated Gettysburg on Thursday evening by the score of 18 to 10. The game was by far the poorest exhibition of basket ball seen here this season.

The Bucknell team seemed to have forgotten all they ever knew into a free for all. Passing was rather an unheard of part of the play, whenabout team play and turned the game ever a man had the ball he tried a shot no matter in what part of the floor he was. Some of these wild shots boardered upon the ridiculous. Bucknell will have to take a great brace if they hope to win on Gettysburg's floor.

Gettysburg was the first to score, Selber scoring a difficult goal. McNinch threw the first goal for Bucknell. The first half was slow and uninteresting. The score was 4 to 2 in Gettysburg's favor at the end of the half.

The second half was somewhat better but very poor at that. Elliott scored for Gettysburg and O'Brien for Bucknell. About this time Loss found the basket and threw five goals. The scoring in this half was 15 to 6, Bucknell having the long end.

Line up:

Bucknell		Gettysburg
Lose	forward	Strohmeyer
O'Brien	forward	Elliott
Lenhart(capt)	center	Selber(capt)
McNinch	guard	Snyder
Claypool	guard	McClure

Goals: Lose 5. O'Brien 1, McNinch 1, Strohmeyer 1, Elliott 1, Selber 2. Goals from fouls: Lenhart 4, Strohmeyer 2. Referee Hoskins. 20 minute halves.

Bucknell 38; Dickinson 13.

Bucknell had no trouble in defeating the aggregation representing the Dickinson Law School on Saturday night.

The Dickinson team was weak in team play but had several good individual players.

Bucknell took the lead early in the first half and was never headed off. The score at the end of the first half was 20-4.

Some changes were made on the Orange and Blue team in the second half, Rolfe was substituted for O'Brien, and McNinch for Wagner.

Claypool threw several sensational goals, while Lark made the star throw of the game in the second half. Robison's rolling was a feature.

Line-up—

BUCKNELL.		DICKINSON.
Lose	forward	Robinson
O'Brien	foward	Davies, c.
Lenhart	center	Lark
Claypool	guard	Smith
Wagner	guard	James

Substitutions, Rolfe for O'Brien and McNinch for Wagner.

Goals, Lose 4, Rolfe 1, Lenhart 4, Claypool 4, McNinch 3, Wagner 2, Davies 1, Lark 3, Smith 1. Goals from fouls, Lenhart 2, James 3. Referee Hoskins.

The date of the final lecture in the Y. M. C. A. Course has been changed from Mar. 6 to Mar. 15 on account of a conflict with the date of the Minstrel Show. Holders of tickets will please remember this. The entertainment will be given in the Baptist church.

Talk by Dr. Hulley This Morning.

The appearance at chapel this mouing of Dr. Lincoln Hulley, president of Stetson University at DeLand, Fla., was greeted by a storm of applause. Dr. Hulley held the closest attention of every one for an hour, and talked in a reminiscent way of the great changes that have taken places at our institution since he came to it as a student in '84.

In those early days Profs. Bartol and Groff were with us and have remained ever since. Their work was not confined to any one branch of learning but took in many. Then Professors from Peddie and South Jersey Institutes came and our Faculty began to grow in number and their work to be differentiated until having passed through many changes, we have our present system.

Dr. Hulley gave a brief account of the many difficulties that had been surmounted by Dr. Harris and the many things with which he had to contend. He referred to our splendid opportunities and urged every student to make the most of them. According to Dr. Hulley the three great factors in the making of life are, heredity, environment and the will. He proved conclusively how we have the environment at Bucknell, and drew a contrast between that of to-day and of the days when he was a student here. The changes in the methods of instruction, and the benefits of the elective system are two of the greatest advantages that Bucknell students of to-day enjoy.

Prospective Game With Virginia.

A clipping from The Norfolk (Va.) Landmark of Feb. 18th says:—

Captain William C. Gretzinger, Registrar of Bucknell University, is at the Pine Beach Hotel. It will be recalled that Captain Gretzinger accompanied the Bucknell football team to Norfolk last fall for their game with the University of Virginia, and while here made many friends.

In an interview with a reporter of The Landmark prospects for a game in Norfolk between his team and the Virginians next fall, as the two universities are now in correspondence looking to that end, and have practically agreed upon a game.

Virginia has submitted to Bucknell a copy of her new athletic rules, and Bucknell has also sent Virginia a copy of her rules with the reservation, however, that they are subject to change, contingent upon such regulations as may be adopted by the New York conference at which Bucknell is represented by a delegate.

Inter-Fraternity Basketball Game.

A basket ball game between the Freshmen of Kappa Sigma and those of Phi Gamma Delta Thursday morning resulted in a score of 26-4 in favor of the former. The line up:

Kappa Sigma		Phi Gamma Delta
Ritter	forward	Bakely
Grier	forward	Wilkinson
Baldwin	center	Kramer
Haggerty	guard	Hunter
Iseman	guard	Brindt

Goals from field: Ritter 4, Haggerty 4, Grier 2, Baldwin, Iseman, Eakely 2. Goals from fouls: Haggerty, Ritter 1. Referees Tully and Butler. Timer, Walls. Time of halves 20 and 15 min.

ADDRESS IN CHAPEL

Hon. Clinton Rogers Woodruff Delivers an Interesting Address.

When Hon. Clinton Rogers Woodruff, of Philadelphia, announced that he would speak on "The Young Man's Civic Opportunity" the large audience that had gathered in Bucknell Hall, on Thursday morning, leaned back in their seats prepared to enjoy the treat of the season. And they were not disappointed, for Mr. Woodruff's address was one of the finest and most highly appreciated of the year. The talk was given in commemoration of Washington's birthday, and was very appropriate.

Mr. Woodruff said in part: According to Census XX, a bulletin issued in 1905, the urban population of our country in 1902 formed one-third of the entire population; today it constitutes one half. When our constitution was framed only 3 per cent. lived in cities.

To-day, we often hear young men, like Alexander of old, clamoring for new worlds to conquer, and we need only direct their attention to the problems of our modern cities to bring before them an ample field for work. The city is coloring our whole social and political life; the great cities dominate the locality in which they are situated. In days gone by great honors were won in the military field; the heroes of the present day are civic heroes.

There are wonderful civic opportunities that lie before the average citizen. Along social and political lines the young men and young women of our day form a world of power which must be unlocked for social and political reform. Practically all the substantial improvements in political work in America have come as a result of the efforts of private citizens. Here lies a field of work for college men. They can help by forming public opinion; they can assist by moulding public sentiment. All improvement in civic conditions lies along the line of public sentiment, and this public sentiment to be effective must be applied concretely at a given point.

The great revolution in Philadelphia was due principally to the courage of Mayor Weaver. The people of that city have had their reform simply because they used their power at the ballot-box. The struggle of the people to control our country forms an important part in the political history of our nation. The voter must vote according to his permanent convictions.

Time is a great element in civic reform. It required ten years to make personal registration a law. The old idea was that the world owes every man a living; the new idea is that we all owe to the world something of service.

High Honors for Dr. Hulley.

Rev. Dr. Lincoln Hulley, formerly of Bucknell, but now the popular president of the John B. Stetson University in Florida, has been recently granted the degree of L. L. D. from a university in Germany. Dr. Hulley has, since his ordination, received the degrees of D. D., and A. M., at Bucknell College; B. A., at Hartford University, and Ph. D., at Chicago University. He is a Baptist divine and is perhaps one of the best known ministers of the Baptist church.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

Junior Prom a Success.

The annual dance given by the Juniors in the Lewisburg Armory on the evening of Feb. 23rd was well attended and highly pleasing to those so fortunate in being present. '07 had spared no time or trouble in preparing for this annual social function and the committees in charge of the arrangements have cause to congratulate themselves on the happy outcome of the event. Every one seemd to enjoy himself or herself to the fullest extent and on all sides there was praise for those to whom it was due.

The Armory was tastefully decorated, the class colors red and blue predominating. Peonants of different colleges and fraternities adorned the walls while around the orchestra many palms were placed. In the patronesses corner, settees and easy chairs abound d with rugs about. All considered, the Armory had been transformed into a pretty and attractive place for the occasion. In addition to this, the evening dress of the gentlemen and the pretty gowns of the ladies lent a harmony to the picture, which to be seen was easily appreciated.

As early as eight o'clock the cabs began to arrive and at 8:45 the overture began. By 9 o'clock the programs had been filled and the lovers of the terpsichorean art were "ready for the fray". Twelve numbers and two extras were rendered, one-half of the entire number, and then during the intermission which followed, refreshments were served. These were very elaborate and all did ample justice to them. At three a. m., the program was concluded and all departed with pleasant recollections of the evening. About fifty-five couples were present.

Miller's Imperial Orchestra consisting of eleven pieces furnished the music and gave good satisfaction.

The patronesses were: Mrs. William Leiser, Mrs. Joseph C. Nesbit, Mrs. Robert E. Halfpenny, Mrs. John Walls, Mrs. Thomas Thornton, Mrs. Harold M. McClure, Mrs. Charles J. Wolfe, Mrs. Nellie C. Marsh.

Junior-Senior Game.

Altho the 'Varsity will not play here this week, since the only game scheduled for them will be with Gettysburg at that place on Saturday, March 3rd, the patrons of the game will find a worthy substitution in the contest between the Juniors and Seniors to-morrow (Tuesday) night. Aside from the Sophomore-Freshmen "struggle" this is the most interesting and exciting of the annual inter-class games. The two teams are very evenly matched, both having about the same number on the Varsity and Reserve teams, and doubtless a close game will be the result.

Y. M. C. A. Elects Officers.

At the annual busines meeting of The College Men's Y. M. C. A., held last Tuesday evening, for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year the following men were elected: Pees, Griffith, '07, Vice Pres. Saylor, '07, Treas. Conclet '08, Rec. Sec. Bromley, '08. Their term of office begins with the spring term and lasts a year. Griffith, '07 and Hummer and Conclet, '08, were selected as delegates to the State Convention at Washington, Pa., and left for that place Wednesday.

BUCKNELL MINSTRELS

To be Given on Next Monday Evening in the Opera House.

Monday evening, Mar. 5th, the date of our annual "Minstrel Show," is one that every student and many people from Lewisburg and vicinity look forward to with pleasure. It is one of the important dates and justly regarded as such in our College Calendar for this year. The "Show" in the past has always been a remembrance of a pleasant and an amusing evening well spent and the production scheduled for this year, judging by the well filled program and the interest that has been displayed in perfecting it, is no exception.

With Shoemaker as Interlocutor, Evans and Grimminger as the Premiers, and Goodshall, Gardner, Hawk, Hennessy, Shrum, and Reiter as End Men, the "droll" part of the production will be well attended to. Bucknell's Glee Club, who made such a favorable impression in their appearance earlier in the year, will be sure to be appreciated.

There will be numerous solos, interspersed to relieve the tension of the farcial feature, all handled by capable men. "Introducing Jersey Flake," by Reiter and Grimminger, "Mademoiselle de la Smickel Fritz" by Shrum and "Ramses the 26th," with Sheelin, Evans and Baker in the cast are three comedial features, alone worth the price of admission. Shoemaker and Baker will give impersonations and "The Jersey Flake" Quartette will sing. This latter organization composed of Snavely, Hawk, Groff and Rumsey is somewhat new at Bucknell and will make its first appearance with a new bunch of novelties. A new burlesque "The Employment Agency" or "Positions Supplied" will conclude the program.

This comprises a brief review of the different parts, but it is sufficient to infer from the same that the reputation which The Minstrel Show has gained for itself in other years will not suffer this year. It is up to the students now to show their appreciation by a liberal attendance. It is safe to predict that no one will ever begrudge the admission price when they take into consideration the fact that the proceeds go to The Athletic Association.

Chaplain Jones to Lecture.

Chaplain Harry W. Jones, A. M., D. D., United States Navy, will lecture Thursday, April 19 in Bucknell Hall for the benefit of athletics, on the subject "The Texas Under Fire." Chaplain Jones was the only Chaplain who was under fire both ashore and afloat during the Spanish War, and was on the "Texas" during the Naval battle at Santiago. When Bucknell played Virginia at Norfolk last fall, he entertained our football men in a very hospitable manner and was one of our ardent supporters at the game. Being thoroughly conversant with all the interesting features and phases of our late war and at all times, a well-wisher of Bucknell, his appearance here should and no doubt will, be greeted by a large attendance.

Editorial

When we hear the "toot-toot," that announces the end of the first half of a basketball game we are apt to sigh with a feeling of relief; but before the ten minutes intermission has elapsed, we are more than ready for the game to begin again. The intermission seems longer than ten minutes. Could not something be done to make the intermission more pleasant? Of course, the "fussers" have plenty to do in entertaining their "fusses," but the majority who sit in less exalted seats have nothing to do but watch some kid trying to shoot baskets or "rubber" to see who has taken whom to the game.

To enliven this period, several things could be done. There could be a goal-throwing contest by the "subs," an exhibition on the bars and rings by some of our gymnasts, or, best of all, there might be a wrestling bout. Several young Academy boys are fairly good at wrestling and a match between two of them would do much to enliven the vacant time between halves.

The marked increase in the attendance at the basketball games, and the incessant demand for a greater seating capacity in the gymnasium point strongly in favor of the season-ticket plan that was adopted. The new movement has met with success on every hand, and in view of this fact, it seems only reasonable to advocate that efforts be put forth to make the $5 levy compulsory and general.

The benefits accruing from season-tickets have been too often harrowed over to need mention now. The holders of season-tickets should be strong factors in bringing about the compulsory plan. But this idea is not a new one: it has been suggested to Bucknell's student body before, and the novelty of the plan made it possible to introduce the season-ticket in the form that we are now using it.

It can easily be seen that the greater the number of tickets put out among the students, the larger will be the attendance at the different games, and the better will be the financial condition of our Athletic Association. Let us have a compulsory season-ticket plan.

The experience of this year should be sufficient argument to the furtherance of the plan for the coming year. This is by all means the best possible way to get everyone out to the games, and the quality and number of home games depends largely upon the attendance at the different contests. Thus, in the beginning of the year, we looked to the season-ticket plan as a solution to the attendance problem, and we have not been disappointed. If the managers of the various teams knew how much dependence to place on the season-ticket plan, they could arrange for home games accordingly. The season-ticket should become permanent, and in order to make it so, it must be made compulsory.

The coming minstrel show is the result of much effort, and promises to be a worthy production. The cause for which the show is given is in every sense a worthy one, and deserves the patronage of every man in college. We owe our presence at this production, and we must greet them with a full house. Three practices a week will insure the quality of the show, and the features of the programme should prove to be attractive and interesting.

Indoor Contest.

The annual indoor contest will occur this year on Mar. 7th, at 8 p. m. All students of the University including those of the Academy are eligible to engage in any or all of the events. The events will be: 15 yd. dash, potato race, running high jump handicap, pole vault, handicap, putting shot handicap, exhibition on horizontal bar, parallel bars and horse, obstacle race, goal-throwing, wrestling for silver medal in classes from 105 lbs. to 158 lbs. and also heavy weight wrestling. There should be a large number of entries in each event. It is especially important that all men who intend trying for the track team should come out. A suitable medal is awarded the winner of each event.

A new feature of this year's contest is wrestling, a sport that has been introduced by Coach Hoskins. Valuable prizes are offered to the winners of the wrestling bouts. The interest and co-operation of the students is all that is required to develop at Bucknell a first-class wrestling team.

The track season opens early this year and this indoor contest will afford an opportunity to form an estimate of both the new and old material for the high-jump, pole vault, shot-put and short dash. A "B" will be awarded for superiority in horizontal and parallel bar work.

The final shipment of copy for the 1907 L'Agenda was made last Friday. The book should be on hand by April 15th according to contract.

Carl E. Patchin, a former student at the Academy, was married to Miss Mame McKeage, of Burnside, Pa., at Philadelphia, by the Rev. B. L. Whitman on Jan. 31st, '06.

Barton, '06, Bromley, '08, and Fetter, '09, left Sunday evening for Nashville, Tenn., where they will represent Bucknell at the inter-national Convention of Y. M. C. A. held there.

The College Y. M. C. A. Reception to Athletic Men has been changed from Mar. 5th to Mar. 12th by reason of The Minstrel Show happening on the former night.

The first preliminary for the Sophomore and Freshman oratorical contests will be held in Eneph Hall, on Monday evening, March 5th, at 7 and 8 o'clock respectively.

Lecture Last Friday Evening.

On Friday evening, Feb. 23, J. R. Bailey, '06, and C. A. Riggs, '07, gave an illustrated lecture in Bucknell Hall. The subject of this lecture was "A Visit to Our Island Possessions." The lecture was based on observation and fact gleaned through visits to the various islands belonging to the U. S. and was illustrated by stereoptican views made from photographs taken by the two men. Mr. Bailey spent some years in the Philippine Islands as a private in the 16th. Penna. Volunteers, and Mr. Riggs travelled through Cuba and Porto Rico in the interests of the Home Missionary Society of the Baptist Church.

The views presented by Mr. Riggs gave a new conception of the people of the Islands of Porto Rico and Cuba. They included views of the lower class at work in the field and in their rude homes, views of the middle class, including teachers, students and the conditions of their work, and views of the aristocracy, including the public life of the people under Spanish rule with the life under home rule.

Miss Bush and Miss Wrigley gave a very enjoyable Colonial Dinner Feb. 22. The tables and rooms were artistically decorated with the national colors; patriotic songs were sung and all was suggestive of the "Father of His Country."

Junior Party.

On Thursday night, March 1, the Juniors will inaugurate another new custom when they go to New Berlin where they will spend the evening, the chief attraction being a chicken and waffle supper. From present indications, almost the entire class will attend, as it is the only time during the Junior year that they can be together for social purposes.

The Orange and Blue is requested to announce that those intending to go will assemble at the Seminary at 4:00 p. m., Thursday, from which place the wagons will leave promptly at 4.30 o'clock.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, MARCH 5, 1906 No. 21

BASEBALL SCHEDULE

Bucknell Will Play Twenty-one Games, Ten on Home Grounds.

Harry T. Stevenson, manager of the baseball team, has announced an excellent schedule for the season of 1906. The team will play twenty-one games, ten of which will be at Lewisburg. The season will open on April 14, when the Susquehanna nine will play on the home grounds. The schedule is carefully arranged in that it does not begin too early in the season, and the hard college games do not head the list.

Bucknell will face Cornell on Percy Field, on May 23. This is an addition to the colleges Bucknell has been accustomed to meet in baseball, and is a welcome one. W. and J. at Lewisburg, is a new one, and should be among the best home games of the year. Niagara, a very fast team, is the other nine that fills a new place in Bucknell's schedule. This game is played on Athlete field, and should prove a drawing card. The schedule follows:

April 14—Susquehanna at Lewisburg.
April 20—Williamsport at Williamsport.
April 21—Lebanon Valley at Lewisburg.
April 27—St. Johns at Annapolis.
April 28—Navy at Annapolis.
May 3—Niagara at Lewisburg.
May 5—Dickinson at Lewisburg.
May 9—Lafayette at Easton.
May 11—Gettysburg at Gettysburg.
May 12—Dickinson at Carlisle.
May 19—W. and J. at Lewisburg.
May 23—Cornell at Ithaca.
May 24—Colgate at Hamilton.
May 26—Bloomsburg at Bloomsburg.
May 30—Burnham A. C. at Lewistown. (Two games.)
June 2—Lafayette at Lewisburg.
June 6—Cuban Giants at Lewisburg.
June 12—Villa Nova at Lewisburg.
June 16—Class game at Lewisburg.
June 18—Burnham A. C. at Lewisburg.
June 20—Bloomsburg at Lewisburg.

Gettysburg 23; Bucknell 17.

Bucknell was beaten on Gettysburg's floor on Saturday night by the score of 23-17. The game was one of the most exciting ever seen at Gettysburg, and was full of sensational plays.

The Gettysburgians led off with a goal and three fouls. Bucknell started when Claypool threw a long one. The half ended 12-10 in favor of Gettysburg.

In the second half Gettysburg started by landing a goal; baskets by Lose and O'Brien tied the score. Throughout the entire contest the referee called many fouls, Bucknell getting the little end. Strohmier, for Gettysburg, threw nine goals from foul.

The line-up:—

Gettysburg.		Bucknell.
Strohmier	forward	O'Brien
Elliott	forward	Lose
Selber	center	Lenhart
Hill	guard	Claypool
McClure	guard	McNinch

Goals, Strohmier 2, Sieber 2, Elliott 1, McClure 1, Hill 1, O'Brien 3, Lose 2, Lenhart 1, McNinch 1, Claypool 1. Fouls, Strohmier 9, Claypool 1. Referee, James. Time, two twenty-minute halves.

Communication.

The "Orange and Blue" invites communications but does not necessarily agree with the opinions expressed therein. All communications must be signed, though the name will not be published if so desired.

To the Editor The Orange and Blue:—

With the baseball season drawing near, and the prospects for a good team fairly bright, the question naturally arises,—are we to have a baseball coach this spring? There is but one solution to the problem, as we well know, and that is found in the will of the student-body.

Some years ago Peter Agnew, who was playing with the Harrisburg Tri-State team, was engaged to coach the nine. The service rendered was not very satisfactory, and since then there has been no move to secure an able coach. The great difficulty to be overcome is the financial one. If we are to have a coach, we must find some way of meeting the expense. Yet the matter of two months salary should not stand in the way of five hundred students. The cost would not be so great but that the student-body could easily meet it. Besides, Bucknell has enough "grads" famous in the baseball world, to insure the best kind of service from a graduate student. In this case, too, the remuneration would not be exorbitant. There are many names that might be suggested in this article, but when a course of action has been decided upon, there will be plenty of time to make a choice.

But a course of action must be determined at once, if we view the proposition favorably. The fine weather of the last week has enthused the baseball men, and Captain Grimminger will soon issue a call for candidates. The first few weeks of the season is the time in which a coach is valuable. Practice will soon begin, and if we are to give our team special training, we must act at once.

"'06."

Juniors Forfeit Game.

The Senior-Junior game that was to have been played last Tuesday night was forfeited to the Seniors. The Juniors refused to play, since two of their men were unable to be in the game. The basketball manager announces that it would be impossible to arrange for another game, since all remaining dates are filled.

Alumni Basketball Game March 13.

Manager Claypool, of the basketball team, has arranged for a game with the Alumni which will be the attraction of the season. The team will be composed of Anderson, ex-'05, McCormick, ex-'04, Ralph Griffith, ex-'05, captain of Harvard, Cockill, '05, and Smith, '05.

Date of Y. M. C. A. Lecture Changed.

Holders of Y. M. C. A. Course tickets will please remember that the lecture by S. Parker Cadman will not be given to-morrow evening, the 5th, as indicated by the tickets, but on the 15th. This lecture is to be given in the Baptist church.

Meeting of College Presidents.

Dr. Harris attended a meeting of college presidents at Harrisburg on Saturday. The question under discussion was "The Correlation of the Medical Colleges' and the Literary Colleges." No definite conclusion was reached.

If the weather continues to be as favorable as that of last week, the track team will soon begin work. Early practice means that the team will be in shape for the annual Relay races on April 28th.

ADDRESS IN BUCKNELL HALL

Dr. McFarland Discourse on "The Old Book and the New Man."

Dr. McFarland, D. D., addressed a fair sized audience composed chiefly of students in Bucknell Hall, on Friday afternoon, March 2nd. Dr. McFarland was here under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Sunday School Organization, and is filling engagements at ten or twelve different colleges. His address on "The Old Book and the New Man" was listened to with interest by those present; he said in part:

The Bible is an old book, especially the earlier portions of it which were written hundreds of years before the Christian era. Against this unchanging Book is a changing humanity. Natural sciences came into existence but recently, and such sciences as geology and astronomy in their advancement of the present day have made this a New World. They have changed the world, in that laws and principles have been discovered and are now known which former man was at a loss to explain. The formation of the earth, the laws discovered that the heavenly bodies conform to, were all unknown to antiquity. In short, there has been no limit to our development, no limit to our thinking. In former times man was a servant to kings, his fellow man, and supposed gods; to-day he is new in intellectual, political and social or industrial life. The Book was written for Orientals, for former man, and has come down to us unchanged. Can this Old Book prove adaptable for the New Man? This is the question argued to-day by many.

The resources of the Old Book have never been exhausted. Dr. McFarland told of having visited a mine in the anthracite coal regions recently. Appearances about the mine showed that it had not been worked recently. He was told that the mine had become exhausted, that the veins had been carefully traced out, and it was found necessary to abandon it. The Bible is not an exhausted mine. Great epochs are marked by the vitalizing of the Scriptures. The Key to the troubles of modern sociology is easily procured by an unfolding of certain passages of Scriptures. Thus in the present day crisis of the impending coal miners' strike, if the principle, "Do ye unto others as ye would others should do unto you," were used as the law which all portions of the dispute must conform to, a strike would be averted and all things settled justly and amicably. So it is with all similar situations; there is a key to be found in the passages of this Old Book. It is not an exhausted mine; It is the book of all books which students cannot afford to leave out of their college curriculum.

Ban on Degree Men.

Harvard, Princeton, Yale, and Pennsylvania have enrolled themselves as advocates of a rule whereby college men, who hold degrees, will be debarred from taking part in the athletics in the institution. Of these, Princeton is affected the least of all, while Harvard with her 1435 holders of degrees suffers greatly. Bucknell would not be hit hard, since seldom do degree men partake in the athletics of the university.

Juniors go to New Berlin.

On Thursday, the class of 1907 added another success to its long list of achievements when sixty-four of the members and invited friends of the class gathered at the "Junior Party." the party assembled at the "Sem" at five o'clock. After various games of chance to decide who should take the hacks and who should take straw-wagons, they started for New Berlin, where they arrived about eight o'clock. The party went to the Union Hotel, where a delightful supper consisting of chickens and waffles, with all the accompaniments was relished.

After supper the party listened to impromptu addresses, original poems, songs in various tongues, by members of the class, and a very appropriate song by the chaperone, Miss Blackmore. After further indulging in various games, (of hearts), the party started for the home of "fair Bucknell." However before leaving the party gave enthusiastic college and class yells for the class, the committee in charge, the chaperone, and the host of the Union Hotel.

The members of the party arrived home late in the morning, tired but enthusiastic, because of the attainment of their purpose—that of cementing good fellowship in the class. Everyone present voted the party a success,and gave unqualified praise to the committee in charge. The committee was, Brockway, chairman, Miss Olds, Miss Stanton, Leach, McCall, Potter and Hulley.

Chaplain Harry W. Jones.

Chaplain Jones, who is to lecture here on April 18, was on the battleship Texas during the war with Spain, and is now attached to the U. S. R. S. Franklin. He was the Chaplain who buried the first American dead in Cuban soil, and during the burial service was subjected to a fierce attack made upon the funeral party by the Spanish guerillas, for all through the services bullets were flying around them like hail.

The Chaplain was in more bombardments than any other Chaplain in the navy, and besides was the only naval Chaplain who was in the army land fights, he being in two, and he was on the Texas the day of the fight with Cervera's fleet. His addreses have been greeted by large audiences on every occasion.

Hall Association Adopts Voting Plan.

Professor Lindemann, president of the West College Hall Association, held a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Halls on Monday night. The attendance was large. new voting plan was adopted whereby each member is given a list of the candidates for rooms in West College, which he votes upon, according to his judgment. The voting will be secret. This is a new departure and should prove effective.

Seniors Will Give Picnic.

The lack of snow this winter has made it impossible for the Senior class to hold their annual sleigh-ride. The unsettled weather of the past month has caused the committee to come to the conclusion that a picnic sometime during the Spring term would be enjoyable and appropriate. It is thought that the new departure will meet with general approval.

MINSTRELS TO-NIGHT

Parodies, Local Jokes, New Songs Will Make Program Interesting.

The Minstrel show, that is to be given in the Lewisburg opera house to-night, promises to be the success of the season. For weeks the cast has been practicing in order to make the production perfect. The cause for which this annual show is given is a worthy one, and deserves the support of every college student, for every one realizes that Bucknell needs a new athletic field. To make this possible a fund has been started, which is increased from year to year by the money realized upon such productions as the one to be given this evening. The Bucknell Minstrels should be greeted by a packed house.

Bucknell in the Mission Field.

At a meeting of the Pittsburg Missionary and Evangelistic Conference held on Monday, February 19, at the Fourth Avenue Chapel, Pittsburg, Rev. W. M. Courson submitted a report on Bucknell. Among other things, he said:

"From the start this school has aimed to train men for service. There are now at work in the world as pastors and missionaries 225 graduates and 91 who had a partial course. Bucknell has no hobby, is not a missionary training school, yet 28 of her students have carried the Gospel into foreign fields, while scores have led in the pioneer work in our own land. At present there are, Ilvenburg in Assam, Lynch on the Congo, Schumaker in Japan, Adamsen in Siam, Davies in India, Baldwin in Burma, Sprague in Cuba, Kate Goddard in China, Reno in Brazil, Carrie Purdy in Mexico, and Annie Evans in Alaska, an honor roll Alma Mater may be proud of."

Threw Doctor Out of House.

Dr. R. B. McCay, '96, a prominent physician of Trevorton, Pa., after diagnosing the case of Miss Fannie Treon on Friday night, at her father's home, as one of diphtheria, decided that the house should be quarantined. Some of the inmates, enraged at his diagnosis, threw him out of the building. He telegraphed the facts to the State Board of Health, and was ordered by that body to rope off approaches to the Treon home.

Williamsport Club Meets.

The Williamsport Club held a meeting last Friday afternoon, and elected Staver, '07, president; Miss Anna Galbraith, '07, vice president; Hostetter, '08, treasurer, and Miss Sara Walters, '09, secretary. It was decided that another meeting should be held on Thursday, and two more during the Spring term.

Indoor Meet on Wednesday Night

The annual Indoor Meet will be held in the gymnasium on Wednesday night. There are a large number of candidates out, and each event promises to be closely contested. The wrestling bouts that have been arranged will be a new feature of the meet, and should prove interesting.

The Lenten season began last week with Ash Wednesday, which came on February 28th.

Editorial

The basket-ball season is beginning to draw to close, and the showing made by the team thus far this year has been well up to the Bucknell standard. The fact that the class of 1905 took out with them almost the entire 'varsity of last season, was the cause of great uneasiness early in the season, and there were many who expressed doubt as to the ability of this year's five to maintain the standard set up in former years.

It is certain that Coach Hoskins can develop a basket-ball team if he has five men who are willing to work; this year's five have been trained and worked hard. The loss of the Swarthmore game was quite unexpected, but it is generally conceded that Bucknell was up against a better team, and consequently lost. The defeat was not a disgraceful one by any means, as the score indicated. The victory over Williamsport two weeks ago was a surprise; everyone looked for the "Orange and Blue" to win, but not in such an easy manner. We play the Williamsport team a return game, and this may prove to be a hard proposition.

There remain two games to be played, and they should result in as many victories. The Lehigh game will, doubtless, be a hard one, since the "Brown and White" has been playing fast basket-ball.

A little more respect is what we owe to Coach Hoskins. The practice that has been carried on at the basket-ball games for some time is unjust and unpleasant. A man who has done so much toward the advancement of athletics at Bucknell, who has sacrificed his time and energy for years to the end that the "Orange and Blue" should be represented by good teams in every form of athletics deserves more honorable treatment. Doubtless the action of the past can be attributed to thoughtlessness; in times to come we should show more appreciation of Coach Hoskins, whom we know too well deserves our praise.

To the minstrel show that is to be given by the Bucknell Dramatic Club in the Lewisburg opera house this evening, everyone owes hearty support. The staging of such a production requires work, and judging from the practices of the minstrels, this part has been carefully done. The Athletic Association of Bucknell has long been trying, by different means, to raise a sum large enough to buy and equip a new athletic field. How well this end may be accomplished rests with the student-body.

Such voluntary effort deserves the encouragement of every loyal Bucknell man. If our athletic appropriation is to grow, we must see to it that the means of increasing it are well patronized.

The depredations in West College on Monday night bordered on the barbarous, and were anything but becoming to college men. Anything that results in such a wholesale destruction of property should be seasoned with a little deliberation and common sense. The whims and fancies of a few caused the affair to become general, and at the same time disgraceful. A little more good judgment and a little less of the mob instinct would keep the majority of us from indulging in such affairs.

In a recent article reference was made to a ruling of the trustees in regard to a ten dollar deposit at the time a room is engaged. In case the student cannot enter, the fee will be refunded if the Registrar is notified a month before the opening of the college year. If a student signs for and occupies the room, the ten dollars paid in the form of a deposit will be deducted from the first term's bill.

"Preps" Give Reception.

One of the most delightful social events of the year was given by the Academy Y. M. C. A. on Friday evening. At 8.15 o'clock, Prof. Thomas and wife, and the officers of the Y. M. C. A., acting as the Reception Committee, received a host of young ladies from the Seminary. The dining room had been transformed into a hall of beauty by the tasty arrangement of flags, bunting and pennants. The "Patriotic Corner" was especially admired, where many pennants were arranged star-shaped around the picture of the graduating class. At eleven o'clock a pleasing lunch was served, and at twelve the ladies departed declaring it was the "best thing yet."

One episode marred the evening. Some students from the hill so far forgot themselves as to throw two bottles of catsup through the window, badly bespattering some of the guests. Their music and capers in general were enjoyed and appreciated by all, but the catsup affair shows either poor judgment, or lamentable ignorance on the part of some.

Euepia to Plan for an Annual Banquet.

All members of the Euepia Literary Society are requested to meet in their hall at seven o'clock, sharp, Friday evening, March 9th, for the transaction of important business. The Society desires to discuss the project of holding the First Annual Banquet of the Euepia Literary Society. Members will please attend this meeting and bring along any friends desiring to join the Society.

The Society also desires the support and encouragement of all members in sustaining its reputation in the inter-society debate to be held next term. Sec.

Reductions in Sweaters for Ladies, Misses and Children
The time has come when room is needed for New Spring Goods and therefore we decided to reduce our line of Sweaters and close them out quickly in spite of the advance on all woolens. You know that the styles of these Sweaters are always good, therefore you need not hesitate to purchase late in the season, as they will be just as stylish next winter as now. Come and look the line over. You will notice they are nearly all hand-made goods and at prices less than you pay for machine-made garments.
The hand-made goods are all made with patent clasp. No buttons to come loose or button holes to wear out.
One lot we offer at $1.75, regular $2.50 kinds in gray, white and black, fancy weaves.
Lot 2, pure worsted hand made Sweaters clearance price $2.98, regular values in white, gray and cardinal.
Lot 3, worsted hand-made, in gray, to close at $2.39, regular $3.50.
Lot 4, all wool, hand made, in cardinal and white, at $1.98 regular $2.89.
Lot 5, children's sizes, 28, 30 and 32 in white, to close at $1.50 was 1.95.
Many other styles in ladies and children's only one or two of a style, will be placed on sale for this week at great reductions.

CORNELL UNIVERSITY MEDICAL COLLEGE
NEW YORK CITY.
The course covering four years begins during the last week in Sept. and continues until June. A preliminary training in natural science is of great advantage. All classes are divided into small sections for recitations, laboratory and clinical bedside instructions. Students admitted to advance standing after passing the requisite examinations. The successful completion of the first year in any College or University recognized by the Regents of the State of New York as maintaining a satisfactory standard is sufficient to satisfy the requirements for admission which have lately been raised. The annual announcement giving full particulars will be mailed on application.

BUCKNELL WINS AGAIN.

Teams Play Eight Minutes Extra to Break Tie.

Bucknell defeated the Williamsport Y. M. C. A. team on Friday evening by the score of 28 to 26. When time was called at the end of the second half the score was a tie, being 26 to 26. It was therefore decided to play extra time until one team should make two points, and Bucknell made the two points. During the extra time the Y. M. C. A. players missed at least ten chances at the basket and many of those were easy opportunities.

The contest was exceedingly rough, but about equal on both sides. The men slammed each other about like so many mortal enemies, but fortunately no one was injured. Bucknell was by far the superior in the first part of the game and at the end of the first half they had things clearly their own way. But in the second half the Y. M. C. A. men braced, and pulled their score up even with that of the college team. The crowd cheered wildly when the goal was thrown which tied the score. At one time the players handled each other so roughly that a little squabble started. A large number of the spectators rushed onto the floor and made an attack on the Bucknell men. Bucknell's work was better than that of the local men, and they were equally as accurate in their shooting for the baskets. The treatment accorded Referee Teufel was far from gentlemanly. The crowd frequently hissed and questioned his decisions. Bucknell men know Teufel too well to believe that such a demonstration was justifiable.

The line-up and summary were as follows:

Bucknell.		Williamsport.
O'Brien	forward	Turner
Lose	forward	Van Housen
Lenhart	center	Jackson
Claypool	guard	C. Lamade
McNinch	guard	L. Lutcher

Goals from field, Van Housen 4, Lose 3, Lenhart 3, Jackson 3, Turner 2, O'Brien 2, Claypool 2, McNinch 1, Lutcher 1, Lamade 1. From fouls, Lenhart 8, Jackson 4. Fouls made by Williamsport 11, by Bucknell 14.

Two Games This Week.

There will be two games of basket-ball played in Tustin gymnasium this week, and promise to be first class exhibitions.

To-morrow evening a quintet composed of alumni stars will face the 'Varsity. The line-up for the alumni will be: Anderson, ex-'05, center; Griffith, ex-'05, and Smith, '05, forwards; Cockill, '05, and McCormick, ex-'04, guards.

That the Lehigh game will be one tioned. The "Brown and White" has of the best of the season is not quesbeen playing fast ball, and Bucknell will have to play to win.

Freshman Class Elects Athletic Officers.

After the most heated campaign that has been seen in a Freshman class for years, 1909 met in Bucknell Hall on Friday afternoon and elected athletic officers. The following were chosen: Wilson, track manager; Smith, baseball manager; Knapp, captain of track team, and Carey captain of baseball team.

Annual Indoor Meet Held in "Gym."

The annual indoor meet was held in the Gymnasium on Wednesday night. Three hours were required to complete the program. The first wrestling matches ever held at Bucknell were watched closely, and were the features of the meet. The record for the 15-yard dash was lowered from 2 and 2-5 seconds by Benn, '07.

The events follow:

Fifteen-yard dash—Entered by Benn, Denninger, Rockwell, Smigelsky, Comstock, Whitney, and Woodward. Won by Benn, '07, Woodward second; time 1 4-5 seconds.

Exhibition on parallel and horizontal bars—Entered by Waltz, Butler, Hayes, Kirshbaum, and Lemon; the gymnasium "H" was awarded to Waltz, '06.

Running high jump—Entered by Cure, Comstock, Lenhart, Manley, D. Hawk, and Hollman; Cure, '08, and Lenhart, '08, tied for first place. Lenhart was given a 1-inch handicap. Height 5 feet 3 and 3-4 inches.

16 lb. shot put—Entered by Lenhart, Sayre, and Shade; won by Lenhart 36 feet, 2 inches; Shade second, 31 feet, 1 inch.

Pole-vault—Entered by Hall and Knapp; won by Knapp, '09, height, 9 feet, 2 and 3-4 inches.

Potato race—Junior race won by Stine; Senior race won by Woodward, '09.

Goal-throwing contest—Entered by Claypool, Smigelsky, D. Hawk, Comstock, Tuiley, Whitney, Stein, Kirshbaum, Henderson, and Hayes; won by Stein, 8 goals out of ten.

Obstacle race won by Woodward, '09.

Wrestling matches were held in the 105, 125, 135, 158, and 175 pound classes. Stein won from Shaffer in the 105 pound class; Woodward won from Whitney in the 125 pound class; Lemon won from Kamensky in the 135 pound class; Nipple won from Fries in the 158 pound class; Vernam won from Sayre in the heavy-weight class. The "grapplers" did their share to make the meet interesting. The bout in the 158-pound class was especially exciting.

Sophomores 25; Juniors 17.

In the slowest game of the interclass series, the Sophomores beat the Juniors on Tuesday afternoon in Tustin gymnasium. The individual playing of McNinch for the Juniors, and of Lenhart for the "Sophs," were the only redeeming features.

The line-up:

Juniors.		Sophomores.
Heinze	forward	Lose
Leach	forward	(Hayes)Gibney
Wagner	center	Lenhart
Bair	guard	Nipple
McNinch	guard	D. Hawk

Goals from field, Heinze 2, Leach 3, McNinch 3, Lose 4, Gibney 2, Nipple 2, Hawk and Lenhart. Goals from fouls, Lenhart, McNinch. Referee, Claypool. Time of halves, 20 minutes.

LECTURE SERIES IN CHAPEL

Three Interesting Addresses Delivered by Dr. Wayland Hoyt.

On Tuesday evening a good attendance of students and townspeople greeted Dr. Hoyt when he lectured on "Results of a Study of Washington's Life."

He said the story of Washington's life was both an old and a new one, for an interesting contrast can always be drawn between characteristics of his career and those of the present day man, whether the latter be successful in life, or but an ordinary layman. Providential training was the secret of Washington's success.

Fiske, the historian, says that one of the most critical periods of our early life was the first Presidency. This was a time of precedents when even the etiquette of the nation's first President was to be determined. The Constitution was an unknown quantity; it had not been tried, neither was its relation to the different States known and understood. But through all these vicissitudes, his guiding hand and the promptings of a noble character are seen, at the close of the war, the army preferred him the Kingship, and his patriotism is no better shown than when he said; "No occurrence throughout the whole war has given me more pain than this."

The theme of Dr. Hoyt's address at 8.15 Wednesday morning was—Some Ways of Personal Culture.—He said in part: Personal culture is the culture of self. We can be but ourselves and no one else. We have but one life to energize, hence the way we use self is a vital question. To determine to become the most that God intended us to become is an enlightened knowledge and not selfishness, for Heaven is not so small that we or our presence will crowd others out. There are three ways of self culture, that in the direction of the heart, mind and will.

Sight is a faculty; seeing is an art. Nature is always a ready textbook. In reading, one should not look at the textbook as an enemy but as a friend; if, as an enemy, then, it is something to be conquered.

In this period of college life possibly too much attention is paid to athletics, and surely he has a happy faculty who acquires the ability to think and to read and study intelligently. A great help is the reaction on what we have read, or the giving of it out, as in conversation and debate. The most important means of self-culture rests with the will; in fact, it all depends upon the will.

Dr. Hoyt's afternoon address on "Some Laws of Expression" was listened to attentively. He divided expression into three forms: cadence, gesture, and articulate speech.

Phila.-Bucknell Club Organized.

On Saturday morning a number of the undergraduates of the College, whose homes are in Philadelphia and vicinity, met and adopted a permanent form of organization. The following officers were then elected: Saylor, '07, president; Elsesser, '07, Vice-president; Miss Lyell, '09, secretary, and Miss Sames, '09, treasurer. The business meeting was followed by a brief social meeting, which enabled the members to become acquainted with one another.

Former Basket-ball Star Highly Praised.

The Pittsburg Dispatch, of March 4, contains an article on the individual players of the different teams in the "Smoky City." The writer of the review regards Anderson, ex-'05, as the best player around the city.

The following is an extract from the account:

"As to Anderson, whom Hough speaks of. He hails from Butler, where he first began to play the game in 1900 with the Butler Y. M. C. A. team. The following year saw him at Bucknell College. He played center on the college team for two seasons. His playing during these two seasons attracted much attention in the East and he was considered one of the star players of the season of '02-'03. In fact the Bucknell team was built up around Anderson.

"If Andy had the ghost of a show for a shot at a basket his team-mates always saw that he got the ball. That season Bucknell played all-comers in the college world and quit the season without losing a game. Anderson scored 126 goals from the field, avering about 11 goals to the game. His best shooting in any one game was 40 field goals in one-half. The opposing team was badly outclassed, but this gives an idea of what Anderson is capable of doing. He is an all-round athlete, and a fine example of physical manhood.

"One reason why Anderson does not repeat his former brilliant records in shooting is because he is surrounded by team mates who are all good shooters and it is usually the man who is nearest the basket who takes the shot regardless of who he is."

Williamsport-Bucknell Club Entertains.

A second informal reception for its members was held by the Williamspor Bucknell Club Thursday evening. The affair was largely attended. Four preparatory schools of Lycoming county were represented: Williamsport High School, Dickinson Seminary, Lycoming County Normal, and Montoursville High School. J. Harry Shoemaker entertained the members of the club with a series of readings from Riley. Light refreshments followed, and the evening was pleasantly spent in a social way, a feature of which was the solution of enigmatical cards representing well-known characteristics of certain public men of Williamsport and members of the High School and College faculties.

The following members of the club were present: Miss Blackmere, representing the faculty; Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Shoemaker, Misses Katherine MacCart, Anna Galbraith, Mary E. Galbraith, Emma Myers, Gertrude Myers, Sara E. Walters, Clara E. Harman, Margaret E. Curtin, Messrs. Norman E. Henry, Wilson W. Staver, Walter H. Bertin, James F. Hayes, Clyde Hostetter, Earle G. Guyer, Norman Wilkinson, Allen G. Ritter.

S. A. E's. Celebrate Founder's Day.

Founder's day, the fiftieth anniversary, was celebrated by S. A. E. in the Armory, on Friday evening, in the form of a dance. Elaborate decorations were tastefully executed so as to bring out the fraternity colors in bold relief. Excellent music and abundant refreshments helped to make the evening's entertainment complete. Forty-four couples, including many out-of-town friends, were present.

THE NASHVILLE CONVENTION

Greatest Student Gathering in History; 700 Institutions Represented.

The Fifth International Student Volunteer Convention, which was held at Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 28 to Mar. 4, proved to be the greatest student gathering in history. From all parts of the United States and Canada, 4188 delegates, representing 700 institutions of higher education, came together at Nashville. Of this number 286 were professors, 144 returned missionaries from 26 mission lands, and many officials representing missionary agencies. The convention, which is held once every four years, is known as the Student Volunteer Convention, although not more than one-third of the students who attend are volunteers for the foreign mission field. In reality it is a gathering of educated young men and women to consider the moral and spiritual welfare of the whole world. The aim and purpose of the convention is suggested in the watchword of the Student Volunteer Movement: "The Evangelization of the World in this Generation."

Here students are brought face to face with conditions as they exist in non-Christian lands, and are shown the duty and privilege of engaging in the work of evangelization, and, having been thus made intelligent of the needs of the world, students can not return to their respective colleges without having had their horizon broadened and their sympathies aroused.

The Volunteer Movement was organized twenty years ago. Since the convention four years ago at Toronto, 2953 volunteers, representing fifty denominations, have sailed for the foreign mission field. The volunteers are an organic part of the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations, which, in turn, are part of the World's Student Christian Federation, embracing 105,000 students and professors in many lands. To the Student Volunteers the mission boards look for recruits. These boards met for a two days' conference in Nashville previous to the convention,and greeted the volunteers with a demand for 1000 college bred men annually, and there is no reason to think otherwise than that from the colleges and universities of America there shall come not a student less than that "thonsand."

Bucknell Men in Fight with Moros.

On Friday of last week the United States troops under command of General Tasker H. Bliss, ex-'73, fought and exterminated 600 Phillipine bandits. The latter had for some time been annoying the soldiers with their depredations, so it was decided to quiet them. The Americans forced the natives up the side of the Jolo volcano into their rendezvous and there slaughtered them. General Bliss was on hand and viewed the fight.

Dance for Alumni To-morrow Night.

An informal dance will be given in the Armory to-morrow evening after the basket-ball game. The affair is given as a means of entertaining the alumni who are back to spend a few days at "Old Bucknell." The subscription has not been fixed, and will depend entirely upon the number in attendance.

Editorial

The recent organization of two clubs within our midst—the Williamsport and Philadelphia clubs—shows an enlivened interest in this direction, and opens the way for effective work in these vicinities in behalf of Bucknell. These organizations foster a friendly feeling among the members, and are beneficial from the social point of view. There are other schools that are well represented here and that might form such organizations. To the members these clubs mean a more intimate acquaintance among those who were associated at the different preparatory schools, and to the college they mean more students from the sections that these clubs represent if a reasonable amount of effort is put forth.

You have been in the library when the quiet was suddenly broken by the increasing hum of approaching voices. Then the latch of the outside door clicked, a merry burst of laughter and talk sounded, and the inner door burst open before a bevy of girls who whirled around a corner or two into the ladies' room, leaving a swishing sound behind them. Very breezy and refreshing, wasn't it? But if you were studying "real hard" and had but four minutes before class time, it wasn't so very welcome an occurrence, was it? And if Professor Martin informed the young ladies, in a very suggestive way, that the transom was open, you didn't blame him, did you?

The Freshmen met last week and elected a manager for their baseball team. In former years the class teams have made very little effort to secure games with nearby preparatory schools and it seems that, hovered in as we are by a large number of good "prep" schools, the managers should take advantage of this opportunity and arrange schedules. Teams can be brought here, and the class teams and the Reserves will have no trouble in securing dates with other schools o their grounds. This, besides giving the nines good trips, keeps Bucknell before the eyes of those who are preparing to take a college course.

A communication in last Monday's issue called attention to the expediency of securing a baseball coach. As a matter of enlightenment it might be well to state that according to the codified laws of the institution governing athletics no one but the physical director or a graduate of Bucknell can coach a college team. This would narrow the choice to our alumni; but we well know that we have enough stars on the diamond to make the matter of selection easy.

The attendance at the minstrel show was very commendable; the financial manager has made an excellent report, and the hearty support of the student-body is greatly responsible for the success of the affair. The show was one of the best Bucknell has produced in years, and those who took part are to be congratulated.

First-class Minstrel Show.

The annual minstrel show was given in the opera house on Monday night before the largest and best crowd of theatre-goers assembled this season. That the production was successful cannot be doubted, judging from the frequent and enthusiastic applause.

The program was well arranged and contained a good line of songs, parodies, jokes and other novelties. The chorus was composed of fifteen members of the Glee Club, and their work was a feature of the evening's entertainment. Evans and Grimminger, the premier ends, were better than ever before. Baker, in his original farce, "Rameses the 26th," offered three clever impersonations. Concluding the program was a new burlesque, "The Employment Agency;" the Brass Quartette won deserving recognition. Shoemaker, as interlocutor, played his role with a natural ease.

The cast was composed of: Shoemaker, interlocutor; Hawk, Godshall, Gardner, and Evans, tambos; Hennessy, Shrum, Reifer and Evans, bones; Stewart, Yingling, Stolz, Cure, Parsons, Nofsiker, Walters, Burrows, Adams, Manchester, Loomis, McLaughlin, Fritz, Mathias and Gibson, chorus.

Manager Grimminger of the minstrel show submits the following itemized account:

Chair Covers	$20.00
Costumes and paints	18.00
Music	2.77
Printing and Cut	6.25
Gloves and Neckties	2.04
Fans	1.08
Wigs	1.25
Tambo & 2 sets bones, 75 & 93	1.68
Incidentals	2.00
	$55.07
Gross Receipts	$223.05
House's share 40 per cent	89.22
Company's Share 60 per cent.	133.83
Cost of Production	55.07
Proceeds	$78.76

This report has been submitted to Registrar Gretzinger, and found correct according to statement printed above. The manager has purchased a cut, tambos and bones, and chair-covers which will be permanent property of the association. The account shows a gain of $78.75 and is sufficient proof that the show was well managed.

Bucknell Placed Upon Accredited List.

By a recent action of the State Board of Education of Washington, Bucknell has been placed upon the list of accredited institutions. This gives to the graduates of the university the privilege of securing teacher's certificates from that State without undergoing an examination. Bucknell has been placed upon the accredited list of a number of other states.

Lehigh won from Swarthmore at South Bethlehem on Saturday night by the score of 21 to 19.

Frymire, '07, has left college to accept a position in the Engineer's office of the Penna. R. R. at Newark, N. J.

Tuesday, March 20, 8:15 will be the time for examination in classes reciting at 3:00 instead of 11:15 as stated in last week's issue.

President Harris will deliver the baccalaureate address at the Commencement of the Leonard Medical School of Shaw University, on April 12th.

On Monday night, at Bloomsburg, the Freshmen defeated the college "Preps" of Bloomsburg Normal by a score of 38-18. O'Brien did some effective work for the first-year men.

The Junior class, at their meeting on Saturday morning, decided that each member of the class must pay their dues before they are elegible to a vote in class elections.

Some time ago Bolton, '08, made a wager with his table-mates at the "Prep," that if he ever walked down the hill with a "co-ed," he would "blow himself." Last Wednesday night Bolton and his friends dined on the strength of his bet.

At a meeting of the ministerial association on Thursday afternoon, Stewart, '06, was elected president of the organization to succeed Pease, '06, who will leave next term for Rochester, where he will take up the sale of aluminum cooking utensils.

Mr. William Shields Dead.

Mr. William Shields, a man well known to students and alumni of Bucknell, was suddenly attacked by a stroke of heart failure on Saturday evening, while seated in Linn's law office, and died almost instantly. The sudden demise of Mr. Shields was a great shock to his many friends, as he had been in the best of health up to that time. Deceased was in his 65th year, and was the father of Leigh Shields, '06. He was very highly thought of by those of the student body who knew him, and the sympathy of the latter goes out to the saddened family in their bereavement.

Communication.

To the Editor The Orange and Blue:—

Chapel attendance seems like a small matter, when one considers that it occupies but fifteen minutes at the beginning of each day, yet it devolves upon every student as a duty. Many come to the hasty conclusion that it is quite immaterial whether they are present at each morning's service or not, and it must be said that they are far from right in their conception.

A few minutes thus spent sets one right with the day's work. The idea of cutting chapel is more of a habit than anything else. If a man makes it a point to be present at Bucknell Hall every morning at 8.00 o'clock, it is not long until this becomes a part of the daily routine, and the idea of attending chapel seems altogether natural. To some of us it means fifteen minutes less sleep,—for the loss of which we will be no worse off; to some it means a little more work in the evening and less of the hasty before-breakfast preparation; to others it means a little sacrifice of time, and a little more hurry on our way to and from breakfast. At any rate it is within the bounds of reason to assert that any of us who put forth the least effort can be at chapel almost every morning. To the writer, it seems that chapel attendance, as a duty, should prove to be a pleasure to anyone who has become accustomed to a few moments of spiritual devotion. The training in this direction and in punctuality seems to be sufficient incentive for any college man. "1906."

Misses Edna Innes and Helen Fassett, of Canton, attended the S. A. E. dance on Friday evening, and are spending a few days with friends.

Senior "Semites" Give Clever Reception.

The Seminary reception, an annual function given by the Senior class of the "Sem," was held in the Institute parlors, Friday evening. The attendance was large and the most clever sort of entertainment was offered.

Artistic hands had been working profusely and effectively, and they had succeeded in transforming the place into a sort of paradise. Green and white, the class colors, covered every room; through the dining hall extended an arch way formed by green and white crepe paper. The most notable feature of the decorations, was an abundance of wild smilax which came from the South.

A punch-bowl in the center of the spacious school-room was drained time and again. The guests were treated to excellent refreshments during the evening. Miss Grace Meek and Miss Anna Galbraith played the role of "fortune tellers" in such Gypsy-like fashion that even the most wily and reserved of the company were completely "taken in." While the "subject" held the left palm in the dim ray of light that stole through the opening between the curtains, they read past, present, and future with the utmost precision.

The Senior "Semites" are to be congratulated for the success of the function, for it is agreed that it was the social event of the season.

Lecture Thursday Night.

The final number on the Y. M. C. A. Lecture Course is to be given next Thursday evening in the Baptist church. On that date Rev. Samuel Parkes Cadman, D. D., the eminent divine of Brooklyn, will lecture. Dr. Cadman is a most popular and delightful lecturer, and he has left a good impression wherever he has spoken. This number is a fitting climax for what has proved one of the most successful lecture courses yet given at Bucknell.

ADVANCE SPRING STYLES
Throughout the Entire Store.

Ladies', Misses' and Children's Tailor-Made Suits

The manufacturers have been slow in delivering the new spring Suits on account of scarcity of the desired material, therefore we have not been saying much about them in our announcements before this.

We would have had no trouble to get garments made of inferior goods, but the policy of this store is to let no manufacturer substitute inferior cloth in suits that we had placed on order early in the season. If they could not deliver the material in Suits that was ordered early, we positively refused to take substitutes.

NOW WE HAVE OUR FULL LINE OF TAILORED SUITS ON DISPLAY, made of the best material, and can show prettier material and styles than ever before. In the finer suits are only one or two of a style, which enables us to give you a better variety of styles. On prices we can assure you that we can save you from 10 to 15 per cent. less than city prices, besides the alterations, and state here that on all finer suits we make all alterations free of charge.

The largest trade this spring will be on "Etons" but we have many other styles to show.

In Misses' Suits the "Pony" suit is considered the newest thing. The materials used are in such a variety of weaves that we cannot do them justice to try to describe them, but we ask you to do us the favor of coming in to see our line before deciding on your new Spring Suit. Prices very moderate.

A lot of Suits on hand that do not have the latest sleeve effect, and will be offered at ½ price.

About a dozen suits in ¾ length coats, extra fine styles, that we are offering at very tempting prices. Come see them.

BUCKNELL DOWNS ALUMNI

"Grads" Play Hard But Lose Through Repeated Fouls.

The game with the Alumni on Tuesday night attracted much interest and proved to be one of the best of the season. The "Grads" put up a fine game, and would have won had it not been for the large number of fouls called upon them and Lenhart's unfailing eye in throwing them. As it was, the game was close from the start, the final score being 18-15.

The first half had scarcely begun until the referee's whistle sounded and Lenhart scored the first point by throwing a foul. The Alumni team broke up the passing of the Bucknell five and seemed to have taken them completely off their feet. It was some time before Anderson threw the first goal for the "grads." This put life into both sides and they went at it with a dash. The Alumni kept throwing goals, while Bucknell made as many by scoring on repeated fouls. Toward the close of the half Bucknell got in some team-work and Lose and O'Brien each scored a basket; the period ended with the score 10-7 in Bucknell's favor.

The second half was a clever exhibition. Both teams were more determined and the contest was much more exciting. The scoring in this 20 minutes of play was equal on both sides. Claypool shot a long one, and McNinch landed a basket, while Anderson for the "grads" threw three. The dribbling of Griffith and McCormick's passing were often spectacular.

Line-up:

BUCKNELL	ALUMNI
Lose	forward — McCormick
O'Brien	forward — Grier
Lenhart	center — Cocklll
Claypool	guard — Anderson
McNinch	guard — Griffith

Goals from field: Anderson 5, Griffith, McNinch, Claypool, Lose, O'Brien. Goals from fouls: Lenhart 10, Griffith 2, McCormick. Referee—Teufel. Time of halves—20 minutes.

Bucknell 30; Lehigh 8.

The basketball season closed on Saturday night. The Lehigh team had been heralded as an almost sure winner; they had defeated Swarthmore on two occasions, and played Penn., the inter-collegiate champions, a close game. But the Orange and Blue had determined to close the season with a victory, and as a result of this determination sent Lehigh down in an ignominious defeat, covering themselves with glory. The victory was one of the easiest of the year.

Lehigh scored on a foul early in the game and did not secure a field goal until towards the end of the half, when Davies and Kramer scored six points in rapid succession. Bucknell scored thirteen points in the first half.

In the second period Lehigh failed to score a field goal. Bucknell scored seventeen points, Lenhart threw five fouls. Lenhart and Lose again had the high individual scores; Lenhart's throwing from fouls being a feature.

The work of Bucknell's guards was of the highest order, as is shown by the very few field goals thrown by the Brown and White.

Kramer, formerly an '07, Bucknell man, played on the Lehigh team, Anderson and Davies played the best games for the visitors.

The work of Referee Turner was of the highest order. The general satisfaction which is always shown when we have an impartial official should encourage the Athletic authorities to always have officials of this character.

Line-up:—

BUCKNELL.	LEHIGH.
Lose	forward — Troutman
O'Brien	forward — Anderson, Maurer.
Lenhart	centre — Kramer
Wagner	guard — Travis
McNinch
Claypool	guard — Davies

Goals, Lose 4, Lenhart 4, McNinch 1, O'Brien 3, Kramer 1, Davies 2. Fouls, Lenhart 6, Anderson 2. Referee Mr. Turner, Williamsport. Time of halves 20 minutes.

Speakers for Young People's Assembly.

The Baptist Young People's Union of Pennsylvania will hold a summer assembly at Lewisburg, Aug. 1 to 10, 1906. The sessions will be held at Bucknell University.

The morning sessions will be opened with devotional meetings conducted by Henry G. Weston, D. D., President of Crozer Theological Seminary and Rev. F. U. Kohler, of Bellevue, Pa. The topics for the morning sessions are "Normal Studies for Bible School Teachers," by H. E. Trotter, D. D., of Missouri; "Training for Leaders in Junior Work," by Mr.s J. L. P. Bishop, New York; "Scriptural Expositions," by Milton G. Evans, D. D., Chester, Pa. "Practical Methods, Walter Calley," D. D., Chester, Pa. The evening lectures are E. E. Chivers, D. D., New York; John H. Harris, Ph. D., LL. D., President of Bucknell University, Rev. J. A. Francis, of New York, and Rev. F. P. Haggard, of Boston. The afternoon will be left open for recreation and private study. It is expected that several hundred Baptist Young People will attend the Assembly. The Assembly sermon will be preached Sunday, Aug. 5 by Rev. W. B. Wallace, of Utica, N. Y.

THE LATE WILLIAM SHIELDS

JUNIOR DEBATE

Third Year Orators Argue Over Chinese Exclusion Question.

The annual Junior Debate was given in Bucknell Hall on Friday evening before a fair-sized audience. The question under discussion was: "That the Policy of the United States with respect to Chinese Immigration should be continued." Clarence A. Bernhard and Chauncey E. Brockway argued the affirmative, while Peter G. Cober and Harvard Griffith upheld the negative side of the question. The debaters presented strong arguments, and very sligh; criticisms could be offered either on their delivery or on the substance of their addresses.

Bernhard opened the debate by defining the question. He held that the present laws restrict the Chinese laborers and that exclusion is effected by the United States as a matter of self-preservation. The Chinese are objectionable because they horde in upon us in great numbers; because they cannot be assimilated, since their sole purpose it to make money. In his rebuttal he showed that treaties were not necessary to exclude the Chinese; that the "square deal" is a policy for ourselves first and foreigners afterward; and that the present Chinese boycott is only a commercial misfortune.

Cober then took up the negative side of the question, and maintained that according to the first exclusion act Chinese "contract labor" was prohibited. "The Chinese are being dealt with unjustly," he said, "because no Chinese citizen has the right of trial by jury; their testimony is not recognized by the court; the Chinese student must have, on entering the United States, enough money to complete his course, and upon its completion must return to China." These United States is violating their principle of a "square deal," in that she does not give to the Chinese their dues. In rebutting, he held that a nation cannot violate treaty stipulation without losing its prestige as a world power; that the better class of Chinese should be allowed to enter our country even to the exclusion of the coolies.

Brockway then continued the argument for the affirmative. He held that should the Chinese be unrestricted in entering our country they would soon seriously affect the economic welfare of the United States; that unrestricted, they would flock to our land in such numbers as to impair our social life, since they are poor homemakers; that unrestricted, they would cause the political life of our government to be at stake, since they would form a government within our government. In his second speech he made two main points: Justice should be given to the Chinese, but to Americans first; the unrest in China will bring them flocking to the doors, since, when the boycott was raised their presence in California endangered the life of that state.

Griffith, defending the negative, closed the debate. He asserted that the United States first urged the immigration of the Chinese into this country. Chinese labor was brought here because it was cheap. The exclusion law is unwise from an industrial point of view, because the Chinese laborer works for $1.00 and $1.25 per day, and does work Amerians would not do. The commerce of both nations would suffer, since China has great need for American goods, and America needs the products of China. Rebutting he showed that the neglect of city officers is the cause of vice in Chinese quarters; that the Chinese should enjoy, as other foreigners, the partly closed door; and that the law of our land, in regard to immigration in general, is deficient.

Literary Societies Elect Officers.

On Friday night the literary societies met and elected officers for the ensuing term. The following were chosen for Theta Alpha; President, Macro, '06; Vice Pres., Hummer, '08; Sec., Tinilin, '09; Treas., Boyer, '08; Critic, Higby, '08; Censor, Payne, '09.

Enepia elected Waltz, '06, President; Vice Pres., Whitby, '07; Sec., Claypool, '09; Treas., Ridge, '08; Critic, Drake, '06; Sergeant-at-arms, Grimminger, '09.

Inter-Society Debate.

The annual Inter-society debate between Enpia and Theta Alpha Literary societies will be held in Bucknell Hall April 13, 1906.

The question for debate at that time is, That the Right of Suffrage shall be Restricted by an educational Test. Enepia's representatives, Ridge, '08 and McLaughlin, '09, will maintain the affirmative; Theta Alpha's representatives, Hummer, '08, and Higby, '08, the negative.

Piano Recital To-morrow Evening.

Minor Walden Gallup, a noted pianist from the Virgil Piano school New York City, will give a recital in the Seminary Studio to-morrow evening. Mr. Gallup is but 19 years old, and is renowned for having a fine technique. The recital is for the benefit of music students and open to them only.

According to the State College baseball schedule as published in yesterday's North American, Bucknell will play State College on their grounds on April 14.

"A CO-OP" STORE

A. W. Stephens, '96, Starts Plan; Shares Going Rapidly.

Bucknell is to have a co-operative book-store. The plan that has proved to be so sucessful in other institutions is to be adopted here. Last week Mr. Albert W. Stephens, '96, was here making arrangements to start a "co-op" store, and his efforts met with such good success that by Friday he left Lewisburg, fully assured that the co-operative store would be a "go." The reliability of Mr. Stephens cannot be questioned, since he has been in the business for many years. He established the first book-store on the "hill," and during his college course had charge of it; he is now connected with the "co-op" store at the University of Illinois, which is established on a very firm basis.

Arrangements have been made to get the town store, and Miss Evans will continue as an interested partner. The company will be incorporated as a joint stock company, of which the students will be a part and in which they may hold stock. This stock may be sold at any time, and thus the company will be perpetuated. It will be impossible, to raise among the students the entire amount needed to capitalize the store, and Mr. Stephens has succeeded in securing outside help for the support of the proposition, thus insuring its success. Professor Lindemann will act as Treasurer until a permanent organization can be effected, and subscriptions may be payed to him; the permanent organization will be completed as soon as it is possible to take over the other store.

According to the proposed plan the profits will be divided among the share-holders according to their purchases. This gives the greatest advantage to those who buy shares and become members. Those who do not own shares have the benefit of any reduction in price; by reason of extensive buying "co-ops" get special rates, and are able to retail at a lower price. Mr. Stephens will do the purchasing for the Bucknell "co-op."

The store is to be placed upon a firm basis and will handle books and stationery supplies. The success of other "co-op" stores has been very great, and their service to the student-body very satisfactory. During the past year Cornell has been paying 5 to 8 per cent., Harvard 7 to 12 per cent., and a number of Western colleges 5 to 10 per cent on money invested.

Sophomore-Freshman Game To-Night

The Sophomore-Freshman game that will be played in Tustin gymnasium this evening excites unusual interest, because of the keen rivalry that exists between the two underclasses. The "Sophs" succeeded in winning the inter-class football game and this only raises the enthusiasm of the first year men in regard to to-night's contest. The inter-class basketball series stands as follows:

Seniors, 10; Sophomores, 17—Jan. 22
Juniors, 7; Freshman, 6—Jan. 29.
Seniors, 16; Freshmen, 12—Feb. 12.
Juniors forfeited to Seniors—Feb. 29.
Juniors, 17; Sophomores, 25—Mar. 6.
Sophomores vs. Freshmen—Mar. 19.

Editorial

The success of the Alumni basket-ball on Tuesday evening seems to warrant the advocacy of other such games. The contest excited more real interest among the student-body, than any game that has been played here this season. And the "Grads" made it interesting for spectators and players as well.

Bucknell draws from a star aggregation of basket-ball players that have been graduated from the University in recent years. But what is true of basket-ball applies equally as well to base-ball. The teams that have represented the "Orange and Blue" on the diamond for the past few years have been up to a high standard and a nine composed of players picked from this list of "grads" would surely prove a drawing card. And besides arousing a special interest among the students, it gives to all a sort of cheery feeling at seeing a number of the "has-beens" ambling about the campus. The "grads," too, must feel some joy in the privilege of visiting "Old Bucknell" again.

It is quite likely that an Alumni baseball game could be scheduled, and that the student-body would favor such an arrangement cannot be questioned.

The books in the Library are used so much from year to year that it seems imperative that one takes great care of them. Very often one picks up books and sees written, at different places, suggestions by those who have read them some time before. Of course, the one who took the privilege of thus enlightening those who should read the book after him was quite altruistic, yet it seems that efforts in this direction are both useless and ineffective. Should all readers cultivate this habit, it would not be long until almost every copy in the library would be ready for a new edition with all modern and deserving comments.

Again, one often sees that some observing reader in his perusal has has struck the key to a paragraph and kindly he has indicated his observation by undercscring the line, or word that appeared striking to him. This, too, shows great foresight, and a keen knowledge of the wants of others. These practices disgust careful readers, and destroy the value and good appearance of the books.

Friday night's debate brought several things to notice, the abilities of several men. Those men were not all in dress suits. We refer to the ringleaders in the applause. When the professor who had charge of the debate took his place- there was a burst of uncalled for applause, when the ushers performed the usual service of supplying the speakers with water, there was more senseless applause. At both times the clapping was unnecessary and boorish, besides breaking in upon the selections by the orchestra. One may say that this is a democratic institution and that the fellows have a right to do as they please. Perhaps, but there is a vast difference between democracy and anarchy. "'07."

Communication.

The "Orange and Blue" invites communications but does not necessarily agree with the opinions expressed therein. All communications must be signed, though the name will not be published if so desired.

In a recent issue of the Orange and Blue appeared the announcement of the forfeiture of the annual Senior-Junior class basketball game. As a member of the Junior class the writer desires to ask, who forfeited the game? According to the rules of all games it is necessary for the official and one team to appear on the field of contest. Was the official present at the time the game was forfeited? Was the Senior class team on the gymnasium floor? If the official was not present who has the authority to announce that the Juniors forfeited to the Seniors?

In view of this claim let us review the matter further. To begin with the schedule of games was posted on the bulletin board without consulting either manager or captain of the Junior team as to the desirability of the dates. Further the official was chosen without consulting either class official. However no objections would have been made to date or official under usual conditions. But when the date of the Senior-Junior game arrived three members of the Junior class team were ill and could not appear on the floor. Immediately the manager of the Junior class team asked the 'Varsity manager to postpone this game. The manager promised, provided the official already engaged could be warned by telephone. He then wasted a half day before attempting to stop the official. The result was that the official came on to Lewisburg, but did not appear on the Gymnasium floor. On this score and that there is no open date remaining, the 'Varsity manager who is also manager of the Senior class team now claims the forfeiture of the game.

But since the official did not declare the game forfeited, please allow the question, who, then, has authority to declare the game forfeited? Are we living in the land of Russia or in the time of the Ceasars that a manager may do as he wishes contrary to all rules? If a class must do as the "manager" dictates, why select class managers or even captains?

In view of this arbitrary action by the 'Varsity manager, it is only fair to demand that this game be played sometime during the remaining week of the term and thus give the Seniors a chance to "make good" the assertion that they are not afraid to play the Juniors. "'07."

McCormick, ex-'04, who played so strenuously in the Alumni game last Tuesday, went home nursing a broken finger.

In view of the fact that all four of the participants in the Junior Debate were members of Theta Alpha, a feed was given in their hall on Friday night in honor of these men. A majority of the members were present and enjoyed themselves.

Y. M. C. A. Reception.

The College Men's Y. M. C. A., gave a reception to Athletic Men in their parlors last Monday. Quite a large delegation from the "Sem" was in attendance and helped to enliven the occasion. From 4:30 to 5:30 o'clock the "conversational ball was continually on the move" from the large crowd gathered to-gether setting some of the serious questions of the hour, to the couple in the more secluded corners admiring the decorations "from afar." For those not so fortunate or more timid the committee had very conveniently arranged autograph cards for the purpose of making acquaintanceship less formal—a sort of "butt-in" card. From 5:30 to 6 o'clock "unique" refreshments were served consisting of all-day suckers, and molasses pop-corn balls. After that the Semites bid adieu. The newly acquired rights of the upper-class College Girls were enjoyed by many, some of the men being considerate enough to escort their ladies even to the Front Entrance of the Institute.

Big Dance for Alumni.

The iaformal dance held in the Armory on Tuesday night, in honor of the Alumni who were here for the game, was a big affair in point of number present. Fifty-five couples celebrated the occasion. Lack of time prevented those in charge from making elaborate preparation for the affair.

Break a Record; Win a Medal.

Coach Hoskins takes unusual delight in training track athletes, and it is his coaching that has brought victory to more than one Bucknell track team. This year he sees that there is a dearth of track material, and to arouse interest he has offered medals to any student who break a college record in any of the following events: 100, 220, and 440 yard dashes; ½, 1, and 2 mile runs; 120, 220 yard hurdles; running high, and running broad jumps; sixteen pound shot and hammer throw; and pole-vault.

Communication.

The "Orange and Blue" invites communications but does not necessarily agree with the opinions expressed therein. All communications must be signed, though the name will not be published if so desired.

Editor Orange and Blue:—

During the basketball season just closed patrons of the game have had an opportunity to note the results pro and con having a disinterested official. The writer in common with a majority of the student-body is heartily in favor of at all times securing a disinterested official. And in bringing up this matter no reflections are meant to be cast upon the work of anyone connected with the Varsity basketball team or upon those of any visiting team during the season just closed.

The one great advantage in hiring a disinterested referee is that it gives better satisfaction to all concerned. This is an effect greatly to be desired for altho a keen rivalry between the two teams always gives a superior flavor to the contest yet each team wishes to win and it to be known that they won, by superior work. After a close and exciting game some chance remark on possibly a meaning insinuation "that the home team had their own referee" at times detracts somewhat from their well-earned victory.

Then again, it places the official in a difficult position for at some critical point in the game when a minor offense has been committed by one of the opponents, he does not feel justified in awarding the foul when a non-interested official would feel no hesitancy whatever, in meeting out the penalty On the other hand perhaps to clear himself in the eyes of the spectators he unconsciously "rubs it in" on his own protegees and again they suffer. Of the interested official who "soaks" the other fellows I am not dealing, altho at a critical stage of the game when even a foul called may decide the result, it is tempting to any mortal. At any rate the like of a referee is some what burdensome, especially where there is much rivalry and a close contest, without being added to this, the charge that he was a party concerned.

During the season just closed I believe $26 or thereabouts was paid to secure outside referees. This is about one-third or less of the receipts taken in of some of the games and seems an insignificant sum where so many advantages accrue to all concerned. In football or baseball it is rare that any person officiates who is connected with either team. Why should basketball be an exception? Let us have officials who have no interest whatever in either team.

COLLEGE MEN TO ENTERTAIN

Committees Make Elaborate Preparations for First Reception.

If present arrangements are carried out in regard to the College Men's reception, the event will be one of the best of the year. Two hundred and fifty invitations have been sent out and that means that there will be about five hundred guests to enjoy the evening set apart for the occasion, Friday, Apr. 6th.

The reception is being groomed to become an annual affair, and in view of these facts great pains will be taken to make the first one a decided success. No effort will be spared in the work of transforming the rooms in West College Into a series of cozy retreats, and in the preparation of fitting refreshments. What many are wishing now is that Friday evening may be one of those ideal spring evenings.

Wilcox-Scott Wedding.

Prof. Walter S. Wilcox, of Bucknell Academy, and Miss Frances Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Scott, of South Fourth street, Lewisburg, were married at the home of the bride's parents on Thursday evening last at six o'clock. Following the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Judd of the Baptist church, the couple left at eight o'clock for a ten days wedding trip. The wedding was a very quiet one; there being no one present except the very near relatives of the parties concerned. Those present were: Mrs. Levitt, grandmother of the groom; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Wilcox; his sister, Mrs. Andrews; all of Canton, Pa.; the parents of the bride; and her sister, Mrs. Chella Beale, of Scranton.

Mrs. Wilcox graduated from Bucknell, in 1902, and her husband in 1904, since which time he has been teaching in the Academy. The latter position he has resigned, having accepted a position with the Morris Co., of Philadelphia, dealers in bonds. After a short course of training in Philadelphia, Mr. Wilcox will take charge of this company's branch in Detroit, Mich.

John J. Brandt Weds.

Miss Kathryn Elizabeth Hoagland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pleasants Hoagland, of 5 Trinity Place, Williamsport, and John J. Brandt, of Harrisburg, were married Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, by the Rev. D. E. Burtner. Miss Mary Higgins was maid of honor, and Albert E. Sager, of Wilmington, Del., was best man. The bride wore white chiffon over white silk and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. Her attendant wore white airline over taffeta, trimmed with pink and carried pink roses. The house was very prettily decorated, the color scheme being pink and white. The Letian orchestra of Williamsport, furnished music, and after the ceremony a wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Brandt left for the east on the midnight train. They will reside in Harrisburg after April 1st.

Milton seems ot have been a popular retreat for "co-eds" during the Easter vacation.

The Road to Slumberland.

Are you tired, wee boy? Would you like to go
To the far dreamland where the popples grow?
Then shut those eyes, dear heart,
And keep fast hold of mother's hand
When you start on the road to Slumberland,
Down the long, dim road to Slumberland.

Long, long is the road; just one wee star
Shines in the sky so faint and far.
Slow are the baby feet.
The popples are nodding on either hand;
Baby's - so - tired - and - sleepy - and—
The little one rests in Slumberland.

Hush, hushaby sweet!
Fairies steal up with the mists from the west,
Coming to kiss the tired eyes into rest.
Sleep, pretty flow'ret, on mother's breast,
Hushaby, hushaby, hush!

Break a Record; Win a Medal.

Coach Hoskins takes unusual delight in training track athletes, and it is his coaching that has brought victory to more than one Bucknell track team. This year he sees that there is a dearth of track material, and to arouse interest he has offered medals to any student who break a college record in any of the following events: 100, 220, and 440 yard dashes; ½, 1, and 2 mile runs; 120, 220 yard hurdles; running high, and running broad jumps; sixteen pound shot and hammer throw; and pole-vault.

Communication.

The "Orange and Blue" invites communications but does not necessarily agree with the opinions expressed therein. All communications must be signed, though the name will not be published if so desired.

Editor Orange and Blue;—

During the basketball season just closed patrons of the game have had an opportunity to note the results pro and con having a disinterested official. The writer in common with a majority of the student-body is heartily in favor of at all times securing a disinterested official. And in bringing up this matter no reflections are meant to be cast upon the work of anyone connected with the Varsity basketball team or upon those of any visiting team during the season just closed.

The one great advantage in hiring a disinterested referee is that it gives better satisfaction to all concerned. This is an effect greatly to be desired for altho a keen rivalry between the two teams always gives a superior flavor to the contest yet each team wishes to win and it to be known that they won, by superior work. After a close and exciting game some chance remark on possibly a meaning insinuation "that the home team had their own referee" at times detracts somewhat from their well-earned victory.

Then again, it places the official in a difficult position for at some critical point in the game when a minor offense has been committed by one of the opponents, he does not feel justified in awarding the foul when a non-interested official would feel no hestiancy whatever, in meeting out the penalty On the other hand perhaps to clear himself in the eyes of the spectators he unconsciously "rubs it in" on his own protegees and again they suffer. Of the interested official who "soaks" the other fellows I am not dealing, altho at a critical stage of the game when even a foul called may decide the result, it is tempting to any mortal. At any rate the like of a referee is some what burdensome, especially where there is much rivalry and a close contest, without being added to this, the charge that he was a party concerned.

During the season just closed I believe $26 or thereabouts was paid to secure outside referees. This is about one-third or less of the receipts taken in of some of the games and seems an insignificant sum where so many advantages accrue to all concerned. In football or baseball it is rare that any person officiates who is connected with either team. Why should basketball be an exception? Let us have officials who have no interest whatever in either team. "'08."

What Becomes of the Bucknell Girl.

You ask me, "What becomes of the Bucknell girl?" And I answer, "What becomes of any group of educated women in the present day?" Should you ask, "is the Bucknell girl in any way distinguished from women in general?" I should answer, "Not from those women of the same station of life, who have enjoyed equal educational advantages." From our knowledge of the Bucknell girl we have decided that she has shown her ability to use well every power with which the Creator endowed her; but she has in no way proved herself a paragon or, we say it with devout thanks, a freak.

In college days she has shown her ability to compete with her class brothers, not moved particularly by the absurd idea of doing better work than they for the sake of rivalry, but by a desire to develop her powers, and to do her best.

Later, as instructor in the classroom, she has endeavored to keep before her pupils the same ideal which she followed in college, to do their best for the sake of doing their best, showing them that thereby character is developed, and that future worth depends on present worth. The Bucknell girl as teacher in the public schools of a New York State town has had the pleasure of having more of her pupils pass the Regent's examinations than any other teacher of the town, some of them of several years standing. But she has been able to do this of course not because she was a Bucknell girl, but because before she ever entered a college she was a girl worth while, one who loved her work; whether she was herself acquiring knowledge, or helping others to acquire it.

There is another sphere the Bucknell girl has again and again shown her ability. She has proved her power to manage a home wisely and well, keeping house "with her head" in a reasonable and intelligent manner just as any woman of broad education does in the present day. She has been what the Creator intended her to be, a help to her husband, cheering him when troubled, counselling with him when perplexed, fitting into his life with feminine instinct those things needed to make it stronger and nobler and more helpful to the world. Nor is this because she is a Bucknell graduate, but simply because she is a girl of culture and education. If she is a natural girl the fact that she has gone to a co-educational college has not injured her any more than the fact that she has had brothers in her home. She simply understands men a little better, possibly, for the experience. It has not shattered her ideal, of course, for that is too deeply a part of her and the very fact that she resents some of the things which she sees in a co-educational college proves all the more strongly

BASKETBALL REVIEW

Bucknell's Successful Season. Won Ten Out of Twelve Games.

By defeating Lehigh in the final game of the schedule, Bucknell fit-the existence of this ideal which she can never lose. "I think in that great hour when God * * * flung forth a million spheres, This miracle of love in her was wrought.'"

In club and social life the Bucknell girl has taken her part, succeeding in each with a grace natural to a woman who has acquired self-control and learned her power. No Bucknell girl has attempted to reorganize the world, or "champion the rights of her sex," or to do any of those foolish or unnecessary things. On the whole she seems to be attempting to fulfill the object of her creation, and be

"A perfect woman, nobly planned,
To warn, to comfort, and command."

Break a Record; Win a Medal.

Coach Hoskins takes unusual delight in training track athletes, and it is his coaching that has brought victory to more than one Bucknell track team. This year he sees that there is a dearth of track material, and to arouse interest he has offered medals to any student who break a college record in any of the following events: 100, 220, and 440 yard dashes; ½, 1, and 2 mile runs; 120, 220 yard hurdles; running high and running broad jumps; sixteen pound shot and hammer throw; and pole-vault.

Communication.

The "Orange and Blue" invites communications but does not necessarily agree with the opinions expressed therein. All communications must be signed, though the name will not be published if so desired.

Editor Orange and Blue:—

During the basketball season just closed patrons of the game have had an opportunity to note the results pro and con having a disinterested official. The writer in common with a majority of the student-body is heartily in favor of at all times securing a disinterested official. And in bringing up this matter no reflections are meant to be cast upon the work of anyone connected with the Varsity basketball team or upon those of any visiting team during the season just closed.

The one great advantage in hiring a disinterested referee is that it gives better satisfaction to all concerned. This is an effect greatly to be desired for altho a keen rivalry between the two teams always gives a superior flavor to the contest yet each team wishes to win and it to be known that they won, by superior work. After a close and exciting game some chance remark on possibly a meaning insinuation "that the home team had their own referee" at times detracts somewhat from their well-earned victory.

Then again, it places the official in a difficult position for at some critical point in the game when a minor offense has been committed by one of the opponents, he does not feel justified in awarding the foul when a non-interested official would feel no hestiancy whatever, in meeting out the penalty On the other hand perhaps to clear himself in the eyes of the spectators he unconsciously "rubs it in" on his own proteges and again they suffer. Of the interested official who "soaks" the other fellows I am not dealing, altho at a critical stage of the game when even a foul called may decide the result, it is tempting to any mortal. At any rate the like of a referee is some what burdensome, especially where there is much rivalry and a close contest, without being added to this, the charge that he was a party concerned.

During the season just closed I believe $26 or thereabouts was paid to secure outside referees. This is about one-third or less of the receipts taken in of some of the games and seems an insignificant sum where so many advantages accrue to all concerned. In football or baseball it is rare that any person officiates who is connected with either team. Why should basketball be an exception? Let us have officials who have no interest whatever in either team. "'08."

COLLEGE MEN TO ENTERTAIN

Committees Make Elaborate Preparations for First Reception.

If present arrangements are carried out in regard to the College Men's reception, the event will be one of the best of the year. Two hundred and fifty invitations have been sent out and that means that there will be about five hundred guests to enjoy the evening set apart for the occasion, Friday, Apr. 6th.

The reception is being groomed to become an annual affair, and in view of these facts great pains will be taken to make the first one a decided success. No effort will be spared in the work of transforming the rooms in West College into a series of cozy retreats, and in the preparation of fitting refreshments. What many are wishing now is that Friday evening may be one of those ideal spring evenings.

Wilcox-Scott Wedding.

Prof. Walter S. Wilcox, of Bucknell Academy, and Miss Frances Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Scott, of South Fourth street, Lewisburg, were married at the home of the bride's parents on Thursday evening last at six o'clock. Following the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Judd of the Baptist church, the couple left at eight o'clock for a ten days wedding trip. The wedding was a very quiet one; there being no one present except the very near relatives of the parties concerned. Those present were; Mrs. Levitt, grandmother of the groom; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Wilcox; his sister, Mrs. Andrews; all of Canton, Pa.; the parents of the bride; and her sister, Mrs. Chella Beale, of Scranton.

Mrs. Wilcox graduated from Bucknell, in 1902, and her husband in 1904, since which time he has been teaching in the Academy. The latter position he has resigned, having accepted a position with the Morris Co., of Philadelphia, dealers in bonds. After a short course of training in Philadelphia, Mr. Wilcox will take charge of this company's branch in Detroit, Mich.

John J. Brandt Weds.

Miss Kathryn Elizabeth Hoagland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pleasants Hoagland, of 5 Trinity Place, Williamsport, and John J. Brandt, of Harrisburg, were married Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, by the Rev. D. E. Burtner. Miss Mary Higgins was maid of honor, and Albert E. Sager, of Wilmington, Del., was best man. The bride wore white chiffon over white silk and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. Her attendant wore white airline over taffeta, trimmed with pink and carried pink roses. The house was very prettily decorated, the color scheme being pink and white. The Lettan orchestra of Williamsport, furnished music, and after the ceremony a wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Brandt left for the east on the midnight train. They will reside in Harrisburg after April 1st.

Milton seems ot have been a popular retreat for "co-eds" during the Easter vacation.

The Freshman Boy.

O, the young and verdant Freshman has appeared among the throng,
'Tis surely not athletics that make him look so strong.
Football practice did not give the muscle to that arm,
But the boy pitched hay last summer
down home upon the farm.

The blush upon his cheek is not the bloom of dissipation.
He surely will not tread the path that leads to ruination.
'Tis not the fumes of rum that give his nose that ruddy glare,
But the boy has caught hay fever from the hay seed in his hair.

But as this greenish hue wears off,
our Freshman will be great,
And, in the winter weather, with girls will dance and skate.
He'll now forget that pretty little maiden left at home,
And soon with dashing "co-eds" he will be wont to roam.

Here at Bucknell this boy will learn what college fellows do.
He'll "crib" and "horse" and "cut"
and "flunk" and even smoke and chew;
He'll learn to light his brier-pipe and quite forget the plow
And mother will not know her son a year or more from now.

John J. Brandt Weds.

Miss Kathryn Elizabeth Hoagland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pleasants Hoagland, of 5 Trinity Place, Williamsport, and John J. Brandt, of Harrisburg, were married Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, by the Rev. D. E. Burtner. Miss Mary Higgins was maid of honor, and Albert E. Sager, of Wilmington, Del., was best man. The bride wore white chiffon over white silk and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. Her attendant wore white airline over taffeta, trimmed with pink and carried pink roses. The house was very prettily decorated, the color scheme being pink and white. The Lettan orchestra of Williamsport, furnished music, and after the ceremony a wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Brandt left for the east on the midnight train. They will reside in Harrisburg after April 1st.

Putting Culture on the "Rough."

In a college town, where culture was sold by the yard and where every one knew that Mrs. Browning was Robert Browning's wife, there was a group of intellectual maidens, who resolved in order to further the progress of culture to give a reception to the men and Faculty of the college.

This band of cultured ladies held a meeting and further resolved that the entire reception should be devoted to discussion of literature. It was their plan to have the guests gather in groups and exchange opinions concerning the merits of Ibsen Browning, and Dante. At the end of two hours spent in such discussion a little bell was to be rung and all were to listen while the dean of the college women read an article on "Ways and Means of Securing Culture." Then the orchestra was to play several of Bach's fugues, after which light refreshments were to be served. This was the program of the evening. Among these cultured ladies, there were a few vulgar souls who much preferred to talk to "Tootsy Wootsy" in a cozy corner than to discuss Ibsen and Browning, and they greatly preferred a good old "Rufus Rastus" rag time to a classic fugue. The majority of the ladies, however, were for carrying out the literary program. Next day the invitations went out to the Faculty and the few college men who could carry on a literary discussion with intelligence.

The night for the reception came. All the girls were fixed up in their "other clothes" and looked swell. The entire Faculty had arrived and were standing around in little groups discussing "Sordello" before any of the college men appeared. Finally at nine o'clock they came sneaking in, wearing high collars and sickly grins. They were evidently a bit suspicious of the cultured ladies. The leader of the ladies however, roped them off in groups and the first event of the evening was begun.

During the evening those vulgar girls who didn't care a hang whether Milton was bow-legged or blind, were roaming around the reception rooms not discussing literature but actually "making eyes" at the men. At length to the intense relief of the cultured ladies, they left the room, but almost immediately the men began to excuse themselves from the literary circles and follow the vulgar dames into the back parlor.

Once in the back parlor the college men took off their high collars and sickly grins and started in to raise "rough house." They climbed on top of the piano and sang "Dear Old College Days," while the vulgar dames took turns in playing the latest rag time hits. Soon the little back parlor was full of men who surrounded the girls and told them with flattering words that they were the "real thing," and that they had the Good Samaritan "skinned to death."

New Silk Shirtwaist Suits

Some of the daintiest most charming silk shirtwaist suits that you ever saw, of excellent quality of silk and very prettily made. They are exclusive in style, perfect in fit and workmanship, with that smart, up-to-date touch that distinguishes our styles from the ordinary ready-to-wear suits shown around town.

Brief hints as to colorings, price and trimmings are given below, in each group:

LOT 1 priced at $12.00 and the colorings are in jasper, wine, navy, black and green. Waists trimmed in tucked yoke effect and double box pleat front. Skirt in nine gores, with shirred flounce with wide fold at top of flounce.

LOT 2 are priced at $15.00 and colorings in blue and white check. Waist trimmed in plain blue silk corded vest, edged with bias band and button trimmed, shirred yoke and short sleeves having wide ruffle trimmed in plain blue silk bands.

Skirt with shirred yoke and double-box pleat panel dress [illegible]

By this time, it was time for the Dean's speech to begin, but when he stepped into the back parlor and saw the men in their shirt sleeves and heard them singing a sentimental song about "Making Eyes," he fell over in a faint and had to be carried home.

Valentine Conceits.

A melting quiver along the river;
Athwart the snow a glow;
The far, faint swell of the last
sleigh bell;
And a breeze thru the trees—
blow, blow!
Thru pine and fir a greening stir;
Where frost was clinging, a-springing;
A squirrel's dart, a bird's quick start;
And in my heart a singing!

'Twas Nature, sweet lisper, told me
all in a whisper,
Each line, and made them mine,
So I'm sending them true as the skies
so blue
To you, my Valentine!

A dreaming, wandering Muse one day dropped, haplessly, her lyre,
Fair Cupid sly bore it away
His victims to inspire.

For now this day his artful aim
Is tipped with lyric measure,
That with the pain his charming game
May hold a note of pleasure.

Too deep for search has pierced his dart,
With some fond, fameless line,
And so I send it in my heart
To you, my Valentine!

Break a Record; Win a Medal.

Coach Hoskins takes unusual delight in training track athletes, and it is his coaching that has brought victory to more than one Bucknell track team. This year he sees that there is a dearth of track material, and to arouse interest he has offered medals to any student who break a college record in any of the following events: 100, 220, and 440 yard dashes; ½, 1, and 2 mile runs; 120, 220 yard hurdles; running high, and running broad jumps; sixteen pound shot and hammer throw; and pole-vault.

Communication.

The "Orange and Blue" invites communications but does not necessarily agree with the opinions expressed therein. All communications must be signed, though the name will not be published if so desired.

Editor Orange and Blue:—

During the basketball season just closed patrons of the game have had an opportunity to note the results pro and con having a disinterested official. The writer in common with a majority of the student-body is heartily in favor of at all times securing a disinterested official. And in bringing up this matter no reflections are meant to be cast upon the work of anyone connected with the Varsity basketball team or upon those of any visiting team during the season just closed.

The one great advantage in hiring a disinterested referee is that it gives better satisfaction to all concerned. This is an effect greatly to be desired for altho a keen rivalry between the two teams always gives a superior flavor to the contest yet each team wishes to win and it to be known that they won, by superior work. After a close and exciting game some chance remark on possibly a meaning insinuation "that the home team had their own referee" at times detracts somewhat from their well-earned victory.

Then again, it places the official in a difficult position for at some critical point in the game when a minor offense has been committed by one of the opponents, he does not feel justified in awarding the foul when a non-interested official would feel no hesitancy whatever, in meeting out the penalty On the other hand perhaps to clear himself in the eyes of the spectators he unconsciously "rubs it in" on his own protegees and again they suffer. Of the interested official who "soaks" the other fellows I am not dealing, altho at a critical stage of the game when even a foul called may decide the result, it is tempting to any mortal. At any rate the like of a referee is some what burdensome, especially where there is much rivalry and a close contest, without being added to this, the charge that he was a party concerned.

During the season just closed I believe $26 or thereabouts was paid to secure outside referees. This is about one-third or less of the receipts taken in of some of the games and seems an insignificant sum where so many advantages accrue to all concerned. In football or baseball it is rare that any person officiates who is connected with either team. Why should basketball be an exception? Let us have officials who have no interest whatever in either team. "'08."

COLLEGE MEN TO ENTERTAIN

Committees Make Elaborate Preparations for First Reception.

If present arrangements are carried out in regard to the College Men's reception, the event will be one of the best of the year. Two hundred and fifty invitations have been sent out and that means that there will be about five hundred guests to enjoy the evening set apart for the occasion, Friday, Apr. 6th.

The reception is being groomed to become an annual affair, and in view of these facts great pains will be taken to make the first one a decided success. No effort will be spared in the work of transforming the rooms in West College into a series of cozy retreats, and in the preparation of fitting refreshments. What many are wishing now is that Friday evening may be one of those ideal spring evenings.

Wilcox-Scott Wedding.

Prof. Walter S. Wilcox, of Bucknell Academy, and Miss Frances Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Scott, of South Fourth street, Lewisburg, were married at the home of the bride's parents on Thursday evening last at six o'clock. Following the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Judd of the Baptist church, the couple left at eight o'clock for a ten days wedding trip. The wedding was a very quiet one; there being no one present except the very near relatives of the parties concerned. Those present were; Mrs. Levitt, grandmother of the groom; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Wilcox; his sister, Mrs. Andrews; all of Canton, Pa.; the parents of the bride; and her sister, Mrs. Chella Beale, of Scranton.

Mrs. Wilcox graduated from Bucknell, in 1902, and her husband in 1904, since which time he has been teaching in the Academy. The latter position he has resigned, having accepted a position with the Morris Co., of Philadelphia, dealers in bonds. After a short course of training in Philadelphia, Mr. Wilcox will take charge of this company's branch in Detroit, Mich.

John J. Brandt Weds.

Miss Kathryn Elizabeth Hongland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pleasants Hongland, of 5 Trinity Place, Williamsport, and John J. Brandt, of Harrisburg, were married Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, by the Rev. D. E. Burtner. Miss Mary Higgins was maid of honor, and Albert E. Sager, of Wilmington, Del., was best man. The bride wore white chiffon over white silk and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. Her attendant wore white airline over taffeta, trimmed with pink and carried pink roses. The house was very prettily decorated, the color scheme being pink and white. The Lettan orchestra of Williamsport, furnished music, and after the ceremony a wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Brandt left for the east on the midnight train. They will reside in Harrisburg after April 1st.

Four Years.

Four years!—or is it four hundred since I came to college that far-away hot September day? How timid I was, how unused to meeting strangers, how unfitted to depend upon myself at all. With fast beating heart I entered those interminable halls with their countless doors all perplexingly alike, halls that represented for me a great unknown. I was eager, but I was also afraid—just what of I couldn't tell. How this fear melted away in a day! How friendly the girls were, how kind everyone in explaining the little intricacies of school life that were to become so familiar and so dear.

That first class "rush" placed me. How I shuddered at the first crashing together half-way up the hill! How sick at heart I felt when the first man was carried off the campus unconscious; how I longed to turn and run at sight of the first bloody scratch! But how my courage came and my heart swelled at the first victorious "rickety - rackety, click - ety - clackety" that showed that the freshmen were getting up the hill! Was ever such valiant struggle? Did knights ever conquer more gloriously? "Hurray!" why that was my voice joining with the mad cheering of sympathizing by-standers. Yes, I was part of the school now, no longer a mere spectator, but bound irretrievably by that first "hurray." More than that, I felt a sudden animosity for the patronizing sophomores and experienced a deal of pride when I found that same animosity was considered a particularly fine and desirable brand of "class spirit."

The first days went on quickly and I soon learned that the seniors were made of superior clay, awful and to be respected; that the sophomores were "snippy" and hateful; that the juniors were friendly, those good sympathetic juniors, neither too superior nor too familiar but just right. Yes, and other things I learned, not advertised in the curriculum either. I soon acquired the approved college vocabulary; I learned that "procs" and attendant black eyes are experienced by all good freshmen; that freshmen—but never mind what I learned. The whole first year was one of constant surprises and new interests.

And the next fall, what a difference. I was coming back to the finest place in the world, to the nicest girls, to my very own college, and I was now an "old girl" who could assume little airs of experience and help "break in" the freshmen, poor ignorant things. Yes, I was a lordly sophomore at last. Ah, that good sophomore year, when I was IT (in my own opinion), when the juniors began to look different to me, and the seniors began to lose some of their wonderfulness in my eyes. This year went too, faster than the first,

New Silk Shirtwaist Suits

Some of the daintiest most charming silk shirtwaist suits that you ever saw, of excellent quality of silk and very prettily made. They are exclusive in style, perfect in fit and workmanship, with that smart, up-to-date touch that distinguishes our styles from the ordinary ready-to-wear suits shown around town.

Brief hints as to colorings, price and trimmings are given below. in each group:

LOT 1 priced at $12.00 and the colorings are in jasper, wine, navy, black and green. Waists trimmed in tucked yoke effect and double box pleat front. Skirt in nine gores, with shirred flounce with wide fold at top of flounce.

LOT 2 are priced at $15.00 and colorings in blue and white check. Waist trimmed in plain blue silk corded vest, edged with bias band and button trimmed, shirred yoke and short sleeves having wide ruffle trimmed in plain blue silk bands.

Skirt with shirred yoke and double-box pleat ...

leaving me more attached than ever to the place and more eager to return in the fall.

The Junior Year! Yes, the happiest of them all, for there was only the enjoyment of the present with eagerness to reach the end and without any realization of the breaking off of old ties that graduation meant to the seniors so near it.

The senior year, with its fulfilment of promises, its strengthened friendships, its established habits. I cannot write of what the senior year means to me! I hear in my thoughts the words that made the tears start even when as a freshman I heard them for the first time, slowly sung in a minor key, "Where, oh where, are the dear old seniors," and I realize that in a few short weeks I too will be out "in the wide, wide world"—safely too I hope. But whatever happens in that strange wide world I can always look back with pleasure to these four years feeling that I wouldn't have missed them for anything and that I would take nothing for them.

Fortunes.

"He loves me—loves me not," I said,
And carefully my fortune told,
Pulling the petals one by one
From round the daisy's heart of gold.

I did not hear him come. How still
The meadow was! How blue the sky!
And driven by the vagrant wind
The little clouds went floating by.

I thought I stood alone until
I felt his touch. The daisy fell
Unheeded on the meadow grass—
I had no fortune now to tell.

And then I found he loved me. No,
The daisy did not tell me so!

Break a Record; Win a Medal.

Coach Hoskins takes unusual delight in training track athletes, and it is his coaching that has brought victory to more than one Bucknell track team. This year he sees that there is a dearth of track material, and to arouse interest he has offered medals to any student who break a college record in any of the following events: 100, 220, and 440 yard dashes; ½, 1, and 2 mile runs; 120, 220 yard hurdles; running high, and running broad jumps; sixteen pound shot and hammer throw; and pole-vault.

Communication.

The "Orange and Blue" invites communications but does not necessarily agree with the opinions expressed therein. All communications must be signed, though the name will not be published if so desired.

Editor Orange and Blue:—

During the basketball season just closed patrons of the game have had an opportunity to note the results pro and con having a disinterested official. The writer in common with a majority of the student-body is heartily in favor of at all times securing a disinterested official. And in bringing up this matter no reflections are meant to be cast upon the work of anyone connected with the Varsity basketball team or upon those of any visiting team during the season just closed.

The one great advantage in hiring a disinterested referee is that it gives better satisfaction to all concerned. This is an effect greatly to be desired for altho a keen rivalry between the two teams always gives a superior flavor to the contest yet each team wishes to win and it to be known that they won, by superior work. After a close and exciting game some chance remark on possibly a meaning insinuation "that the home team had their own referee" at times detracts somewhat from their well-earned victory.

Then again, it places the official in a difficult position for at some critical point in the game when a minor offense has been committed by one of the opponents, he does not feel justified in awarding the foul when a non-interested official would feel no hesitancy whatever, in meeting out the penalty On the other hand perhaps to clear himself in the eyes of the spectators he unconsciously "rubs it in" on his own protegees and again they suffer. Of the interested official who "soaks" the other fellows I am not dealing, altho at a critical stage of the game when even a foul called may decide the result, it is tempting to any mortal. At any rate the like of a referee is some what burdensome, especially where there is much rivalry and a close contest, without being added to this, the charge that he was a party concerned.

During the season just closed I believe $26 or thereabouts was paid to secure outside referees. This is about one-third or less of the receipts taken in of some of the games and seems an insignificant sum where so many advantages accrue to all concerned. In football or baseball it is rare that any person officiates who is connected with either team. Why should basketball be an exception? Let us have officials who have no interest whatever in either team. "'08."

COLLEGE MEN TO ENTERTAIN

Committees Make Elaborate Preparations for First Reception.

If present arrangements are carried out in regard to the College Men's reception, the event will be one of the best of the year. Two hundred and fifty invitations have been sent out and that means that there will be about five hundred guests to enjoy the evening set apart for the occasion, Friday, Apr. 6th.

The reception is being groomed to become an annual affair, and in view of these facts great pains will be taken to make the first one a decided success. No effort will be spared in the work of transforming the rooms in West College into a series of cozy retreats, and in the preparation of fitting refreshments. What many are wishing now is that Friday evening may be one of those ideal spring evenings.

Wilcox-Scott Wedding.

Prof. Walter S. Wilcox, of Bucknell Academy, and Miss Frances Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Scott, of South Fourth street, Lewisburg, were married at the home of the bride's parents on Thursday evening last at six o'clock. Following the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Judd of the Baptist church, the couple left at eight o'clock for a ten days wedding trip. The wedding was a very quiet one; there being no one present except the very near relatives of the parties concerned. Those present were: Mrs. Levitt, grandmother of the groom; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Wilcox; his sister, Mrs. Andrews; all of Canton, Pa.; the parents of the bride; and her sister, Mrs. Chella Beale, of Scranton.

Mrs. Wilcox graduated from Bucknell, in 1902, and her husband in 1904, since which time he has been teaching in the Academy. The latter position he has resigned, having accepted a position with the Morris Co., of Philadelphia, dealers in bonds. After a short course of training in Philadelphia, Mr. Wilcox will take charge of this company's branch in Detroit, Mich.

John J. Brandt Weds.

Miss Kathryn Elizabeth Hoagland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pleasants Hoagland, of 5 Trinity Place, Williamsport, and John J. Brandt, of Harrisburg, were married Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, by the Rev. D. E. Burtner. Miss Mary Higgins was maid of honor, and Albert E. Sager, of Wilmington, Del., was best man. The bride wore white chiffon over white silk and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. Her attendant wore white airline over taffeta, trimmed with pink and carried pink roses. The house was very prettily decorated, the color scheme being pink and white. The Lettan orchestra of Williamsport, furnished music, and after the ceremony a wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Brandt left for the east on the midnight train. They will reside in Harrisburg after April 1st.

Milton seems ot have been a popular retreat for "co-eds" during the Easter vacation.

Jane.

In my little room in Main Building,
On one of the old window panes,
Are written, I think with a diamond,
Several old-fashioned names.
But one among them I fancy
Better than all the rest;
It is quaint and very old-fashioned—
(But old-fashioned names are best.)

Of all the names that the diamond
Engraved on my window-pane,
The one that I like best—I'll confess it,
Is simply old-fashioned "Jane."
A long, long time it has been there;
For Jane also engraved the date
And after her name, the diamond
Wrote "eighteen sixty-eight."

I often sit here and wonder;
"What sort of girl was my Jane?"
But I always picture her dainty
And quaint, like her dainty, quaint name.
Little friend Jane, did you like to peep
From your curtain of purest white
To watch the men building bon-fires
In the deepest gloom of the night?

Did you know the road down the river,
And the one past the willows, too?
Did you like to go 'round the "Four-mile."
In spring when the skies were blue?

Dear Jane, with your quaint little hoop-skirts,
And funny, tight little curls—
Did you ever go walking in June-time
With—well, not with one of the girls?

(Years have passed by since then, Jane,
But let me whisper true—
Times didn't change so very much,
We're all just about like you.)

Good-by, little girl, I must leave you,
For the night is growing late
But all through my sleep I'll be dreaming
Of my Jane, of 'sixty-eight.

The college girls' number of the "Supplement" makes its little bow to the faculty and students. It withholds whatever apologies it might feel like making; it draws no comparisons with similar numbers of the past; it offers no promises or prophesies for the future. It simply says How-do-you-do, with a tiny hope in its heart that it may be kindly received.

We are in receipt of a communication signed "Grouchy," which refers to the condition of the campus up the hill. "Grouchy" thinks that the college men and women should be more careful about disfiguring the campus with old papers and rubbish. If the baskets provided for such material were used, there would be less unfavorable comment made not only by "Grouchy," but by those students who possess some "local" pride,—to say nothing of visitors.

There are perhaps many who will express their astonishment and regret at the fact that the Woman's Number lacks one department usually considered very essential to woman's welfare, namely—the Fashion Department. It was intended to devote several pages to this matter, and such prominent artists as Kathryn Vaughn Holden and Augusta Reimer of Mr. Bok's magazine consented to give us drawings of gowns seen at the College Girls' Reception and Miss Roosevelt's wedding. Late this afternoon, however, we received a telegram from these ladies, expressing their inability to get their material here before we went to press. Hence, our apology.

The way of the editors of the "Literary Supplement of the Orange and Blue" is a hard one and a weary. If you don't believe it consider the following "can'ts" and cease to doubt. They can't print grinds because grinds hurt people's feelings and then the people turn around and hurt the editors. They can't print jokes on the faculty, because they don't know any. They can't print personals for L'Agenda monopolizes that department of literature. They can't print learned things for nobody will read them. They can't print a lot of things for they can't get anybody to write them. And worse yet, they can't print their own productions for they can't produce any! Yea, a hard and a weary.

After several weeks' negotiations with the firm that sell po'try by the pound and stories by the square foot we decided that their prices were too high and that we'd have to depend on local talent. We might have printed a number of pure gems that

Then again, it places the official in a difficult position for at some critical point in the game when a minor offense has been committed by one of the opponents, he does not feel justified in awarding the foul when a non-interested official would feel no hesitancy whatever, in meeting out the penalty On the other hand perhaps to clear himself in the eyes of the spectators he unconsciously "rubs it in" on his own protegees and again they suffer. Of the interested official who "soaks" the other fellows I am not dealing, altho at a critical stage of the game when even a foul called may decide the result, it is tempting to any mortal. At any rate the like of a referee is some what burdensome, especially where there is much rivalry and a close contest, without being added to this, the charge that he was a party concerned.

During the season just closed I believe $26 or thereabouts was paid to secure outside referees. This is about one-third or less of the receipts taken in of some of the games and seems an insignificant sum where so many advantages accrue to all concerned. In football or baseball it is rare that any person officiates who is connected with either team. Why should basketball be an exception? Let us have officials who have no interest whatever in either team. '08.

COLLEGE MEN TO ENTERTAIN

Committees Make Elaborate Preparations for First Reception.

If present arrangements are carried out in regard to the College Men's reception, the event will be one of the best of the year. Two hundred and fifty invitations have been sent out and that means that there will be about five hundred guests to enjoy the evening set apart for the occasion, Friday, Apr. 6th.

The reception is being groomed to become an annual affair, and in view of these facts great pains will be taken to make the first one a decided success. No effort will be spared in the work of transforming the rooms in West College into a series of cozy retreats, and in the preparation of fitting refreshments. What many are wishing now is that Friday evening may be one of those ideal spring evenings.

Wilcox-Scott Wedding.

Prof. Walter S. Wilcox, of Bucknell Academy, and Miss Frances Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Scott, of South Fourth street, Lewisburg, were married at the home of the bride's parents on Thursday evening last at six o'clock. Following the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Judd of the Baptist church, the couple left at eight o'clock for a ten days wedding trip. The wedding was a very quiet one; there being no one present except the very near relatives of the parties concerned. Those present were: Mrs. Levitt, grandmother of the groom; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Wilcox; his sister, Mrs. Andrews; all of Canton, Pa.; the parents of the bride; and her sister, Mrs. Chella Beale, of Scranton.

Mrs. Wilcox graduated from Bucknell, in 1902, and her husband in 1904, since which time he has been teaching in the Academy. The latter position he has resigned, having accepted a position with the Morris Co., of Philadelphia, dealers in bonds. After a short course of training in Philadelphia, Mr. Wilcox will take charge of this company's branch in Detroit, Mich.

John J. Brandt Weds.

Miss Kathryn Elizabeth Hoagland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pleasants Hoagland, of 5 Trinity Place, Williamsport, and John J. Brandt, of Harrisburg, were married Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, by the Rev. D. E. Bartner. Miss Mary Higgins was maid of honor, and Albert E. Sager, of Wilmington, Del., was best man. The bride wore white chiffon over white silk and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. Her attendant wore white airline over taffeta, trimmed with pink and carried pink roses. The house was very prettily decorated, the color scheme being pink and white. The Lettan orchestra of Williamsport, furnished music, and after the ceremony a wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Brandt left for the east on the midnight train. They will reside in Harrisburg after April 1st.

prejudiced editors have hitherto been too blind to recognize and that have been going the rounds from magazine to magazine for several years always turning up with the brief—and, we may say, astonishing—information—"not wanted." Then too, there were the themes that Bromley flunked the freshmen on; these we withheld to spare the feelings of the freshmen and the envy of the seniors. Well, to be brief, at last we hit upon a feasible (good word) plan; we decided to fall back upon the class in advanced composition. And so, behold our fair pages, filled, not padded, with pure literature, models in unity, coherence, and emphasis. We flatter ourselves, as editors, that our plan was most original as well as—but there, modesty bids us leave our horn to you.

The following extracts are from a letter which one of the Sem. girls received not long ago, from a young friend who has literary ambitions. We predict great success for this young author.

"You knew grandmother didn't do well this fall she kept getting more helpless till about three weeks ago she was worse till she died last Thursday night a week ago she died. She had not taken anything for a day and a half she never moved or anything, she just pasted away like the tide going out. All the last week she spoke very little or not at all and her eyes had a faraway look we couldn't tell how much she could see or hear. We buried her Monday, she looked very much like herself for when she was sick her mouth was open so that her cheeks looked hollow. It was best and no one could but look to him in thanks."

"Prices are all well, Mrs. Price is a great deal better than she was a year ago. The dogs, horses, pigs and chickens are all well but they have stopped making butter and take their milk to Pocopson."

"I have just finished "Sandy" by Alice Hegan Rice author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" it is fine although a love story. It would pay you to read it. Also Poe's "Barriers Burned Away" and "Opening of a Chestnut Burr." "

"Papa misses the music and would like you to come to see us again and mamma wants to know if you still sing "Dearie" and the teacher had Institute last week and where is Miss Perkins teaching. Do you intend to go home for Easter."

"How is your brother (in the long pants) getting along and is your cousin married yet and how does school go with you after becoming acquainted do you work hard and what fun do you have. (balls or what)"

"Hunts are all well but John who works at Philadelphia. Jones are all well but the Mrs. has a run down system I guess you call it."

There are trials in life which are hard to bear,
And our daily path is filled up with care.
But there's one thing on earth which makes you swear—
That's itching scratchy under-wear.

BASKETBALL REVIEW

Bucknell's Successful Season. Won Ten Out of Twelve Games.

By defeating Lehigh in the final game of the schedule, Bucknell fittingly climaxed a successful basketball season. The Orange and Blue five played twelve games, winning ten; two of these were contested on the opponents' floors. Mansfield Normal, Susquehanna, Lebanon Valley, and Delaware were easy victories, and the team faced Swarthmore with no experience in closely contested games. The result was the first defeat of the season at the hands of the "Quakers." This is not surprising when one considers that Swarthmore had been playing such teams as Pennsylvania and Columbia; they had the practice of good hard contests before they faced Bucknell.

The schedule was well arranged, however, since the majority of the hard games came at the end of the season when the team was hardened by practice, and when team-work was the feature of their playing.

When the season opened many entertained grave doubts as to the sort of five that would represent Bucknell on the basket-ball floor; now, when every game of the schedule has been played, there are many more who are congratulating Coach Hoskins on his efficiency as a basket-ball coach, and the team on the successful way in which they held up the basket-ball reputation of the college.

Efficient team-work, secured through the fact that there was very little individual playing, was one of the chief reasons for the ten victories. For several years Bucknell has suffered because of the sacrifice of team play for individual playing, and this season has seen a turn in the tide.

From a financial point of view the season has been an excellent one. No report can be made at the present time for the reason that it must first be submitted to and accepted by the Athletic Association. The manager reports that the basket-ball receipts have been large enough to square accounts without drawing on the season-ticket fund. This will put baseball and track—both of which lose on their schedule—on a firm financial basis. The reserved seats netted the Association quite a sum, but it is doubtful whether the idea was as satisfactory in other respects.

The record for the season of 1906 follows:

Jan. 12—Bucknell 25; Mansfield Normal 11.

Jan. 19—Bucknell 27; Susquehanna 8.

Jan. 26—Villa Nova game cancelled.

Feb. 2—Bucknell 47; Lebanon Valley 11.

Feb. 8—Bucknell 44; Delaware College 10.

Feb. 10—Bucknell 16; Swarthmore 22.

Feb. 17—Bucknell 33; Williamsport 18.

Feb. 22—Bucknell 18; Gettysburg 10.

Feb. 24—Bucknell 38; Dickinson 13.

March 3—Bucknell 17; Gettysburg 23.

March 9—Bucknell 28; Williamsport 26.

March 13—Bucknell 18; Alumni 15.

March 17—Bucknell 30; Lehigh 8.

Cornell-Bucknell Debate.

Arrangements have been made for the second annual Cornell-Bucknell debate which will be held in Bucknell Hall April 27th. The question to be debated is,

"Resolved:—That a constitutional amendment should be adopted providing that United States Senators be elected by direct vote of the people."

DeMelt, '06, Potter, '07, and Griffith, '07, have been chosen to represent Bucknell. A fourth man may be chosen later as substitute. A second team will be organized to give the Varsity team practice and to furnish and train men for future teams.

Last year Cornell sent down a team of veteran debaters, men who had won against Columbia and Pennsylvania; but our team showed up well against them, so well, indeed, that the result was in doubt, the judges returning a vote of two for Cornell to one for Bucknell.

This year's team for Bucknell is composed of good material and the men are confident of giving the New York men all they can handle. DeMelt won the Junior debate last year; Potter has had debating experience and training at Brown and here; and Griffith made a good showing in the recent Junior debate and an even better in the preliminary debates.

Apropos of the matter of Varsity debate, something should be done at once about awarding Varsity debaters their "B's." Other colleges do so and it behooves Bucknell to fall in line. It seems as if much is done for the university by men who give weeks of hard work to preparing a debate as those whose mere brawn in two or three scrimmages entitles them to wear the insignia of their university.

Sophomores 13; Freshmen 12.

The Sophomores defeated the Freshmen on the evening of March 19, by the close score of 13-12. The game belonged to either side until Lose threw the winning goal in the last thirty seconds of play. The score of the Sophomore-Freshman game of last year was 14-13 in favor of the Freshmen.

The game was the best of the inter-class series, and one of the best seen in Tustin gymnasium this season. The first half of the game was by all means the Freshmen's period, since they passed and shot better than their opponents. The score at the end of this half was 7-5 in favor of the first year men.

In the second 20 minutes of play the "Sophs" seemed to play more consistently, and even then barely won. The 1908 team expected to win by an easy score, and the Freshmen seemed to be surprised at giving them such a hard game. The line-up:

Sophomores.		Freshmen.
Gibney	forward	Olendorf
Lose	forward	Rolfe
Lenhart	center	O'Brien
Hawk	guard	Ogden
Nipple	guard	Shirley

Substitution, Hallman for Ogden. Goals from field, O'Brien 3, Nipple 2, Lose, Lenhart, Hawk, Rolfe, Olendorf. Goals from fouls, Lenhart 3, O'Brien 2. Referee, Teufel. Time of halves, 20 minutes.

There is a large number of subscription yet unpaid. All subscriptions are due by this time. Please pay as soon as possible.

TRACK SCHEDULE FOR 1906

Manager Phillips Arranges Important Meets.

Manager Phillips, of the Track and Field team, announces the following track schedule for the season of 1906:

Inter-Class Meet, April 28.

Dickinson College, at Carlisle, May 5.

Lafayette College, at Lewisburg, May 12.

Bucknell may meet Lehigh at South Bethlehem at a later date; the management has been trying to schedule this meet for some time, but a satisfactory arrangement has not yet been made. Bucknell will not be represented by a relay team at the annual relay races to be held on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, April 28. This is the decision reached by the management and advisory committee at a meeting held on Friday afternoon.

The schedule as stated above shows two meets with colleges well up in the athletic world. Last season but one meet was held and that with Dickinson on the home track. Lafayette finds a welcome place on the Orange and Blue track schedule, and it is hoped that the negotiations with Lehigh may result favorably.

Baseball Practice Delayed.

The following is taken from the Philadelphia Press of March 30th: Bucknell baseball team has been unable to practice because of the unfavorable weather and six inches of snow that has covered the ground for the past two weeks. Captain Grimminger has not yet made a call for candidates, but the old men have been working out in the gymnasium. Five of last year's team are among the number that have reported thus far and they are all showing good form. It is reported that the incoming class contains some fast material, but they have not been given a try-out. The first game of the season is with Susquehanna University on the home grounds, and unless the grounds dry rapidly the team will be in very poor condition by April 14."

Bucknell Alumnae Vote to Purify Posters

The Entertainment Committee of the Bucknell Alumnae Club gave a luncheon at 2005 Arch street, Philadelphia, on Tuesday last. Covers were laid for thirty-three persons. Mrs. A. J. Rowland presided at the business meeting, at which it was unanimously resolved to support the efforts of the Christian League "to purify the billboards, posters and advertisements of theatres and other amusement resorts." Miss Ellen Harris, of Mt. Holly, gave a talk on "Vassar"; Miss R. Hammett read a paper on "The College Girl at Home," and Miss Seymour one on "Kindergartens." Miss Loder, of Minnesota, a guest, gave two recitations. The club maintains a scholarship at Bucknell for a graduate of the High School for Girls in Philadelphia.

Y. M. C. A. Lecture Postponed.

The final number of the Y. M. C. A. lecture course, which was to have been given last term, will be delivered some time this month. The lecture was postponed on account of the illness of Dr. Samuel R. Cadman, the speaker.

Break a Record; Win a Medal.

Coach Hoskins takes unusual delight in training track athletes, and it is his coaching that has brought victory to more than one Bucknell track team. This year he sees that there is a dearth of track material, and to arouse interest he has offered medals to any student who break a college record in any of the following events: 100, 220, and 440 yard dashes; ½, 1, and 2 mile runs; 120, 220 yard hurdles; running high, and running broad jumps; sixteen pound shot and hammer throw; and pole-vault.

Communication.

The "Orange and Blue" invites communications but does not necessarily agree with the opinions expressed therein. All communications must be signed, though the name will not be published if so desired.

Editor Orange and Blue:—

During the basketball season just closed patrons of the game have had an opportunity to note the results pro and con having a disinterested official. The writer in common with a majority of the student-body is heartily in favor of at all times securing a disinterested official. And in bringing up this matter no reflections are meant to be cast upon the work of anyone connected with the Varsity basketball team or upon those of any visiting team during the season just closed.

The one great advantage in hiring a disinterested referee is that it gives better satisfaction to all concerned. This is an effect greatly to be desired for altho a keen rivalry between the two teams always gives a superior flavor to the contest yet each team wishes to win and it to be known that they won, by superior work. After a close and exciting game some chance remark on possibly a meaning insinuation "that the home team had their own referee" at times detracts somewhat from their well-earned victory.

Then again, it places the official in a difficult position for at some critical point in the game when a minor offense has been committed by one of the opponents, he does not feel justified in awarding the foul when a non-interested official would feel no hesitancy whatever, in meeting out the penalty On the other hand perhaps to clear himself in the eyes of the spectators he unconsciously "rubs it in" on his own protegees and again they suffer. Of the interested official who "soaks" the other fellows I am not dealing, altho at a critical stage of the game when even a foul called may decide the result, it is tempting to any mortal. At any rate the like of a referee is some what burdensome, especially where there is much rivalry and a close contest, without being added to this, the charge that he was a party concerned.

During the season just closed I believe $26 or thereabouts was paid to secure outside referees. This is about one-third or less of the receipts taken in of some of the games and seems an insignificant sum where so many advantages accrue to all concerned. In football or baseball it is rare that any person officiates who is connected with either team. Why should basketball be an exception? Let us have officials who have no interest whatever in either team. "'08."

COLLEGE MEN TO ENTERTAIN

Committees Make Elaborate Preparations for First Reception.

If present arrangements are carried out in regard to the College Men's reception, the event will be one of the best of the year. Two hundred and fifty invitations have been sent out and that means that there will be about five hundred guests to enjoy the evening set apart for the occasion, Friday, Apr. 6th.

The reception is being groomed to become an annual affair, and in view of these facts great pains will be taken to make the first one a decided success. No effort will be spared in the work of transforming the rooms in West College into a series of cozy retreats, and in the preparation of fitting refreshments. What many are wishing now is that Friday evening may be one of those ideal spring evenings.

Wilcox-Scott Wedding.

Prof. Walter S. Wilcox, of Bucknell Academy, and Miss Frances Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Scott, of South Fourth street, Lewisburg, were married at the home of the bride's parents on Thursday evening last at six o'clock. Following the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Judd of the Baptist church, the couple left at eight o'clock for a ten days wedding trip. The wedding was a very quiet one; there being no one present except the very near relatives of the parties concerned. Those present were; Mrs. Lovitt, grandmother of the groom; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Wilcox; his sister, Mrs. Andrews; all of Canton, Pa.; the parents of the bride; and her sister, Mrs. Chella Beale, of Scranton.

Mrs. Wilcox graduated from Bucknell, in 1902, and her husband in 1904, since which time he has been teaching in the Academy. The latter position he has resigned, having accepted a position with the Morris Co., of Philadelphia, dealers in bonds. After a short course of training in Philadelphia, Mr. Wilcox will take charge of this company's branch in Detroit, Mich.

John J. Brandt Weds.

Miss Kathryn Elizabeth Hoagland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pleasants Hoagland, of 5 Trinity Place, Williamsport, and John J. Brandt, of Harrisburg, were married Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, by the Rev. D. E. Burtner. Miss Mary Higgins was maid of honor, and Albert E. Sager, of Wilmington, Del., was best man. The bride wore white chiffon over white silk and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. Her attendant wore white airline over taffeta, trimmed with pink and carried pink roses. The house was very prettily decorated, the color scheme being pink and white. The Lettan orchestra of Williamsport, furnished music, and after the ceremony a wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Brandt left for the east on the midnight train. They will reside in Harrisburg after April 1st.

Milton seems of have been a popular retreat for "co-eds" during the Easter vacation.

Editorial

Well, here you are, Seniors, launched into the third and last term of your course at Bucknell. Soon you will cast your anchor in some little harbor in this world of ours, and you will be getting a taste of real life. It seems that the majority of Bucknell graduates face this issue in a sort of philosophical and happy way, and most of them "pan out" well enough.

The home stretch of your college career was almost four years in coming, but the rate at which the finish will be made cannot be realized. With beautiful Spring affording you untold pleasures, with the birds singing you out in the mornings, with the sun smiling down on you as it has not smiled for months, these ten weeks will seem like as many days.

So, in this term you are to take a last fond look at your alma mater, and let that be one of deep appreciation. Associations have been formed among your class-mates that will remain life-long in your memory, and that will grow dearer with time; friendships of a few short years have been moulded into eternal friendships. You have ten weeks in which to round up your little stay at Bucknell, and it will seem like but time enough for a single look.

If there was anyone around Bucknell that had more to do with the making of the weather than anyone else, that person would surely be the most unpopular man on the hill; but that task is not delegated to mortals, so there is no kick coming.

The weather of the past few weeks has kept both the baseball and track teams from practicing, and is in large measure responsible for the fact that Bucknell will not be represented at the Annual Pennsylvania Relay Races. Should present conditions continue very much longer it will be very doubtful whether the first games of the baseball schedule can be played. The team will receive no early practice, and will be greatly handicapped for the first few contests.

There is a dearth of baseball material in college and the prospects for a successful season depends greatly upon the "finds" from the Freshman ranks. As yet no call for candidates could be made, and no value placed upon new men. It is reported that the first-year men have among their number several players that should make good. In this connection it must be noted that there are plenty of vacancies. The weather must change pretty soon, of Bucknell's prospects in baseball and track will be very dim.

A practice that was indulged in twice last term, and that was passed over the first time because it was hoped it might never occur again, is that of "hissing" at the basket-ball contests. Fortunately, for Bucknell's untarnished reputation in respect to their treatment of visiting teams, when the "snake-mockers" were working, both teams were composed entirely of Bucknell players. This, too, shows the near-sightedness of those who used "hissing" as a means of making themselves conspicuous,— and to the best men in Bucknell their rooting was not only noticeable, but odious and distasteful. And Referee Teufel was officiating when the incident occurred; does not every one know that he is too well acquainted with college athletics to make unfair decisions? Yes, we all know that. But it seems that some do not know that only snakes and geese "hiss."

McCormirk Signs With York.

Harry McCormick, ex-'04, the fast outfielder who was with York part of last season, has written to Manager Heckert and says that he is willing to return to York for the coming season. McCormick has been employed at the Pennsylvania Iron and Steel company works at Steelton all winter and has been keeping in condition by playing basketball. It is stated that Manager Heckert cannot give McCormick a regular place on the team as it is already completed, but will keep him on the reserve list and will use him in case of an emergency. McCormick's record while playing with the New York and Pittsburg Nationals makes him a valuable man for the minor leagues.

No Relay Team This Year.

The Track management and the Advisory Board of this department of athletics met Friday afternoon and decided not to send a relay team to the annual Pennsylvania Relay Races this year. Only one of the old men is back to college this year, and three new quarter-milers would have to be developed from the material in the Freshman class. The inclement weather and the late snow-falls have made it impossible to use the track, and it is doubtful whether Coach Hoskins would be able to begin to train the candidates before April 10. The action taken does not prevent Bucknell from being represented next year.

Bucknell Alumnus for Mayor.

Dr. Edwin Maxey, '93, of the Law School of the University of West Virginia, says the college weekly of that college, a national authority on international law and an author of some note, is being groomed for a candidate for mayor of Morgantown. Dr. Maxey has not yet consented to be a candidate, but great pressure is being brought to bear to have him enter the race. He would receive the support of the better element and would keep the "lid on" if elected.

A GLAD WELCOME TO SPRING.

Priestly's Black Dress Goods

For many years we have been exclusive dealers in Priestly's Blacks for Milton's trade and why? There is no color that requires so much care in selecting as black in the many years of experience we have found no other maker can approach B. Priestly and Co. in quality, finish and fast color, every yard is guaranteed—in fact in all these three years we have never found any of Priestly's Blacks to turn grayish in color.

Many of Priestly's goods are "Cravanettes" having undergone a process that makes them absolutely waterproof. You can wear them in a pelting rain, give them a shake and dampness will not be felt beneath—no rubber in the process—then too they are sponged and shrunk and you know what that means for a suit or skirt.

The new lines for spring includes a wide range of choice in many weaves, Prunlela, Carita, Boxanna, Voile, Panamas in plain and fancy Melrose, Empress Poplin, Odessa Crepe, French Serge, Batiste, Crepe de Chine, Eollenne, in all wool or silk and wool. In special favor now are:

Wool Eollenne, 40 inches wide and especially fine and sheer and devoid of any harshness or virgness, price 1.00 yard.

Empress Poplin, also 40 inches wide, quite similar in texture to Eollnne except in weight being a trifle heavier and more weight, price 1.10 yd.

Silk Warp Henriettas, possibly not so new in weave, yet continuing in high demand and appreciation. Very fine and lustrous at 1.10, 1.35 and 1.50 a yard.

"Queens" Cloth in a fancy black weave, small invisible patternt that are a relief from the plain, yet nothing loud. Good weight for all season wear, 42 inches $1.35 a yard.

Wool Taffeta, a fine close woven fabric, yet quite sheer and one that will stand a lot of hard wear without showing it, 44 inches $1.25.

Chiffon Voile, a very popular fabric for light weight dresses, quite sheer in fact thin enough to be made up over silk with a rich effect, 40 inches wide 80c a yard.

See The New Cotton Dress Goods

For Spring and Summer wear there's a vast amount of interest centered on cottons, they're cool and dressy looking and in our stock you will be surprised to see how near cotton can be made to resembl woolen and silk textiles. Their beauty places them in a stronger position than ever, the day is past when cottons are only regarded for ordinary housewear.

Our selection marks a range in quality and price, color and style to please the most fastidious. Plain and figured, flowers, stripes, plaids, white or colored, Organdies, Lawns, Mulls, Batistes, Voiles, Madras, Poplins, Dimities, etc. Many in waist and dress patterns, so that there will be only one dress of a kind in the town. Prices range 10c in easy steps to 75c yard.

20c Colored Dress Goods 15c a Yd

Several hundred yards of part wool, double fold dress goods in plain colors, red, greens and blues. Material is of good body diagonal serge, very suitable and serviceable for children's wear and the price is a direct saving of 5 cents a yard.

Piano Recital for Music Students.

The students in the School of Music were tendered a rare treat toward the close of last term when Mrs. A. M. Virgil, of the Virgil Piano School of New York City, presented her pupil, Mr. Miner Walden Gallup, in a piano recital. Mr. Gallup favored the audience with selection from Handel, Beethoven, MacDowell, Strauss, Chopin, Schubert, and a Serenade which he composed. His execution was exact, and his technique remarkable. Every number on the program was well received by those present, and was greeted by hearty applause.

At different times during the course of the program Mrs. Virgil made remarks on the Virgil method, and she explained why their method was so successful in developing good technique in pupils.

Shirtwaist Suits

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof," and the wearing of one of our famous shirtwaist suits will convince you that for Quality, Style and low prices they cannot be equaled in town, and after examining the workmanship and material you can't help but be pleased with this elegant line.

The following are suits on display this week:
White Lawn Suits range in price from 1.69 to 5.50.
White Linen Suits up to 13.50 in hand-embroidered work.
Colored Suits in Madras, gingham and lawn effects from 1.25 to 5.50.
In connection with these we have added a line of Misses suits in white and a few colored ones in Sailor and Peter Thompson styles at very reasonable prices.
A few Mohair suits for ladies, in blue and brown, to close at 5.98.
A very fine line of Silk shirtwaist suits in garnet, reseda, jasper, navy steel, brown and black. Also black and white and blue and white check effects, priced from 6.50 to 18.00.
Here you will find an early showing of spring and summer styles with that snug, up-to-date touch to them that makes them so popular. Many beautiful new ideas are to be seen in our extensive line of shirtwaist suits.

New Stock of Mattings

For our spring trade a large consignment received this week in China and Japan mattings. Every roll an import order. These mattings much better for the same money than we ever had before. You will notice some very beautiful carpet patterns in our line of Japans at 25, 28, 30, 35, 39, 50 to 55c. Colorings in plain white and green, red and blue oriental patterns.
All grades of the reliable China Mattings at 16, 18, 20, 22, 25, 28, 30 and 35c.
A line of ¾ Mattings in stair, with hall to match, in green, blue, red and brown colorings.

Another Sale of Framed Pictures

Our last sale of Framed Pictures was such a success that we have placed all our framed styles at greatly reduced prices and offer for this sale all of our 25c subjects at 15c, in the new black frames.
A line of elegant 50c Pictures offered at 25c, in all the taking subjects and frames.
The 75c Pictures you will find at 50c for this sale, and framed in nobby dark frames and up-to-date subjects.
A variety of subjects that were 1.00 and 1.25 will be closed at 75c and you have a choice of gold or black frames.
The "Hammers" will be offered at $1.00 that were 1.50 and the sizes and styles will surprise you.
Five beautiful etchings in wide black frames, sizes 20 by 34, are great bargains at $1.25, regular 1.95 value.
A line of 2.50 values, sale price 1.50, some as large as 26 by 34, in subjects taken from the latest paintings.
About one dozen extra fine subjects and frames that were 3.50 and 3.95 will be closed at 2.50.
One 4.95 Picture, handsomely framed, at 3.95.
Don't miss this sale for every one is a bargain.

CORNELL UNIVERSITY MEDICAL COLLEGE
NEW YORK CITY.

The course covering four years begins during the last week in Sept. and continues until June. A preliminary training in natural science is of great advantage. All classes are divided into small sections for recitations, laboratory and clinical bedside instructions. Students admitted to advance standing after passing the requisite examinations. The successful completion of the first year in any College or University recognized by the Regents of the State of New York as maintaining a satisfactory standard is sufficient to satisfy the requirements for admission which have lately been raised. The annual announcement giving full particulars will be mailed on application.

THE BASEBALL OUTLOOK

Capt. Griminger Has Many Vacancies to Fill with New Material.

The baseball season opens on Saturday, and as yet the team has received very little practice. Captain Grimminger has been unable to determine just what sort of a nine will represent Bucknell this year. The new material that has reported from time to time has been given a very unsatisfactory tryout. During the coming week the men will be worked hard, and by the time of the Susquehanna game a better opinion of the team's worth can be formed.

About thirty men are trying for the different positions, and the twirling problem seems to be the hardest to solve. Leach, the reliable southpaw, will be depended upon to handle the hard games, while Sheehan will assist in case the new candidates do not "pan out." August, Deats, and Carey, are among the others working for the pitching position. It will be up to Hawk, Brockway, or Woolson to do the receiving, though Captain Grimminger may play behind the bat.

A large number of the candidates are working for the infield positions. Heinze is the only man of last year's team left in the inner garden and that leaves the three bases to be filled. Among the men out for these places are: Howell, Nipple, Mathias, King, Ferguson, Brockway, Russell, Heinze, and Lenhart. The out-field will likely be covered by three of the following men: Leach, King, August, and Sheehan.

In a communication to Captain Grimminger, Teufel, '04, coach of Susquehanna, said he knew how keenly Bucknell felt the loss of "Chief" Parsons of the pitching staff, and that he realized the difficulty that would have to be overcome if the "Orange and Blue" were to be represented by as fast a nine as has been upholding her reputation for the past few years. Parsons was debarred from playing by the faculty, because he failed to keep up his college work. The "Chief" was responsible for a good many of last year's victories, and he had been depended upon to accomplish some similar feats this season. The game with Susquehanna on Saturday will make it easier to "size up" the team.

Alumni Button Adopted.

At a meeting of the special Committee of the Alumni to arrange for the coming Commencement, held last week in the Carnegie Library, there were present Rev. C. A. Hare, Chairman, Professors Martin and Owens and Registrar Gretzinger. A number of things were planned for the coming anniversary of the Alumni, due announcements of which will be made later. It was decided, in response to numerous requests, to adopt a Commencement button. This button will be enamelled in Orange and Blue and will contain the class numerals. The button will be worn by the College Alumni in connection with the blue ribbon. Graduates of the Institute, Music and Art Schools will wear the button with orange ribbon. Matriculates will wear the button and class numerals without the ribbon.

Dr. Maxey's Work on International Law.

Dr. Edwin Maxey, '93, Dean of West Virginia Law school, has just completed an interesting work for students in international law. It is a work of about 800 pages, and its extent illustrates at once its thoroughness. Every phase of the subject of which he treats is carried out in detail.

The volume is in six parts; the first deals with the historical development of the law of nations; its beginning with the ancient Greeks; and its rapid growth from 1776 down to the present time. The second part deals with the sources of the international law. Part third—peace, or the normal relation of states—is probably the most important and extensive of his entire work. In the preface Dr. Maxey says:

"The emphasis has been thrown upon peace and neutrality because of the conviction that the real interests of nations are in peace rather than in war, and that time can be more profitably spent in a study of the means of avoiding strife than in elaborating the rules for regulating it." The exposition of peace includes eleven chapters of 320 pages. Here are discussed the birth of a state, national character and domicile, independence, intercourse, property, contracts, jurisdiction, extradition, intervention, amicable settlement of disputes and means of compulsion short of war.

After means of compulsion short of war naturally follows war itself. This is the next part of the work. Belligerants, commencement of war, means, instruments and methods of waging war, military occupation, rights of belligerants over person and property of enemy, enemy character, intercourse during war and termination of war—these are the matters set for the development of neutral rights and duties from their earliest conception to the present time; the discussion of contraband goods, blockade, and of visit and capture. The last part is novel in that it has to do with the needs of international conference. He argues that "Present needs are demonstrated by the uncertainty of the rights of belligerents in neutral ports and waters and by unsettled questions arising out of floating and submarine mines, and out of the use of wireless telegraphy and submarine cables. Recurring needs are shown by the facts that standards of ethics are constantly changing and that inventions valuable to nations especially in time of war, are constantly being made that put a new face, so to speak, on civilization. We need this conference so as to determine what provision, in the light of these constant changes, shall be made for changing international law."

The explanations and illustrations of the phases of international law that presented themselves during the Russo-Japanese war, and other recent international crises add special value to the work.

Third Form Declamation Contest.

The public exhibition in declamation by the third form of the Academy will take place on Saturday evening in Bucknell Hall. To the winner of this contest Rev. David P. Leas, of Philadelphia, Treasurer of Bucknell University, offers an annual prize. The following are contesting: Watkins, Wall, Heacock, and Smith.

COLLEGE MEN'S RECEPTION

Five Hundred Guests Enjoy First "Dormitory" Event Ever Given.

The first College Men's Reception ever given in the Bucknell dormitories has passed into history as a decided success, and the affair, groomed to become an annual event, has made such a favorable impression that its perpetuity seems to be as assured as either the College Girl's or Seminary receptions. Five hundred guests who had assembled for the occasion made West College, the scene of the reception, resound with merriment.

Not to be lacking in the essentials of a good reception the committees outdid themselves in the manner in which they performed their various duties. The reception of guests was a novel idea, and significant inasmuch as the receiving was given into the hands of the President of the University, the presidents of the three hall associations, the leaders of the two upper-classes, and the members of the reception committee. The large room on second floor that had been chosen as the reception room was quite too small to hold the two hundred and fifty guests that filled up from the Seminary and town.

The rooms on first and second floors had been converted into a series of cozy retreats and were popular for the novel and artistic manner in which they were decorated. The guests were given the privilege of seeing typical college rooms, touched up for the occasion, of course, but bespeaking the general run of the college man's "sanctum." A favorite expression of the assembled seemed to be: "Why, I did not know that men had so much taste." This little quip reached the ear of more than one college man, and carried with it a sort of complimentary significance. Guests passed through the halls, resplendent with orange and blue bunting, into the different rooms, each symbolical of a particular kind of college man's taste, and finally to the dining-hall where appropriate refreshments were served.

The bells that rang the guests down toward the dining-hall were of the same pitch as those to which the members of the Seminary are so accustomed, and it caused many to wonder if college men were forced by the tinkle of a bell to be regular in their habits,—nothing doing. But the strains of the orchestra drowned all unpleasant recollections that the ringing of these bells might have caused.

A noticeable feature was the unusually large attendance of the faculty members. Had the third floor been available the alumni of the town, of whom there are many, would have been invited. At the next College Men's reception efforts will be made to obtain permission to open up third floor to the guests with the view of getting a full representation of the Lewisburg Alumni. The college men can feel confident that they have discovered a means of returning the compliment of the College Girl's and Seminary receptions, and it is almost assured that the event will become one of the popular functions of the college year. In view of the fact that the "Junior Prom" is not open to the college women it makes it quite imperative that something of this sort be given.

The "collud llvry," Bender's imperial palms, the Miller orchestra, attractive decorations, appropriate refreshments, and the general novelty of the whole affair made this reception the best thing that the college men have done in the line of entertainment for years. This success is the result of a well-planned, well-executed program for which the committees in charge should be congratulated.

Date of Jones Lecture Close at Hand.

Chaplain Harry W. Jones, who is to deliver an address in Bucknell Hall on April 19, has been greeted by large audiences wherever he has appeared. The lecture will be a treat, and the Lewisburg audience that should welcome him on this occasion should be a big one. The mere fact that he was so instrumental in making the stay of the football team, at Norfolk last fall, a pleasant event should insure a full representation of students.

The Florida Times-Union, of Jacksonville, Fla., in reviewing his address says in part:

"To give a synopsis of the lecture is impossible, as the strong personality that the chaplain threw into his address cannot be reproduced. A sufficient indication of his power over his audience was shown by the rivited attention that he held from start to finish, and several times during the lecture the speaker was compelled to cease talking until the applause that greeted his descriptions had subsided."

Baseball Season Opens Saturday.

The first game of the baseball season will be played on Athletic Field next Saturday, when Susquehanna will face the "Orange and Blue" nine. The visitors will have a strong team,—Weaver and Teufel, former Bucknell stars forming the battery. Bucknell's team has not yet been chosen, and the inability to secure early practice has greatly hindered the progress of the nine.

This year's varsity will necessarily be composed of some green material, since but a few of the veterans have returned to college. Susquehanna is strong in baseball, and to make victory sure a full attendance would help greatly. In baseball, as in all other sports, good cheering is an essential, and the cheering section on Saturday must not be as many empty benches.

Claypool Elected Basket-ball Captain.

The members of Bucknell's basket-ball team met on Thursday and elected Burleigh Claypool, '06, of Kittanning, Pa., captain of next year's varsity five. Claypool has been playing an excellent game at guard throughout the season, and is a popular choice for the position. He expects to return to college next year to take a post-graduate course. Every man that comprised this year's five will return to college next season, and Captain Claypool looks for a successful year in 1907.

Reports on Nashville Convention.

At a union meeting of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. last Tuesday evening the delegates to the Nashville convention, Barton, '06, Bromley, '08, Fetter, '09, and Miss Lesher, gave reports. Fifty-five were present.

L'AGENDA HERE NEXT WEEK

Many New Features Introduced Into 1907 Year-Book.

The announcement has been made that the 1907 L'Agenda will be on sale during the coming week. As will be noticed, this is a very early date as compared with the appearance of former editions of the Annual. The editorial staff of the 1907 L'Agenda have accomplished what former boards have for years been trying to do, as regards the time of publication. Not only in time of appearance but in many other respects is the present book an improvement over all other editions of L'Agenda. This advance in quality is due largely to the method that the 1907 class adopted in the production of their annual; the work being the result of the labors of the whole board and not that of one or two, as has so frequently happened. The 1907 L'Agenda board has most successfully accomplished its ambition—the lifting of L'Agenda out of the rut in which it has been running for several years past. Several impartial critics who have viewed the advance sheets of the book pronounce it the most successful of its kind that has yet been seen at this university.

The feature of the book that strikes one most forcibly is the great improvement over former editions; on every hand is to be seen the evidence of unrestrained growth. Conventionality has in many instances been sacrificed for the purpose of producing a superior product. Grouping and arrangement has in several instances been completely changed. The antequated brass ruling at the top of the pages has been eliminated. Several specimens of fine colored work have been introduced; a feature that has been adopted thus far by only a very few colleges in the country. A number of prominent representatives of the Honorary Alumni have been inserted in the Alumni section together with a goodly proportion of the regular Alumni. Another new feature is the appearance of a picture of the Freshman class. The cover of the book, which is in black, is adorned with a handsome design, within which is incorporated the seal of the university, all done in gold.

The work has been done entirely by the large firm of William H. Hoskins Co., of Philadelphia; this company taking charge of the engraving, printing, binding, and all the other mechanical operations connected with the edition.

The place of sale and time will be announced later. It will be well for those wishing copies of the book to come early on the day of sale as possible, as almost the entire edition has been subscribed for. The copy of L'Agenda that one secures while in college is a keepsake that will be treasured more and more as time goes by. The fact that it is important for a person to secure a copy of the publication when published was recently emphasized by the fact that Registrar Gretzinger was almost two weeks in securing a copy of the 1904 L'Agenda for a person desiring one. The books will be sold on a cash basis, so take the hint and come prepared. The 1907 L'Agenda will be of interest to all classes in view of the fact that contributions are inserted from members of upper and under-classes alike.

Editorial

With gentle spring breaking the monotony of the winter months there will be a tendency on the part of many to cease work, and to indulge in a series of other "stunts" such as seem more appropriate for beautiful days such as the past week has brought forth. When this feeling overtakes one it would be a good idea to recall the real reason of a course in college, and adapt one's self accordingly.

The proverbial spring-fever, that terrible malady to which one is ever susceptible, has no doubt already caught many within its nets and is sweeping them on to "lazy-land." It is a hard matter to experience a run of good sunny weather without becoming afflicted with this ailment, but it is much better if one keeps himself from being brought too well under it's spell. The spring term has never been characterized as one in which fellows overworked themselves, yet it has not been named the term in which to loaf all the while, since no time in a college course is allotted for that purpose. Cutting classes has doubtless tempted many, and appealed to them as a fitting spring practice, but if one would consider who is the loser the percentage of class cutting would be comparatively small.

With heavy schedules confronting the track and baseball teams, and with an apparent dearth of material in both departments, it is imperative that anyone with the least inclination for the sports report, so that Bucknell may be represented by as fast a team as possible in both of these forms of athletics.

The announcement that Bucknell would not be represented at this year's Relay Races, cast a gloom among the fellows who are trying out for track positions, but this was overcome by the announcement of a schedule excellent in other respects. The weather during the past week has not been very conducive to enthusiastic practice by either the baseball candidates or the track men, but yet practice has been indulged in almost every afternoon.

The class of 1905 played havoc in the baseball and track ranks, and made these departments hard propositions. In track Coach Hoskins has had so many vacancies to fill that no estimate can be made as to the real strength of this year's aggregation. The same difficulty confronts captain Grimminger, of the baseball team, since he has but a few veterans among the candidates for positions. It will require some earnest, fervent work to bring these teams into proper form for the initial contests.

The rules adoted by the upper-classmen may have become dead-letters to some of us by this time, so it seems reasonable to call attention to two of them that are of special importance just now. The rules referred to are numbers 7 and 9, which read;

7. Freshmen must not loaf on the main steps of any college building or around any class memorials.

9. No under classmen shall at any time loaf on Main College steps, or on 1904 memorial.

There is a disposition on the part of some to either overlook or ignore these rules. The idea of the upper-classmen, in embodying such rules in the code laid down for the guidance of Freshmen, was that Bucknell might have a few more traditions which her loyal sons might honor. It is the imperative duty of the persons whom these rules concern to give traditional existence to the same by carefully observing them.

MAKE RECEPTION AN ANNUAL EVENT.

The success of the College Men's reception was so decided that it need merely be suggested that the affair be made an annual event. The dormitory reception is novel, and it has been proved that an interesting programme can be arranged. In view of all the facts, it seems imperative that the College men should decide to give a reception each year.

"Grads" Participate in Dedication.

Pedricktown, April 1.—Dedicatory services were held to-day in the Baptist church, which has just been completed at a cost of $6000.

Prof. Milton G. Evans, '82, dean of the Crozer Theological Seminary, made an address at the morning service. The Rev. Dr. Delavan De Wolf, of Newark, secretary of the New Jersey Baptist State Convention, and Robert Seagreaves, of Salem, were the speakers in the afternoon. In the evening the Rev. Dr. John Howard Harris, president of Bucknell University, was the speaker.

The Rev. J. Warren Davis, '96, has been pastor of the Pedricktown Baptist church for eight years.

New Dress Goods are Grey

Very seldom indeed has there been a season where one color is so indisputably settled upon as is grey for this spring's wear.

There's an especially active showing of greys on our dress goods counters in Panamas and Suitings especially. Not only in plain woven fabrics but invisible checks are very strong and the more decided checks are also in good evidence. Striped Suitings have many admirers every where too. In price we begin at 50c for good all wool fabrics and range up to 1.75 yard, widths from 36 to 56 in.

Newest Things in Trimmings

Our Spring line is now complete, have waited until now so we could be sure of offering you what is in latest vogue. The best in style at low prices is the why.

Persian Braids in widths from ¾ and ½ inch to full inch, styles are straight, curled or serpantine as you prefer 15, 25, 39, 50, 75c a yard.

Among the many others are the Grey Trimmings in all the shades; Golden White is another popular item; Shadow Trimmings are among the especially good. See our display.

10c Cotton Suiting 7½c Yard

Are you looking for an inexpensive dress a new comfort or quilt covering or lining only 3 pieces, about 100 yards, is all we have double fold, good colorings of a good texture, while they last 7½c yard worth 10 cents.

Athletic Notes.

George Cockill, '05, is slated to play an infield position with the Albany club of New York State League.

James Sebring, ex-'02, captain and manager of the champion Williamsport Tri-State team, has his list of players completed, and will soon be ready to open the season.

Gettysburg trimmed Lebanon Valley on Saturday in the opening game of the season by the score of 20-6.

George W. Cheesman, '05, has been playing a regular forward position on Chicago's basket-ball team this season. He was captain of Bucknell's five in 1904.

Princeton easily won from Fordham on Saturday by the score of 7-1.

Lafayette opened the season on Saturday by losing to the Montreal Eastern League team.

Had Jaw Broken in Friendly Bout.

While Ralph W. Haller, '08, of Reading, and Robert B. Morris, '08, of Rebersburg, were indulging in a little friendly boxing bout on the campus Tuesday evening, Haller had his jaw broken. Dr. Gundy, who dressed the wound said that it was not a serious break.

The Cadman Lecture.

The final number of the Y. M. C. A. lecture course, which was postponed from last term, will be given in the Baptist church, on April 16. Dr. Cadman will lecture on "Abraham Lincoln," and the number will doubtless be one of the most interesting of the entire course.

The Pass for this Department Have Not Been Raised for the Session of 1905-06.

As a distinct part of the Medico-Chirurgical College, the Department of Dentistry offers superior advantages to its students. The clinics of the college present wide opportunities for the practical and oral surgery, as well as supplying abundance of material for practical work in the Dental Infirmary. All the privileges of the students of the Medical Department of the College are accorded to the Dental students. A complete system of quizzing conducted by the professors free of charge, obviating the expense of private quizzing and preparing the students for examination. Alumni Notes

C. M. Konkle, '01, is with the American Tin Plate Co., of Pittsburg.

Elwood Gilbert, '04, is employed with the Franklin Tin Plate Co., of Pittsburg.

Rev. John E. Calvin, '99, is the pastor of the Baptist church at Emporium. His former charge was at Wayland, Ohio.

Miss Grace Guthrie, '94, has been elected an instructor at Vassar College. At present she is teaching at Westfield, N. J.

Paul Smith, '05, who played second base on last year's team, is holding down third for Dickinson this year. He secured one of the two hits off of Princeton's star twirler in the Dickinson-Princeton game.

Dr. J. K. Weaver's twenty-fourth anniversary as superintendent of the First Baptist Sunday school, of Norristown, was marked by the presentation of twenty-four roses. Dr. Weaver is a graduate and trustee of Bucknell.

Annual Address to Y. M. C. A.

The Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce, of Scranton, delivered the annual sermon before the Y. M. C. A. yesterday morning in the Baptist church. His clever use of crayon drawings made his address very effective. Among other things, he said: "You, college men, be pure, good, true, courageous, and you will accomplish more by your life than by your lips. Too many to-day are turning to art, to music, to literature, for things that can be found only in Christ; no life is a success that is not built on Christ."

"Sophs" Won Basketball Series.

The Sophomores captured the inter-class basketball series, winning every game they played; the Seniors finished second, taking two out of three; the Juniors hold third place with one out of three; and the Freshmen bring up the rear with three defeats.

Brilliant Showing of the Most Fashionable Hats

Either in Ready to wear or untrimmed shapes. We are famous for our big stock and great variety of styles.

The leadership of Seidel and Spangler's Millinery is more clearly evident each season.

Our groups of trmimed hats embrace all the stylish relations in Horsehair and Milan Braids. Large and small sailor effects. Jap Braids and French Chip, in fact everything that is new and correct for the make-up of a spring or summer hat.

Beautiful trimmed hats are here in a larger variety than you will find elsewhere, many of them reproductions of the imported models. A great variety of colors, including the favorite old rose, gray, Alice blue, raspberry and blacks and whites, beautifully trimmed in flowers, ribbons and feathers.

Confirmation Dresses

We have added a new line to our Ready-made Department of Children's White Lawn and White Organdie dresses. A nice assortment can be seen in sizes from 6 to 14 years. These are all neat and dainty styles, well made and have theappearance of hand-made garments.

Do not worry about making your girl her White Dress or what style to choose, but come and look over our line and you will not need to worry, as we know the material, style and workmanship will be satisfactory and you will hereafter buy them ready-made. Prices range from 1.00 to 7.50.

A strong line in many different styles and in a variety of materials for a child from 2 to 6 years. These styles are suitable for girls or little boys, as many are in the kilt effect.

Infant's slips from 25c up.

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY.
VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, APRIL 16, 1906 No. 26

TRACK PROSPECTS

Coach Hoskins Compelled to Pick New Team.

Track practice has been handicapped by unusual circumstances this year; the unfavorable weather has made regular appearances impossible, and the fact that Bucknell will not be represented at the Relay Races on April 28, has caused some candidates to manifest an indifference to do any real training.

In track as in every other form of athletics Bucknell seems to be facing a sort of famine in regard to the material out of which to develop a team. In football Coach Hoskins had his first trouble of this sort; basket ball found the same prevailing conditions; and this spring sees baseball and track in precisely the same position. When it is remembered that there are but three Varsity track men in college the reason for the situation is plain.

When Coach Hoskins made a call for candidates a large number reported, but the practices have been so irregular that it has been impossible to estimate the relative worth of the different men. Irey, '08, and Baer, '07, seems to be the most events, and are showing good form; Baler, '07, seems to be the most likely candidate for the half-mile run; Denninger, '06, Jones, '09, and Whitney, '07, are trying for the distance events; Comstock, '06, and Knapp, '09, are in line for the hurdles; Knapp shows exceptional form for a beginner; Cure, '08, last year's high jumper, and Owens, '09, are working on the high-jump, Cure appearing as good as ever; many are working out for the pole-vault, but Hall, '07, and Knapp, '09, are the most likely contestants; in the weight department, Lenhart, '08 with Shade and Tolbert, '09, make a good trio. Bucknell is without a broad-jumper this season, and one will have to be developed out of the material in the Freshman class.

The training table starts to-day, and this will stimulate the men and get them in condition for the meets with Dickinson and Lafayette. The prospects in this department are not bright, and the development of a good team is a matter of hard work. The inter-class meet will be held on April 28, at which time the team will have rounded into shape.

Trial Track Meet Next Week.

Coach Hoskins has arranged to have a trial track meet on Friday, in order to give new candidates a tryout. The events are open to all students and consist of a mile run, scratch race; one-half mile run; running high and broad jumps, handicap; and the quarter mile. Prizes will be awarded to those taking first and second places provided there are four contestants in the event; the first prizes will be white hats with blue pennants, on the front, and Bucknell inscribed in orange letters; the second prizes will be scarf pins.

University Club Entertains.

The little folks of the members of the University club were given an Easter Greeting at the club parlor, Saturday afternoon. Each little one present was given an Easter souvenir upon leaving.

Inter-Society Debate.

The annual debate between Euepia and Theta Alpha was held in Bucknell Hall, Friday evening. Ridge, '08, and McLaughlin, '09, for Euepia; Hummer, '08, and Higby, '08, for Theta Alpha, had been chosen by their respective societies to uphold the honors of each in the debating line. The question: Resolved, "That the Right of Suffrage be Restricted by an Educational Qualification" was argued by the representatives of Euepia on the affirmative and by those of Theta Alpha on the negative.

At the close of the argument the judges gave a split decision to the negative. This is the first time in many years that Theta Alpha has been successful in the inter-society contest.

McLaughlin, the first speaker on the affirmative, argued that by the cent revelations of Lincoln Steffens, Ida M. Tarbell and others, who are authorities and have studied the conditions in twenty different states the wide-spread and deep seated political corruption now prevalent can be directly traced to the perversion of the ballot in the hands of the ignorant and illiterate. No natural or political right is violated by the imposition of the Educational Qualification. The speaker further maintained that no evil results would follow the imposition of the educational qualifiaction for in view of the very small proportinon of illiterates the danger of class legislation is eliminated; 10 per cent. being in the illiterate class, and 90 per cent in the literate class.

Hummer, the first speaker on the negative, held that there should be no change since our present system had worked well for over one hundred years and since men had been and were now elected to office who were wise and good men. He maintained that the proposed educational qualifications would not remedy any evils and would not do what its advocates claimed for it, since by its adoption vote buying would not be dispensed with, and since the illiterate man is not necessarily incompetent.

Ridge, the second speaker for the affirmative contended that the present system would be bettered by adopting this educational qualification since the incompetent voter is a powerful factor in all cases. Examples were cited in regard to the growth of gangs in the slums districts of the cities and in respect to the vast number of illiterate foreigners who come to our shores, and who know so little of our customs and ideals. He asserted that this qualification is desirable while others are impracticable.

Higby, the last speaker for the negative, claimed that by adopting this educational qualification a large body would be excluded from the right of suffrage who would be a constant menace to our existing government; this would not only create a dangerous and ruling class but would be contrary to the spirit of our government. In support of this assertion mention was made of Russian class legislation, of the patrician rule at Rome which ruled for the patrician in earlier days as contrasted with the limitation imposed upon the plebians and of the former Puritan rule in New England.

Mass meeting Wednesday night.

CHAPLAIN HARRY JONES, U. S. N.

LECTURE IN BUCKNELL HALL

Chaplain Jones Will Speak on the Spanish-American War.

What promises to be a most interesting lecture is to be given in Bucknell Hall next Thursday evening, April 19, by Chaplain Harry W. Jones, D. D., of the U. S. Navy. The subject of Chaplain Jones' lecture will be "Under Fire," a topic that concerns itself with some very thrilling events connected with the late war.

In recognition of these and other services, Bucknell conferred upon him in 1900 the degree of A. M. Chaplain Jones has a warm place in his heart for Bucknell; when the football team played at Norfolk last fall he was on hand with a large body of jack tars, who cheered lustily for the Orange and Blue. As a consequence, the Bucknell boys wish to greet him with a crowded house.

The Chaplain has delivered his war lecture in various places and has received the most unlimited praise from the press. He is an orator that thrills, and he will amply repay all for the time they spend in coming to hear him. Thursday evening, April 19, in Bucknell Hall, Admission 25 cents.

Cadman Lecture To-Night.

The final number of the Y. M. C. A. lecture course will be given in the Baptist church to-night. This lecture has suffered several postponements, but this should in no way effect the attendance. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, the speaker, will give his lecture on "Abraham Lincoln," and there is no doubt that the number will be one of the best of the entire course.

Mass Meeting Wednesday Night.

A mass meeting will be held on Wednesday night at 9.00 o'clock to arouse enthusiasm for the coming Jones lecture. Everyone should be on hand, as it is up to us to show Chaplain Jones our appreciation for his cordial treatment of the football team on last year's Virginia trip. Plans will be made for some special program.

Annual Northfield Student Conference

The Northfield student conference will meet on the grounds of the Northfield Seminary, East Northfield, Mass., June 22 to July 1, 1906.

The list of speakers is especially strong and contains the names of some of the foremost religious leaders of the year. The entire number of speakers has not been announced, but some of the leading men are: Mr. Robert E. Spear; Rt. Rev. C. P. Anderson, Bishop of Chicago; and Dr. Endicott Peabody, of Groton School. Mr. Clayton S. Cooper, Bible study secretary, will carry on the direction of the bible conference.

As usual, normal mission study classes, dealing with both home and foreign missions, will be carried on under experienced leadership. For those looking forward to the Christian ministry, foreign missions, and other callings, special arrangements will be made. The afternoons will be devoted to athletics and other forms of out-door recreation. Baseball, tennis tournament's, track meets, directed by a committee of men from the other colleges, will arouse special interest.

Senior Class Meeting Tomorrow.

The senior class will meet in Bucknell Hall to-morrow at four o'clock. Plans will be made for the erection of a fitting class memorial, and other important business will be transacted. At the last meeting of 1906 there were about twenty members present; it is imperative that there be a full representation at to-morrow's meeting, since the business to be carried on is important.

Sophomore Cotillion Postponed.

The committee in the Sophomore class arranging for the annual cotillion met on Tuesday afternoon and decided to postpone the date of the dance until May 18. This time seemed to be more appropriate than the one previously determined upon, since it avoided a conflict with a baseball date. The affair will not be strictly formal as was at first stated.

UNIVERSITY CLUB FORMED

Organization Composed of Faculty Members and Graduates.

The University Club of Lewisburg, organized by members of the Bucknell faculty, but designed to associate all resident graduates of reputable colleges for social enjoyment and the promotion of the artistic, literary and civic interests of the community, opened its rooms April 10, North west corner of Third and Market streets.

The club now numbers thirty-five. It has furnished in a durable and handsome manner, two rooms on the second floor of the Harrison Block, where its meetings will be held. It is hoped to make this the centre for a widened interest in all things scholastic in our neighborhood. The club is modeled on the plan of the best city clubs of similar scope, while adopted to local needs. Its officers and committees have been at work quietly for several weeks, and the result is manifest in the satisfaction of all who have seen the pleasant quarters now occupied.

The student body is deeply interested in the possibilities of the organization of graduates, in close contact with the undergraduates, and will doubtless share in the results of its social stimulus, its civic enthusiasm, its cultured fellowship. With the rapid growth of the University the time is fast approaching for a "Union" in which students and faculty will unite for the promotion of all mutual interests. It requires no prophetic vision to see the enlarging lines of work and helpfulness radiating from the University Club so auspiciously inaugurated this spring. "Esto Perpetua!"

Debate with Cornell.

On account of the dilatory and selfish tactics of the United States Senate, the people of the country are becoming impressed with the idea that the members of the body ought to be elected directly by the people. For months the present Senate has been squabbling over a railroad rate bill which most of the people want, but on account of the strong railroad interest represented in the Senate and on account of allied interests such as the express companies, the oil and coal trusts, nothing has been done. The cynical attitude of the various interests was well expressed by Senator Aldrich who exclaimed after hearing the invincible argument of Senator Bailey, "Well Bailey has the arguments, but we've got the votes." Recognizing the importance of this question Bucknell college has challenged Cornell University Congress to debate it. Cornell has accepted and has chosen the affirmative side. It must be admitted at the outset that this is the popular side, but Bucknell hopes by superior logic and ability of presentation to show that the present method of election is the best one. The time for the debate is set for Friday, April 27, at 8 p. m.

Second Debating Team Chosen.

The second debating team has been chosen and consists of Ridge, Hummer, Sprout and Snyder. This team will be used to train the team that is to represent Bucknell in the Inter-collegiate contest.

Editorial

That college men take such little interest in the politics of our country is a fact as sad as it is true. Surely, the college produces its share of lawyers, and these take the greatest pride in following up the civic and national political situation; and again, college men have been doing their part in the great reform movement that has been sweeping from one shore to the other of our land. These influences all have their effect upon the government of the United States,—and an enlightening influence. Conditions have reached such a low level that unless men become accustomed to work toward higher ends, the situation will become so complicated that it will be quite beyond the control of the people.

Politics have ever been an important topic, and have always determined a country's success to a very great extent. The number of college men is increasing yearly, and they are becoming one of the potent factors in every path of life. A conversation with ordinary college men will soon disclose the fact that their knowledge of politics is very limited; the newspapers keep people in close touch with political conditions, if people keep themselves in touch with the newspapers; the magazines publish weekly and monthly summaries of the situation in our country, and are easily accessible in the library. Material is by no means lacking and the great fault seems to lie within the men themselves; an indisposition or a lack of interest are the only reasonable causes for any failure on the part of college men to keep up with the politics of their country, and both seem like slim excuses. Unless men become awakened to the importance of political affairs when they are in college, it is quite unlikely to believe that they will change their opinions when they have left their college work; the influence that the world at large may have upon them, may bring about a revolution of their ideas, but it is doubtful.

The varsity base ball team is not to play very many home games and it may happen that once in a while the diamond will be empty. We would like to suggest that there be plenty of other games arranged for the season. Of course the underclass teams and the Academy teams will appear, but we would be pleased to see other games, inter-fraternity, inter-eating club and so forth. The latter kinds belong to the list of true athletic sports, where every man has a chance to make good. 0-0 games would not be much in evidence, but it must be admitted that 0-0 games are quite a strain on the spectator's nervous mechanism. When the runs count up a little there may be some execrable playing, but there is also hearty enjoyment. Let us be willing to be laughed at, that when our turn comes to sit and watch, we, too, may laugh.

The admission of tennis into the Athletic Association has placed the sport upon a firm basis, and makes it one of greater importance than it has been in former years. Intercollegiate contests are being arranged, so it is necessary that those who can play the game report when called.

Tennis Begins This Week.

Since tennis as a sport is now on a basis with other athletics at Bucknell greater interest is being manifested among the students. The manager is negotiating for intercollegiate tournaments with Dickinson, Gettysburg and Susquehanna and expects to complete an attractive schedule.

Three college tournaments will be held. The Inter-Club tournament commenced Friday, April 13. Eight clubs are entered in this tournament. Immediately after this tournament the Inter-Class tournament will be held. Each class should see that its representatives are chosen and entered by Monday, April 23.

The third tournament is the Open Tournament in singles. Every student in college is eligible to enter. No charge whatever is made for entering this tournament. All fellows wishing to enter this tournament should at once hand their names to the manager, DeMelt, '06, or to the Assistant Manager, August, '07. From the contestants in this tournament the members of the 'Varsity team will be chosen. The first round in this tournament will be a preliminary round for new men. These contests will take place on the S. A. E. court or on the court of the Quaker Club unless special arrangements are made.

In previous years these tournaments have not been completed owing to postponements of individual matches. Players were more interested in other sports or in other engagements. This year the schedule will be posted on the bulletin board and any player failing to appear at the time and place designated will be held as defaulting to his opponent. If both contestants fail to appear a double default will be charged. Postponements will be made only for unfavorable weather conditions.

Since the tournament in singles is open to all, let every fellow who enjoys the game come out to try for the 'Varsity team which will represent Bucknell in the intercollegiate contests.

L'Agenda on Sale Tomorrow.

The 1907 L'Agenda will be on sale on Tuesday, April 17, at 8 a. m., in the office opposite the Registrar's. Some subscriptions have been added to the list during the past week and there now remain only a few books unsold, those desiring copies would therefore do well to call early.

Two Games This Week.

The contest with Williamsport will be an exhibition game for the Tri-Staters, and will doubtless be a hard one.

Lebanon Valley will face Bucknell on Athletic Field on Saturday afternoon, and the game will be called at 2.30 o'clock. Since there are many new men on this year's team, the best kind of support must be given them by the student-body so that they may make the best possible showing in the opening contests. Good rooting has often saved a college team from defeat, and, in fact, is one of the greatest benefits derived from playing on the home ground.

Spring and Summer Styles in Muslin Underwear

While we have not the room to display all of our muslin underwear this week, we wish to state that we provide such a variety and such a large stock that is not thought of elsewhere. Values that will astound you, for we offer nothing but good material, well made, and daintily trimmed.

We have the best quality for the least cost, which keeps this store of muslin underwear far in the lead.

Night Dresses of every description from 50c to the finest trimmed one at 3.50. Your choice of high or low effect.

Beautiful skirts from 59c to the daintiest creations at 8.00.

The newest corset covers from an inexpensive one at 15c to the finest at 2.50, trimmings that cannot be equalled.

Chemise, the latest and most correct styles, from 39c to 2.00.

Drawers from 19c to 2.50.

Taking quality into consideration you'll find our price on muslin underwear the lowest in town. We prove it daily to the satisfaction of hundreds of people.

New Spring Kimonos and Dressing Sacques

Short Kimonos and Dressing Sacques of Crepe Cloth in "Wisteria" and Japanese patterns, from 1.00 to 1.98.

Short Kimonos and Dressing Sacques of lawn from 50c to 1.50, in white grounds with rings and polka dot designs, and some in striped effects. Some in plain white lawn with beautiful dot facing.

Many styles of short kimonos have dressing sacque sleeves and dressing sacques have kimono sleeves. Every one an excellent style.

Long Kimonos in Crepe cloth in "Wisteria" and Jap designs trimmed in satin facing, priced from 1.98, 2.50 to 2.98.

Long kimonos in white lawn trimmed in polka dot facing from 1.00 to 1.89. Some figured lawns in this line.

These long kimonos are taking the place of the summer wrappers and make a woman look cool and comfortable, and feel so too. We wish it were possible to describe these garments that their actual quality would be apparent to you—then we would be sure to see you here bright and early to get first choice.

Have added a line of fitted crepe house dresses to our already extensive stock of gowns, in the new shirred yoke effect in skirt, and beautiful pointed collar faced with same shade of satin, colorings in plain light blue and red crepe cloths. Opening price of these beautiful dresses is 2.50.

New Spring Dress Skirts in Mohairs, Panamas, Serges

Stylish handsome, serviceable skirts of the sorts in immediate demand, best tailoring and materials.

The stylish cream Mohairs, which are so difficult to get this season, are selling from $5.00 to 7.50.

The beautiful Panamas, in black and blues from 5.00 to 8.50.

Those serviceable serges in black, blues and grays from 3.98 to 6.50.

Our skirt business is getting closer to the appreciation of wise women.

The showing is large and worthy of your commendation. The variety of new effects is too extensive to give a detailed description, but would say to the lady needing a separate skirt to come and look over our line. We know that you can choose from our extensive stock.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, APRIL 23, 1906 No. 27

BUCKNELL WINS AND LOSES

Tri-Staters Too Much for Bucknell; Lebanon Valley Easy.

Bucknell opened the baseball season at Williamsport, Friday, losing by the score of 17-2. The Tri-stater's far outclassed our team, and the lack of practice proved to be another handicap. Williamsport bunched hits while Bucknell bunched errors,the result was a total of 17 tallies. The Orange and Blue nine lacked team-work, but the new material will develope with experience.

In the first inning with two men out Williamsport succeeded in crossing the plate. Bucknell tied the score in the first half of the second by clean hitting. The millionaires then ran up six to their credit and clinched the contest. The features of the game for Bucknell was the consistent battery work of Leach and Grimminger, and Sheehan's home run drive in the fourth inning.

The Williamsport team, the winner of last year's Tri-state pennant, is a fast aggregation, Many of their players are former Major league stars; Sebring is a Bucknell man, ex-'02.

The team from Lebanon Valley proved to be easy money for the 'Varsity in the first game of the season on Athletic Field on Saturday.

The visitors opened up in the first inning with a run and in the each of the two succeeding innings scored another, but after the third inning they failed to connect with Parson's drops and did not tally again. The 'Varsity clipped off four in the first inning, and repeated the trick in the second, and then in the fourth inning crossed fourth base for two more making the score 10-3. They failed to connect again. For the visitors, Buck, the second baseman played the most consistent game and got away with two hits while for the home team Parsons and Sheehan struck the visiting pitcher for three a piece and Grimminger for two.

Considering the earliness of the season the game was well played altho there were several errors that could have been avoided by a little head work. It was noticeable that all but one of the errors debited to both teams were on the infield. On the whole Bucknell showed up the better in every respect, both as to captaining and individual work. The game was called in the seventh inning in order to allow the visitors to catch a train for home.

Inter-class Meet Saturday.

Unusual interest centers about the inter-class track meet that is to be held on athletic field on Saturday, for the reason that by this meet the standard of this year's track team will be decided. The inter-class meet has been a popular event for many years, since it affords an opportunity to work out class rivalry, as do the football, basketball and baseball contests.

Saturday's meet promises to be full of close contests since there are many new candidates out for the different varsity positions. Coach Hoskins offers a cup to the class that wins the meet for four consecutive years; 1905 won for three years, but were deprived of the cup last year when 1906 came off with the laurels. This leaves the Freshmen as the only class that can possibly stand a chance for the prize, since all other classes have lost one or more times.

Tramp Notice.

All interested in walking are invited to join a party intending to walk to New Berlin and return on Saturday, Apr. 28th. Going the route will be by way of Smoketown Hill (eight miles) and the return will be by way of Chapel's Hollow (seven miles. Return from New Berlin can be made by rail road. Party will start from the Quadrangle in rear of Main College at 9:30 a. m. Lunch may be carried or dinner may be gotten at one of the New Berlin hotels.

COMMUNICATION

The "Orange and Blue" invites communications but does not necessarily agree with the opinions expressed therein. All communications must be signed, though the name will not be published if so desired.

Editor Orange and Blue:

Three Cornell men are coming here next Friday evening to debate against three Bucknell men. Those Bucknell men deserve their B's whether they win or not. If you have been in the library recently, you have seen them working, getting ready for the contest. They have been obliged to cut classes because of the short time remaining. Now, it seems to me that the University should recognize them some way and the natural way is to give them the coveted initial. Other colleges do it and the position of a Varsity debater is looked on as an important one. I would like to ask, as a matter of information, who has the right to award the initials anyway?

1907.

Mr. Editor:

The recent renewed interest shown in debating is indeed particularly gratifying and all credit is due to those who have been instrumental in encouraging this the most characteristic feature, possibly, of college life. It was achieved through no little effort, no doubt because conditions here are not at all favorable to the development of the art of debating per se. Since further progress is still encumbered with difficulties it behooves us to be very careful to avoid committing errors the presence of which may destroy all the interest that is now evident, the absence of which will enable Bucknell to attain the full measure of growth desired.

To one who has paid any attention to debating here it must have been apparent that we have been going astray in two respects the proof of which was clearly shown on several ocasions in the past. We refer to the selection of debaters and the choosing of judges. Our method with respect to the first is distinctly at variance with the method in vogue at the leading colleges throughout the country. The mode of procedure at the best institutions is to have two or three semi publicly conducted preliminaries and then the final out of which the best men acordlng to the judgement of at least three qualified and competent judges are selected. Now it is self evident that the task of selecting debaters particularly in the absence of regular preliminaries should not be entrusted to one man however capable he may be. Furthermore it is manifestly unfair as is evident by the comments on the various selections that have been made from time to time. Consequently as long as the present method, which is described in the foregoing, obtains we can hardly hope much encouragement because of the element of uncertainty and chance. Perhaps we may justly ascribe the lax interest in literary societies to this cause.

At first thought the question of choosing judges may seem to be relatively unimportant but calling to mind the experience of a year ago and more recently the discrepancy existing between the Orange and Blue's report of a certain debate and the decision of the judges the question assumes a much greater importance. We have learned that it is the custom to select first the judges and then the question. The absurdity of this method ought to be clear to a child. To prevent miscarriage of justice it ought to be the custom to select the question first and then consider for the office of judges men who are as far as possible specialists in the particular subject.

With the adoption of the suggestions, certainly simple, reasonable and just, one could readily predict an unprecedented interest make splendid the art of debating. And there is no doubt at all that Bucknell would be able to compete with the best schools in the country because the material is here provided it gets the opportunity on a basis equal with all. But not until then.

Freshman Declamation Contest.

The annual Freshman declamation contest was held in Bucknell Hall on the evening of the twentieth. It was largely attended by the friends of the speakers as well as those who are interested in public speaking. Those present enjoyed the evening immensely and pronounced the contest the best that has been held here for some time.

Much credit is due to Prof. Smith for the interest and care taken in training the contestants and in giving to them the benefit of his experience in oratory. For some weeks past he has been having daily consultations with the students advising, explaining and interpreting the selection the contestants had chosen in order that his delivery of it might be such as to win favor in sight of judges.

The contest showed a wonderful improvement in the oratorical powers over former Freshmen classes. On Friday night each contestant approached his audience with an undisturbed peace of mind, spoke distinctly, deliberately and used such expression and gestures as was best adapted to his selection. The judges doubtless had some difficulty in choosing who was the best orator.

Between the various numbers. Dr. Aviragnet and his augmented orchestra gave some very enjoyable music.

Dr. Cadman's Lecture.

The last lecture of the Y. M. C. A. course for the current year was delivered Monday night by Dr. S. Parkes Cadman. It is in no way deprecatory to the other numbers of the course to say that this was the best of them all. The lecturer took for his subject "Abraham Lincoln," and the skill with which he handled his subject showed him to be the master of his art. A touch of poetry here, a touch of pathos there, and now and then a gleam of keenest satire or wit kept his large audience in a constant state of expectancy and attention unlike most biographical lecturers. Dr. Cadman introduced just enough concerning the character under discussion to present him in the best possible light and cause his hearers to go away wishing they could have listened to him indefinitely. It will hardly be saying too much to say that all who were present are looking forward with pleasure to next year's course in the hopes of again hearing Dr. Cadman.

AN APPRECIATED LECTURE

Chaplain Jones, After Cordial Welcome, Delights Large Audience.

As Chaplain Harry W. Jones stepped off the train on Thursday afternoon, he was accorded one of the greatest receptions that was ever given a speaker by the student-body. Three hundred strong, the fellows marched down to greet the man who made the stay of the foot ball team at Norfolk, Va., last fall so pleasant, and who by his cordial hospitality won the hearts of the men who represented Bucknell on their trip into the South.

The Chaplain bears the stamp of Southern sociability and when he voiced his appreciation of the demonstration before the fellows that paraded up to Registrar Gretzinger's home, he won the attention of the crowd and paved the way for the large house that greeted him when he delivered his address in Bucknell Hall.

To introduce Chaplain Jones to the male element of the college was quite unnecessary, since the football men had "set him right" with all the fellows, but he was introduced. As he began his address "Under Fire" it was evident that he would carry his audience through without a break in the attention; and he carried them on board the battleship Texas all the way from Hampton Roads to Santiago, the scene of the great battle. Vivid descriptions, clear pictures of war scenes, and a general insight into modern naval warfare made his talk instructive as well as attractive.

Chaplain Jones said that there were three great facts that the war with Spain was evident and emphasized; The narrowing of the break between religious sects in America; the recognition by the North and South alike of the same American fling; the cementing of the friendship beween the United States and Great Britain. He prays for the day when these two great nations may act as one, annd when all disputes may be settled by arbitration. "Then," says the Chaplain, "by this method, will these two countries control the world."

Trial Meet Last Friday.

Coach Hoskins held a trial meet last Friday afternoon to "try out" the new material. Several of the events were run in fast time. The following events were contested;

One mile run, won by Rockwell; Denninger, second; time 5 minutes, 12 seconds.

100-yard dash, won by Irey; Benn second; time 10 and 2-5 seconds.

Running broad-jump, won by Comstock; Rolfe second; distance 18 ft.

440-yard dash, won by Irey; Benn second; time 55 seconds.

High hurdles, won by Comstock, Shorkley second; time 19 and 3-5 seconds.

1-2 mile run, won by Mersham; Baer second; time 2 minutes 20 and 2-5 seconds.

Editorial

Some years ago, when Matthewson was playing on Bucknell's football team, and when the State-Bucknell game was the event of the season, the Orange and Blue carried a band with them, a band composed of under-graduates. Later still when Bucknell played the Indians at Williamsport, the student body was accompanied by a band, which led the parade through the streets of the lumber city.

Our college has grown since those days, and the possibilities of equipping and supporting a good band are greater than they were then. There must be as much musical talent at Bucknell today as there was four or six years ago; and yet, when the attempt is made to organize a band for a special occasion it requires strenuous efforts. It is not the ability to organize that is lacking, nor is material scarce; the great trouble seems to be in the indisposition on the part of those who can and should take part in such undertakings. The baseball season is at hand, and there may be times when we would wish for a band at a game, after a game, or sometime; little it matters when this time will be, if we but know that when we want a band we can get it. There is need of a band; the material for such an organization is in college; a band will do as much as anything else toward fostering college spirit, and we should effect the organization at once.

Now that the baseball team is rounding into shape, and we are beginning to see who will comprise this year's nine, prospects for a winning team are becoming brighter with days. Daily practice has done much to develope the different candidates, and has enabled Captain Grimminger to see just what sort of material he has to work with. The earlier part of the season saw many despondent as to the sort of aggregation that would uphold the Orange and Blue in the hard schedule that will be played.

What Bucknell needs to win games is the hearty and earnest support of every college man. The team is ours, and win or lose we are going to stand by it. Very often one sees a bunch of rooters become sore and quiet the minute a player makes an error; everyone may as well mark it down right now that the team cannot be expected to play errorless ball throughout the entire season. Even in the face of defeat it is the duty of the cheering section to cheer, since by this very means a team may be urged on to victory.

There was one feature of the recent demonstration at Chaplain Jones' arrival that appealed to careful observers as being particularly encouraging. We refer to the manner in which the Academy students turned out and did their share to make the parade the great sucess that it was, the "Prep." yell at the station was not particularly thunderous but it was given in the same spirit which prompted the "Preps" to show up in good numbers.

The college students show too little interest in the Academy boys and the fact that, in spite of this, the younger members of our college community paraded is indeed a sign of a good spirit. Let us have more of this spirit of fellowship.

The Senior class has been considering for some time the possibility of observing "Senior Day," and at their last meeting the matter was favorably received by the class; that some such custom should be instituted at Bucknell goes with the saying. A fitting program should be arranged and the event should be made so sucessful that the annual observance of "Senior Day" would be assured.

Secretary of Y. W. C. A. Address C. E.

Miss Brinkendorf, traveling secretary of the Y. W. C. A. of colleges and preparatory schools in Pennsylvania and Maryland, has been visiting the Y. W. C. A. of the Seminary for the past few days. In an address before the C. E. Society on Sunday evening, she said:

"The Y. W. C. A. was established in England in 1860. At first, it was led by and depended upon the Y. M. C. A. for its existence, but now it is an independent organization. It has 90,000 members in the United States, and is very strong financially.

"The Y. W. C. A. is a compact organization with a definite purpose and mutual support. A local association, to be successful, must have; willing leaders, a complete organization, good bible study classes, missionary enterprise, and a strong fall campaign in the interest of new students."

Bucknell Aids San Franscisco.

At chapel on Friday morning Dr. Harris spoke of the San Francisco horror and expressed a desire that the student body would liberally respond to the wants of the sufferers with whatsoever aid they could extend. For the purpose of gathering such assistance he recommended that a committee be appointed in each class to receive subscriptions. Each class immediately acted upon his suggestion and a neat little sum is being raised.

Later on, under his direction, committees of students were appointed to canvass the town and the hill for donations of clothing and supplies. The committees desire that all donations be turned in by Tuesday noon at the latest, so that immediate relief can ber endered.

Immediately after the Inter-collegiate debate on Friday evening, Griffith, '07, will leave for Gettysburg college to attend the 15th annual conference of the Penna. Student Association Presidents.

The baseball team is developing some good players under Capt. Liddy's coaching. In the game with the Freshmen Tuesday a favorable impression was made. The score was Prep. 8; Freshmen 6.

Mr. Vernon Monroe McCombs gave a very interesting talk in the "Way of Life" meeting yesterday afternoon. His subject was: "The need of our Help in Foreign Land." Mr. McCombs is the traveling secretary for the Student Volunteer movement, and expects to go to Peru as a missionary in a very short time.

Two Games This Week.

The baseball team goes South the latter part of this week and plays two games at Annapolis,—the one on Friday with St. Johns and the other on the following day with Annapolis. Both contests promise to be hard ones and to win them the team will have to play fast ball. There should be a full representation of students at the station to send off the team when they start on the trip.

Surface Warns Groff Away.

State Economic Zoologist Surface came to East Lewisburg on Monday and gave a demonstration on his method of exterminating the dreaded San Jose scale. It was hoped that his rival bug-warrior Dr. George G. Groff would be on hand with his gas-can, but the repeated warnings sent him by Prof. Surface were sufficient to cow the doctor.

"This is my demonstration, not Groff's," declared Surface, "and if he ever appears at a place where I am giving an exhibition there will be trouble."

In his talk to the farmers that had assembled to hear about his lime-sulphur wash, the exponent of the sprinkling idea expounded at length, and during the course of his demonstration he stated his position in these words: "My challenge to any man in this state is in an orchard, and not in a room." Quite inconsistent,—he seems to see that his opponents are sure to be in their rooms before he ventures out in an orchard to show how he does things.

Three times has Dr. Groff tried to meet the famed warrior, and each time the Professor has hidden behind the issue. This time Groff let him have his way.

In his demonstration Monday Professor Surface showed a method of controlling the scale, but no way of exterminating it.

Seniors Plan to Erect Memorial.

The seniors met on Tuesday afternoon and began plans for the erection of a fitting memorial; suggestions were discussed and the work of determining was left to a committee consisting of Powell, Knupp, Hassrick, Misses McKaskie and Lane. It was also voted that the seniors should appear each Monday morning in "cap and gown." The observance of "Senior day" was considered favorably, and the work of effecting the same was referred to a committee.

B. U. WINS ONE, LOSES ONE

Home Team Downs St. John's; Defeated by Middies.

Bucknell defeated St. John's College at Annapolis on Friday by the score 8-5. Bucknell's hits were timely and these coupled with errors by the home team put the game away by a safe margin.

For Bucknell, Grininger scored in the first on his clean single and Parsons' two bagger. In the fifth Heinze drew a base on balls, stole second, and scored on Griminger's hit. Sheehan waited for wide ones, Leach was safe on an error at shortstop, Griminger scoring. Nipple was safe on a fielder's choice, and August's hit for two bases scored two runs, making a total of four in this inning. August and King counted in the seventh. Seehan scored the last tally for Bucknell in the eighth on his single, an error at shortstop, and Nipple's safe drive.

St. Johns tied the score in the fourth and in the seventh made a bid for the game by scoring four runs. In the eighth and ninth innings they were retired in order.

The varsity lost to the Navy on the latter's grounds on Saturday by the score 11-3. Up until the last half of the sixth inning it was a close and exciting game, the score standing 3-2 with Bucknell on the long end. In that inning four hits aided by a base on balls and four miplays gave the midshipmen four runs and they were never afterward in danger.

In the fifth Sheehan hit for two bases and scored on Parson's single. In the second August, King and Olendorff hit safely, August scoring. In the third Parsons drove out a homer and scored the last run. The navy clinched the game in the sixth when they tallied four times.

DEBATE WITH CORNELL

Bucknell Loses on Friday Evening After an Able Struggle.

For the second time in two consecutive years Bucknell suffered defeat on Friday evening at the hands of Cornell in debate. The contest was held in Bucknell Hall, and the question on the tapis was that "United States Senators should be elected by the people." Of this Cornell maintained the affirmative, Bucknell the negative side.

The struggle seemed to consist in the opposition of fact against theory, and in this case theory won, although by no very wide margin. When the final speech had been concluded the audience were by no means agreed as to the winners. Nor was the decision of the judges unanimous—one of the three favoring the Bucknell team.

Hon. H. M. McClure presided over the debate. The Judges were: Prof. F. L. Pattee, State College; Prof. H. C. Davis, Harry Hillman Academy, Wilkesbarre; Prof. A. T. Smith, Mansfield State Normal School. Cornell was represented by Henry T. Kent, David T. Smith, A. Heber Winder, and Lewis M. Baker, alternate. The local team consisted of Wm. E. DeMelt, Chas. F. Potter, Havard Griffith, and A. P. Waltz, alternate.

The men from York State were debaters of the highest order. Throughout their arguments they assumed a gentlemanly attitude in their method of attack. Fluency of speech and ease marked their delivery. Their well-prepared speeches won for them many words of praise, and together formed a unity that proved too strong for the Lewisburg trio.

Concerning the latter, also, much of a praiseworthy character can be said. Especially fine was the work of DeMelt, while Griffith presented a strong rebuttal. The Bucknell men connected their arguments more closely to the speeches of the visitors than vice versa.

After the opening speech by Mr. Kent, DeMelt reviewed the reasons that impelled our forefathers to adopt the present method, and held that the same reasons were operative at present for continuing it. He advanced the argument that a similar system of election would produce a similarity in the constitution of the two bodies. Both houses would be impelled by the same motives, and so there would be no advantage in a double house.

The second speaker on the visiting team pointed out a number of minor evils dependent upon the present system. Deadlocks, gerrymandering, disproportionate influence of third party, increased confusion of national and local interests, and improper representation were included among these.

For the home team Potter pointed out the increase of power of the president that would result from the adoption of the proposed plan. The president holds the House under his thumb to-day. With the Senate elected in a similar method the same fate would befall it. Consequently, the Senate, elected in part to keep the president within bounds, would fail of its purpose.

Winder on the affirmate mentioned the six causes for the conservatism of the Senate—and it is to its conservatism that it owes its virtue. Very clearly he demonstrated how five of these six would remain unaffected under the proposed change. The sixth one alone—the method of election—would be altered. Nor would this suffer on acount of the conservative spirit of the American people.

The rebuttal throughout was not especially strong. To a great extent it consisted of a rehash of points advanced in the first speech and a quibble over minor points. The main argument, however, appeared to lie in the decision as to whether or not the conservatism of the Senate would be changed with an alteration in the method of electing it. On this point, mainly, Cornell won.

Editor Orange and Blue:—

In the last issue of the Orange and Blue we notice an article stating "that we have been going astray in two respects" in our method of conducting debates. At first sight, to one who does not know the conditions existing, the article would seem very commendable. But we wonder if our disappointed Freshman really speaks from known facts. It may be true that some of the selections of debaters are not consistent with the opinions of some of the students. But we must remember that this interest in debating is but recent and has not yet been established well enough to induce much competition. Furthermore it is the faculty who chooses our public debaters and not one man as was stated. Certainly, members of our faculty are "qualified and competent" to make the best selection of debaters.

Now as to the matter of selecting judges we wish to state that "the custom to select first the judges and then the question" has never existed here. The writer of this article has made inquiries in regard to this statement and is of the opinion that the unanimous decision given in "a certain recent debate" was due not to the incompetency of the judges but rather to the incompetency of a certain debater to place before the judges facts that would change the decision. Let our younger brother not be too free to expound so publicly his "unsubstantiated" opinions on "the art of debating per se."

A "Knock" on L'Agenda.

Editor Orange and Blue:—

Recently another book has been added to the ever growing list of year books published by the Junior class of Bucknell, and no doubt the editor of L'Agenda for 1908 is already laying plans for a book to eclipse all former productions.

In view of this fact, a few words on year books in general may not be inappropriate; and first, as to their nature. As the name implies it is primarily a record of the college year; and at Bucknell, because of its production by the Junior class, it is particularly devoted to the history of the members of that class. A review of books of a similar nature, published by some of the lead-

SEMITES GIVE SOIREE

Novel Entertainment in Seminary on Saturday Evening.

On Saturday evening the Fourth year girls of the Institute delighted a large audience by giving the annual Fourth Year Soiree. True to custom the program for the evening began with the stately Danish march from Hamlet, then followed the presentation of a Japanese play, "The Flight of the Sun Goddess." The plot of this play was taken from a classical legend of old Japan, and the scenery, costumes and acting were purely Japanese.

The scenery throughout the entire play was remarkably beautiful. Great clusters of wistaria hanging from the ceiling and banks of cherry blossoms and chrysanthemums lining the walls, transformed the bare stage into a garden, fit for the Goddess of the Sun. The girls took their parts well, bowing and kneeling as gracefully as if they were really and truly little "Japs" and singing the Japanese melodies in a quaint, foreign, "Japish" manner.

To Miss Schlinger much credit is due for the success of the play, for she has worked with the girls untiringly for several weeks.

Tennis Season Under Way.

The tennis season for 1907 is well under way. Tournaments of various sorts are being played almost daily. Two weeks of practice have developed the men into first-class trim. The intercollegiate team is working up into shape to meet Dickinson some time in May. During the past week the Phi Gams defeated Phi Psi, the scores being 3-6, 6-2, 6-1. By the tallies of 6-1 and 8-6, the Phi Psi team won from the "Hot Skeeters."

Following is schedule for present week: Monday, Quakers vs. S. A. E.; Tuesday, winner vs. Phi Gamma Delta; Thursday, Inter-class tournament begins with a game between Juniors and Freshmen; Friday, Seniors vs. Sophomores.

Pedestrians Take Trip.

Seven pedestrians under the guidance of Prof. Lindemann, took a tramp to New Berlin and return on Saturday. The start was made at 9.30, and the party returned late in the afternoon. The Seminary at New Berlin was visited by the party. All enjoyed the trip, and others will likely be planned.

DEAD COLLEGE SPIRIT.

When Bucknell's baseball team came out on the diamond to play the first home game of the season—Lebanon Valley—, there was not even a yell given by the cheering section on the hill. The rooters sat there as calm and quiet as a funeral procession, and watched the game progress inning after inning without even encouraging the team by a yell. We have heard often enough that there was no need of yelling since Bucknell would win easily. Whether Bucknell needed the cheering or not, it would have been a good idea to get in practice for the harder contests, when she will require the best possible support; and again it would have been showing due appreciation of the team's efforts.

When Williamsport's team opened the season in that city last week there was a celebration, the echoes of which might have been heard here. Yet we do not look for such demonstrations at college, unless some signal victory is gained. Every team that upholds the Orange and Blue is our team and we are disloyal to our Alma Mater if we do not acord her the heartiest support. College spirit seems somewhat dead just now; let us not bury it!

The idea of giving the inter-collegiate debaters "B's" has been much discussed lately, and the "Orange and Blue" has received numerous communications on the subject. It has been suggested that should our San Francisco relief fund reach unlimited bounds, enough should be taken from the sum to provide all the debaters with good sized "B's," the same to be worn continually. It might be well to add that should any material be left over, the editor of L'Agenda, the editor of Commencement News, and several others be favored with the honor of the college letter.

Phi Beta Phi Picnic.

The members of Pi Beta Phi fraternity and their friends celebrated Founder's Day on Saturday with a picnic. The party spent a most enjoyable day in the neighborhood of White Deer.

Communication.

Concluded from first page.

ing colleges, reveals the following facts:—first, that the principal aim of the book is to furnish the men with a complete record for the year in athletics, scholarship, and debating contests, and other events of importance which affect the student body; second, that it exhibits the best literary ability of the members of the class, expressed in articles and sketches.

With this review in mind, let us turn for a comparison with the late editions of L'Agenda. We find that the records of athletics, scholarship and debating contests are usually well handled and complete; that the cuts equal, or perhaps excel, the average college productions, and that considerable literary ability is displayed.

But notwithstanding these facts in its favor, each editor calls forth a goodly portion of unfavorable criticism; the value of which must rest with the judgement of the student body. Perhaps the objection advanced oftenest and most strenuously, is that against the liberty of the editor, in coloring his remarks upon individual members of the class, according to personal likes and dislikes.

Conceiving the editor to be a servant of the class, elected to edit a book for the benefit and pleasure of each and every member in it, and to be kept as a "picture of our college days," the expectant Junior finds small satisfaction in the perusal of a book overflowing with "knocks," which, though clumsily veiled, deceive no one.

This misuse of our Junior book adds nothing to its success at Bucknell, and belittles our standing in the eyes of up-to-date schools. Good jokes are always appreciated, but the exhibition of paragraphs so rank that the subject of the attack would be discredited if he dared to display the book in his home, should be discountenanced. "Knock" if you must, but keep it out of L'Agenda, of which you may be trustee, but not owner. '07.

Senior Class Play Chosen.

The play which is to be given by the Senior class has been chosen, and the work upon the production has already begun. The play is a three act up-to-date society farce written by the popular playwright, Eleanor Maude Crane. The selection abounds in wit, and is spicy throughout, is quite heavy, and full of life.

The cast is composed of four men and four women. The following have been chosen to take parts: Powell, Kech, Smithgall and Heon; Misses Lane, Meek, McCart and Cobb, Miss Edith Schillinger, who so skillfully coached last year's Senior play and "The Modern Ananias," has consented to stage the play.

Hand Mangled in Mangle.

Daniel Kahle, who is employed at Bucknell Institute, met with a very painful accident on Monday morning while at work in the work room. Mr. Kahle was putting the mangle in operation for the day's work when he noticed a thread tangled between the rollers. In removing the thread he got his hand caught by the revolving rolls and badly crushed. The accident was not serious but extremely painful. Had the rolls been hot, as they are when in operation his hand would have been badly burned.

Important Notice.

Last week the Y. M. C. A. decided to change the time of meeting from Tuesday until Thursday night. This change is made because of the fact that the early part of the week is usually a busy time, and it is thought that Thursday night will be more convenient for all. The next meeting will be held Thursday night, May 3rd, at nine o'clock.

Meeting of West College Association this evening at 9 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. room.

The track team will leave Saturday for Dickinson to take part in the meet with that school.

August, Innes, Smithgall and McCormick attended the district convention of S. A. E. in Philadelphia last week.

Hoon, '06, and O'Brien, 09, returned from State College on Monday after spending several days there with Kappa Sigma friends.

About 30 students left the University Thursday night and Friday for Philadelphia where they went to attend the annual races on Franklin Field.

The judges and debators, who took part in the Bucknell-Cornell debate, were entertained Friday evening after the debate at the University Club.

Cober, '07, having completed the unfinished year of Steinhilper, '05, as instructor in the South Williamsport High School, has resumed his work in college.

Two baseball games are scheduled for this week. On Thursday the varsity crosses bats with Niagara, and on Saturday Dickinson will be the feature. Both games on the college campus.

Seniors to Erect Stone Bridge.

At a meeting of the senior class, on Monday afternoon it was decided to erect as a class memorial, a brown stone bridge across the stream that runs down by the Laboratory and through the Seminary campus. The structure will replace the unsightly wooden affair that now spans the stream in front of the "lab." The bridge is to consist of an arch foundation, and will cost approximately $500. As planned, it will be about the most handsome memorial left here by any class. Several plans have been submitted to the committee, which will choose the suitable one this afternoon. The contract will be awarded in a very short time.

"Sophs" Getting Ready for Contest.

Since the Freshmen have finished their declamation contest, all attention seems to turn toward the coming Sophomore contest. It is expected that a year of training ought to produce better results, but the high standard set by the lower class has made the event dubious. Each Sophomore speaker, however, has determined that every ounce of ability shall be used to uphold the honor of his class. Every man knows that the contest will lack the popular element because declamations are barred, but he feels that after all the presentation of ideas is more difficult and requires the greatest art.

The contest will occur in Bucknell Hall on Thursday evening, May 3, and will be participated in by Olive Richards, Grace Royer, Helen Forrest, Jene Hopwood, Ralph Haller, S. G. Duncan, Reuben Shrum, Charles Bromley, and Joseph Shultz.

"Sophs" Elect Athletic Officers.

The class of 1908 held a meeting in the Laboratory at which several class athletic officers were elected. Those chosen to office were: Captain of track team, Cure; Manager of track team, Kershner; Captain of tennis, Manchester; Manager of tennis, J. Henderson; Manager of base ball, Innes. As temporary Captain of base ball, Harris was elected.

BUCKNELL LOSES AGAIN

Niagara and Dickinson Win by Close Scores.

Bucknell's inability to hit Yates coupled with inexcusable and costly errors lost the Niagara game Thursday by the score of 2-0. The contest was a pitcher's battle in which both twirlers shared the honors, and had the "Chief's" support been the best, it would have required more than nine innings to decide the score.

Bucknell had two bad innings, the fifth and seventh. In the fifth, with the bases filled, Donnelly drove a long fly to King scoring Doyle before the ball could be returned to the infield. Parsons opened the seventh by issuing a base on balls to Shea, who tallied on an error by August. With two men on bases Donnelly was caught trying to steal home.

Bucknell made a bid for the game in the third inning when Leach led off with a pretty two-base hit; Nipple sacrificed him to third, but he was caught in attempting to cross the plate. King hit safely, but Olendorf was out on a line drive to McCarthy.

The umpiring of Lewis, from Bloomsburg, was satisfactory to players and spectators alike, and it is hoped he may officiate at other home games.

Summary:—Two-base hits, Leach. Double plays, Olendorf. Struck out; by Parsons 5, by Yates. 4. Base on balls, off Parsons 4. Time, 1 hour, 25 min. Umpire Lewis, of Bloomsburg.

Leach pitched a masterly game on Saturday against Dickinson, fanning nine men, and but for two bad innings would have won. The contest was the prettiest seen on the home grounds this season, resulting in the score of 2-1.

Leach started out in the opening inning by passing the first man to first, and hitting the second; with two men on bases, Davis bunted safely down the third-base line, filling the bags. Grimminger tried to catch Davis at first base, Olendorf did not cover the base and the throw went out into right field, allowing Simpson to cross the plate for the first run of the game. Latham fanned, Hall fouled to Olendorf, and Heinze threw the next man out at first.

Bucknell started the first inning well, but two men were cut off at third on easy grounders to the infield. The Orange and Blue scored their lone run in the third inning, when with two men down, Grimminger hit safely for two bases; Sheehan brought him in by a three-base hit that went through Davis.

Dickinson's last run came in the third, when Nipple fumbled a hot grounder from Davis. After being sacrificed to third, he scored on a fly to Parsons.

Captain Grimminger's hitting was a feature.

REPASZ BAND ENGAGED

Celebrated Organization to Render Music at 56th Commencement.

The celebrated Repasz Band, of Williamsport, Pa., has been engaged for the fifty-sixth Commencement of Bucknell University.

This band is one of the leading musical organizations in Pennsylvania, and is particularly efficient in its rendition of popular concert selections. The Repasz Band numbers thirty pieces, and every musician performs like an artist. The organization has enjoyed an uninterrupted existence of over half a century and has won an enviable reputation. The twilight concerts have become a popular part of the Commencement program, and the Repasz Band can be depended upon to keep up the interest in the event.

Tennis Schedule Announced.

Manager DeMelt, of the tennis team, has announced the following schedule:

Dickinson College, at Lewisburg, May 19.

Bucknell, at Gettysburg, May 25.

Bucknell, at Dickinson, May 26.

Gettysburg, at Lewisburg, June 9.

The single championship will be decided this week.

The finals of the inter-club tournament in tennis were played last week, Phi Gamma Delta winning from S. A. E., 6-1, 6-0, and 6-4. In the inter-class series the Sophomores won from the Seniors, 6-4 and 6-1; the Juniors beat the Freshmen, 6-2, and 6-3.

Commencement Speakers Chosen.

The following members of the Senior class have been chosen as Commencement speakers:

Miss Florence Cobb, Coudersport.
Miss Mary Moll, Mahanoy City.
Genus E. Bartlett, Webster, W. Va.
Joseph L. Challis, Waverly.
Harold N. Cole, Shingle House.
William E. DeMelt, South Waterloo, N. Y.
Maurice F. Goldsmith, Carnegie.
Charles A. Knupp, Penbrook.
Robert B. Leighou, Northumberland.
Edwin W. Rumsey, Lewisburg.

Plans Laid For Summer School.

The Baptist Summer school, that is to be held in Lewisburg August 1 to 10, received its birth at the Detroit Convention, when four experienced instructors were engaged, and four courses of four hours each were introduced. These study classes at Detroit caused great emphasis to be placed upon work of this character at summer assemblies.

The convention at Lewisburg is the legitimate outgrowth of the educational idea upon which the Baptist Young People's movement is built. It is proposed to have a real summer school within the walls of Bucknell University. Similar schools have been conducted successfully at Silver Bay, New York, and at other places. The object is the furtherance of the cause missions among young people. A tuition fee is charged; instructors who are experts in their departments are engaged, and three hours in the morning are devoted to class-room work; the afternoons are absolutely free; the evenings from eight to nine are given to lectures.

Sophomore Contest To-night.

The Sophomore declamation contest, which was to have taken place last Thursday evening, will be held in Bucknell Hall to-night. The speakers have been working that the result of their efforts may reflect honor on their class. Those who will take part are; Olive Richards, Helen Forrest, Grace Royer, Jene Hopwood, Ralph Haller, S. T. Duncan, Reuben Shrum, Charles Bromley, and Joseph Shultz.

Dr. Colestock Chosen as Speaker.

Dr. Henry T. Colestock, Professor of History, at Bucknell University, has been chosen as one of the speakers for the fiftieth annual sessions of the Pennsylvania State Educational Society to be held at Altoona on July 3, 4, and 5, 1906. Dr. Colestock will deliver an address on the evening of the fourth.

Varsity Plays Three Games This Week.

Bucknell plays three hard games this week with Lafayette, Gettysburg, and Dickinson. These are three of the hardest contests on the schedule, and will be played away from home.

BUCKNELL DOWNS DICKINSON

Orange and Blue Athletes Win Track Meet by Three Points.

While Dickinson was trimming the baseball team here on Saturday, Bucknell's track team was turning the trick on the "Blue and White" athletes down at Carlisle. The "Orand Blue" excelled in field events while Dickinson took the majority of track events. The meet was close and exciting, and was not decided until the last points were scored. Irey's brilliant work in the dashes, Lenhart's superiority in the weight department, and Cure's remarkable jumping were largely responsible for the victory.

Among the new men Shade and Knapp did good work, each winning points in two events; Jones, who was expected to take the two-mile race, was unable to finish on account of a weak ankle, which played out on him at the end of the seventh lap. Denninger ran a beautiful race in the mile, leaving his opponent 50 yards behind.

Roy L. Dunkleberger, of Dickinson, broke their track record for the quarter-mile, running it in 53 1-5 seconds.

Score: 53¼—50½.

The events:

100 yd. dash—Won by Irey, Bucknell; second, Parsons, Dickinson; third, McGowan, Dickinson. Time, 10 3-5. seconds.

120 yd. hurdles—Won by Bohner, Dickinson; second, Salter, Dickinson; third, Knapp, Bucknell. Time, 17 2-5 seconds.

Mile run—Won by Denninger, Bucknell; Super, Dickinson and Rockwell, tied for second. Time, 4.57.

440 yd. run—Won by Dunkleberger, Dickinson; second, Washabaugh, Dickinson; third, Mershon, Bucknell. Time 53 1-5 seconds.

Two mile run—Won by Sawyer, Dickinson; second, Whitney, Bucknell; third, Shilling, Dickinson. Time, 11 minutes 27 2-5 seconds.

Editorial

When balmy breezes float across the campus, and when sunny days drive us from our rooms, we seem to feel that college life is somewhat of a dream. Yet in all our dreams we should not fail to remember the end of it all. There are no pleasure courses at Bucknell if we strive to get the most out of the work we take. Spring constantly sidetracks us and leads us to believe that real college life consists in a series of rambles, talks, and pleasant trips. When such thoughts and inclinations press in upon us, it is a good time to cultivate a quality which no one can afford to lack,—"stick-to-it-iveness."

The recent criticism of 1907 L'Agenda brings to the front the fact that the majority of college men are under an illusion in regard to the editing of college year-books. True enough the responsibility of such productions rests upon the man who has charge of the work, but too often is it true that burdens are loaded upon him. The editor of L'Agenda sacrifices both time and effort in the production of his publication. If he follows the plan of former editors, he is a copyist; if he diverts from the general outline, he is overstepping his authority. Some liberty must be exercised.

Suppose the 'Varsity has not won every game played thus far this season, does every college expect to make such a record? Bucknell did not begin the season in the hope of landing a victory every time we crossed bats with another college team. What is more, the dearth of material caused many to doubt whether or not we would land the majority of the games. We believe the team will play faster ball than it has been playing. By next Saturday half of the games on the schedule will have been played, and, with fair luck, Bucknell will be able to look back upon a record containing more victories than defeats.

Paul Smith, '05, who has been playing on the Dickinson baseball team, acompanied the nine here Saturday, but would not line up against his Alma Mater.

Reception to Commencement Speakers.

The honor members of the class of 1906 were very pleasantly entertained Saturday evening by Mrs. D. E. W. Spratt, at her home on North Third street. The dignified Seniors were not adverse to playing various games. Later, refreshments were served, and a post prandial session followed at which Blakeslee was toast master, and Miss Furman responded to the toast, "Alma Mater;" DeMelt, "The Faculty;" Challis, "The Class;" Knupp, "The Girls;" Mrs. Spratt, "The Honor Members." Miss Schlichlinger chaperoned. The commencement speakers present were: Rumsey, Challis, Leighton, Goldsmith, Knupp, Bartlett and DeMelt. There were also present, Misses Lane, Furman, Bacon and Knapp,'06; Miss Blakeslee, Mrs. DeMelt, and Blakeslee, '06.

Colgate Indignant at Hard Rub.

The students of Colgate are enraged at the following statement which appeared in the New York Sun of Feb. 18: "The students at Colgate, of whom there are about 250, are for the most part from farms in the neighborhood."

The editor of the Colgate Weekly arises in indignation to remark: "From East and West, from North and South, from Canada and the awakening Orient; from the home of the farmer and the shop of the trader and the cosy cottage of the laborer, Colgate's sons come together from the world at large, commune with Colgate tradition and manhood, and go forth again to the world at large."

Lafayette Meet Saturday.

The only track meet on Athletic Field this season will be held next Saturday, when Bucknell faces Lafayette. The meet promises to be a close one, and for the management to come out on the proposition there must be a large attendance from the student body. The fact that it is the only contest of its kind to be seen here this year should make this part certain.

Dr. Aviragnet Addresses Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Aviragnet, in the first Y. M. C. A. meeting he has attended during his twenty years' stay at Bucknell, addressed the association Thursday evening on the subject of "Socialism in France." His talk was full of reminsences, and was very interesting. "In France," said the doctor, "the socialist is really the anarchist."

For seventy years Dr. Aviragnet has not spent a Sunday without reading the Sermon on the Mount.

Sigma Chi Convention.

An organization meeting of the Sigma Chi fraternity convention was held Thursday morning at the Chapter house of the University of Pennsylvania. Seventeen colleges were represented. The convention was a tri-province gathering of first, second and third provinces, Sigma Chi. Ball, '08, represented the Bucknell chapter.

Railroad Rates for Commencement

The Trunk Line Association has granted the rate of fare and a third for return trip over all trunk lines in Pennsylvania, east of and including Erie, Oil City and Pittsburg. Tickets to be sold to go June 14 to 20, and good to return June 23 inclusive. Card orders can be had upon application to Registrar after June 1.

Managers May Not Wear Letter.

At a meeting of the Athletic Association, of Dickinson College, Tuesday evening it was decided that hereafter managers could not wear the athletic "D" except on a small button in the lapel of the coat.

CORNELL UNIVERSITY MEDICAL COLLEGE
NEW YORK CITY.
The course covering four years begins during the last week in Sept. and continues until June. A preliminary training in natural science is of great advantage. All classes are divided into small sections for recitations, laboratory and clinical bedside instructions. Students admitted to advance standing after passing the requisite examinations. The successful completion of the first year in any College or University recognized by the Regents of the State of New York as maintaining a satisfactory standard is sufficient to satisfy the requirements for admission which lately have been raised. The annual announcement giving full particulars will be mailed on application.

BUCKNELL BREAKS EVEN

Gettysburg Easy, But Dickinson Wins by Close Score.

Bucknell won from Gettysburg Friday by Kauffman 3. First base on called balls, off Leach 3, off Kauffman 1. Time, 2 hours 10 minutes. Umpire Sheeley. Stolen bases, Lautz, James 2. Grininger, Sheehan. Hit by pitched ball—Nipple.

In a close game, at Carlisle, Saturday, Dickinson won from Bucknell by the score 5 to 4. Parsons pitched a good game and with the hitting of the men behind him should have won, but a little hard luck lost the game. As in the contest with Dickinson on the home grounds, Bucknell outhit them.

Bucknell was first to bat and the heavy end of the batting list failed to connect safely. In Dickinson's half Davis singled, coming home on Simpson's hit to right field. Latham trying to sacrifice beat out his bunt, and Crutchly was passed. Two sacrifices and a foul to left field scored Simpson, Latham and Crutchly. Bucknell came back in the second with two earned runs on August's three base hit, Olendorf's two bagger, a fly to center field and a sacrifice. In the fifth was added one more on Nipple's hit, a pass to Heinze and

In the course of a week or two the entire play will be ready for the first rehearsal. This year's Senior class was late in getting to work on their play, but the way in which the parts are being taken gives assurance that the play will be completely mastered by the time set for the production.

W. and J. Game Canceled.

The W. and J. baseball game has been canceled, but it is quite likely that a game will be scheduled for the date. The canceling of this game is unfortunate in that it was looked forward to as one of the best home exhibitions on the list. W. and J. suffered its first defeat of the season, at the hands of the Pittsburg Nationals, Thursday.

Non-fulfillment of appointments on the program, expulsion for non-payment of dues, and the reinstatement of honorary members into active membership. The new constitution went into effect at the beginning of the present term and has been printed in neat pamphlet form for distribution among the members.

Alumnae Reunion.

The annual reunion and luncheon of the Bucknell Alumnae Association will be held in the parlors of the Lutheran church, Lewisburg, Monday, June 18, at twelve o'clock noon. Toasts will be given from the classes of '56, '66, '76, '86, '06, the Philadelphia Alumnae Club and the Lewisburg Alumnae Club. Those who expect to attend should write early to Mrs. Dora E. W. Spratt, Cor. Sec., Lewisburg, Pa.

Elocutionists Do Well in Contest.

The annual elocution contest of Bucknell Institute, held Saturday evening in Bucknell Hall, was largely attended. The contestants showed the careful training of Miss Schillinger and acquitted themselves especially well considering that none of them are elocution students.

Miss Albright sang, "The Roses with the Thorns," by Heubbein, in good voice, and the Mandolin and Guitar Club played with excellent effect Mendelssohn's "Song Without Words," and a "Serenade" from Shubert.

The speakers and their selections were, "Sam Weller's Valentine," Beatrice Weill; "Naughty Zelle," Leonora Shamp; "Confidence," Amelia Wensel; "Massare of Zoroaster," Emily Reagle; "Little Carl," Laura McGann. Miss Ira Martin, Rev. John T. Judd, and Prof. J. M. Wolfe were the judges.

Last "At Home" of the Year.

The first "At Home" of the spring term, and the last of the college year, was held in the Institute parlors this afternoon. A large number were present to enjoy the final event of the sason, and this added greatly to the success of the affair. The majority of the guests were "regulars," as many doubtless thought it was rather late in the year to spring into the "social whirl." The decorations were artfully executed, and added much to attractiveness of the different parlors. The event was a fitting climax to the number of pleasant "At Homes" that have been given this year, and was greatly appreciated by the many who were there to enjoy the final function.

Bible Study to be Introduced Next Year

In the early part of the college year efforts were made to institute a course of bible study at Bucknell by means of the formation of a number of classes. This attempt met with very slight encouragement, either because of a lack of interest, or inability to get the plan working satisfactorily.

The same plan was received more favorably at State College, and as a result the bible study enrolment has reached 312 in twenty-nine classes including seven fraternity, three club classes, ando ne athlete's class.

Next fall the matter of conducting a series of bible study classes will be brought up before the student-body again, and no energy will be spared in making the idea work out successfully.

Sophomore Cotillion Friday Night.

The "Sophs" have completed all arrangements for a successful cotillion Friday night. A large number of invitations have been sent out, and the committees look for a good attendance. This will be the second annual dance given by the Sophomore class, the first having been given last year by 1907.

President's Reception May 28.

Invitations for the annual President's reception have been sent out announcing May 28 as the date of the event. This is a reception given to the Senior class toward the close of each college year, and is a very popular function.

LAFAYETTE WINS MEET

Bucknell's Weakness in Track Events Responsible for Defeat.

Lafayette easily defeated Bucknell in a track and field meet Saturday afternoon by the score of 66 to 38. Two records were broken. Lenhart smashed his own record for the shot put, and Reese, of Lafayette, broke the record of his college in the 120-yard hurdle race.

Bucknell captured the majority of the field events, but was outclassed by the Lafayette sprinters and runners. Irey, the Orange and Blue star sprinter, did not show his usual form on acount of a bad ankle. The Orange and Blue did not win a first place in the track events, and had it not been for the superior work of the field men, the meet would have been still more one-sided.

Shade sprung the surprise of the day by beating Lenhart in the hammer throw. These two men netted 16 of the 38 points scored. Knapp won the pole-vault from Colliton without exerting himself, and Cure broke even in the broad and high jumps. The wonderful endurance of Perez, of Lafayette, was a feature of the day; he captured both distance events. Deninger and Whitney ran well, but could not land first places.

The events:

100 yard Dash—Shaffer, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time 10 3-5 sec.

120 yard Hurdle—Reese, Lafayette, first; Lee, Lafayette, second. Time 16 1-5 sec.

Mile Run—Perez, Lafayette, first; Deninger, Bucknell, second. Time 4 min. 51 4-5 sec.

440 yard Dash—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time 54 sec.

Two mile Run—Perez, Lafayette, first; Whitney, Bucknell, second. Time, 11 min. 18 3-5 sec.

220 yard Hurdles—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Schaeffer, Lafayette, second. Time, 27 sec.

220 yard Dash—Shaeffer, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time, 23 3-5 sec.

880 yard Run—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Baer, Bucknell, second. Time, 2 min. 10 3-5 sec.

High Jump—Cure, Bucknell, first; Lee, Lafayette, second. Height, 5 ft. 7 in.

Shot Put—Lenhart, Bucknell, first; Shade, Bucknell, second. Distance, 40 ft. 4 in.

Bread Jump—Lee, Lafayette, first; Cure, Bucknell, second. Distance, 20 ft. 4½ in.

Pole Vault—Knapp, Bucknell, first; Colliton, Lafayette, second. Height, 10 ft.

Hammer Throw—Shade, Bucknell, first; Lenhart, Bucknell, second. Distance, 113 ft. 11 in.

Tri-Delta Entertains.

Delta Delta Delta fraternity entertained the Pi Beta Phi fraternity at an "at home" on Tuesday afternoon in the Seminary parlors. The guest of honor was Miss R. Louise Fitch, who was visiting the local chapter of Tri-Delta. Other guests were Mrs. J. M. Wolfe and Mrs. W. L. Gearhart, patronesses of the fraternity; Miss Bush, and Prof. and Mrs. Edwards. The parlors were tasily decorated for the ocasion, and music was furnished by Miller's orchestra.

Bravest of hearts beneath the shining sun,
Thou servant of the living God well done.
Jehovah's law within thee young was writ
For fifty years thou hast been living it.
'Twas Moses first who caught thy listening ear
And lighted thee with visions of a seer.
Then David sang his lyric soul to thine
And rapt Isaiah his inspired line;
While Amos' wrath enkindled wrath in thee
For sin and every form of infamy.
'Twas Job who chiefly taught thee how to bear
The suffering sent of God and not despair;
While Paul's great labors stirred thee through and through
With that untiring zeal was thine to do;
But more than all the Master's toil and strife
We see both in thy labors and thy life.
A battle planner thou hast planned a war
'Gainst ignorance as prophet did of yore;
A battle fighter, thou hast conquered sin
Unyielding hero trusting God within.
A high souled courage thine to do, to bear,
To die, and dying still to do, to dare.
Thy will hath triumphed and thy crown is won,
Thou servant of the living God well done.

A Tragedy of the Wilderness.

I.

Among the wooded retreats of the Catskills a little stream splashes its noisy way down the mountain side. At the foot of the mountain another rivulet adds its silvery tinkle to the noisy torrent. The stream thus enlarged now winds down a narrow ravine pausing here and there under the shadow of pine or hemlock to form a deep dark pool where speckled trout may hide; now it creeps under the giant trunk of an overturned monarch of the woods; now it turns aside to avoid a huge boulder which has rolled down from the mountain side into the channel in a vain attempt to stop the swiftly gliding water; now always seeking the pleasant valley toward the north it leaps down, down a hundred feet into well-like depths or glides merrily over smooth worn rocks. Soon the mighty mountains are left behind and the stream now growing larger and larger flows less turbulently through rolling foothills where it carves for itself an ever deepening course. The hills become hillocks and the stream as if subdued by the beauty of the place flows silently through rich meadow-land, past orchards and fields of grain waving in the sunlight, by farmhouses and villages peopled with a happy, industrious folk until with a broad sweep and a noiseless flow it is lost in the bosom of the mighty Mohawk. Such is the course of the Schoharie.

In early times the banks of this river were occupied by the remnant of a tribe of Indians more or less closely allied to their neighbors, the Mohawks. They were called Schoharies. The few small villages of this tribe about which were small spaces of partly cleared land where the Indian women raised crops of maize, beans, and pumpkins were scattered here and there along the stream. On the north bank of the Mohawk just opposite its confluence with the Schoharie was a celebrated meeting place where the Iroquois tribes gathered for their councils.

At the present day many relics and other evidences of these early inhabitants may be found along the banks of these rivers. Stone arrowheads, spear points, hatchets, knives, hammers, pestles and mortars, shell beads or wampum have been found in large quantities. Occasionally, on some woody hillside or in some secluded little valley a burial place may be discovered where the men of olden times are sleeping their last long sleep. Now, however, the arts of peace have supplanted the stratagems of war, the wilderness has given way to fertile farms, and the civilization of the white man reigns over the valley which was once the hunting ground of a savage race.

[illegible] here in the new braidsand straws, ef-

rest upon the valley. It was, however, the peace which follows the tempest. The countless raindrops glistening on the forest leaves like teardrops on the face of Nature, the sodden earth, trees torn and shattered by the thunderbolt, and the turbulent yellow flood of the river indicated that a fierce storm had lately passed that way.

Yet that very morning an unusual scene was being enacted on the south bank of the Mohawk some two hundred rods below its junction with the Schoharie. A score of Indian women with rude stone or shell implements were hastily digging a long, deep trench not far from the brink of the river. Hardly had they completed their work when with wierd incantations or monotonous chant a procession of warriors bearing heavy burdens issued from the forest and approached the trench. As the warriors laid down their burdens near the side of the trench, one, who was of higher rank than the others, raised the coverings and disclosed the bodies of the dead. The trench was a grave, the occasion was a funeral.

Of the bodies there appeared to be three of especial distinction. The first of these was that of a young chief bearing honorable scars of war whose decorations gave evidence that he was a Schoharie. The second was that of a powerfully built warrior upon whose face was a hideous scar and whose sunken orbit indicated the loss of an eye. He was an Onondaga. The attention of the Indians, however, was centered upon the form of the third, that of a maiden, young and according to Indian standard very beautiful. For her they fashioned from the bark of the hemlock a rude coffin within which they placed her in a sitting posture and then lowered her into the trench. In order that she might behold the first light of the rising sun as it cast its level rays up the valley they placed her with her face toward the east. About her they arranged the bodies of the dead warriors, her attendants to the spirit world.

III.

Shortly before noon on the day preceding the Indian funeral a birch bark canoe might have been seen floating down the Schoharie. Its solitary occupant guided his frail craft with consummate skill past the shallow places and through the rapids of the treacherous stream. He was an Indian brave still in the morning of life, tall and sinewy in form, and stern of face. The bunch of gray feathers in his war lock and the rude totem tattooed upon his naked breast betokened the clan of the Hawk. As he moved his paddle through the water his sturdy muscles bulged large under his bronzed skin. This was Ta-ke-to, a chief of the Schoharies. Although a bow and a quiver of flint headed arrows lay in the canoe before him yet several belts of black wampum indicated that his errand was a peaceful one.

The stillness of the primeval forest was over shore and stream as the solitary traveler pursued his lonely voyage. The heat of the July day was oppressive; overhead a hawk circled about on lazy wings; not a leaf stirred in the endless forest; a misty haze enfolded the horizon in a purple mantle. Through the deathlike

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, MAY 14, 1906 No. 30

BUCKNELL BREAKS EVEN

Gettysburg Easy, But Dickinson Wins by Close Score.

Simpson, Latham and Crutchly. Bucknell came back in the second with two earned runs on August's three base hit, Olendorf's two bagger, a fly to center field and a sacrifice. In the fifth was added one more on silence broken only by the hardly perceptible swish of paddle and an occasional splash in the water which bertayed the presence of the gamey pike the solitary chief glided down the sunny Schoharie. Here he floated between low banks heavily timbered with ash, maple, and hickory; on either side the level country reached out to the distant hills of the Catskills and of the Helderbergs. Soon, however, the stream wound between lofty banks in a channel cut through the very hills. Here the current was swift and the rocks made passage dangerous, here also the cliffs of blue clay aided by the pines and hemlocks on their summits cast gloomy shadows over the swirling waters. This was a place much dreaded by the Indians; for concerning the narrow passage there was a legend of evil spirits who with beguiling whispers assured the voyagers of safety while the treacherous waters hurled him to destruction. Ta-ke-to, however, passed safely through the perilous channel and saw the beautiful valley of the Mohawk lying peaceful in the summer sunlight. Before him, at the mouth of the Schoharie and on the north bank of the Mohawk stood the lofty hill upon which for many years the Iroquois had held their councils. Even as he looked he could see the smoke from the council fire rising straight in the breezeless air only to thin and disappear in the upper strata of the atmosphere. Swiftly Ta-ke-to urged his canoe between the low banks and out into the deep waters of the Mohawk. Turning to the right he passed safely down the rift, then guided his canoe to the north bank and landed on the pebbly shore. He lifted his light canoe in his arms, carried it a few yards into the woods, and carefully concealed it in a thick clump of bushes. Then taking his bow and arrow and the belts of wampum by a scarcely distinguishable trail he began to climb the hill upon whose summit the council was being held.

When he reached the top and stood upon the rocky cliff Ta-ke-to turned to look back. Before him lay as beautiful a sight as the New World could afford to her most ardent admirer. At his feet far below him the silvery Mohawk extended as far as the eye could see to the east, and westward to where the hills encroaching upon the valley shut out the sight. Directly in front of him the Schoharie down which he had just come stretched to the southward and disappeared in the canyon of the blue hills. While all about, east and west and south, the unbroken wilderness lay in its emerald cloak. Through all and pervading all was the sultry, oppressive heat which had caused drops of still undried perspiration to stand out upon the face and body of Ta-ke-to, while over all hung that purple haze which betokens the coming tempest.

IV.

In the stifling heat of the July day the little Mohawk village seemed almost deserted. This was a small collection of twenty-odd wigwams scattered in a hap-hazard manner in the great pine forest some little distance from the edge of the bluff. Streets there were none, neither was there any "long house"; for the village was a temporary one occupied only in time of great Indian councils or, as at the present time, in order

Alumnae Reunion.

The annual reunion and luncheon of the Bucknell Alumnae Association will be held in the parlors of the Lutheran church, Lewisburg, Monday, June 18, at twelve o'clock noon. Toasts will be given from the classes of '56, '66, '76, '86, '06, the Philadelphia Alumnae Club and the Lewisburg Alumnae Club. Those who expect to attend should write early to Mrs. Dora E. W. Spratt, Cor. Sec., Lewisburg, Pa.

W. and J. Game Canceled.

The W. and J. baseball game has been canceled, but it is quite likely that a game will be scheduled for the date. The canceling of this game is unfortunate in that it was looked forward to as one of the best home exhibitions on the list. W. and J. suffered its first defeat of the season, at the hands of the Pittsburg Nationals, Thursday.

Elocutionists Do Well in Contest.

The annual elocution contest of Bucknell Institute, held Saturday evening in Bucknell Hall, was largely attended. The contestants showed the careful training of Miss Schlininger and acquitted themselves especially well considering that none of them are elocution students.

Miss Albright sang, "The Roses with the Thorns," by Heubbein, in good voice, and the Mandolin and Guitar Club played with excellent effect Mendelssohn's "Song Without Words," and a "Serenade" from Shubert.

The speakers and their selections were, "Sam Weller's Valentine," Beatrice Weill; "Naughty Zelle," Leonora Shamp; "Confidence," Amelia Wensel; "Massare of Zoroaster," Emily Reagle; "Little Carl," Laura McCann. Miss Iza Martin, Rev. John T. Judd, and Prof. J. M. Wolfe were the judges.

Last "At Home" of the Year.

The first "At Home" of the spring term, and the last of the college year, was held in the Institute parlors this afternoon. A large number were present to enjoy the final event of the sason, and this added greatly to the success of the affair. The majority of the guests were "regulars," as many doubtless thought it was rather late in the year to spring into the "social whirl." The decorations were artfully executed, and added much to attractiveness of the different parlors. The event was a fitting climax to the number of pleasant "At Homes" that have been given this year, and was greatly appreciated by the many who were there to enjoy the final function.

Bible Study to be Introduced Next Year

In the early part of the college year efforts were made to institute a course of bible study at Bucknell by means of the formation of a number of classes. This attempt met with very slight encouragement, either because of a lack of interest, or inability to get the plan working satisfactorily.

The same plan was received more favorably at State College, and as a result the bible study enrolment has reached 312 in twenty-nine classes including seven fraternity, three club classes, ando ne athlete's class.

Next fall the matter of conducting a series of bible study classes will be brought up before the student-body again, and no energy will be spared in making the idea work out successfully.

Sophomore Cotillion Friday Night.

The "Sophs" have completed all arrangements for a successful cotillion Friday night. A large number of invitations have been sent out, and the committees look for a good attendance. This will be the second annual dance given by the Sophomore class, the first having been given last year by 1907.

President's Reception May 28.

Invitations for the annual President's reception have been sent out announcing May 28 as the date of the event. This is a reception given to the Senior class toward the close of each college year, and is a very popular function.

LAFAYETTE WINS MEET

Bucknell's Weakness in Track Events Responsible for Defeat.

Lafayette easily defeated Bucknell in a track and field meet Saturday afternoon by the score of 66 to 38. Two records were broken. Lenhart smashed his own record for the shot put, and Reese, of Lafayette, broke the record of his college in the 120-yard hurdle race.

Bucknell captured the majority of the field events, but was outclassed by the Lafayette sprinters and runners. Irey, the Orange and Blue star sprinter, did not show his usual form on acount of a bad ankle. The Orange and Blue did not win a first place in the track events, and had it not been for the superior work of the field men, the meet would have been still more one-sided.

Shade sprung the surprise of the day by beating Lenhart in the hammer throw. These two men netted 16 of the 38 points scored. Knapp won the pole-vault from Colliton without exerting himself, and Cure broke even in the broad and high jumps. The wonderful endurance of Perez, of Lafayette, was a feature of the day; he captured both distance events. Deninger and Whitney ran well, but could not land first places.

The events:

100 yard Dash—Shaffer, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time 10 3-5 sec.

120 yard Hurdle—Reese, Lafayette, first; Lee, Lafayette, second. Time 16 1-5 sec.

Mile Run—Perez, Lafayette, first; Deninger, Bucknell, second. Time 4 min. 51 4-5 sec.

440 yard Dash—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time 54 sec.

Two mile Run—Perez, Lafayette, first; Whitney, Bucknell, second. Time, 11 min. 18 3-5 sec.

220 yard Hurdles—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Schaeffer, Lafayette, second. Time, 27 sec.

220 yard Dash—Shaeffer, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time, 23 3-5 sec.

880 yard Run—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Baer, Bucknell, second. Time, 2 min. 10 3-5 sec.

High Jump—Cure, Bucknell, first; Lee, Lafayette, second. Height, 5 ft. 7 in.

Shot Put—Lenhart, Bucknell, first; Shade, Bucknell, second. Distance, 40 ft. 4 in.

Broad Jump—Lee, Lafayette, first; Cure, Bucknell, second. Distance, 20 ft. 4½ in.

Pole Vault—Knapp, Bucknell, first; Colliton, Lafayette, second. Height, 10 ft.

Hammer Throw—Shade, Bucknell, first; Lenhart, Bucknell, second. Distance, 113 ft. 11 in.

Tri-Delta Entertains.

Delta Delta Delta fraternity entertained the Pi Beta Phi fraternity at an "at home" on Tuesday afternoon in the Seminary parlors. The guest of honor was Miss R. Louise Fitch, who was visiting the local chapter of Tri-Delta. Other guests were Mrs. J. M. Wolfe and Mrs. W. L. Gearhart, patronesses of the fraternity; Miss Bush, and Prof. and Mrs. Edwards. The parlors were tasily decorated for the ocasion, and music was furnished by Miller's orchestra.

that the Indian women might cultivate the fields of maize which lay near the site of the village. After the corn harvest the occupants would move northward to the better hunting grounds where a supply of deer meat for the winter could be secured. In place of a "long house" the councils were held in a small semicircular vale some rods north of the village.

As Ta-ke-to entered the village his watchful eye noted its deserted appearance. Here and there he caught sight of naked children sleeping in the shade of the wigwams; he saw a squaw, too old to work in the maize fields, pounding corn in a stone mortar. When he reached the center of the village he strode past the wigwam of the sachem apparently without noticing a lithe maiden who sat in the very shadow of her father's lodge busily engaged in beading and quilling a moccasin. This girld whom Ta-ke-to did not deign to notice was 0

"The fairest of the Indian maids,
Bright-eyed,
With wealth of raven tresses, a light form, and a gay heart."

She, too, was of the clan of the Hawk and for her sake had Ta-ke-to come to the Mohawk village. Without hesitation he passed directly through the village toward the council place.

When Ta-ke-to looked down into the little vale he saw that the council was still being held. In accord with Iroquois customs a fire had been kindled in the center of the vale. In a circle about this fire sat the score of Mohawk warriors belonging to the village and with them half as many strangers. A warrior of sinster appearance had just finished speaking as the new comer approached and took a place in the circle. No indication of surprise greeted Ta-ke-to's appearance for he was well known to the Mohawks, no word of welcome was spoken but the pipe of peace was handed around in silence.

As the Mohawks, too courteous to inquire of the new arrival his business, sat waiting in stolid silence for him to speak, Ta-ke-to stealthily looked about. At the head of the council sat Ke-no-to, the dignified Mohawk sachem; on either side of him sat his warriors. Opposite Ke-no-to sat an elderly Indian chief who bore upon his breast the totem of that most powerful clan—the Wolf. This was the Onondaga sachem, Sa-me-wis, lineal descendant of the great Atotarho, the Messiah of the Iroquois. Sa-me-wis was famed for his great personal strength and bravery but no less famed for his ugliness since in a fierce battle with the Hurons he had received in his face a blow from a tomahawk which had left an ugly scar across his cheek and which had caused the loss of one eye. Sa-me-wis was accompanied by eight or ten braves who sat about him and of whom one had just ceased speaking.

After sitting in silence for some time Ta-ke-to suddenly arose and taking his belts of black wampum stood before Ke-no-to, the Mohawk sachem and father of the beautiful Wa-to-neka for whose sake Ta-ke-to had come to the council. For a moment he stood before the old sachem without speaking. Then holding out a belt of wampum he said:

"Ta-ke-to, sagamore of the Schoharies, comes before the great sachem

Elocutionists Do Well in Contest.

The annual elocution contest of Bucknell Institute, held Saturday evening in Bucknell Hall, was largely attended. The contestants showed the careful training of Miss Schillinger and acquitted themselves especially well considering that none of them are elocution students.

Miss Albright sang, "The Roses with the Thorns," by Heubbeln, in good voice, and the Mandolin and Guitar Club played with excellent effect Mendelssohn's "Song Without Words," and a "Serenade" from Shubert.

The speakers and their selections were, "Sam Weller's Valentine," Beatrice Weill; "Naughty Zelle," Leonora Shamp; "Confidence," Amelia Wensel; "Massare of Zoronster," Emily Reagle; "Little Carl," Laura McGann. Miss Iza Martin, Rev. John T. Judd, and Prof. J. M. Wolfe were the judges.

Last "At Home" of the Year.

The first "At Home" of the spring term, and the last of the college year, was held in the Institute parlors this afternoon. A large number were present to enjoy the final event of the sason, and this added greatly to the success of the affair. The majority of the guests were "regulars," as many doubtless thought it was rather late in the year to spring into the "social whirl." The decorations were artfully executed, and added much to attractiveness of the different parlors. The event was a fitting climax to the number of pleasant "At Homes" that have been given this year, and was greatly appreciated by the many who were there to enjoy the final function.

Bible Study to be Introduced Next Year

In the early part of the college year efforts were made to institute a course of bible study at Bucknell by means of the formation of a number of classes. This attempt met with very slight encouragement, either because of a lack of interest, or inability to get the plan working satisfactorily.

The same plan was received more favorably at State College, and as a result the bible study enrolment has reached 312 in twenty-nine classes including seven fraternity, three club classes, ando ne athlete's class.

Next fall the matter of conducting a series of bible study classes will be brought up before the student-body again, and no energy will be spared in making the idea work out successfully.

Sophomore Cotillion Friday Night.

The "Sophs" have completed all arrangements for a successful cotillion Friday night. A large number of invitations have been sent out, and the committees look for a good attendance. This will be the second annual dance given by the Sophomore class, the first having been given last year by 1907.

President's Reception May 28.

Invitations for the annual President's reception have been sent out announcing May 28 as the date of the event. This is a reception given to the Senior class toward the close of each college year, and is a very popular function.

LAFAYETTE WINS MEET

Bucknell's Weakness in Track Events Responsible for Defeat.

Lafayette easily defeated Bucknell in a track and field meet Saturday afternoon by the score of 66 to 38. Two records were broken. Lenhart smashed his own record for the shot put, and Reese, of Lafayette, broke the record of his college in the 120-yard hurdle race.

Bucknell captured the majority of the field events, but was outclassed by the Lafayette sprinters and runners. Irey, the Orange and Blue star sprinter, did not show his usual form on acount of a bad ankle. The Orange and Blue did not win a first place in the track events, and had it not been for the superior work of the field men, the meet would have been still more one-sided.

Shade sprung the surprise of the day by beating Lenhart in the hammer throw. These two men netted 16 of the 38 points scored. Knapp won the pole-vault from Colliton without exerting himself, and Cure broke even in the broad and high jumps. The wonderful endurance of Perez, of Lafayette, was a feature of the day; he captured both distance events. Deninger and Whitney ran well, but could not land first places.

The events:

100 yard Dash—Shaffer, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time 10 2-5 sec.

120 yard Hurdle—Reese, Lafayette, first; Lee, Lafayette, second. Time 16 1-5 sec.

Mile Run—Perez, Lafayette, first; Deninger, Bucknell, second. Time 4 min. 51 4-5 sec.

440 yard Dash—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time 54 sec.

Two mile Run—Perez, Lafayette, first; Whitney, Bucknell, second. Time, 11 min. 18 3-5 sec.

220 yard Hurdles—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Schaeffer, Lafayette, second. Time, 27 sec.

220 yard Dash—Shaeffer, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time, 23 3-5 sec.

880 yard Run—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Baer, Bucknell, second. Time, 2 min. 10 3-5 sec.

High Jump—Cure, Bucknell, first; Lee, Lafayette, second. Height, 5 ft. 7 in.

Shot Put—Lenhart, Bucknell, first; Shade, Bucknell, second. Distance, 40 ft. 4 in.

Broad Jump—Lee, Lafayette, first; Cure, Bucknell, second. Distance, 20 ft. 4½ in.

Pole Vault—Knapp, Bucknell, first; Colliton, Lafayette, second. Height, 10 ft.

Hammer Throw—Shade, Bucknell, first; Lenhart, Bucknell, second. Distance, 113 ft. 11 in.

Tri-Delta Entertains.

Delta Delta Delta fraternity entertained the Pi Beta Phi fraternity at an "at home" on Tuesday afternoon in the Seminary parlors. The guest of honor was Miss R. Louise Fitch, who was visiting the local chapter of Tri-Delta. Other guests were Mrs. J. M. Wolfe and Mrs. W. L. Gearhart, patronesses of the fraternity; Miss Bush, and Prof. and Mrs. Edwards. The parlors were tasily decorated for the ocasion, and music was furnished by Miller's orchestra.

of the Mohawks in peace. Early in the morning he arose to make his journey to greet his friend, Ke-no-to. Through the heat of the day, through the dangerous pass of the blue cliffs, in spite of peril from wandering enemy he has come to bring messages of peace and good will to his brother."

Here Ta-ke-to paused to lay a belt of wampum at the feet of Ke-no-to.

"Of old the Schoharie and the Mohawk dwelt as brothers. They fished in the same streams, they hunted in the same mountains, they followed the same warpath. Together they flinched not at the war cry of the Huron nor feared the arrows of the Delaware. Did the Schoharie fall his brother In time of danger? Listen. His footsteps led to the Great Father of Waters but returned not, his bones lie whitening on the plains beneath the setting sun. Among the snows of the north and under the willows of the south the strongest and bravest of his tribe are lying. The lodges of the Schoharies are empty, their warriors are few."

Ta-ke-to placed a second belt before the great sachem.

"Not many moons have passed since Ta-ke-to himself with the warriors of Ke-no-to followed the Huron to his strong place In the west. Was Ta-ke-to last in the battle? Did his war cry sound faint? Does he regret the wounds he received in the service of Ke-no-to?"

Placing a third belt before the Mohawk Ta-ke-to concluded.

"The lodge of Ta-ke-to is lonely. He has no one to welcome him home from the hunt, no one to bring him food, no one to dress his wounds. The women of the Schoharies are old, their backs are bent by toil, there is none of his own people to sit in his lodge; but in the wigwam of his brother Ke-no-to there is one, the fairest of all the Iroquois women."

Thus speaking Ta-ke-to laid the last belt of wampum before the sachem of the Mohawks and returned to his place in the circle.

No feeling of emotion stirred the impassive features of the Mohawk warriors but the one eye of the Onondaga chief glared with vindictive hate. Again the pipe of peace was passed around in silence. Then Ke-no-to spoke:

"The words of my brother are good. The war cry of the Schoharie sounds loud, his tomahawk is sharp, his arrows are swift. Of old his fathers fought side by side with the Mohawk. He himself has suffered for his brother Ke-no-to. Long ago the Great Spirit whose arm is long, whose words must be obeyed forbade that a maiden should sit in the lodge of a warrior of the same clan. Ta-ke-to is of the clan of the Hawk, Wa-to-ne-ka is of the clan of the Hawk."

Whatever might have been the feelings of Ta-ke-to, his face did not betray. Without a word he picked up his bow and arrows and stole noiselessly from the council place. As he passed through the village he came face to face with Wa-to-ne-ka. She stood before her father's lodge with the finished moccasin in her hand. As Ta-ke-to stood looking at the maiden a sense of great disappointment, a feeling of deep injustice came over him. True, han, Heinze. Struck out by Leach 5; by Kauffman 3. First base on called balls, off Leach 3, off Kauffman 1. Time, 2 hours 10 minutes. Umpire Sheeley. Stolen bases, Lautz, James 2. Griminger, Sheehan. Hit by pitched ball—Nipple.

In a close game, at Carlisle, Saturday, Dickinson won from Bucknell by the score 5 to 4. Parsons pitched a good game and with the hitting of the men behind him should have won, but a little hard luck lost the game. As in the contest with Dickinson on the home grounds, Bucknell outhit them.

Bucknell was first to bat and the heavy end of the batting list failed to connect safely.

In Dickinson's half Davis singled, coming home on Simpson's hit to right field. Latham trying to sacrifice beat out his bunt, and Crutchly was passed. Two sacrifices and a foul to left field scored the provisions regarding [illegible] non-fulfillment of appointments on the program, expulsion for non-payment of dues, and the reinstatement of honorary members into active membership. Alumnae Reunion.

The annual reunion and luncheon of the Bucknell Alumnae Association will be held in the parlors of the Lutheran church, Lewisburg, Monday, June 18, at twelve o'clock noon. Toasts will be given from the classes of '56, '66, '76, '86, '06, the Philadelphia Alumnae Club and the Lewisburg Alumnae Club. Those who expect to attend should write early to Mrs. Dora E. W. Spratt, Cor. Sec., Lewisburg, Pa.

W. and J. Game Canceled.

The W. and J. baseball game has been canceled, but it is quite likely that a game will be scheduled for the date. The canceling of this game is unfortunate in that it was looked forward to as one of the best home exhibitions on the list. W. and J. suffered its first defeat of the season, at the hands of the Pittsburg Nationals, Thursday.

[illegible] be seen here in the new braidsand straws, ef-

he had heard the old prohibition against the marriage of persons belonging to the same clan but he had thought that it operated only within the tribe. Now, too, he saw the meaning of the visit of the Onondago sachem to the Mohawk village. In his Indian fashion Ta-ke-to had wooed the beautiful Wa-to-ne-ka. In her father's service he had received the scars he bore upon his breast. Were his efforts and his sufferings to be in vain? He stepped closely to the maiden and told her briefly of the result of the council. He asked her a question. She hung her head and hesitated. Quickly he seized the unresisting maiden and hurried toward the river's edge.

V.

Huge banks of black clouds were driving out of the west. The purple haze had vanished and the shadow of the approaching storm was over the valley. The oppressive heat had been driven away by the freshening breeze. Flashes of lightning illumined the black clouds and peals of thunder shook the earth. By the time Ta-ke-to with the maiden had reached his canoe the first large drops were beginning to fall. As he put out from the shore a piercing yell which sounded above the noise of the storm announced to him that his deed had been discovered and that already the fierce Onondaga braves were pursuing him. He had no time to make his way up the swift waters of the rift in the face of the driving storm. As if by magic the river seemed to his excited imagination to be full of hostile canoes. His only course was to paddle straight across the river and seek refuge in the thick forest. As he reached the farther shore a blinding flash of lightning and a fearful roll of thunder nearly paralyzed his arm. "It is the Great Spirit," he whispered in his terror. A second later the flood gates of heaven were opened and the rain came down in torrents. As Ta-ke-to grasped the maiden by the hand and hastened up the bank he heard close behind him the exultant yell of his Onondaga rival. Then he dashed into the forest out of the sight of his pursuers.

The fierce burst of rain ceased as suddenly as it had commenced and the tempest gathered all its force for the next outbreak. Ta-ke-to hurried the maiden through the thick forest as fast as possible but his utmost speed was no match for that of the crafty and agile Onondagas who soon caught up to him and completely surrounded him. As a last resort he sought the protection of a large elm and standing with his back to its huge trunk with Wa-to-ne-ka close to his side, unarmed, he awaited his fate. Closer and closer to their victim drew the Onondagos. Sa-me-wis, the one-eyed, grasped his tomahawk and sprang forward. On his face was written the evidence of a hideous triumph. For a moment the tomahawk was poised in air but just as it was beginning its descent there was a blinding flash, a mighty crash of thunder. The earth rocked beneath the avenger's feet, the giant elm was torn to splinters. The Onondagas at the moment of revenge, the Schoharie with Wa-to-ne-ka in his arms were hurled to the ground. The Great Spirit had spoken.

Some More of Sophy.

When I to Bucknell College
Came with Sophy Stone alone,
I came to get some knowledge
And not a chaperon.

We got off at the station
Sophy Stone and I alone;
A large girls' delegation
Made up our chaperon.

Then by sheer force we started
Sophy Stone from me alone;
She with the girls quite anxious,
I without a chaperon.

* * * * *

We went to Dr. Baker's
Sophy Stone and I alone.
To get some chocolate Hylers
But we met a chaperon.

We tried to see some football
Sophy Stone and I alone.
And I lingered,—"What gall!"
Quoth the wrothy chaperon.

At the "Sem" in the parlor
I once called on Sophy Stone,
But a fair maiden scholar
"Butted in" as chaperon.

We went to the "Gym" one night
Sophy Stone and I alone;
And the crowd! It was a sight!
So we lost the chaperon.

Then the proper thing to do
With dear Sophy Stone alone,
Was to gently bid idleu,
But I played the chaperon.

Then to Tommy I was careful
Without Sophy, I alone,
To tell the story, awful,
Why we left the chaperon.

Said Dean, "Go quick to Prexy,
Tell allke for Sophy Stone,
How you played a little foxy
The role of a chaperon."

I told dear Prex my story,
What I risked for Sophy Stone;
Said he, "you merit glory
For your part as chaperon."

So I've learned by my troubles
For you all, and Sophy Stone:
If you'd keep out of squabbles,
Better make the chap. your own.

In a close game, at Carlisle, Saturday, Dickinson won from Bucknell by the score 5 to 4. Parsons pitched a good game and with the hitting of the men behind him should have won, but a little hard luck lost the game. As in the contest with Dickinson on the home grounds, Bucknell outhit them.

Bucknell was first to bat and the heavy end of the batting list failed to connect safely. In Dickinson's half Davis singled, coming home on Simpson's hit to right field. Latham trying to sacrifice beat out his hunt, and Crutchly was passed. Two sacrifices and a foul to left field scored the provisions regarding [illegible] non-fulfillment of appointments on the program, expulsion for non-payment of dues, and the reinstatement of honorary members into active membership. The new constitution went into effect at the bginning of the present term and has been printed in neat pamphlet form for distribution among the members.

Alumnae Reunion.

The annual reunion and luncheon of the Bucknell Alumnae Association will be held in the parlors of the Lutheran church, Lewisburg, Monday, June 18, at twelve o'clock noon. Toasts will be given from the classes of '56, '66, '76, '86, '06, the Philadelphia Alumnae Club and the Lewisburg Alumnae Club. Those who expect to attend should write early to Mrs. Dora E. W. Spratt, Cor. Sec., Lewisburg, Pa.

W. and J. Game Canceled.

The W. and J. baseball game has been canceled, but it is quite likely that a game will be scheduled for the date. The canceling of this game is unfortunate in that it was looked forward to as one of the best home exhibitions on the list. W. and J. suffered its first defeat of the season, at the hands of the Pittsburg Nationals, Thursday.

Elocutionists Do Well in Contest.

The annual elocution contest of Bucknell Institute, held Saturday evening in Bucknell Hall, was largely attended. The contestants showed the careful training of Miss Schillinger and acquitted themselves especially well considering that none of them are elocution students.

Miss Albright sang, "The Roses with the Thorns," by Heubbein, in good voice, and the Mandolin and Guitar Club played with excellent effect Mendelssohn's "Song Without Words," and a "Serenade" from Shubert.

The speakers and their selections were, "Sam Weller's Valentine," Beatrice Weill; "Naughty Zelle," Leonora Shamp; "Confidence," Amelia Wensel; "Massare of Zoroaster," Emily Reagle; "Little Carl," Laura McGann. Miss Iza Martin, Rev. John T. Judd, and Prof. J. M. Wolfe were the judges.

Last "At Home" of the Year.

The first "At Home" of the spring term, and the last of the college year, was held in the Institute parlors this afternoon. A large number were present to enjoy the final event of the sason, and this added greatly to the success of the affair. The majority of the guests were "regulars," as many doubtless thought it was rather late in the year to spring into the "social whirl." The decorations were artfully executed, and added much to attractiveness of the different parlors. The event was a fitting climax to the number of pleasant "At Homes" that have been given this year, and was greatly appreciated by the many who were there to enjoy the final function.

Bible Study to be Introduced Next Year

In the early part of the college year efforts were made to institute a course of bible study at Bucknell by means of the formation of a number of classes. This attempt met with very slight encouragement, either because of a lack of interest, or inability to get the plan working satisfactorily.

The same plan was received more favorably at State College, and as a result the bible study enrolment has reached 312 in twenty-nine classes including seven fraternity, three club classes, ando ne athlete's class.

Next fall the matter of conducting a series of bible study classes will be brought up before the student-body again, and no energy will be spared in making the idea work out successfully.

Sophomore Cotillion Friday Night.

The "Sophs" have completed all arrangements for a successful cotillion Friday night. A large number of invitations have been sent out, and the committees look for a good attendance. This will be the second annual dance given by the Sophomore class, the first having been given last year by 1907.

President's Reception May 28.

Invitations for the annual President's reception have been sent out announcing May 28 as the date of the event. This is a reception given to the Senior class toward the close of each college year, and is a very popular function.

LAFAYETTE WINS MEET

Bucknell's Weakness in Track Events Responsible for Defeat.

Lafayette easily defeated Bucknell in a track and field meet Saturday afternoon by the score of 66 to 38. Two records were broken. Lenhart smashed his own record for the shot put, and Reese, of Lafayette, broke the record of his college in the 120-yard hurdle race.

Bucknell captured the majority of the field events, but was outclassed by the Lafayette sprinters and runners. Irey, the Orange and Blue star sprinter, did not show his usual form on acount of a bad ankle. The Orange and Blue did not win a first place in the track events, and had it not been for the superior work of the field men, the meet would have been still more one-sided.

Shade sprung the surprise of the day by beating Lenhart in the hammer throw. These two men netted 16 of the 38 points scored. Knapp won the pole-vault from Colliton without exerting himself, and Cure broke even in the broad and high jumps. The wonderful endurance of Perez, of Lafayette, was a feature of the day; he captured both distance events. Deninger and Whitney ran well, but could not land first places.

The events:

100 yard Dash—Shaffer, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time 10 3-5 sec.

120 yard Hurdle—Reese, Lafayette, first; Lee, Lafayette, second. Time 16 1-5 sec.

Mile Run—Perez, Lafayette, first; Deninger, Bucknell, second. Time 4 min. 51 4-5 sec.

440 yard Dash—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time 54 sec.

Two mile Run—Perez, Lafayette, first; Whitney, Bucknell, second. Time, 11 min. 18 3-5 sec.

220 yard Hurdles—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Schaeffer, Lafayette, second. Time, 27 sec.

220 yard Dash—Shaeffer, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time, 23 3-5 sec.

880 yard Run—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Baer, Bucknell, second. Time, 2 min. 10 3-5 sec.

High Jump—Cure, Bucknell, first; Lee, Lafayette, second. Height, 5 ft. 7 in.

Shot Put—Lenhart, Bucknell, first; Shade, Bucknell, second. Distance, 40 ft. 4 in.

Broad Jump—Lee, Lafayette, first; Cure, Bucknell, second. Distance, 20 ft. 4½ in.

Pole Vault—Knapp, Bucknell, first; Colliton, Lafayette, second. Height, 10 ft.

Hammer Throw—Shade, Bucknell, first; Lenhart, Bucknell, second. Distance, 113 ft. 11 in.

Tri-Delta Entertains.

Delta Delta Delta fraternity entertained the Pi Beta Phi fraternity at an "at home" on Tuesday afternoon in the Seminary parlors. The guest of honor was Miss R. Louise Fitch, who was visiting the local chapter of Tri-Delta. Other guests were Mrs. J. M. Wolfe and Mrs. W. L. Gearhart, patronesses of the fraternity; Miss Bush, and Prof. and Mrs. Edwards. The parlors were tasily decorated for the ocasion, and music was furnished by Miller's orchestra.

Was It Worth While?

I

"Hurrah, he says he'll do it, if he finds that I have done good work in High School," cried Margaret, bouncing into the sitting-room and slamming her books on the table.

"Do try to be a little more gentle, Margaret. You jar my head so."

As Mrs. Lincoln said this she looked at the bright, happy face of her haughter and her own brow clouded with care.

"Why, mother, you haven't even said you're glad! It wasn't easy to ask Mr. Thomas to lend me the money, but oh, he was so very nice and obliging about it that I wonder now how I ever dreaded to do it."

"Of course, Margaret, you know I am glad for you. It will be a fine thing for you to go to college; but even though Mr. Thomas has been so kind as to lend you the money for your board and tuition, you know it will not be easy for us to find money for books and clothes and other things."

"Yes, I know, mother, but this first year I won't need many new clothes and I can buy second-hand books."

"Well, we'll see what we can do about it," said Mrs. Lincoln, "but now you get supper; I want to finish this waist."

Margaret obediently started off to the kitchen. She felt as if she were walking on air. Her dream of going to college was about to be realized, and so elated was she over the prospect that this once she forgot to grumble about the meagreness of the supper she had to prepare.

Meanwhile her mother sat sewing, her brows contracted in a slight frown. She was a middle-aged woman whose face, though sad and marked with lines of care, was nevertheless youthful enough to form a strange contrast with the snowy whiteness of her hair. Her life had been a sad one. The husband in whom she had placed all the love and trust of her faithful heart, had proven himself a hard, selfish tyrant. He gave his family only the barest necessities of life and regarded even the ordinary comforts or home as foolish luxuries. Eluding her love and confidence misplaced in her husband, Mrs. Lincoln had turned to her two little sons in whom she centered all her hopes for a comfortable and happy home. But as the boys grew to manhood, instead of fulfilling her hopes, they only added disappointment and sorrow to the mother's heavy burden. All this though it broke her heart did not break her spirit. With undaunted courage she transferred her trust and confidence to her eldest daughter, Margaret, a bright, studious girl who was in the graduating class of the High School.

When Margaret entered the High School the plan had been for her to graduate and then teach. Thus she would be able to help her mother and care for le. younger sister, who was very delicate. These four years had been short happy ones to Margaret but to her mother they had been long and weary. When Margaret had first mentioned her desire for a college education, her mother had told her it was impossible. Now, however, since Margaret had succeeded in borrowing money for tuition and board, her mother had not the heart to discourage her.

As she sat there, sewing, Mrs. Lincoln was trying to think of a way in which she could earn sufficient money to get Margaret the necessary books and other things. She knew there was no use asking her husband because he considered even Margaret's High School course nothing but foolishness.

"If only I had better health," she sighed to herself. "But health or no health I must manage some way. That child must have her chance."

II

Klang! Klang! sounded the train bell. With one last kiss Margaret rushed up the steps into the train, and taking her seat in the car, she opened the window and waved a last good-bye to her mother and sister standing on the platform. The train pulled out from the station and as the last glimpse of the dear ones faded away, Margaret felt a lump rising in her throat and she bit her lips hard to keep back the tears. No, she just wouldn't cry. Resolutely she sat herself to thinking that at last she was going to college. She thought of all the stories she had read of college girls and college life and she tried to imagine what Bucknell was like.

At last, tired and worn out she fell asleep and she did not awake until she heard the conductor call, "Lewisburg. Everybody out." Grasping her suit-case, Margaret stumbled rather than walked out of the train and took the "bus" for the Seminary. Having arrived there she was cared for by friendly hands and after a refreshing meal she wrote a letter home telling of her safe arrival.

After the first few weeks of homesickness, Margaret began to take a lively interest in her college life. She wrote glowing letters and incidentally, in every one of them, she asked for money. There were so many things she had not expected and she just couldn't get along without money. Each time the money was sent without a word of complaint. Occasionally Margaret had pangs of conscience when she stopped to wonder where her mother got the money, but she contented herself by saying, that when she was through college she could make enough money to pay all her debts and give her mother a great deal besides.

Every year the burden grew heavier for Mrs. Lincoln but she worked steadily on, keeping up a brave heart. Whenever she felt that her strength was almost exhausted she comforted herself with the thought that Margaret would soon be through and then life would be easier and more pleasant for them all. During vacation, on hot summer days, Margaret sat in a cool, shady spot on the porch, studying, while her mother and sister toiled over the

W. and J. suffered its first defeat of the season, at the hands of the Pittsburg Nationals, Thursday.

Elocutionists Do Well in Contest.

The annual elocution contest of Bucknell Institute, held Saturday evening in Bucknell Hall, was largely attended. The contestants showed the careful training of Miss Schilllinger and acquitted themselves especially well considering that none of them are elocution students.

Miss Albright sang, "The Roses with the Thorns," by Heubbein, in good voice, and the Mandolin and Guitar Club played with excellent effect Mendelssohn's "Song Without Words," and a "Serenade" from Shubert.

The speakers and their selections were, "Sam Weller's Valentine," Beatrice Weill; "Naughty Zelle," Leonora Shamp; "Confidence," Amelia Wensel; "Massare of Zoroaster," Emily Reagle; "Little Carl," Laura McGann. Miss Ida Martin, Rev. John T. Judd, and Prof. J. M. Wolfe were the judges.

Last "At Home" of the Year.

The first "At Home" of the spring term, and the last of the college year, was held in the Institute parlors this afternoon. A large number were present to enjoy the final event of the sason, and this added greatly to the success of the affair. The majority of the guests were "regulars," as many doubtless thought it was rather late in the year to spring into the "social whirl." The decorations were artfully executed, and added much to attractiveness of the different parlors. The event was a fitting climax to the number of pleasant "At Homes" that have been given this year, and was greatly appreciated by the many who were there to enjoy the final function.

Bible Study to be Introduced Next Year

In the early part of the college year efforts were made to institute a course of bible study at Bucknell by means of the formation of a number of classes. This attempt met with very slight encouragement, either because of a lack of interest, or inability to get the plan working satisfactorily.

The same plan was received more favorably at State College, and as a result the bible study enrolment has reached 312 in twenty-nine classes including seven fraternity, three club classes, ando ne athlete's class.

Next fall the matter of conducting a series of bible study classes will be brought up before the student-body again, and no energy will be spared in making the idea work out successfully.

Sophomore Cotillion Friday Night.

The "Sophs" have completed all arrangements for a successful cotillion Friday night. A large number of invitations have been sent out, and the committees look for a good attendance. This will be the second annual dance given by the Sophomore class, the first having been given last year by 1907.

President's Reception May 28.

Invitations for the annual President's reception have been sent out announcing May 28 as the date of the event. This is a reception given to the Senior class toward the close of each college year, and is a very popular function.

LAFAYETTE WINS MEET

Bucknell's Weakness in Track Events Responsible for Defeat.

Lafayette easily defeated Bucknell in a track and field meet Saturday afternoon by the score of 66 to 38. Two records were broken. Lenhart smashed his own record for the shot put, and Reese, of Lafayette, broke the record of his college in the 120-yard hurdle race.

Bucknell captured the majority of the field events, but was outclassed by the Lafayette sprinters and runners. Irey, the Orange and Blue star sprinter, did not show his usual form on acount of a bad ankle. The Orange and Blue did not win a first place in the track events, and had it not been for the superior work of the field men, the meet would have been still more one-sided.

Shade sprung the surprise of the day by beating Lenhart in the hammer throw. These two men netted 16 of the 38 points scored. Knapp won the pole-vault from Colliton without exerting himself, and Cure broke even in the broad and high jumps. The wonderful endurance of Perez, of Lafayette, was a feature of the day; he captured both distance events. Deninger and Whitney ran well, but could not land first places.

The events:

100 yard Dash—Shaffer, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time 10 3-5 sec.

120 yard Hurdle—Reese, Lafayette, first; Lee, Lafayette, second. Time 16 1-5 sec.

Mile Run—Perez, Lafayette, first; Deninger, Bucknell, second. Time 4 min. 51 4-5 sec.

440 yard Dash—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time 54 sec.

Two mile Run—Perez, Lafayette, first; Whitney, Bucknell, second. Time, 11 min. 18 3-5 sec.

220 yard Hurdles—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Schaeffer, Lafayette, second. Time, 27 sec.

220 yard Dash—Shaeffer, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time, 23 3-5 sec.

880 yard Run—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Baer, Bucknell, second. Time, 2 min. 10 3-5 sec.

High Jump—Cure, Bucknell, first; Lee, Lafayette, second. Height, 5 ft. 7 in.

Shot Put—Lenhart, Bucknell, first; Shade, Bucknell, second. Distance, 40 ft. 4 in.

Broad Jump—Lee, Lafayette, first; Cure, Bucknell, second. Distance, 20 ft. 4½ in.

Pole Vault—Knapp, Bucknell, first; Colliton, Lafayette, second. Height, 10 ft.

Hammer Throw—Shade, Bucknell, first; Lenhart, Bucknell, second. Distance, 113 ft. 11 in.

Tri-Delta Entertains.

Delta Delta Delta fraternity entertained the Pi Beta Phi fraternity at an "at home" on Tuesday afternoon in the Seminary parlors. The guest of honor was Miss R. Louise Fitch, who was visiting the local chapter of Tri-Delta. Other guests were Mrs. J. M. Wolfe and Mrs. W. L. Gearhart, patronesses of the fraternity; Miss Bush, and Prof. and Mrs. Edwards. The parlors were tasily decorated for the ocasion, and music was furnished by Miller's orchestra.

ironing board in the hot stuffy kitchen. Mrs. Lincoln was glad for Margaret to take "Honors" as she called them so she never asked her to help with the housework. Margaret herself was too much taken up with her studies to notice the weary stoop of her mother's shoulders or the tired look on her sister's face.

At last Margaret was graduated with honor and the following September she was elected teacher in the High School of her native town. With her first month's salary she paid her board and gave the rest of the money to Mr. Thomas. At the end of three years she had paid her debts, but she had been able to do very little for her mother. When the last dollar of the debt had been paid Mrs. Lincoln began to think that her dream would soon be realized and she would at last have a comfortable and restful home. It was this thought that was passing through her mind as she sat on the porch, rocking gently to and fro while she waited for Margaret to come to supper.

"Mother," said Margaret, coming up the walk and sinking down on the porch steps, "I have great news for you. I am engaged to be married in June to Mr. Price."

Startled by the unexpectedness of the news, Mrs. Lincoln stared at her daughter in silence for a few moments. When at last she did speak her voice sounded strange and choked.

"Why, Margaret, I thought you were going to make our home comfortable and give Grace an opportunity to get well and strong. She has been a good sister to you and without her you never could have finished school."

"I know, but I am so tired teaching and anyway I don't see why I should give up my life's happiness just to slave for a home. I can help take care of you and Grace anyway."

"Well, dear, I am glad you are happy," said her mother, trying hard to keep the weary note out of her voice.

Margaret went off satisfied, but her mother sat for some time gazing absently into space. Then when the meaning of it all overwhelmed her, she bowed her gray head on her hand and a weary sigh escaped from her pale lips. For in the bitterness of her soul, she saw ahead of her only a long stretch of years, each one longer and harder than the preceding one.

Editor's Drawer.

One of the most significant events that has ever occurred in the student world is a decree of the Emperor of China, which was issued on Sep. 4th. It reads as follows; "We issued yesterday an edict abolishing the literary competitive examination of the old style and ordering that sole attention shall be given henceforth to the establishment of schools of modern learning throughout the Empire in lieu thereof. We now command that to all literary chancellors in the various provinces shall be assigned the duty of holding examinations and inspecting the schools of their several provinces, and that they shall do this in conjunction with the viceroy or governor of each province." When it is recalled that the system thus abolished was established thirteen centuries ago, and that in one examination center alone as many as 20,000 students enter for examination on the old subjects in a single year, this change to the study of Western subject is significant to the last degree, and will call for a large number of teachers and professors from America and Europe.

During the last ten years, out of 22,766 students who played football in sixty of the most important colleges of the United States, 654 received serious injuries, eight were injured permanently, and three cases resulted fatally.

The following rules prepared by a special committee of the Senior class of Colgate University were adopted;

I That the Senior class wear caps and gowns during the Spring term, beginning Easter Sunday. The same to be worn on the hill and in the town between the hours of 8:15 a. m. and 12:30. p. m. every day of the week. This rule does not apply in stormy weather.

II That no corduroys, flannel shirts, boots, high shoes, or sweaters be worn by Seniors during the Spring term, on the hill or in the town.

III That these rules be compulsory on all Seniors.

William J. Bryan in resigning as a trustee of Illinois College of Jacksonville because Andrew Carnegie is asked for money, says that "colleges are selling out to the plutocrats of the land who are seeking to strangle economic truth.

"Our colleges cannot serve God and Mammon. They cannot be for the people and at the same time commend themselves to the commercial highwaymen who are now subsidizing, the colleges to prevent the teaching of truth."

Under a new rule, adopted by the department of physical training at Amherst every freshman is requested to participate in basket ball. Sixteen squads have been formed.

[illegible] the new and [illegible] the provisions regarding fines for non-fulfillment of appointments on the program, expulsion for non-payment of dues, and the reinstatement of honorary members into active membership. The new constitution went into effect at the biginnig of the present term and has been printed in neat pamphlet form for distribution among the members.

ust; Parsons, James. Home runs Sheehan, Heinze. Struck out by Leach 5; by Kauffman 3. First base on called balls, off Leach 3, off Kauffman 1. Time, 2 hours 10 minutes. Umpire Sheeley. Stolen bases, Lautz, James 2. Griminger, Sheehan. Hit by pitched ball—Nipple.

In a close game, at Carlisle, Saturday, Dickinson won from Bucknell by the score 5 to 4. Parsons pitched a good game and with the hitting of the men behind him should have won, but a little hard luck lost the game. As in the contest with Dickinson on the home grounds, Bucknell outhit them.

Bucknell was first to bat and the heavy end of the batting list failed to connect safely. In Dickinson's half Davis singled, coming home on Simpson's hit to right field. Latham trying to sacrifice beat out his bunt, and Crutchly was passed. Two sacrifices and a foul to left field scored

Alumnae Reunion.

The annual reunion and luncheon of the Bucknell Alumnae Association will be held in the parlors of the Lutheran church, Lewisburg, Monday, June 18, at twelve o'clock noon. Toasts will be given from the classes of '56, '66, '76, '86, '96, the Philadelphia Alumnae Club and the Lewisburg Alumnae Club. Those who expect to attend should write early to Mrs. Dora E. W. Spratt, Cor. Sec., Lewisburg, Pa.

W. and J. Game Canceled.

The W. and J. baseball game has been canceled, but it is quite likely that a game will be scheduled for the date. The canceling of this game is unfortunate in that it was looked forward to as one of the best home exhibitions on the list. W. and J. suffered its first defeat of the season, at the hands of the Pittsburg Nationals, Thursday.

The following clipping from the Wisconsin Daily Cardinal of recent date offers a possible solution to the present football agitation:

All candidates for the ping-pong team will meet in the gymnasium Saturday at 4 o'clock. Only strict vegetarians weighing under 115 pounds will be allowed in the tryouts. Several members of the faculty will be present to guard against unnecessary rudeness.

When you're foolin in the library, a-having lots of fun,
A-laughing and a gibbering, as if you're time had come,
You'd better watch your corners and keep kinder lookin' out,
Er the librarian'll git yon—if you don't watch out.

I'd like to be a Senior,
And with the Seniors stand;
A fountain pen behind my ear,
A note-book in my hand.

I would not be an angel,—
For angels have to sing.
I'd rather be a Senior
And never do a thing.

—University Hatchet.

Manager Leonard has secured William J. Warner, of Rochester, the Brother of "Pop" Warner, the famous Cornell football coach, to coach Colgate's football squad next year.

The Amherst faculty has approved of the honor system and it is now in operation at that college.

Instead of the annual hair-cutting war between the Freshmen and Sophomores at the University of Michigan, which has caused many serious injuries, it has been decided to have a tug of war across the Huron River. One hundred men will be chosen from each class and stationed on opposite sides of the river. A long rope will be utilized and one class or the other will be dragged through the river.

My pop he says that wors' of all
Is that darn game they call football;
But ef he'd jes onct git in line
An hear the captain give the sign
For pop to hike the ball aroun'
An' down the fiel' for firs' tech down,
An' if he'd hear the noise he'd get
For makin' sech a run, you bet
He'd change his min'.

Alumnae Reunion.

The annual reunion and luncheon of the Bucknell Alumnae Association will be held in the parlors of the Lutheran church, Lewisburg, Monday, June 18, at twelve o'clock noon. Toasts will be given from the classes of '56, '66, '76, '86, '06, the Philadelphia Alumnae Club and the Lewisburg Alumnae Club. Those who expect to attend should write early to Mrs. Dora E. W. Spratt, Cor. Sec., Lewisburg, Pa.

Elocutionists Do Well in Contest.

The annual elocution contest of Bucknell Institute, held Saturday evening in Bucknell Hall, was largely attended. The contestants showed the careful training of Miss Schillinger and acquitted themselves especially well considering that none of them are elocution students.

Miss Albright sang, "The Roses with the Thorns," by Heubbein, in good voice, and the Mandolin and Guitar Club played with excellent effect Mendelssohn's "Song Without Words," and a "Serenade" from Shubert.

The speakers and their selections were, "Sam Weller's Valentine," Beatrice Weill; "Naughty Zelle," Leoncra Shamp; "Confidence," Amelia Wensel; "Massare of Zoroaster," Emily Reagle; "Little Carl," Laura McGann. Miss Iza Martin, Rev. John T. Judd, and Prof. J. M. Wolfe were the judges.

Last "At Home" of the Year.

The first "At Home" of the spring term, and the last of the college year, was held in the Institute parlors this afternoon. A large number were present to enjoy the final event of the sason, and this added greatly to the success of the affair. The majority of the guests were "regulars," as many doubtless thought it was rather late in the year to spring into the "social whirl." The decorations were artfully executed, and added much to attractiveness of the different parlors. The event was a fitting climax to the number of pleasant "At Homes" that have been given this year, and was greatly appreciated by the many who were there to enjoy the final function.

Bible Study to be Introduced Next Year

In the early part of the college year efforts were made to institute a course of bible study at Bucknell by means of the formation of a number of classes. This attempt met with very slight encouragement, either because of a lack of interest, or inability to get the plan working satisfactorily.

The same plan was received more favorably at State College, and as a result the bible study enrolment has reached 312 in twenty-nine classes including seven fraternity, three club classes, ando ne athlete's class.

Next fall the matter of conducting a series of bible study classes will be brought up before the student-body again, and no energy will be spared in making the idea work out successfully.

Sophomore Cotillion Friday Night.

The "Sophs" have completed all arrangements for a successful cotillion Friday night. A large number of invitations have been sent out, and the committees look for a good attendance. This will be the second annual dance given by the Sophomore class, the first having been given last year by 1907.

President's Reception May 28.

Invitations for the annual President's reception have been sent out announcing May 28 as the date of the event. This is a reception given to the Senior class toward the close of each college year, and is a very popular function.

LAFAYETTE WINS MEET

Bucknell's Weakness in Track Events Responsible for Defeat.

Lafayette easily defeated Bucknell in a track and field meet Saturday afternoon by the score of 66 to 38. Two records were broken. Lenhart smashed his own record for the shot put, and Reese, of Lafayette, broke the record of his college in the 120-yard hurdle race.

Bucknell captured the majority of the field events, but was outclassed by the Lafayette sprinters and runners. Irey, the Orange and Blue star sprinter, did not show his usual form on acount of a bad ankle. The Orange and Blue did not win a first place in the track events, and had it not been for the superior work of the field men, the meet would have been still more one-sided.

Shade sprung the surprise of the day by beating Lenhart in the hammer throw. These two men netted 16 of the 38 points scored. Knapp won the pole-vault from Colliion without exerting himself, and Cure broke even in the broad and high jumps. The wonderful endurance of Perez, of Lafayette, was a feature of the day; he captured both distance events. Deninger and Whitney ran well, but could not land first places.

The events:

100 yard Dash—Shaffer, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time 10 3-5 sec.

120 yard Hurdle—Reese, Lafayette, first; Lee, Lafayette, second. Time 16 1-5 sec.

Mile Run—Perez, Lafayette, first; Deninger, Bucknell, second. Time 4 min. 51 4-5 sec.

440 yard Dash—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time 54 sec.

Two mile Run—Perez, Lafayette, first; Whitney, Bucknell, second. Time, 11 min. 18 3-5 sec.

220 yard Hurdles—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Schaeffer, Lafayette, second. Time, 27 sec.

220 yard Dash—Shaeffer, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time, 22 3-5 sec.

880 yard Run—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Baer, Bucknell, second. Time, 2 min. 10 3-5 sec.

High Jump—Cure, Bucknell, first; Lee, Lafayette, second. Height, 5 ft. 7 in.

Shot Put—Lenhart, Bucknell, first; Shade, Bucknell, second. Distance, 40 ft. 4 in.

Bread Jump—Lee, Lafayette, first; Cure, Bucknell, second. Distance, 20 ft. 4½ in.

Pole Vault—Knapp, Bucknell, first; Colliton, Lafayette, second. Height, 10 ft.

Hammer Throw—Shade, Bucknell, first; Lenhart, Bucknell, second. Distance, 113 ft. 11 in.

Tri-Delta Entertains.

Delta Delta Delta fraternity entertained the Pi Beta Phi fraternity at an "at home" on Tuesday afternoon in the Seminary parlors. The guest of honor was Miss R. Louise Fitch, who was visiting the local chapter of Tri-Delta. Other guests were Mrs. J. M. Wolfe and Mrs. W. L. Gearhart, patronesses of the fraternity; Miss Bush, and Prof. and Mrs. Edwards. The parlors were tasily decorated for the ocasion, and music was furnished by Miller's orchestra.

BUCKNELL BREAKS EVEN

Gettysburg Easy, But Dickinson Wins by Close Score.

Bucknell won from Gettysburg Friday at that place by the score, 7-1. The game was well played and interesting. Bucknell won by opportune hitting. Gettysburg was never dangerous, their one run in the ninth being scored on a very close decision when James stole home. Gettysburg played a good fielding game but could not hit out of the infield, the out-field having but one chance Leach pitched a fine game and was backed up in good style. Sheehan and Heinze both lifted the ball over the right field fence for home-runs, the former making his drive in the first inning scoring Heinze, who had made a two-base hit.

In the first inning Gettysburg was retired in one, two three order. In the third Grimminger was safe on a fumble at short stop, stole second and went to third on an error in left field of Sheehan's hit and both counted on Parson's two base drive. Heinze opened up the sixth with a clean drive over right field fence good for four bases, and scored the last run for B. U. in the eighth on his two base hit, a sacrifice and an error.

Latham trying to sacrifice beat out his bunt, and Crutchly was passed. Two sacrifices and a foul to left field scored Simpson, Latham and Crutchly. Bucknell came back in the second with two earned runs on August's three base hit, Olendorf's two bagger, a fly to center field and a sacrifice. In the fifth was added one more on Nipple's hit, a pass to Heinze and two errors. Bucknell tied the score in the seventh when Heinze counted on an error, a sacrifice, and Parson's single. Dickinson produced the needed run in her half on a scratch hit by Gilbert, a sacrifice by Houseman, an error by Olendorf, a bunt, and a fly to deep center.

In the fifth inning Leach retired the side on three balls.

Euepla Revises Constitution.

Euepla Literary Society has a new constitution. The long consideration to revise the old constituiton was brought to a climax last term, when President Rumsey took it in hand, and, in conjunction with the committee appointed for the purpose, made the proposed revision. Not to mention the differences in minor details and in general arrangement, perhaps the most marked differences between the new and the old constitutions are the provisions regarding fines for non-fulfillment of appointments on the program, expulsion for non-payment of dues, and the reinstatement of honorary members into active membership. The new constitution went into effect at the bginning of the present term and has been printed in neat pamphlet form for distribution among the members.

Alumnae Reunion.

The annual reunion and luncheon of the Bucknell Alumnae Association will be held in the parlors of the Lutheran church, Lewisburg, Monday, June 18, at twelve o'clock noon. Toasts will be given from the classes of '56, '66, '76, '86, '96, the Philadelphia Alumnae Club and the Lewisburg Alumnae Club. Those who expect to attend should write early to Mrs. Dora E. W. Spratt, Cor. Sec., Lewisburg, Pa.

"SOPH" ORATORS MAKE HIT

Interesting Program Rendered At Second-Year Contest.

Ten chosen orators from the Sophomore class delivered orations before a large audience in Bucknell Hall Monday evening. The program was smoothly executed, and livened by several selections by the "Mandolin and Guitar Club" under direction of Dr. Aviragnet.

Throughout the entire contest it was noticed that no little amount of effort had been spent in preparation, since the recalling of words seemed to be a secondary matter. The length of some of the selections made it difficult for the contestants to keep from making the interpretations seem droll and swinging, but the speakers threw enough of their personality into their pieces to make them interesting to the end. The variety of subjects, and a clever adaptation of speakers to orations, were marked features. Gesture and platform ease, the results of careful training were achieved. The decision of the judges was made difficult by the fact that no one speaker so far excelled the other as to make the choice certain.

Program.

March, Frantzen—Mandolin and Guitar Club.

Toussaint L'overture, Wendell Phillips—Benjamin Thomas Harris.

Hiawatha's Wooing, Henry W. Longfellow—Olive Crozer Richards.

The Stricken South, Henry Grady—Stephen Gardner Duncan.

Ron de Bonhour, Papini—Mandolin and Guitar Club.

Opportunities of the Scholar, Henry Grady—Joseph Riegel Shultz.

The Benediction, Francois Coppee—Helen Marr Forrest.

Eulogy on Garfield, James G. Blaine—Ralph Womelsdorf Haller.

The Hundred and Oneth, Annie Donnell—Jennie Hopwood.

Idle Moments, Rollinson—Mandolin and Guitar Club.

Plea for the Colonies, Lord Chatham—Reuben Welty Shrum.

The One-Legged Goose, F. Hopkinson Smith—Grace Virginia Royer.

American Independence, Samuel Adams—Charles Lucas Bromley.

Seniors Working on Class Play.

The cast of the Senior class play have been working since the assignment of parts, and have succeeded in getting the first two acts well in hand. To-morrow the third act will be undertaken. In the course of a week or two the entire play will be ready for the first rehearsal. This year's Senior class was late in getting to work on their play, but the way in which the parts are being taken gives assurance that the play will be completely mastered by the time set for the production.

W. and J. Game Canceled.

The W. and J. baseball game has been canceled, but it is quite likely that a game will be scheduled for the date. The canceling of this game is unfortunate in that it was looked forward to as one of the best home exhibitions on the list. W. and J. suffered its first defeat of the season, at the hands of the Pittsburg Nationals, Thursday.

Elocutionists Do Well in Contest.

The annual elocution contest of Bucknell Institute, held Saturday evening in Bucknell Hall, was largely attended. The contestants showed the careful training of Miss Schillinger and acquitted themselves especially well considering that none of them are elocution students.

Miss Albright sang, "The Roses with the Thorns," by Heubbein, in good voice, and the Mandolin and Guitar Club played with excellent effect Mendelssohn's "Song Without Words," and a "Serenade" from Shubert.

The speakers and their selections were, "Sam Weller's Valentine," Beatrice Weill; "Naughty Zelle," Leonora Shamp; "Confidence," Amelia Wensel; "Massare of Zoronster," Emily Rengle; "Little Carl," Laura McGann. Miss Iza Martin, Rev. John T. Judd, and Prof. J. M. Wolfe were the judges.

Last "At Home" of the Year.

The first "At Home" of the spring term, and the last of the college year, was held in the Institute parlors this afternoon. A large number were present to enjoy the final event of the sason, and this added greatly to the success of the affair. The majority of the guests were "regulars," as many doubtless thought it was rather late in the year to spring into the "social whirl." The decorations were artfully executed, and added much to attractiveness of the different parlors. The event was a fitting climax to the number of pleasant "At Homes" that have been given this year, and was greatly appreciated by the many who were there to enjoy the final function.

Bible Study to be Introduced Next Year

In the early part of the college year efforts were made to institute a course of bible study at Bucknell by means of the formation of a number of classes. This attempt met with very slight encouragement, either because of a lack of interest, or inability to get the plan working satisfactorily.

The same plan was received more favorably at State College, and as a result the bible study enrolment has reached 212 in twenty-nine classes including seven fraternity, three club classes, ando ne athlete's class.

Next fall the matter of conducting a series of bible study classes will be brought up before the student-body again, and no energy will be spared in making the idea work out successfully.

Sophomore Cotillion Friday Night.

The "Sophs" have completed all arrangements for a successful cotillion Friday night. A large number of invitations have been sent out, and the committees look for a good attendance. This will be the second annual dance given by the Sophomore class, the first having been given last year by 1907.

President's Reception May 28.

Invitations for the annual President's reception have been sent out announcing May 28 as the date of the event. This is a reception given to the Senior class toward the close of each college year, and is a very popular function.

LAFAYETTE WINS MEET

Bucknell's Weakness in Track Events Responsible for Defeat.

Lafayette easily defeated Bucknell in a track and field meet Saturday afternoon by the score of 66 to 58. Two records were broken. Lenhart smashed his own record for the shot put, and Reese, of Lafayette, broke the record of his college in the 120-yard hurdle race.

Bucknell captured the majority of the field events, but was outclassed by the Lafayette sprinters and runners. Irey, the Orange and Blue star sprinter, did not show his usual form on acount of a bad ankle. The Orange and Blue did not win a first place in the track events, and had it not been for the superior work of the field men, the meet would have been still more one-sided.

Shade sprung the surprise of the day by beating Lenhart in the hammer throw. These two men netted 16 of the 38 points scored. Knapp won the pole-vault from Colliton without exerting himself, and Cure broke even in the broad and high jumps. The wonderful endurance of Perez, of Lafayette, was a feature of the day; he captured both distance events. Deninger and Whitney ran well, but could not land first places.

The events:

100 yard Dash—Shaffer, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time 10 3-5 sec.

120 yard Hurdle—Reese, Lafayette, first; Lee, Lafayette, second. Time 16 1-5 sec.

Mile Run—Perez, Lafayette, first; Deninger, Bucknell, second. Time 4 min. 51 4-5 sec.

440 yard Dash—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time 54 sec.

Two mile Run—Perez, Lafayette, first; Whitney, Bucknell, second. Time, 11 min. 18 3-5 sec.

220 yard Hurdles—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Schaeffer, Lafayette, second. Time, 27 sec.

220 yard Dash—Shaeffer, Lafayette, first; Fields, Lafayette, second. Time, 23 3-5 sec.

880 yard Run—Colliton, Lafayette, first; Baer, Bucknell, second. Time, 2 min. 10 3-5 sec.

High Jump—Cure, Bucknell, first; Lee, Lafayette, second. Height, 5 ft. 7 in.

Shot Put—Lenhart, Bucknell, first; Shade, Bucknell, second. Distance, 40 ft. 4 in.

Bread Jump—Lee, Lafayette, first; Cure, Bucknell, second. Distance, 20 ft. 4½ in.

Pole Vault—Knapp, Bucknell, first; Colliten, Lafayette, second. Height, 10 ft.

Hammer Throw—Shade, Bucknell, first; Lenhart, Bucknell, second. Distance, 113 ft. 11 in.

Tri-Delta Entertains.

Delta Delta Delta fraternity entertained the Pi Beta Phi fraternity at an "at home" on Tuesday afternoon in the Seminary parlors. The guest of honor was Miss R. Louise Pitch, who was visiting the local chapter of Tri-Delta. Other guests were Mrs. J. M. Wolfe and Mrs. W. L. Gearhart, patronesses of the fraternity; Miss Bush, and Prof. and Mrs. Edwards. The parlors were tasily decorated for the ocasion, and music was furnished by Miller's orchestra.

Editorial

According to the turn-out Friday night there are about fifty loyal students at Bucknell. At least, this is the largest number that could be "marshalled" for the proposed mass meeting to be held that evening. No excuse can be given for the failure to appear when it had been clearly stated on the posters that a meeting would be held. The band was there; the cheer-leader was on hand; the student-body was wanting.

The object of this mass meeting was to arouse interest in the Lafayette track meet, since the financial result of this meet determined in a large degree whether or not Bucknell would face any other college on the track this season. Besides, the "Orange and Blue" had downed Gettysburg by an easy score Friday afternoon, and the event would have served a double purpose.

The practice of cutting across the campus has become so general that a number of well-worn paths are making their appearance. Bucknell has the reputation of having one of the most beautiful campuses in Pennsylvania, and its beauty should be guarded carefully. Enough paths are laid out for the convenient passage from one end of the college grounds to the other, and the idea of taking a "cut" from one path to the other is a habit. When Commencement time comes around we are anxious to see the campus looking as neat as possible, and we can help toward this end by preserving its terraces.

We are all glad to see reverence for one's Alma Mater exhibited by leaving behind a memorial of the class to adorn the campus. It is a fitting thing to do. There is one thing about it, though, that should be given at least a passing thought. We refer to the increasing expensiveness of these memorials at Bucknell. The class of 1902 left behind a pair of simple marble posts costing $30 or $40. 1903 left some money for the library. 1904 put up some beautiful steps costing $350. 1905 will be remembred by the handsome gate pillars, costing $425. The class to be graduated this year is planning to erect a bridge costing about $500. Members of 1907 are beginning to gaze at flat pocketbooks and whistle meditatively. At this rate 1913 will give us a new athletic field, and 1920 a new university. Let us honor our Alma Mater and our class by all means, but let's be sensible about it. '07.

Bucknell closed the track season by losing to Lafayette Saturday. The result of this meet was not as discouraging as it might have been, since several of the men who were depended upon to win points were out of condition. The season started with an array of new material out of which Coach Hoskins was forced to pick a team. Consequently, there was a scarcity of fast track men, and it was this weakness that was in great measure responsible for the defeat.

Dickinson was defeated by a close score the previous Saturday, and thus this season ends with the record of one defeat and one victory. It was the intention of Manager Phillips to arrange another meet for next Saturday, but the lack of required funds made this impossible. The majority of the track men return to college next year, and with this nucleus the prospects for a winning team should be very bright.

Communication.

The "Orange and Blue" invites communications but does not necessarily agree with the opinions expressed therein. All communications must be signed, though the name will not be published if so desired.

At the opening of the Spring term the Senior class voted to wear their caps and gowns to chapel and at least during the first hour of recitation on Monday mornings, and it was so announced in the Orange and Blue. This morning only eight appeared in class uniform, and at no time has there been a sufficient number to show any degree of class loyalty. What will become of the "precedent"? Next Monday morning there will be no caps and gowns, unless a majority of the class make it known that they will be out in uniform.

SENIOR.

Prominent Bucknell Athletes.

The following extract from a Columbus, Ohio, daily, concerning three former Bucknell stars is of interest. The article is the write-up of an interview with Coach Stanton, of Denison:

"For nerve Veil is about the keenest little pitcher I ever saw," said Stanton. "I caught him at Bucknell for two years, and I never saw a pitcher, even in those college days, who had more of it. I remember one day when we played Princeton and a hit would have won the game for them. I had three balls and two strikes on the batsman and signaled of course to get the other strike across. "Buck" shook his head and sent over a nice curve and fanned the man, who broke his back at the outshoot. He always was noted for his nerve and I am glad to hear that he again is in physical condition to back his command of the ball. I also caught Mathewson two years before he became a sensation. "Matty" was then not as good a pitcher as Veil. He had the size and speed though, and a grace of delivery which made him a favorite. He could even then chug the ball into the big mit about as solidly as anybody I ever saw pitch."

Bucknell Philadelphia Club will meet Wednesday.

Surveyors Wanted

The Title Guarantee and Trust Company is a corporation in New York City, engaged in examining and guaranteeing titles of real property. It is the largest company of its kind and has a capital and surplus of over $10,000,000. In connection with its work, a surveying department is maintained in charge of Mr. Geo. C. Hollerith, in which are employed something over sixty people. The number of good real estate surveyors in New York City to-day, is very limited. There is a heavy demand for city surveying, and the business is apt to be a profitable one for those who understand it. The Company would like to secure the services of about ten graduates from technical schools. These men must have a mathematical education, including a thorough working knowledge of trigonometry and logarithmic tables. They will be used, both in the field, there they can obtain a practical knowledge of surveying and in the office where they can obtain a thorough training in the mathematical end of the work. They will be paid at the rate of $10 per week for the first three months. Afterwards, if they show the necessary ability, they will be advanced at the rate of $1 per week every three or four months, again depending on their ability, until their salary has reached $20. After this time, contracts will be made with each individual according to the work he is capable of doing. Correspondence is solicited with the members of the graduating class of Bucknell University. Address Mr. George C. Hollerith, 146 Broadway, New York City.

Ladies' and Misses' Tailored Suits and Separate Jackets at Clearance Prices

In the midst of the season, just when people need them, we have put clearance prices on a lot of Suits and Jackets to make them move quickly and turn thm inteo cash. If interested we ask you to come and look them over, and we will quote you the special prices, which we know will be satisfactory if we can find your size in th lot.

In this lot ar a fw Children's Suits from 11 to 15 years that will be closed out at the same reduction.

Every season we "round up" a stock of Tailored Suits while they are seasonable, and here you will find handsome, elegantly tailored gowns.

The prices on these Suits for May were never quoted so low, in fact we never did it before and it will be a long time coming again, so come early and pick out the Suit you want and the price we know will be right, as it is not very difficult to attract a customer at these clearance prices.

In the separate Covert Jackets we have all sizes from 32 to 42, and the reduced prices run from $2.98 up. They are in the fitted, semi-fitted and loose backs. Very extraordinery values in this line, and we would advise you to come and get a bargain while they are in season, and the choosing is good. Some special values in ¾ length Jackets, loose backs, new Spring styles.

In the celebrated "Eldredge" make, and if you are thinking about getting a machine come and get our prices on "The Eldredge" and let us give you its merits. Start them as low as $18.00 and give you all the attachments. Machine fully guaranteed. Give us a call if interested.

TRACK REVIEW

Bucknell Makes Good Record With Many New Men on the Team.

The track season closed with the Lafayette meet. Judging from the amount of new material that comprised this year's squad, the record made may be looked upon as a creditable one. Dickinson was beaten, while Lafayette won an easy victory. The Freshmen took the honors in the Inter-class meet, with the Sophomores second, and the Juniors and Seniors tied for third place.

The new men on the team developed well, and two of them were awarded the college letter. Shade, '09, has developed into a point-winner in the weight department; Mershon and Woodward give promise of becoming quarter-milers for next year's relay team; Benn should develop into a dash man; Shorkley was kept from doing his best in the hurdle races and the broad jump because of a bad knee; Jones was kept out of the meets on account of injuries. Knapp shows good form in the pole-vault. Of the old men, Lenhart deserves the greatest credit as a point-winner, since, by his superior work, he saved both varsity meets. He broke his own record in the shot-put. Cure's work in the broad and high jumps was exceptional; Frey, handled the dashes.

Ex-Captain Denninger will be missed from next year's aggregation, since he was the premier distance runner; Baer made good in the half-mile this season, and should develop into a faster man next year. Rockwell and Whitney won points in the Lafayette and Dickinson meets and will be the main-stay of the long-distance runs next year.

Track is a losing venture, and this year proved to be no exception. Manager Phillips had hoped that with such a strong home attraction as the Bucknell-Lafayette meet, there would be such support from the student-body that this year's financial condition might be better than that of former seasons. The turnout was nothing like it should have been, and as a result of the lack of interest, there is a deficiency.

Bucknell was not represented at the annual relay races held on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, April 28th, but next year should see a banner-winning team registered for this famous track meet. The Orange and Blue has captured a good share of banners at this event. The failure to send a team this year was responsible for the lack of interest in track athletics during the early part of the season.

The record:

Bucknell, 53½; Dickinson, 50½.

Bucknell, 38; Lafayette, 66.

Total—Bucknell, 91½; opponents, 116½.

Summer Assembly Drawing Near.

Neatly arranged circulars have been issued announcing the Summer Assembly of the Baptist Young People's Union, that is to be held in Lewisburg, August 1st to 10th. A good idea of the program arranged is given together with the list of speakers, and a description of the points of interest in and about Lewisburg. The local committee consists of Rev. J. T. Judd, William C. Gretzinger, and Prof. W. E. Martin. Any communications of inquiry should be addressed to Dr. Judd, Chairman.

Bucknell 7; Sunbury 2.

Bucknell won easily from the Sunbury team Saturday by the score 7-2. Leach pitched a fine game, holding Sunbury down to three hits, while the opportune hitting of the men behind him was a feature.

Bucknell was first to but and started the game off by scoring four runs. Heinze was walked, Sheehan, Parsons and Leach all hit safely, which coupled with a sacrifice and an infield error, scored the four tallies. For Sunbury Calvin hit safely, stole second and was sacrificed to third, counting on a slow infield hit.

In the second inning after two men were out Bucknell scored two more on Heinze's second pass and hits by Grininger and Sheehan. There was no further scoring by either side until the ninth, although Bucknell hit consistently throughout the whole game. In that inning Heinze hit safely and scored on a sacrifice and a hit. For Sunbury Shaffer obtained a life on an infield error after the first man up had bene retired, stole second and scored on Dever's two-base hit.

Junior Exhibition in Oratory.

The annual exhibition of the Junior class in oratory will be held Friday evening of this week. Inasmuch as the orations are orignal productions separate judgments are made upon them from the literary standpoint and from the delivery. The speakers no doubt will strive to present orations combining scholarship and popular interest.

Phila.-Bucknell Club Meeting.

At a meeting of the Phila.-Bucknell club held last Wednesday it was decided that the organization should indulge in a social function, which will be given in Mrs. Huth's parlors the evening of June 1st. As there was only a working quorum of the members present, no other business was transacted.

Bucknell's Northfield Delegation.

NORTHFIELD CONFERENCE

Bucknell Plans to Send Large Delegation to the Convention.

The Student Conference at Northfield, Mass., will be held a week earlier this year than heretofore, beginning on June 22 and lasting ten days. This change is a matter of great convenience to most institutions which are represented there, as it allows no lapse of time between Commencement and the conference.

Those who have ever attended the Northfield Student Conference need no arguments to prove the advisability of spending the first ten days of the summer vacation there. The conference has become representative of all that is best in college life, and unique is its character and place among gatherings of students.

The conference has become an intercollegiate affair. It represents nearly all schools and colleges of the eastern states and Canada. Last year there were about 650 men in attendance from 131 institutions, Yale having the largest delegation. The State of Pennsylvania always ranks first among state delegations, not because of her few large colleges, but because of her large number of smaller ones. The above ent will show that Bucknell was well represented. The only school in the state which had a larger delegation was U. of P.

The purpose of the conference is to make more influential over the lives of the men who come, and through them over the life of the colleges they represent, the highest —the Christian—ideals of life. Twice each day, morning and evening, the delegates come together in the Auditorium to hear addresses from men whose knowledge of student life and its problems entitles them to authority and confidence among students. Each morning also they meet for the study of social and religious questions and conditions in America or in foreign lands, or for informal conferences on some of its problems of college life, and some agencies by which they may be solved.

Among the speakers this year again appears the names of such men as Spear, Zwemer, and Falconer. Bucknell hopes to be represented by not less than ten men this year. The Association meeting this week will be in the interest of Northfield.

Bucknell contributed $141.35 to the Red Cross Society for the benefit of the San Francisco sufferers.

Dickinson "Sem" Beats Freshmen.

The Freshman track team lost to Dickinson Seminary at Williamsport, Saturday afternoon, by the score of 56-18. The first-year team was composed of but six men Dickinson won the meet by taking two places in the last event, the half mile. The high hurdles were run in record time, 15 4-5 seconds. The events;

Pole vault—Knapp, first, Hallman, second; height, 9 feet.

100 yard dash—Minds, first; Kase, second. Time, 10 1-5 seconds.

220 yard dash—Minds, first; Kase, second. Time 24 1-5 seconds.

One mile run—Ogden, first; Mercado, second. Time, 5 minutes 4 1-5 seconds.

220 yard hurdles—Davy, first; Knapp, second. Time 28 4-5 seconds.

120 yard hurdles—Knapp, first; Davy, second. Time, 15 4-5 seconds.

12 lb. hammer throw—Shade, first; Krebs, second. Distance, 122 feet.

Broad jump—Snyder, first; Kase, second. Distance, 17 feet 9 inches.

High jump—Hallman, frist; Ogden, second. Height, 5 feet 2 inches.

Two mile run—Davy, first; Mercado, second. Time, 15 minutes 4-5 seconds.

Quarter mile run—Snyder, first; Ogden, second. Time, 54 seconds.

Half mile run—Boyce, first; Melroy, second. Time, 2 minutes 35 seconds.

Shot put—Shade, first, Williams, second. Distance, 38 feet 9½ inches.

Whitney Elected Track Captain.

Earle M. Whitney, '07, of Wellsboro, was elected captain of the track team for the season of 1907 at a meeting of the squad on Tuesday afternoon. Whitney has been running since his Freshman year, and is a distance man. He succeeded in making his "T. B. T." last year, and won it again this year. There were but four men on this year's team who were wearers of the "B."

Prominent Physician Passes Away.

Dr. H. M. Shallenberger, ex-'73, of Rochester, Pa., died Saturday, May 12th, at his home in that city. He had been sick for a month with typhoid fever. Dr. Shallenberger was a graduate of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia. He was one of the leading practitioners of Beaver Valley, President of the Beaver County Medical Association, and was a member of the medical staff of the Beaver hospital. He is survived by a wife and one daughter. Dr. Shallenberger was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

"SOPH" DANCE A SUCCESS

1908 Runs Off Cotillion in a Clever Manner.

An organ grinder came around by the "Sem" Friday evening, and the Semites and College girls danced up and down the pavement to the success of the Sophomore cotillion. Whether this helped any or not, the dance was a good one, and the second annual hop given by the Sophomore class has made the standard of this affair high, and has assured the success of the function in future years.

Some confusion was caused over the fact that the programs did not arrive. Cards had been printed and passed around, but they were found to be few in number, and these were dispensed with. But in the face of this unexpected confusion, Comstock's orchestra came to the rescue and played so well that the entire program of twenty-four dances was reeled off before anyone realized it. The music from beginning to end was so varied and full of life that the dancers thought nothing of demanding several encores to each selection, in the rendition of which the orchestra was especially liberal.

But there were other features that went to make this cotillion an enjoyable one. The class of 1908 indulged in an elaborate adornment of the walls with Orange and Blue bunting; pennants brightened every corner and covered the sides of the large hall. A large 1908 banner formed the background of the corner occupied by the patronesses. The refreshments served were greatly appreciated. The intermission seemed somewhat early, but the "wee hours" had arrived before the last strain was played.

Forty-two couples were present, including a large number of out-of-town guests.

Bucknell Ties in Tennis Match.

Bucknell broke even in the tennis tournament with Dickinson on the S. A. E. court on Saturday afternoon. Harris and Manchester had no trouble in landing the doubles from Jamieson and MacDowell, of Dickinson, 6-3, 6-2, 6-1. The single tournament was a fine exhibition in which Haines defeated August in four sets, 5-7, 6-4, 8-6, 6-4. This match was in doubt until the last game of the final set had been played. Andrews was first substitute on the team.

The Orange and Blue plays a return match with Dickinson, at Carlisle, next Saturday. During this week tournaments will be played to decide whether the same team represents Bucknell on this trip. Gettysburg has canceled the two matches which were scheduled. Manager DeMelt will try to arrange matches with Susquehanna or Lafayette. The management was well satisfied with the attendance at Saturday's tournamnet, and with the assurance of such attendance more home matches can be played.

Work on Memorial Progressing.

Work on the Senior memorial was begun last week. All the material has arrived, and, barring unexpected delays in construction, the bridge should be completed by the end of this month. This will give ample time to get the memorial in shape for the dedication at Commencement.

Editorial

The track manager has reported a financial loss on track athletics, and the reason for the deficit is the failure on the part of the student-body to support the team in the Lafayette meet. When a manager gets a good team here, he gets it here for the benefit of every college man; when he has done this he has filled his part of the contract. Strangely enough, the manager cannot depend upon the backing of the student-body when good contests are secured, but he may be sure to hear from almost every quarter when this sort of an exhibition is not scheduled. One thing is certain, that unless the games and meets are attended the quality will become poor and the number less.

Baseball is in exactly the same position as track. The manager has arranged for a good line of home games, and depends on the student-body's support for the financial end of his work. To keep the athletics of Bucknell on a firm basis it is necessary and imperative that everyone take an interest in the games, and above all, attend them.

During several evenings last week a crowd assembled in front of West College and enjoyed what we might term a "sing." Popular airs seemed to be the order of the program, and a lively and entertaining program it was. We believe that this would be a means of fostering a strong college spirit were the affair made more general and were college songs mixed in with the other choruses. "College sings," as they are called, have become very popular in many of the colleges where spirit runs high, and we feel that some such custom as the one suggested would help greatly in stirring up and livening Bucknell college spirit.

Commencement Week, the ideal season of the college year, is drawing near, and already the campus is being beautified for the event. Bucknell's future depends greatly on the size of the incoming class from year to year, and in view of this fact it is the duty of undergraduates to do all in their power to get men to come here for their college course. Commencement Week is a very propitious time to show Bucknell to prospective students and make them feel that this is the college they should attend.

Harvard Changes Entrance Policy.

Harvard University has announced a change in its entrance policy. The faculty has decided that candidates for admission will be permitted to enter by passing successfully the examinations prepared by the college entrance examining board, of which most of the large colleges of the country are members. Harvard is the last of the colleges to accept these examinations as satisfying her standard, and does so only with the condition that the examination books of all applicants are to be read by representatives of Harvard. In the matter of tuition the corporation has also ruled that $20 a year shall be charged for each extra course in addition to the regular tuition fee of $150.

Bucknell Alumus Honored with Degree.

The Rev. J. Grant Lauderbaugh, Bucknell, '98, pastor of the First Baptist church of Oswego, N. Y., went to Rochester May 8, to receive the degree of Bachelor of Divinity at the commencement exercises of the Rochester Theological Seminary. Mr. Lauderbaugh graduated from the Rochester Seminary three years ago, just previous to his entering upon his work as pastor. Having completed all the work and having maintained the necessary standing while in the school, he recently sent in a thesis, which was highly satisfactory to the faculty and they have conferred upon him this degree.

Dr. Catterall to Speak at Bucknell.

Prof. Ralph C. H. Catterall, Ph. D., of Cornell University, will deliver the address at the Commencement of Bucknell University, Tuesday evening, June 19th. The subject of the address will be the "Revolution now in progress in Russia," and as Professor Catterall is both an accomplished speaker and a recognized authority in his line, the address will be of surpassing interest.

Alumnae Association Elects Officers.

The Alumnae Association of the Bucknell Institute held their last meeting of the year on Tuesday, May 8th, in the Institute. New officers were elected; President, Mrs. W. E. Martin; Vice President, Miss Annie Gundy; Secretary, Miss Margaret Groff; Treasurer, Mrs. G. S. Matlack. The committee selected a varied program for next year.

Seniors to Hold Picnic.

Since the Seniors did not hold the annual sleigh-ride this year, the class has decided to have a picnic at Blue Hill, Saturday, May 26. The plan has met with encouragement and almost the entire class will attend. The journey to the "Hill" will be made in hacks. Dinner will be taken along, and the whole day will be spent.

Pi Beta Phi Holds Picnic.

The entire chapter of Pi Beta Phi went to Blue Hill Saturday and enjoyed a very pleasant outing. Dinner was taken along and the whole day spent in the woods. A number of the alumni of the chapter were among the party.

Track "B's" Awarded.

Surveyors Wanted

The Title Guarantee and Trust Company is a corporation in New York City, engaged in examining and guaranteeing titles of real property. It is the largest company of its kind and has a capital and surplus of over $10,000,000. In connection with its work, a surveying department is maintained in charge of Mr. Geo. C. Hollerith, in which are employed something over sixty people. The number of good real estate surveyors in New York City to-day, is very limited. There is a heavy demand for city surveying, and the business is apt to be a profitable one for those who understand it. The Company would like to secure the services of about ten graduates from technical schools. These men must have a mathematical education, including a thorough working knowledge of trigonometry and logarithmic tables. They will be used, both in the field, there they can obtain a practical knowledge of surveying and in the office where they can obtain a thorough training in the mathematical end of the work. They will be paid at the rate of $10 per week for the first three months. Afterwards, if they show the necessary ability, they Will be advanced at the rate of $1 per week every three or four months, again depending on their ability, until their salary has reached $20. After this time, contracts will be made with each individual according to the work he is capable of doing. Correspondence is solicited with the members of the graduating class of Bucknell University. Address Mr. George C. Hollerith, 149 Broadway, New York City.

Amherst Establishes Novel Precedent.

Amherst College has established what will probably be a precedent of making a collection of interesting college posters. A collection containing about 700 posters, which have been published in connection with college activities, the earliest one being that announcing the commencement exercises of 1839, has been placed within the college library. The collection is arranged under three headings—literary, dramatic and athletic. Under the first heading are posters of commencements, lecture courses and literary meetings, under the second those announcing performances of dramatic and musical clubs, and under the third heading are found athletic posters prior to1897, including those of the football, baseball, track, basketball, tennis and gymnastic associations. There are nine volumes of posters in the collection, and the books are bound in half-leather in regular folio size.

Card Orders.

Card orders giving special rates on the railroad for the Bucknell University Commencement, to be held at Lewisburg, June 15th to 20th, can be had by writing to the Registrar of the University. The New Summer Corsets

Just a brief synopsis of the merits of our Corsets. We have shapes for every type of figure. The fabrics combine daintiness and durability. They are of the most careful workmanship. We can fit the stout as well as the slender lady. And here you get the largest assortment as well as the best values for your money.

Among the leading styles are the "Warner's Rust rProof," "Kabo," and "Loomer's."

Warner's Rust Proof at 50c, $1.00 and $1.50. The 50c styles are in the tape and zoned girdles, the short and Princess hip and the nursing corset.

$1.00 styles are in the Princess Hip with hose supporters, the small French corset. Two different styles in the tape and zone girdles and an elegant nursing corset.

$1.50 styles are in the New Princess Hip Corset.

"Kabo" Corsets at $1.00, $1.50, $2.00 and $2.50. The $1.00 styles are in the girdle top and Princess Hip, also a high bust corset with Princess Hip.

$1.50 styles are in the new high bust with PrincessHip, also a new corset especially adapted for stout figure, it having three broad side steels.

$2.00 styles are in a medium bust, Princess Hip, with hose supporters.

$2.50 style is a form reducing corset. Most styles in the Kabo are made of fine batiste.

"Loomer's" corsets from $1.00, $1.50 to $2.50, all having unbreakable spiral spring side steels, very stylish and perfect fitting. The $1.00 styles are in low and high bust, Princess Hip and hose supporters. Another style in low bust, short hip and hose supporters.

Busier Than Ever---The Muslin Underwear is at Its Best

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY.

VOL. X. LEWISBURG, PA., MONDAY, MAY 28, 1906 No. 32

CORNELL DEFEATED

Bucknell, too Fast for Ithacans, Won Easily.

Bucknell trimmed Cornell on Percy Field, Wednesday afternoon and covered themselves with glory by winning the greatest victory that could possibly be won in this season's schedule. The Ithacans were outplayed at every stage of the game. The "Orange and Blue" hitters drove Umstad, Cornell's star twirler, from the box in the third inning and clinched the game by crossing the plate four times.

In several practice games Cornell's second team had been winning from the 'Varsity nine, so Coach Warner decided to let the Reserve men line up against Bucknell; six men from the second team and three 'Varsity players comprised the Cornell nine. After Umstad retired Lovejoy and the rest of the Varsity took their places in the line-up, and even then Bucknell scored two runs to their opponents' one.

Captain Charles Grininger, whose hard and faithful work with the team was greatly responsible for the victory over Cornell.

Leach pitched a remarkable game and was a stumbling block to the Cornell batters. They were able to get but four hits off of his delivery. With three men on bases and none out in the seventh, the best Cornell could do was one run.

Bucknell secured eight hits off Umstad that netted five runs; Lovejoy proved to be a harder proposition and allowed but one hit in the last five innings.

The fielding of both teams was brilliant. A beautiful running catch of Lovejoy's fly in left field by Russell robbed the latter of a home run and proved to be the feature of the contest. King played well at second-base. Heinze, Grimminger, and Parsons were the stars in the hitting department. Score 7-2.

Bloomsburg 6; Bucknell 5.

The glare of the Cornell victory was somewhat faded at Bloomsburg Saturday when Bucknell lost to the Normal nine in an elevan inning contest by the score 6-5. The last five innings were sharply played.

Both sides were blanked until the third inning when Bloomsburg broke into the game by scoring three runs. Dewir was passed, Lynch was safe on an error, and both scored on Stone's hit. A double play retired Stone and Bray, but McAndrews scored on his single and a double by Schmultz. Bucknell evened up matters in the next inning. Grininger singled, August was safe on an error and both scored on a sacrifice hit and Olendorf's two-bagger. Olendorf tallied a little later on Nipple's two-base drive. Two errors gave Bucknell another run in the sixth. In Bloomsburg's half two runs were scored on safe hits by Schmultz, Riley and Dennison. In the seventh Heinze scored and tied the game on his hit and Parson's safe one. Dewir opened up the eleventh with a two-base hit and scored the winning run on a wild throw to third.

COMMENCEMENT PROGRAM

Interesting Week for Alumni and Undergraduates.

The fifty-sixth annual Commencement of Bucknell University promises to be one of interest to alumni and undergraduates alike. The program that has been arranged includes addresses by Dr. Talcott Williams, Dr. Ralph C. Catterall, and Dr. B. L. Whitman. The twilight concerts by the Repasz band, of Williamsport, will doubtless continue to be one of the popular events of the week. An alumni reunion of the classes of '56, '66, '76, '86, and '96, has been planned.

The program:

FRIDAY, JUNE 15th.

7.30 p. m.—Exhibition of the School of Music, under the direction of E. Aviragnet, Mus. Doc., (Bucknell Hall.)

Juniors Give Oratorical Contest.

An exceptionally interesting program of original orations was presented Friday evening in Bucknell Hall at the annual oratorical contest of the Juniors for the Registrar's prize. One prize is awarded the young man, the other the young lady, whose oration is adjudged the best in regard to composition and delivery. Misses Williams and Mary Galbraith, Charles Potter and Homer Smith deserve special mention. The list of orations follows:

Anne Galbraith, "The Idler: A Social Problem."

Edwin Wilde Saylor, "Civic Altruism."

Frances Estelle Williams, "Practical Optimism."

Vocal Duet, by Misses Zeltler and Langdon.

Mary Earley Galbraith, "The Passing of the Veteran."

Charles Francis Potter, "King Philip's War: A Crisis."

Lila Mabel Sill, "The Position of Woman under the Socialistic Ideal."

Labellen Waltz, Orchestra.

Sydney Homer Smith, "The Genesis of our Nation."

Helen Mae Olds, "Benedict Arnold: A Victim of Circumstances."

George A. Riggs, "The Coming of the People to their Own."

The decision of the Judges is reserved until Commencement.

Seniors Win Relay Race.

Although everyone expected the Juniors to take first place in the annual inter-class relay race Friday afternoon the seniors secured a lead in the second quarter and won hands down. The senior team was composed of Shorkley, Shields, Comstock, and Denninger. Juniors, Baer, Benn, Brinker, and Whitney. Sophomores, Thompson, Morris, Hayes and Hawk. Freshmen, Knapp, Landsrath, Owens and Hollereith. The Juniors took second place, the fresmhen third and the sophomores fourth.

President's Reception to Seniors.

President Harris gave a very pleasant reception to the members of the Senior class at his home Thursday evening. Almost every member of 1906 together with a large number of the Senior "Semites" were present to enjoy the hospitality offered them, and to help make the affair an enjoyable one. Elegant refreshments were served, and numerous college songs were rendered during the vening.

FOOTBALL RESOLUTIONS

Conferrees Form Agreement Over Central Body of Officials.

Registrar Wm. C. Gretzinger, representing Bucknell, attended a conference of the Middle Atlantic States Sub-Committee of the National Rules Committee, embracing ten institutions in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Delaware, held at the Bellevue-Stratford, Philadelphia, last Wednesday. The idea was to get at some definite agreement over a central body of officials. To that end several resoutions were passed. These are not final, but must be ratified. The resolutions follow:

First, that a list of officials be prepared by the subcommittee in conjunction with suggestions from the various colleges concerned which shall be an official list and from which with subsequent additions officials—except linesmen—for all games shall be selected.

Second, names on the official list except in cases of well-known and accredited officials, shall be college men and shall be indorsed by a faculty representative, an alumnus and the football nanager of that institution and that these shall be subject to the final indorsement of the subcommittee.

Third, that the appointment of officials shall be made by the Middle Atlantic States Sub-Committee, but that each institution shall have the right to reserve the appointment of officials for certain games, such appointment to be made from the official list and through agreement by the institutions concerned. It is recommended that Cornell, Princeton and Pennsylvania reserve to themselves the appointment of officials for their three more important games only, and that other institutions reserve to themselves such appointment for all except the three more important games. Apportionment of officials for all major games shall be ratified by the sub-committee. It is suggested that these institutions submitting games for committee appointment indicate confidentially their maximum compensation for such officiating.

Fourth, that the representatives of various institutions meeting by invitation of the subcommittee indorse the plan in general as outlined by this committee tending toward the appointment of an accredited board of officials for the various games and hereby express our confidence in the work of and desire to co-operate with the committee in working toward the accomplishment of such end.

Editorial

The victory over Cornell last Wednesday afternoon was certainly worth the demonstration of the evening. This is the greatest victory an Orange and Blue nine has achieved for many years, and the team is deserving of all the praise the student-body can give her. Cornell seemed inclined to dodge the defeat by sending in newspaper dispatches in which the fact that the second team was played for the first four innings was the main feature. It will be noticed that Umstad, the Ithacans' star twirler, was in the box during the first part of the game; even after Cornell's varsity trotted out on the diamond Bucknell made more runs than her opponents. It's generally understood that the larger universities protect themselves against defeats sustained at the hands of the smaller colleges, but this will be considered as a well-earned victory, in fact, as the greatest victory the team can possibly win this season.

Already we are hearing of many who are planning to leave Bucknell as soon as the last examination is over. We realize that everyone is anxious to begin summer work as soon as possible, but a week more or less seems a matter of slight consequence. It should be plain to Juniors and Sophomores that it is their duty to stay for Commencement week; Freshmen should take in the event by all means, since they owe to their Alma Mater their presence at the Commencement.

A very interesting program has been published in another column, and this should prove to be no little inducement to spend the week on the campus. We need not suggest that this is by all means the ideal week of the whole college year. The alumni, who return for the different class re-unions, are anxious to see what sort of men Bucknell is getting from year to year, and they can never see the kind or the number we have enrolled, if the majority leave as soon as their last "exam" has been taken. In fact, Bucknell does not close until after Commencemnt Week.

The new football resolutions that were passed last week answer a great need in regard to the officials of inter-Collegiate football games. Should Bucknell have a schedule of ten games, the officials for the three most important contests would be chosen by the committee, while the officials for the remaining seven games would be selected by the competing teams, but they must be taken from the accredited list. This will assure impartial and competent referees for all inter-Collegiate contests.

The way the "Preps" turned out to the celebration Wednesday night is surely commendable. They have never been encouraged to take a part in the college demonstrations until recently, and now that they have shown their spirit in a matter of common interest they should be incited to a further participation in college affairs.

Would Have No "Blue Mondays."

The Rev. F. W. Overhiser, Bucknell, '81, pastor of the First Baptist church of Bedford, N. Y., told the members of the Baptist Ministers' Conference that if they would avoid the terrors of the "Ministers' Blue Monday" they ought to take a day off once in a while like others who have to work for a living. In part he said:

"Beloved Brethren, Fellow Sufferers and Sinners: I am here to-day not to raise a cloud of dust by pummeling a man of straw, but to skin my knuckles, if need be, in the attempt to deliver a solar plexus knockout to your enemy and mine, that blue devil—"Blue Monday."

"It is a grim and terrible reality and not amusing to its victims. It affects ministers so generally and violently that I venture to term it 'ministerial malaria.' While it lasts it is a good deal safer for other folks to hustle to the woods and risk encounter with its fiercest denizens than to cross the path of the minister on 'Blue Monday.'

"For chronic 'Blue Monday' as manifested in the person of the Rev. J. Philetus Poundtext, D. D., S. T. D., Ph. D., X. Y. Z., there is prescribed a trip abroad—expenses paid—or else a prolonged vacation with absolute rest. This being interpreted by the Rev. J. Philetus, etc., means that he is to accept 'pressing invitations' to supply pulpits in oBston,New York Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Chicago, Denver and a few other cities at an average tariff of fifty per preach, expenses paid, and no questions asked by the deacons when he gets back home—refreshed and rested then, of course.

"If, however, you happen to be merely and obscurely 'Jones' with no alphabet at either end of your name, your luck is great, indeed, when your 'Blue Monday' becomes chronic, if the church you serve does not vote you a permanent vacation—with arrangements to settle up the back salary in the sweet by and by.

"The minister suffers from 'Blue Monday 'because he forgets he is an animal and subject to the limitations of an animal. Don't imagine you are a born orator on Sunday morning and break down from weariness on Sunday evening. Take your 'day off' like the rest of mankind.

Bucknell Wins Tennis Match.

Dickinson was defeated for the second time at tennis at Carlisle Saturday. Harris and Manchester, the Orange and Blue team in doubles, had no trouble in beating Haines and Jameson 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1. The Bucknell team became stronger as the match progressed, and had their opponents completely outclassed.

Surveyors Wanted

The Title Guarantee and Trust Company is a corporation in New York City, engaged in examining and guaranteeing titles of real property. It is the largest company of its kind and has a capital and surplus of over $10,000,000. In connection with its work, a surveying department is maintained in charge of Mr. Geo. C. Hollerith, in which are employed something over sixty people. The number of good real estate surveyors in New York City to-day, is very limited. There is a heavy demand for city surveying, and the business is apt to be a profitable one for those who understand it. The Company would like to secure the services of about ten graduates from technical schools. These men must have a mathematical education, including a thorough working knowledge of trigonometry and logarithmic tables. They will be used, both in the field, there they can obtain a practical knowledge of surveying and in the office where they can obtain a thorough training in the mathematical end of the work. They will be paid at the rate of $10 per week for the first three months. Afterwards, if they show the necessary ability, they Will be advanced at the rate of $1 per week every three or four months, again depending on their ability, until their salary has reached $20. After this time, contracts will be made with each individual according to the work he is capable of doing. Correspondence is solicited with the members of the graduating class of Bucknell University. Address Mr. George C. Hollerith, 189 Broadway, New York City.

Dr. Williams to Speak at Bucknell.

The University Address, Bucknell Commencement, will be given this year, Tuesday afternoon, June 19th, by Talcott Williams, LL. D., of Philadelphia. The subject of the address will be "Democracy and Letters." The address will deal with the questions: first, whether the organization of industry on a large scale makes the career of a young man easier or less easy at the start; and second, the real meaning of social uprising incident to the exposures of the last twelve months in insurance and railroads.

As Dr. Williams has made a special study of such themes, the address will be an occasion of rare interest. After the address diplomas will be presented to the graduates of the Institute, School of Music, Art Department and Academy.

Following these exercises will come the breaking of ground for the proposed East College. This building will be constructed of brick and brown stone, and will contain one hundred rooms for students. The basement, which will be entirely above ground, will contain laboratory and recitation rooms. The building will be ready for use in the fall of 1907.

H. S. Mauser, '03, of McEwensville, was one of the fifty-two graduates of the Hahemann College and Hospital, of Philadelphia.

Communication.

The "Orange and Blue" invites communications but does not necessarily agree with the opinions expressed therein. All communications must be signed, though the name will not be published if so desired.

Editor The Orange and Blue:—Just a word concerning a matter of vital interest—At the beginning of the baseball season, Bucknell had poor prospects for a winning team; the positions of old stars were filled with new men of unknown ability, and the true strength of our team was not realized until tested by the hardest games on the schedule; the team has acquitted itself nobly. But now, just when everything looks rosy; when team work moves smoothly and splendid results are obtained after weeks of constant effort—several of our players have so far forgotten themselves and their obligations to "Alma Mater," that they choose to devote their interests to outside organizations, rather than to the institution, which by right, has the first claim upon them. This inconsistency upon the part of several, is most disastrous to the team as is well demonstrated by the last game. The brilliant victory over Cornell was followed by a most humiliating defeat at the hands of a team by no means in our class. And why? Simply for the reason that the absence of a few players so shattered the make-up of the team, that team-work was impossible. No team can cope successfully against such odds. The captain and management are in no wise to blame. They have done all in their power to keep the team intact. If Bucknell is to win the remaining games on her schedule, she must be represented by the full strength of her defenders. There is no cause for the team to be so, discouraged, demoralized and shattered. Be loyal to the school of your first choice—"Old Bucknell."

Gettysburg Wins al Tennis.

Gettysburg won her third intercollegiate tennis match within the past week by defeating Bucknell Friday in a close and exciting contest. Both teams played fast, the brilliant playing of Rickey being the feature. The Gettysburg team has been undefeated this season, and is considered one of the fastest college teams in the State. The scores were: Huber and Rickey, Gettysburg, defeated Harris and Manchester, Bucknell, 6-3, 10-12, 8-6, 6-1.

Seniors Hold Picnic.

About thirty members of 1906 attended the Senior picnic held at Blue Hill Saturday. The trip from Lewisburg in hacks was a pleasant one, and the day proved to be an ideal picnic day. The party left in the morning and returned late in the evening. Every one reports an enjoyable time, and a feeling for those who did not go.

BUCKNELL SCORES SHUT-OUT

Parsons, in Splendid Form, Wins One-hit Game 2-0.

Bucknell won the second signal victory of the college year by administering a shut-out to Lafayette on Athletic Field on Saturday, 2-0. Parsons pitched in such fine form that he had the Eastonians completely at his mercy, allowing but one hit. Lafayette would never have become dangerous had it not been for errors. Schneider was in the box for the visitors for the first three innings but the "Orange and Blue" batters began to find him quite easy, and he was replaced by Newberry.

Both teams were blanked up until the fifth inning when Bucknell scored the first run of the game. After two men had been cut off at second in the attempt to get double plays Sheehan scored on a wild throw by Moore to first base. Leach and August each singled but died on second and third. Lafayette tried hard to tie the score in the eighth. Sheehan missed a fast grounder and Long was safe at second. Moore sacrificed him to third, and with two men down "Chief" fanned Snook.

Bucknell did better in their half of the same inning.Newberry passed Olendorf; King sacrificed him to second; Nipple advanced him a base, and he counted on Long's error.

With but three more men to retire the "Orange and Blue" allowed Lafayette to give them a final score. The Eastonian's made a strong bid for the game in the last inning. August misjudged McAvoy's fly in center field, and the batter was safe on first. Peter's fouled to Griminger, McAvoy stealing second on the play; and Newberry hit to Sheehan; Olendorf fumbled the throw, and McAvoy went to third. Newberry stole second and with men on second and third the "squeeze play" was tried. McAvoy was caught at the plate and Griminger threw Newberry out at third, ending the game. The score:

Burnham Wins Double Header.

MORNING GAME.

Bucknell lost the morning game to Burnham on Decoration Day by the score 2-0. The Orange and Blue were unable to connect safely with Hoffman's delivery, getting only two hits. The game was a fast and clean one, and the misplays on either side did not count in the scoring. Leach pitched well and would have won if Bucknell could have hit safely.

Neither team was able to score until the eighth inning when Burnham got two runs over the rubber. Bucknell retired in order in the first inning, but Burnham did better; after Snoke had fanned, Lavelle, Griffith, and Kennedy singled, filling the bases. Shuttlesworth's hit to pitcher forced Lavelle at the plate and a double play resulted. During the rest of the game Bucknell did not get a man past second base.

In the eighth inning Burnham clinched the game by scoring two runs. Snoke, the first man up hit for two bases, Lavelle struck out, Griffith singled scoring Snoke, Kennedy fanned but Griffith counted on Shuttlesworth drive for two bases.

AFTERNOON GAME.

The snappy exhibition put up by both teams in the morning game served to draw a large holiday crowd for the afternoon contest. Bucknell lost 7-2, although for seven innings the game belonged to either team. In the first inning Heinze led off with a single, Griminger sacrificed him to second, and he scored on Leach's drive. Burnham could do nothing in their half, but tied the score in the second. Kennedy hit safely and was caught stealing second but the umpire failed to see it that way. Shuttlesworth was thrown out from second to first and Kennedy took third on the play. He scored on an error. In the fourth Griffith tallied on his hit followed by safe ones by Kennedy and Brady.

EAST COLLEGE TO BE BUILT

Bucknell to Add Fifteenth Building to the College Group.

East College, the new dormitory for men, will complete the quadrangle upon the hill and add the fifteenth building to Bucknell University. In location East College will be the counterpart, on the east of Main College, to West College upon the west.

The new building will be 146½ ft. in length, 40½ ft. in width, 60 ft. in height, from the ground to the eaves, and it will be constructed of Millwood pressed brick with Hummelstown brownstone trimmings, the interior finished in oak. It will practically be six stories high; the ground floor or basement, for which but fifteen inches will be excavated, will consist of a laboratory, recitation rooms and a bath; the second, third, fourth, and fifth stories, will be occupied as dormitories; the sixth floor will probably be used for drawing purposes.

Entrances to the new building will be as those of West College, the main entrance in front by a porch to the first floor of dormitories but with steps upon either side under this porch leading to the basement; also an entrance at the middle of each side of the building to both the basement and first floor.

In the front of the basement will be the electric and physical laboratory, 37 by 46, and opening from it on either side in the rear so that they may be practically made a part of the laboratory, will be a recitation room, 16½ by 18¼. The remainder of the basement will be occupied by three recitation rooms 14½ by 27½, 14½ by 18½, 16½ by 18¼ respectively, upon the east side, and two recitation rooms 14½ by 27½, 14½ by 18½ respectively, and a bath room with six shower and toilet apartments 16½ by 18½, upon the west side.

The first, second, third and fourth floors will be entirely devoted to dormities, twenty-eight rooms upon each floor or one hundred and twelve in the entire building. Opposite the stairs upon each floor, will be a toilet room with hot and cold water. All the rooms will probably be single apartment although there may be some suites. The first floor will be eleven feet in height, the other floors ten feet. The top floor will be one large room with ample sky lights, and it will likely be devoted to the drawing and designing classes.

A double pipe steam heating system will be employed; electricity will light the building, and there will be hot and cold water upon each floor. Prof. Lindemann and Prof. Burpee drew the plans and Prof. Burpee, as superintendent, will have charge of the construction.

Ground will be broken at 3.30 on Tuesday afternoon, June 19, by a member of the Board of Truetees. The new building will be complete and ready for occupancy at the opening of the college year, September, 1907.

Eupia Elects Officers.

The Eupia Literary Society elected the following officers at the Friday night meeting: President, Hall, '07; Vice President, Reese, '07; Secretary, H. A. Smith, '09; Critic, Condiet, '08; Treasurer, Saunders, '09; Sergeant-at-arms, Whitney, '07.

Alumnus Prepares Commentary.

"Clark's People's Commentary" American Baptist Publication Society, Philadelphia is extended by the addition of a volume dealing with "Hebrews, James I and II, and II Peter." This instalment of the popular commentary upon a critical basis, especially designed for pastors and Sunday schools, is the work of Rev. O. P. Eaches, D. D., '63, of Hightstown, N. J. The introduction summarizes what is established in relation to the authorship of the epistles, why and to whom they were written and their doctrinal importance. The authorized and revised versions are printed in parallel columns; but the commentary is based on the older text.

Freshmen Win Both Games.

While the Varsity was losing to the Burnham team on Memorial Day the Freshmen were trouncing the Mt. Carmel nine in an easy manner. The morning game resulted in the score of 10-9. Carey was in the box for the Freshmen and did excellent work up until the seventh inning, when he weakened. But nine hits were secured from him. Deafs left the Mt Carmel aggregation down with five safe ones in the afternoon contest. He had the home team at his mercy throughout the nine innings. Philson and Mathias starred in the hitting department.

The Mt. Carmel team was composed of players, five of whom were members of the team that represented that town in the Susquehanna league.

Tennis Tournament Saturday.

Saturday the Gettysburg tennis team will be here to play a return tournament with Bucknell. The match at Gettysburg resulted in a victory for them, and this promises to be an exciting contest. Gettysburg's team has been playing consistently and has the reputation of being one of the fastest in the state. They have not lost a match this season. A small admission fee will be charged, and the tournament will be played on the campus so that the "Sem" can attend.

Seniors Plan For Class Day.

The committee in charge of the Senior class day exercises has named Thursday, the first day of the Senior vacation, as the time for the celebration. This is a new departure by the senior class of Bucknell and it is hoped that it will prove to be a great success. A program is being arranged to fill up the day.

Juniors Elect Officers.

The Junior clas met Saturday morning and elected the following officers for the year of 1907:

President—Leo L. Rockwell.
Vice Pres.—John L. Minor.
Secretary—Miss Margaret Lesher.
Treasurer—Wilson W. Staver.
Historian—Miss Rebecca Shove.
Poet—Miss Mary Weddle.

Theta Alpna Elects Officers.

Theta Alpha elected officers for the following year at their meeting Friday evening; President, Griffith, '07; Vice President, Hummer, '08; Treasurer, Ogden, '09; Secretary, Payne, '09; Critic, Timiln, '09.

The date of the marriage of Miss Sarah Nesbit to Roy B. Mulkie, '98, has been set for June 12th.

BUCKNELL JOINS THE I. A. A.

Organization Forumlates Rules to Purge College Athletics.

Bucknell has joined the Inter-collegiate Athletic Association of the United States. This is an organization to which the different colleges and universities of the country are eligible. The association is divided into seven districts; Pennsylvania, together with Maryland, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, and the District of Columbia, comprise the second district.

The object of the association shall be the regulation and supervision of college athletics throughout the United States, in order that the athletic activities in the colleges and universities of the country may be maintained on an ethical plane in keeping with the dignity and high purpose of education. The association will hold an annual convention during the last week of December.

The college and universities enrolled in this association severally agree to take control of student athletic sports, as far as may be necessary, to maintain in them a high standard of personal honor, eligibility, and fair play, and to remedy what ever abuses may exist. Each year the association at its annual convention shall choose a committee to draw up rules for the playing of the game of football during the succeeding season.

Each institution, which is a member of this association agrees to enact and enforce such measures as may be necessary to prevent violations of the principles of amateur sports such as

(a) Proselyting.

1. The offering of inducements to players to enter college of universities because of their athletic abilities and of supporting or maintaining players while students on account of their athletic abilities, either by athletic organizations, individual alumni, or otherwise, directly or indirectly.

2. The singling out of prominent athletic students of preparatory schools and endeavoring to influence them to enter a particular college or university.

(b.) The playing of those ineligible as amateurs.

(c.) The playing of those who are not bona-fide students in good and regular standing.

(d.) Improper and unsportsman like conduct of any sort whatsoever, either on the part of the contestants, the coaches, their assistants, or the student body.

A code of eligibility rules was also drawn up, which are subject to change.

Philadelphia Club Entertains.

The Philadelphia Bucknell Club held a social meeting in Mrs. Huth's parlors Friday evening. The evening was spent in social games, contests, and humorous pranks, in which every one participated.

After this refreshments were served. Those present were Prof. and Mrs. Edwards, Miss Bottorf, Misses Armstrong, Barber, Carey, Hulley, Lyell, Maxwell, Roberts, Sames, Stoltz, and Turner. Messrs. Bolton, Booth, Carey, Elsesser, Fetter, Grandfield, Griffith, Wm. Hulley, Sr., Elkanah Hulley, Loomis, Mathias, McLaughlin, and Saylor.

Editorial

The Orange and Blue depends greatly upon its subscription list for its existence, and this year has been a successful one in this regard. But subscriptions that yield nothing are of little value toward the maintenance of the paper. At the present time there are about one hundred delinquents in the ranks of the subscribers and unless these people pay up the financial end will suffer greatly and the paper will not be able to meet the demands made upon it. Three-fourths of these unpaid subscriptions belong to the alumni and the remaining twenty-five to the under-graduates. The prompt settlement of this matter would be greatly appreciated by the management.

During the college year several preparatory school clubs have been formed at Bucknell, and a new field of work has been opened. As the summer draws near the time for these clubs to do good, beneficial work for the college approaches. The Senior class in different preparatory schools is composed largely to-day of men and women who take a college course. This opens an avenue to the University clubs. To induce as many as possible of these students to enter Bucknell would be a great and an appreciated service.

The cleaning of the baseball diamond and the bon-fire of last week were two strong evidences of a live college spirit. This is what Bucknell needs, and this is what will keep her athletic teams in the winning mood. The celebration was without a doubt one of the greatest at Bucknell.

J. B. Smiley, '05, who has been employed at Steelton since graduation, has been advanced to the New York sales office of the Pennsylvania Steel Company.

Frank Stanton, '02, for four years coach of athletics at Denison, has resigned his position. He will take up the study of law at Cleveland, Ohio, this summer.

Mrs. Mary Eccleston (Owens), '97, and her husband and family sail on Tuesday for Buenos Ayres, where they will make their permanent home.

Ruth Bower, '00, has just graduated from a three year course at the University of Pennsylvania Hospital. In recognition of her ability she has been honored with an appointment on the permanent staff.

Robert Hayes, '04, who has been employed for the past year as Chemist in the Lackawanna Steel Works, at Buffalo, N. Y., has been forced to take a vacation on account of failing health.

Mansfield Forbell, '03, a student at the Rochester Theological Seminary, at Rochester, N. Y., recently spent a few days with friends on his way to New York City where he will secure employment.

A fine portrait and an appreciative sketch of Rev. J. Latta Watson, '67, graces the pages of the "Examiner" for May 25. The "Orange and Blue" congratulates the people of Mt. Olive, N. J., church, and their successful pastor.

Prof. J. W. A. Young, '87, of the University of Chicago, has an interesting article in "Science," May 18, on "The Movement in Prussia for the Reorganization of the Instruction of Mathematics and the Natural Sciences in the Secondary Schools." Professor Young is an authority in his field of Pedagogy.

The Rev. Dr. A. Lincoln Moore, '91, of the Riverside Baptist church, New York, has written a little book on "Christian Science: Its Manifold Attractions," now in its sixth thousand. Of course the title is ironical; and the author by fact and arguments, relieved by wit and humor, shows the absurdities of the system it reveals the author's well-known oratorical ability, and deserves the success it has already attained. A companion volume "Christian Science in Court" is in preparation.

Burnham Wins Double Header.

With two men gone in the seventh Bucknell tied the score. Griminger hit safely, went to second on an error by Griffith, and scored on Parson's timely single. Burnham counted five times in their half and kept the lead throughout the contest. Snoke hit for three bases; Griffith was hit by pitcher, and stole second, both scored on Kennedy's drive. Shuttlesworth stole second and both scored on Womer's hit. The latter counted on a long fly and Hoffman's safe one.

Coach Hoskins requests that the basketball cup, won last year by 1905, be returned to him since he wishes to turn it over to the Sophomore class, the winner this year.

Armel B. Heffling, ex-'06, came floating into town last week with such a neatly grown beard that everyone mistook him for some prominent "M. D." Further investigation showed that he has been employed in "stogie" manufacturing since he dropped his college work. He will graduate this Commencement.

The song "Bucknell," recently published in the 1907 L'Agenda, evidently has the make up of a good college song. The music is catchy with a good live movement. By the courtesy of the L'Agenda management, we herewith present the song to our readers as a supplement to the Orange and Blue.

Fully two thousand persons, including a large portion of the university, gathered upon the campus Memorial Day evening to witness guard mount, skirmish drill and closeo rder drill, by Co. A, 12th Regiment. The Lewisburg band furnished the music; Captain William C. Gretzinger was the adjutant; Captain Follmer, officer of the day; Lieut. Morrow, officer of the guard; Sergeant Major Brown, sergeant major of the guard mount.

Football Justified.

According to the "State Collegian," some fellow out in Portland, Oregon, searched the Bible from cover to cover to find justification for the football player. He reported the following as a result:

"They rush with one accord."—Acts xix.29

"Many shall run to and fro."—Dan. xii. 4.

"That my footsteps slip not."—Psa. xvii. 5.

"Run not to excess."I Peter iv. 4.

"I will scatter them."—Jeremiah xiii, 24.

"Thy tackling loosed."—Isaiah xxxiii. 23.

"Touch him not."—Psalms civ. 32.

"Trample them."—Isaiah lvii. 2.

"Require a sign" (signed).—I Cor. i, 22.

"Speak that they go forward."—Ex xiv. 15.

"Time to kill."—Ecclesiastes 111, 3.

The Age of Graft.

This is certainly an age of investigation. Legislatures, insurance companies, town councils, Dowie, have gone down before it. Now the frenzy has reached the colleges. At the University fo Michigan, an organization has recently been effected to superintend class elections and investigate graft on the part of students at the head of the college publications. All departments of the College elect members to the body, which is to be called the Senior Council.

CORNELL UNIVERSITY MEDICAL COLLEGE
NEW YORK CITY.
The course covering four years begins during the last week in Sept. and continues until June. A preliminary training in natural science is of great advantage. All classes are divided into small sections for recitations, laboratory and clinical bedside instructions. Students admitted to advance standing after passing the requisite examinations. The successful completion of the first year in any College or University recognized by the Regents of the State of New York as maintaining a satisfactory standard is sufficient to satisfy the requirements for admission which lately have been raised. The annual announcement giving full particulars will be mailed on application.

BUCKNELL A. A. MEETS

Manager Give Report; Assistant Managers Elected.

The annual spring meeting of the Athletic Association was held in the Tustin gymnasium Saturday morning. Athletic officers in the different departments were elected, and the reports of the managers of this year's athletic teams were given. Several resignations were accepted, and new men elected in their places.

Under election of officers James F. Hayes, '08, of Montoursville, was chosen as assistant base ball manager, Edward R. Innes, '08, of Canton, basketball manager, Elmer K. Bolton, '08, of Homelsburg, assistant track manager, and Ralph W. Haller, '08, of Reading, assistant tennis manager, William W. Ridge, '08, resigned as treasurer of the association at the beginning of last term and Alfred Whitby, '07, has served since his resignation; Wallace Snyder, '08, was elected as treasurer for the coming year. Whitby resigned from the finance committee and Walter Noll, '08, of Green Park and Marion E. Sayre, '08, of New Brighton, were chosen to fill the vacancies.

The reports of the different managers were then submitted to the association and were accepted as read. Manager DeMelt of the tennis team gave the following report for the season that is still in progress:

After the reports of the managers had been given an amendment to the constitution was made in the form of a motion to be acted on by the association at the regular meeting next fall. The motion was:

No student shall be eligible for a varsity captaincy unless he has won or previously been awarded a "B". In case there are no eligible candidates the advisory board shall make the necessary appointment.

Invitations for Assembly.

The invitations for the twenty-sixth annual commencemnet assembly have been sent out. The dance will be given in the Lewisburg Armory, Wednesday evening, June 20. Elaborate arrangements are being made for the affair. Comstock's orchestra has been engaged to render the music and an exceptionally large attendance is expected. The committee in charge is: William Marts, '03, Merle Edwards, '03, Silas Schoch, '06, Roy W. Hoen, '06, and Clay McCormick, '06.

Commencement News Under Way.

Work is well under way on the Commencement News. The editor of the publication requests that all articles and notices for the paper be handed in at once or very shortly. The board of editors is not as yet fully chosen, the editor in chief being DeMelt, '06. Those wishing to subscribe to the paper either for themselves or friend will please see the manager E. B. Hulley, '07. Students leaving before the end of the term should have the publication sent to them.

Commencement Way of Life Meeting.

The Way of Life Meeting on Commencement Sunday will be held on the campus, at four o'clock. The address will be by President Harris on Manliness.

ELOCUTION RECITAL

Pleasant Paogram Rendered by the Elocution Pupils.

A very excellent recital in elocution was given in Bucknell Hall, Friday evening, by students in the department of elocution. The young ladies interpreted their selections with a thorough and pleasing conception. "Six Cups of Chocolate," a humorous sketch presented by seven of the students, concluded the program, which follows,—"Prince Erics Christ Maid," Barks, Fannie Derr; "Brita's Wedding," Marsh, Helen Hare; "Goblin's Market," Christina Rossetti, and "Aux Italiens," Meredith, Dana Bower; "How Ruby Played," told by Jud Browning, Anna Stage; "Hagan," Nicholson, Ursula Parmley; "Six Cups of Chocolate," from the German by E. Schmithof, "Miss Adeline VanLindeau" Dana Bower; "Miss Dorothy Green," Anna Stage; "Miss Hester Beason," Josephine Hankins; "Miss Marion Lee," Sadie E. Burgess; "Miss Beatrix Van Kortlandt," Ursula Parmley; "Miss Jeannette Durand," Helen Hare.

Contribution to the Library.

Dr. S. T. Forgeus, '72, Chaplain of the Huntingdon Reformatory, has presented to the Library a very valuable collection of books including the entire American edition of the Ante-Nicene Fathers, in ten volumes; the First and Second Series of the Nicene and Post-Nicene Fathers, in twenty-eight volumes, Royal Octavo. The works are not simply a reprint of the Edinburgh edition of Drs. Roberts and Donaldson, but include valuable new introductions by American writers, ably edited by Dr. Philip Schaff; and under the general supervision of Bishop A. Cleveland Coxe. Dr. Forgeus may be assured of the gratitude of students and faculty alike, for this handsome gift.

Tennis Match Arranged.

When Gettysburg cancelled the tennis tournament arranged for last Saturday Manager DeMelt planned for a match with some other college team. A tournament was scheduled with Lafayette for Wednesday, but the Bucknell team was unable to go on the trip on account of examinations. The date has been changed to Tuesday, and the match will be played at Eatson, to-morrow.

Sophomore Class Election.

At a meeting of the Sophomore class Thursday afternoon, The following were elected as officers;

President, Merle B. Whitney.
Vice president, William W. Ridge.
Treasurer, Edward C. Condict.
Poetess, Miss Olive Richards.
Secretary, Miss Helen Tiffany.
Historian, Horace B. King.

Bucknell and All-Philadelphians.

The game between Bucknell and the All-Philadelphians was begun Saturday afternoon, and was stopped at the end of two innings with the score 2-2. Leach was in the box and received poor support, thus the visitors scored twice. The contest would doubtless have ended in an easy victory for Bucknell.

This is the last issue. Settle your subscription account at once.

Room Assignments.

Applications for rooms for the next college year must be filed in writing with the Registrar before 9 a. m., Tuesday, June 12th, 1906. No application will be considered unless signed by the applicant. Blank forms may be procured at the Registrar's Office any time after Saturday, June 9th.

Attention is directed to the new regulation governing the assignment of rooms, as follows:—

"The assignment of rooms is for one year. A deposit of ten dollars is required when the room is chosen. Is amount is credited upon the regular term bills. Should a student for good reason be unable to return, the deposit will be refunded, provided notice is sent to the Registrar not less than four weeks before the opening of the term for which the room is engaged."

In as much as this is the first year for the application of this rule, all assignments will be made provisionally; that is, the assignment will not become operative until the applicant pays the room deposit fee. This fee, for 1906, must be paid on or before August 1st. If not paid by that time the assignment will not hold.

For room assignments in the Women's College and the Academy, confer with the heads of those departments. The above regulation as to room deposit also applies to the Women's College and the Academy.

Applications will be considered alphabetically by classes. The assignments will be jointly made by the Registrar and the respective heads of the departments and halls.

Williamsport-Bucknell Club Meeting.

The Williamsport-Bucknell Club held a business meeting Thursday afternoon and elected officers for the fall term of next year; W. W. Staver, '07, president; Miss Mary Galbraith, '07, vice president; Miss Clara Harman, '09, secretary; and Allan Ritter, '09, treasurer. This meeting closes a very successful year for the club which has won flattering notice in the vicinity of Williamsport and in College circles, as well. Such an organization cannot but prove valuable as an advertisement for the institution.

Memorial to be Finished This Week.

The senior memorial will be finished this week. The bridge is a neat structure and makes a great improvement to that part of the campus. The memorial is completed early so as to allow plenty of time to get it in good shape for the presentation at Commencement. The chairman of the memorial committee urges that all seniors pay their assessment so that the contract accounts may be settled as quickly as possible.

Rain Stops Game With Cuban Giants.

Bucknell was unable to play the game with the Cuban Giants Wednesday afternoon, because of rain. Four innings of the contest were played, and the game promised to be a close one. The "blacks" are always great favorites with Bucknell baseball fans because of their characteristic way of playing. Parsons, who blanked the Giants in last year's game, was in the box, and seemed to be in good form.

Villa Nova game tomorrow.

BASEBALL RECORD

Bucknell Victorious Over Cornell and Lafayette.

Though Bucknell's baseball season is not finished, enough of the games have been played to allow a forecast of the remaining three. With three more defeats than victories the team has made an enviable record, for among the victories appear Lafayette and Cornell. And again, five of the defeats were by such close scores that as much glory was reflected on the Orange and Blue nine as on their opponents.

Since the opening game with Williamsport, April 20, the team has scored 51 runs, while their opponents have crossed the plate 63 times. Two games were lost to Dickinson by one run; the second would have resulted in a victory for Bucknell had the team made fewer errors. On the trip south Bucknell broke even, winning from St. Johns College, and losing to the "Middies." With three hard positions filled by new men, Captain Griminger has developed a team that has been the dread of all their opponents; and not only a dread to but a victor over Cornell, with their star man in the box.But as great as this Cornell victory was, the glory of the trick was somewhat dimmed when in the same week the Orange and Blue allowed Bloomsburg to take a game from them by the score of 6-5. This was looked upon as a sort of misfortune, and it will require but nine days to prove this part of it.

Bucknell won the second great game of the year when Lafayette was shut out on Athletic Field, June 2. The Eastonians were confident of winning, but they lost by the score of 2-0. Since the Lafayette contest two games have been scheduled, but rain has kept both from being played. To-morrow afternoon Villa Nova will play and there will remain but two game to complete the schedule. The record:

April 2—Williamsport 17, Bucknell 2.
April 21—Lebanon Valley 3, Bucknell 10.
April 27—St. Johns 5, Bucknell 8.
April 28—Navy 11, Bucknell 3.
May 2—Niagara 2, Bucknell 0.
May 5—Dickinson 2, Bucknell 1.
May 11—Gettysburg 1, Bucknell 7.
May 12—Dickinson 5, Bucknell 4.
May 23—Cornell 2, Bucknell 7.
May 26—Bloomsburg 6, Bucknell 5.
May 30—Burnham 2, Bucknell 0.
May 30—Burnham 7, Bucknell 2.
June 2—Lafayette 0, Bucknell 2.

SEASON TICKETS.

The season-ticket idea was introduced at Bucknell this year and has been working during nine months. The good or bad results of the plan can be easily seen by this time, and one finds that there are agreements for and against it. The experience of the different managers under the system seems to point favorably toward its continuance.

Football and basketball are always profitable, and this year has proved to be no exception to the rule. The rub comes when one considers track and baseball. Track was a losing proposition, and baseball will doubtless come out behind financially. These are facts that have been true for years, and they seem to prove nothing in regard to the season-ticket plan. Though this is the real condition of affairs it is not without a remedy. The season-ticket can raise these departments from the rut, and all that is necessary to bring this about is the sale of at least four hundred tickets. This year there are 170 holders of season-tickets and the plan has shown good results; should there be four hundred, who would buy season-tickets next year, the athletic association could meet all bills and pay the $400 deficit of 1906. Perhaps there are many of us like the man who signed the petition that was handed to the Preisdent last year stating that the undersigned wished the $5.00 levy to be made a part of each student's bill. This person later complained to the same authority saying that should such action be taken he would not return to college. But we venutre to assert that there are few men of such "blood" around here.

However this may be, the experience of the year has shown that the plan is an excellent one, if it is made general enough.

Before many days have passed the class of 1906 will have gone out from Bucknell and another class will have taken their place as Seniors. So, the next two weeks may be looked upon as the last weeks that the Seniors will spend together. When a class graduates from an institution the members do not realize that they will never assemble as a class again; they may look forward to class reunions at future commencements, but these will not bring them all back to the scenes of their college days.

And surely four years of training and dear associations must make us regret that the time has flown so quickly. But we have yet days in which to take a last fond look at our Alma Mater, and we will then be thrown upon our recollection for any sweet thought of these years.

We may have spent all this time in study, and we may have taken advantage of every opportunity that has presented itself to us; in this case the hope of future success is indeed great, and the memory of college days will be so much more cherished. Again, we may have been idlers, and we may have failed to see much good in our college education; even in this case the associations of our college days will have been happy ones, and the hope of success in the future will be a goal and ideal. Well, Bucknell has been ours for so long a time, and what we have received from her has been ours to decide. What we d as alumni will determine how greatly we have been benefitted by our course at Bucknell.

With this issue the editorial duties of the present staff of editors end. We hope we have given you correct accounts of all college events during the year, and that we have made them readable. If we have succeeded in doing this, we are satisfied. We recommend to all our renders "The Commencement News" which will be published during Commencement week, and which will ably cover all the events of that busy period.

Communication.

The "Orange and Blue" invites communications but does not necessarily agree with the opinions expressed therein. All communications must be signed, though the name will not be published if so desired.

Editor of Orange and Blue:—

The victories over Cornell and Lafayette have shown that we need a trophy-room,—a place where we can put the balls won at such games. This must not be an out of the way place but a place where they can be seen at any time. We have banners won at the annual relay races and other prizes and trophies, but a student enters as a Freshman and unless he takes geology under Prof. Groff, graduates without seeing them.

In most colleges the ball used at each game that is won is painted in the opposing team's colors and preserved.

We have cups offered for different events, but who ever sees them? Where are the balls of last year's baseball season? What are we going to do with the balls with which we defeated Cornell and Lafayette? It is not too late to speak up for a suitable place and if the University furnishes the room we are sure that the student body and the alumni will contribute money for the cases and other furnishings.

We entered the University and made friends with the faculty and students in the beginning of Bucknell's larger expansion. Wherever the alumni has gone, carrying the fame of Bucknell thither has gone the fame of the Danville Laundry. As with the school so with the Laundry, we have gained the public's confidence by giving the best.

The Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia
DEPARTMENT OF DENTISTRY

Tag Fees For this Department Have Not Been Raised for the Session of 1905-06.

As a distinct part of the Medico-Chirurgical College, the Department of Dentistry offers superior advantages to its students. The clinics in the college present wide opportunities for the practical and oral surgery, as well as supplying abundance of material for practical work in the Dental Infirmary. All the privileges of the students of the Medical Department of the College are accorded to the dental students. A complete system of quizzing conducted by the professors free of charge, obviating the expense of private quizzing and preparing the students for examination. Illustrated catalogue describing courses in full, and containing all information as to fees, etc., sent on request to Alumni Urged to Return.

The following request has been sent out to Bucknell Alumni urging them to return to the fifty-sixth annual Commencement of the university:

"At the end of another college year the Officers of the Alumni Association and your Alma Mater invite you back to the old scenes to enjoy with them another Commencement occasion. It is hoped that a goodly number will return to renew old acquaintances, meet new friends, and help celebrate the continuance of prosperity by breaking ground for East College.

To make identification more easy the Anniversary Committee has adopted an orange and blue button with each class number upon it. This will be used to pin the blue ribbon on College graduates, and orange ribbon on Institute graduates, matriculates in both departments wearing the button without any ribbon. The button and ribbon will be given out at the registration room in College building. It is very desirable that all should procure the buttons as soon as possible after coming to town. If you wish the button and ribbon sent you with capitation receipt, enclose five cents extra.

It is hoped this meanns of identification will be especially valuable at the twilight concerts, and the gathering of the Alumni on the lower campus before marching to Commencement Hall.

With Professor Ralph C. H. Catterall as Orator, Dr. F. P. Lynch as Poet, and Willard M. Bunnell, Esq., as Precentor, we will present an especially attractive program.

The capitation tax is one dollar, and it is especially desired that it be paid soon as the Treasurer's account is overdrawn."

Wm. G. Owens,
Sec. Alumni Association.

Class Play Progressing.

The cast for Senior Class play has completed all the preliminary work and will spend the time this week in opera house rehersals. The work is in fine shape and with the five stage rehersals will be undoubtedly one of the most clever productions ever put out by Bucknell talent. The play itself is breezy and full of acting, the dry dialogue feature so common to most amateur work being entirely absent. Time and place of sale of tickets will be announced later in the week. The usual rush for tickets is expected, so "get wise" early and get a good seat.

Football Men Assembled.

Coach Hoskins, assembled the football men Monday, and discussed with them the new rules for the season of 1907. The speaker also touched on the essentials of good training, and the results accruing from it. Twenty candidates were present. The squad next year will be composed of many old men and the possibilities for a good team are very bright.

Freshmen Elect Officers.

The Freshmen met Friday afternoon and elected the following officers for the coming year:

President, Newton C. Fetter.
Vice President, Kleine H. Royer.
Treasurer, Miss Naia D. Webb.
Secretary, Miss Myra D. Webb.
Poetess, Miss Ida M. Sames.
Historian, Miss Myrtle H. Walkinshaw.

CORNELL UNIVERSITY MEDICAL COLLEGE
NEW YORK CITY.

The course covering four years begins during the last week in Sept. and continues until June. A preliminary training in natural science is of great advantage. All classes are divided into small sections for recitations, laboratory and clinical bedside instructions. Students admitted to advance standing after passing the requisite examinations. The successful completion of the first year in any College or University recognized by the Regents of the State of New York as maintaining a satisfactory standard is sufficient to satisfy the requirements for admission which lately have been raised. The annual announcement giving full particulars will be mailed on application.
